STREET RAILWAYS AND TRACTION COMPANIES.

The following table shows the gross earnings for the latest period of all STREET railways from which we are able to obtain weekly or monthly returns. The arrangement of the table is the same as that for the steam roads—that is, the first two columns of figures give the gross earnings for the latest week or month, and the last two columns the earnings for the calendar year from January 1 to and including such latest week or month.

Street Railway Net Earnings.—The following table gives the returns of STREET railway gross and net earnings received this week. In reporting these net earnings for the street railways, we adopt the same plan as that for the steam roads—that is, we print each week all the returns received that week, but once a month (on the third or the fourth Saturday) we bring together all the roads furnishing returns, and the latest statement of this kind will be found in the CHRONICLE of November 19, 1898. The next will appear in the issue of December 24, 1898.

The following is a statement of the gross and net earnings of the Nashville St. Railway for the month of October and the six months of the fiscal year from May 1 to October 31. Figures for 1897 were extraordinarily large on account of Nashville Exposition, which lasted from May 1 to November 30, 1897, and therefore comparison is made with 1896.

President E. L. Martin says in substance:

General Results.—The property is now beginning to show its value by the earnings, as the Auditor's income statement shows. At the same time, the full earning power of the property has by no means been approached. The lack of sufficient yard room has been gradually improved, so that in the next report a much better showing can be made of cost of operation. The sum of $31,702 was expended in extraordinary repairs and renewals and charged against operating expenses, which amount, if eliminated, would reduce the operating expenses to 46·07 per cent of the gross earnings. The small balance in the treasury shown by the general statement, after paying interest on bonds and dividend on stock is partially accounted for by the expenditure of $41,701 in extending yards, the purchase of land and additional equipment.

The last annual report estimated the number of cars the company was likely to handle during the fiscal year at 100,000 cars; the actual number handled was 103,633 cars.

Independence Air Line.—On Oct. 1, 1897, a contract was entered into with the Metropolitan Street Ry. Co., by which said company agreed to do the passenger service of the Air Line into Fairmount Park by extending their electric line to the park, using our tracks there for terminal purposes. ¶ The extension of the electric line was completed and this service was begun May 1, 1894. Under the terms of the contract, which runs 20 years or 10 years with 6 months' notice, the Metropolitan Company is to pay the Air Line Company a rental of $3,000 per annum for the first two years, and thereafter at the rate of $6,000 per annum, and are also to pay to the Air Line Company three cents net for each passenger carried, and to furnish power for electric lights in the park.

The passengers carried by the Metropolitan Company since beginning this service is as follows: May, passengers 12,083; revenue to us $361 49; June, passengers 22,902, revenue to us, $666 06; July, passengers 31,829, revenue to us, $1,014. This shows that with the increase of business that can be reasonably expected, the revenue derived under this contract will at least take care of the interest ($15,000 annually) on the Independence Air Line bonds, without taking into account the profits of the freight business, which is still being conducted by the Air Line Company outside of the contract with the Metropolitan Company. This relieves the company of the loss caused by its own operation of the Air Line passenger service.

New Tracks.—A contract has been entered into with the St. Joseph & Grand Island Railway Co. by which said company is to use the Suburban Belt terminals for a term of 30 years from Aug. 1, 1898, and a similar contract has also been entered into with the St. Louis & San Francisco Ry. Co. and with the Kansas City & Northern Connecting RR. Co. The contract with the last-named company carries with it the use of the Suburban Belt terminals by the Omaha & St. Louis and the Omaha Kansas City & Eastern RR. Cos. With the great volume of business which will naturally be done by these various roads, from which no benefit has been derived yet, the increase of revenue for the coming year can be readily seen. The Suburban Belt Company has just completed on Santa Fe Street a brick and iron freight depot (size 250x35), which, with the ground, cost in round figures $35,000. This depot was necessary for the use of the St. Louis & San Francisco and the Grand Island companies.

South Carolina & Georgia Railroad.

(Report for the year ending June 30, 1898.)

President Charles Parsons says in substance:

General Results.—The increased facilities at your wharves in Charleston for loading grain and for the storing and handling of other export commodities, and the efficient management of the Charleston Transport Line, which runs in connection with your road, account for much of the increase in earnings. This steamship line dispatched during the fiscal year 31 steamships to European ports, and since the close of the fiscal year, June 30, 19 steamers have been placed to take grain and other commodities.

Improvements.—During the past summer wharf No. 3, 458 feet in length, and width of 84½ feet, has been built in a substantial manner—all piling covered with zinc. Substantial betterments, costing $39,945, have been made during the year and charged to operating expenses, by the purchase of new machinery and tools, and the lengthening of sidings, made necessary by the increase in the number of cars per train hauled by your new compound locomotives. Five compound consolidation locomotives and 100 new flat cars, of 60,000 lbs. capacity, have been added to your equipment. 700 tons of 70-lb. steel rail have taken the place of lighter rails.

An old, abandoned roadbed 15 miles in length, between Waterree Station, on the Camden Branch, and the City of Sumter, has been bought, and your road will be extended during the coming winter to the centrally located terminal lands purchased in the heart of that city.

Prospects.—The prospect is fairly good for freight and passenger traffic for the fiscal year 1898-99. Industries on the line of your road are doing well and new ones are projected.

G. H. Hammond Company, Limited.

(Report for year ended June 30, 1898.)

The report covers fifteen months' operation, the fiscal year having been changed to end June 30. The following shows net results of the American Company in the last five years:

	June 30, 1898.	March 31, 1897.	March 31, 1896.	March 31, 1895.	March 31, 1894
Net profits	£19,430	£26,205	£28,800	£49,484	£65,216
Div. to English Co	15,876	17,178	41,649	25,773

The English company reports an independent profit of £7,008, which, added to the net profits of the American company, makes a total of £26,439, from which debenture interest took £25,500, leaving a gain over interest charges amounting to £939 for the year. The report says that all the profits of the American company were made in the six months ending June 30, the previous nine months showing a loss, partly due to the yellow fever outbreak in the fall of 1897. Regarding the arrangement whereby the Omaha branch was taken over by the Hammond Packing Company, the report says: During the year the directors granted a lease of the Omaha plant on a rental on terms giving an interest in the net earnings, the lease being terminable, at the option of the American company or lessees, at the expiration of twenty months, or at the end of any subsequent yearly period.—V. 66, p. 1001.

American Straw Board.—Dividend.—The directors on Tuesday declared a dividend of 1 per cent, payable Dec 24 to stock of record Dec. 10. President Newcombe says: "We said nothing as to whether the dividend will be quarterly or not, but there is a feeling that it will be."

Consolidation.—The "Chicago Inter-Ocean" says: "The appraisement committee appointed at the Indianapolis meeting of independent makers is prosecuting its investigation of the value of the outside mills. To facilitate this and also to clean up the surplus stocks of board on hand, the mills have shut down. So far as consolidating the outside properties is concerned it is understood the mill men are quite willing to take stock in the new company in payment for their properties. This willingness not only shows faith in the business by those who should know its merits, but also facilitates the organization of the new corporation."—V. 66, p. 288.

American Thread Co.—Thread Company Consolidation.—Prospectus.—The prospectus of the American Thread Co., it is understood, will be issued in a few days. We are informed that the principal change from the original intention of the organizers is in the reduction of the capitalization from $18,000,000 to $15,000,000. The original plan provided that the company should issue $6,000,000 each in bonds, preferred stock and common stock. These amounts have been changed to $5,000,000 respectively.—V. 67, p. 318.

Baltimore Electric-Light Companies.—Pending Consolidation.—A syndicate headed by Edward B. Smith & Co., of Philadelphia, is arranging to purchase and merge the Brush Electric Co., the Edison Illuminating Co. and the Northern Electric Co., all of Baltimore, into a new company, with authorized capital stock of probably $5,000,000 and an issue of $1,000,000 five per cent thirty-year bonds. The capital stock will be only ten per cent paid at the outset, the remainder to be called and paid up from time to time as cash shall be needed for capital expenditures. The existing companies are capitalized as follows:

	Bonds.	Stocks.
Brush Company	$1,237,000	$729,000
Edison Company	537,000	1,770,000
Northern Company	100,000	400,000
Totals	$1,874,000	$2,899,000

The bonds of the consolidated company will be secured by a mortgage on all the property and by deposit in trust as we are officially informed, of substantially all the bonds and stocks of the existing company. Speaking generally, the proceeds of the bond issue will pay for the purchase of the existing properties, and the instalment on the stock will cover the cost of constructing a new power-house and provide the new company with working capital. The name of the consolidated company has not yet been decided. The properties operated independently, it is stated, have had total gross earnings yearly of about $620,000 and net earnings of about $223,000. With the reduction of expenses incident to consolidation, the net earnings, it is expected, will be largely increased.

Baltimore & Ohio RR.—New Equipment.—The improvements made during the past two years having rendered it possible to operate cars of a heavier capacity than heretofore used, the receivers have just ordered from the Schoen Pressed Steel Co. of Pittsburg 1,000 steel coal cars of a capacity of 100,000 pounds each. These cars will be used for the seaboard trade and are expected to be in service during the early part of 1899. In addition to these cars the receivers have also ordered 50 more of the consolidated locomotives with 22x28 inch cylinders.

Chairman of Board.—It is understood that Mr. William Salomon, who retires from the firm of Speyer & Co. on the first of the year, will be Chairman of the board of directors of the reorganized company, of which Mr. J. K. Cowen will be the President.—V. 67, p. 1032, 1031, 1057.

Baltimore & Southwestern Ry.—Baltimore & Ohio.—Progress with Reorganization Plan.—It is understood that the foreign security holders of the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern have received favorably the plan for the readjustment of the securities and that the plan will be very shortly formally announced.—V. 67, p. 1032, 1031, 1057, 578.

Buffalo Rochester & Pittsburg Ry.—New Directors.—The stockholders this week elected as directors J. B Bonne, Oscar Grisch and John L. Riker, to succeed Walston H. Brown, James A. Roosevelt and W. A. Wilbur, respectively. The directors re-elected were:

Henry L. Barker, J. H. Hoyt, Adrian Iselin, Jr., C. O'D Iselin, Walter G. Oakman, Webster H. Peckham, Augustus Richard, W. Emlen Roosevelt, J. Kennedy Tod and Arthur G. Yates.—V. 67, p. 934.

Buffalo St. Marys & Southwestern RR.—Bonds Sold.—First mortgage 5 per cent gold bonds of this company to a total of about $250,000, of the total issue of $1,000,000, were over-subscribed last week at par and interest. The bonds are redeemable at 105 and interest, and a sinking fund of 1 per cent becomes operative in 1902. The earnings of the property for the eight months ending Aug. 31, 1894, are reported as follows: Gross from RR., $193,221; net, $118,371; net earnings of the coal company (estimated), $48,850; total net for eight months, $167,221. Total annual fixed charges, $50,000. The President of the company says:

The business of the road consists of the products of the forest, coal and several merchantables. The capacity of the coal property is now about 3,000 tons per day, for all of which there is a ready sale at a fair profit. Our sales for 1898 are upwards of 200,000 tons, of which, however, we will not be able to deliver more than 60,000, because of the present mine facilities not permitting the production daily of a quantity of coal sufficient to make this delivery during the contract period. It is proposed to complete the equipment of the mines with electricity for digging and hauling coal, which will largely increase the output. Bids for our coal during the year covered 1,200,000 tons, or double our capacity to produce. Next year we expect to be able to produce and deliver 1,000,000 tons. The railroad and coal properties are owned and operated by the same parties, the coal property being under the lien of the railway mortgage.

Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Ry.—Foreclosure Sale Dec. 29.—The foreclosure sale is advertised for Dec. 29 at Fayetteville, N. C., as will appear from the official notice in our advertising columns. The road in accordance with the recent decision of the Court will be sold as a whole, and not in sections as desired by the New York Committee. The appeal to the Supreme Court was withdrawn.—V. 67, p. 787.

Central Branch Union Pacific Ry.—Missouri Pacific Ry.—Formal Transfer.—The formal transfer of the Central Branch Union Pacific Ry., extending from Atchison, Kan., west 100 miles to Waterville, has been made to the Missouri Pacific. This does not affect the Atchison Jewell County & Western nor the Atchison Colorado & Pacific, which, it is said, will probably not be transferred before the first of the year.—V. 67, p. 900; V. 66, p. 517.

Central Pacific R. R.—Bonds Maturing Dec. 1.—The Central Pacific R. R. Co. notifies holders of their first mortgage bonds, series "A", maturing Dec. 1, 1898, that the principal of such bonds will not be paid at their maturity, but that it is intended that until such principal shall have been paid, or readjustment of the company's affairs arranged, interest from Dec. 1, 1898, shall be paid semi-annually at the rate of 5 per cent per annum, such payment not otherwise to effect any rights of the bondholders arising from the company's failure to pay the principal at maturity. Speyer & Co., referring to such notice, inform holders of their certificates issued on deposit of above bonds that they are prepared on or after December 1, until further notice, to purchase at par and interest at the rate of 5 per cent p. a. from that date such of said certificates as the holders may desire to sell. They add that it is expected that a plan for the readjustment of the company's affairs will before long be announced, and that meanwhile they shall adopt such course as may seem desirable for the protection of the interests of the bondholders.—V. 67, p. 318.

Central Passenger Association.—Modified Agreement.—The Central Freight and Central Passenger associations, it was recently agreed, should be maintained, but under articles of agreement modified so as to conform with the recent decision of the United States Supreme Court in the Joint Traffic case. The leading provisions by which the new Central Passenger Association will be governed are as follows:

"The purposes of this organization are to promptly secure to each of the parties authentic information in relation to the tariffs and rate sheets of the respective parties, and changes therein, and the due filing and publication thereof; to aid in securing compliance with the Federal and State laws relating to and regulating commerce, and to enable the parties thereto to mutually confer, advise and act in relation to the subjects above stated, and the proper methods to secure the purposes aforesaid.

"Each party hereto shall fix and determine its own rates, and shall file with the commissioner all its rate sheets, circulars, rules and regulations pertaining as agent of each individual line, shall take necessary action in disseminating to passenger traffic within the purview of this association; and the commissioner, such information.

"The commissioner shall act for each line, under its instructions, in seeing that its rates, rules and regulations are properly published, and shall co-operate with compilers in the joint publication of the individual rate sheets of the several lines parties thereto, within the territory of this association, the rates of individual lines parties hereto to be shown in such rate sheets, whenever they have been advised to the commissioner. The commissioner shall file for and in the name of the individual lines, with the Inter-State Commerce Commission all rates necessary under the law, and whenever the parties hereto or any of them shall so request, the commissioner shall himself compile and publish, or cause to be compiled and published under his immediate supervision, a joint publication of the individual rate sheets of the several parties hereto. Joint publication of the individual rate sheets of the several parties hereto shall be issued as often as may be necessary, but in no case oftener than quarterly. This shall not, however, prevent the issuance of supplements thereto whenever necessary.

"Nothing in this agreement shall be construed as giving any authority to the said commissioner, or to the association, or to any person or officer of the association, to fix or determine any rate for any party hereto, but each party alone shall fix and determine its own rates; and nothing herein shall be construed as preventing any party hereto, after it has fixed such rates, from changing the same at any time or from time to time, as it may choose.

"Each company, party hereto, reserving always to itself the right to take independent action, agrees that, should it decide to change its fares, it will file with the commissioner a written and specified notice of the action that it intends to take at least three days before same shall take effect; such notice of intention to be filed with the commissioner before any company party hereto sees, advertises or participates in any rate on competitive passenger traffic having origin or destination in or passing through the territory of the association."

The agreement for the government of the Central Freight Association, it is stated, is substantially the same as the old one, except that all provisions relating to the adoption of rates by the Association and the enforcement of agreed rates are obliterated therefrom.—V. 67, p. 1002.

Chesapeake & Ohio Canal.—Canal Offered for Sale.—The Secretary of State of Maryland, Richard Dallam, by direction of the Board of Public Works, is advertising for sealed proposals for the purchase of the State's interest in the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal. The proposals will be opened at noon on Tuesday, February 7, 1899, in the Executive Chamber at Annapolis. Each must be accompanied by a bond for $100,000. The canal extends from Georgetown, D. C., along the banks of the Potomac River a distance of about 200 miles to Cumberland, in Alleghany County, and was built almost entirely by the State. The company has long been in receivers' hands, and no late report regarding its finances is at hand, but the capitalization and the interest therein of the State and the Baltimore & Ohio RR. Co. is understood to be approximately as follows:

	Total.	Interest of—State.	B. & O. RR.
Common stock	$3,851,594	$788,724	.... ..
Pref. stock (State loan)	4,375,000	4,375,000	.....
Guar. dividends unpaid (60 years)	15,750,000	15,750,000	.....
Mortgage 6 p. c. Act of 1884	2,000,000	2,000,000	.....
Unpaid interest 6 years	7,800,000	7,800,000	.....
Bonds of 1844 (on revenue only)	1,699,500	.....	657,500
Accrued interest, say	4,248,000	.....	1,643,750
Prior lien bonds of 1878	500,000	... .	500,000
Accrued interest (11 years) about	330,000	.....	349,000
Certificates of indebtedness	(?)	.....	379,000
Accrued interest	(?)	.....	(?)

The seniority of the various liens upon the canal has not been judicially declared. The Court passed a decree Oct. 2, 1890. for the sale of the canal, but suspended the operation of the decree until May 1, 1895, giving it into the hands of the trustees of the holders of the bonds of 1844 to operate during those four years upon condition that if they did not demonstrate by the end of the four years that the canal could be made to pay, then the decree would be enforced, another decree being passed to fix priorities of liens and obligations. In 1894 the Court granted an extension of six years longer. Various railroad interests have been anxious to secure the canal for use in building a new road along its right of way from Cumberland to Washington.—V. 62, p. 1138.

Chicago & Eastern Illinois RR.—Dividend on Common.—The company has declared a dividend of 1½ per cent on its common stock. This with the first dividend of 2½ per cent paid July 1 makes 4 per cent for the year.—V. 67, p. 424, Chicago & Ohio River RR.—Foreclosure Sale Dec. 16.—This road, extending from Danville to Olney, Ill., 86 miles, is advertised to be sold under foreclosure of the first mortgage at Kansas, Edgar County, Ill., on Dec. 16. The upset price is $100,000. The first mortgage is for $250,000 and the second mortgage for $750,000. The road has of late formed part of the Peoria Decatur & Evansville RR., but after the sale the control is expected to pass to Cincinnati Hamilton & Dayton interests, per plan announced last June. (V. 66, p. 1043)—V. 67, p. 1002.

Chicago & West Michigan Ry.—Coupons in Full in Cash.—Announcement is made that coupon No. 34, due Dec. 1, 1898, of the Chicago & West Michigan Railway Company 5 per cent bonds, will be paid in full on and after that date upon presentation at the National Webster Bank, 87 Milk Street, Boston, Mass., as will also the coupons of all issues of the coupon scrip.—V. 67, p. 842.

Cincinnati Gas Light & Coke Co.—New Stock.—The stockholders will vote Dec. 21 upon a resolution to increase the capital stock from $8,500,000 to $9,000,000. The money is needed for extensions. Stockholders will be allowed to subscribe at the ratio of about one share for every twenty held.

Cincinnati New Orleans & Texas Pacific Ry.—Negotiations.—A committee consisting of John W. Warrington, Briggs S. Cunningham and Frank L Perin was appointed recently by the Doughty over-issue creditors to consider a proposition made to them through a New York broker. It is believed the proposition came from the road that sought to buy the property two years ago.—V. 67, p. 948, 950.

Colorado Midland Railway—Busk Tunnel.—No Agreement.—Negotiations between the Colorado Midland and Busk Tunnel interests are reported off because of the insistence of the Tunnel people for a bond secured by a mortgage on the tunnel rather than the bonds of the railroad company covering all the property.—V. 67, p. 900; V. 66, p. 1187.

Columbus & Cincinnati Midland RR.—Baltimore & Ohio RR.—Offer for Deposited Bonds.—George Stevenson, of the committee representing the Columbus & Cincinnati Midland first mortgage bonds, has, after considerable negotiations, received an offer from the reorganization managers of the Baltimore & Ohio reorganization committee to purchase, at 94 flat, in cash, the trust certificates of the Guarantee Trust & Safe Deposit Co. for the first mortgage 4½ per cent bonds deposited. The offer of 94 flat in cash is for the committee's certificates and is free of all expenses to the depositors, the purchasers paying the committee's expenses. The offer is acceptable to the committee, which is recommending its acceptance. Depositors, as far as heard from, seem to be well satisfied with the result, and it is expected the sale will soon be ratified.—V. 67, p. 954, 955, 1052, 1054, 1057.

Denver Leadville & Gunnison RR.—Colorado & Southern Ry.—Purchased.—The Denver Leadville & Gunnison Ry. was purchased at foreclosure sale on Nov. 18 by Henry Budge, Charles A. Peabody, Jr., and Henry De Coppet, representing the bondholders, for $1,500,000. The system, embracing 324 miles of narrow-gauge track and extensive terminal facilities in Denver and Leadville, will be turned over to the Colorado & Southern Railway (the reorganized Union Pacific Denver & Gulf), under the plan already announced (V. 67, p. 748).—V. 67, p. 842, 957.

Detroit & Lima Northern Ry.—Lima Northern Ry.—Reorganization Notice.—A committee consisting of John E. Borne, President Colonial Trust Co.; Jules S. Bache, of J. S. Bache & Co.; Eugene A. Merrill, President Minnesota Loan & Trust Co.; Philip Lehman, of Lehman Bros., and Edward L. Oppenheim, of E. L. Oppenheim & Co., with Frederick J. Lisman, as Secretary, 30 Broad Street, has undertaken to act for the protection of the first mortgage bonds of both these companies and to formulate a plan of reorganization. As suit is pending for the foreclosure of the mortgages, in which receivers of the property have been appointed, and as receiver's certificates have been authorized and partly issued, it is important that prompt action should be taken. An agreement has been prepared under which bondholders are invited to deposit their bonds with the Colonial Trust Co., No. 220 Broadway, New York City, on or before Dec. 6, 1898. A majority of the bonds has already been deposited.—V. 67, p. 955.

Elmira (N. Y.) Municipal Improvement Co., Elmira Water, Light & Street Railway Co.—Reorganization Plan.—A committee consisting of George W. Young, Walter G. Oakman, James Timpson and Edward C. Jones has prepared and adopted pursuant to the protective agreement of Oct. 22, 1897, a plan for the reorganization of the company. Copies may be obtained from the depositary, the United States Mortgage & Trust Co., 59 Cedar st. Holders of securities are invited to assent to the plan and become parties to the agreement by promptly depositing their securities. In December, 1897, the Guaranty Trust Co., N. Y., brought suit to foreclose the $1,800,000 mortgage of 1942, of which $1,461,000 bonds were outstanding, and H. A. Murray, Treasurer and Secretary of the Guaranty Trust Co., was made receiver of the Improvement Co.

The plan provides that a new company to be called the Elmira Water, Light & Street Ry. Co., or by some other appropriate title, shall be organized to take over the property and to issue.

First mortgage, fifty-year 5% gold bonds, bearing date Jan. 1, 1899, redeemable at option of company at 105 and interest	$2,000,000
To be reserved to retire at maturity the outstanding first mortgage bonds of the Elmira Water Works Company, due 1913	339,000
To be reserved for future extensions and improvements and acquisition of additional property	200,000
Issuable at once for reorganization, improvements, etc	1,461,000
Second mortgage, 4% income gold bonds, bearing date Jan. 1, 1899 (interest payable only if earned and to be non-cumulative), redeemable at par	1,200,000
Capital stock	1,000,000

Holders of the $1,461,000 consol. 5s will receive per $1,000 principal of old bonds, $500 in new first mortgage 5s, $500 in second mortgage incomes and $100 in new stock. Funded and unpaid coupons will receive 10 per cent in second mortgage incomes. The $1,000,000 old stock is assessed 10 per cent and receives 10 per cent in new first 5s and 50 per cent in new stock.

Earnings.—"The fixed charges of the new company, including the interest on the $339,000 outstanding 6 per cent bonds of the Water Works Co. will be $93,890, and it is reasonably believed that with the natural growth of the business and the wise use of the working capital supplied by this plan, the present earnings as shown by the following statement of the Audit Company of New York can be appreciably increased."

Year.	Gross.	Net.	Taxes.	Bal. for Int.
1898	$282,037	119,036	$15,481	$103,555
1897	275,338	115,382	14,571	100,811

The net earnings are here given without deducting for additions and betterments $15,650 in 1898 and $13,030 in 1898, since these expenditures were not properly a charge against income.—V. 65, p. 1071.

Florida Central & Peninsular RR.—Earnings.—The earnings of this company show a large increase the current calendar year, partly owing to the transportation of troops and munitions of war. The amount of the increase appears from the following, which we give to rectify a clerical mistake in our INVESTORS' SUPPLEMENT.

	1898.	1897.		1898.	1897.		1898.	1893.

Fort George & Eleventh Avenue RR. Co. of New York.—Consolidation.—Under this title and with $3,000,000 of authorized capital stock have been consolidated the North End Street Ry. Co., the Fort George & Eleventh Avenue RR Co. and the Fort George Extension Railway. Directors are:

John T. Little, Jr., Ambrose F. McCabe, Frederick C. Garrick, Frank F. Ogsion and Sharon Graham, of Manhattan; Clement M. Cumming, of Yonkers; C. A. Gilbert, of White Plains; W. A. Dibbs, of Brooklyn, and D. C. Moorehead, of Jamaica.

The company is understood to be a subsidiary corporation of the Metropolitan Street Ry. and the line to be built is mentioned under that caption.—V. 66, p. 1045.

Indiana & Lake Michigan Ry.—Sale Dec. 8.—The foreclosure sale, which was recently postponed, is to take place at South Bend, Ind., Dec. 8.—V. 67, p. 788.

International Paper Co.—First Dividend on Common.—On Wednesday the directors declared a dividend of 1 per cent on the $13,040,400 common stock in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent on the $20,530,700 preferred.—V. 67, p. 428.

International Silver Co.—Silver-Plated Ware Consolidation.—New Company.—This company has been incorporated under the laws of New Jersey with an authorized capital of $20,000,000, consisting of $9,000,000 7 per cent cumulative preferred and $11,000,000 common stock, divided into $100 shares, for the purpose of consolidating a number of the leading silver-plate companies of the country. The following companies, representing about 75 per cent of the total output, are included:

Meriden Britannia Co., Meriden; Rogers & Brothers, Waterbury; Barbour Silver Co., Hartford; William Rogers Manufacturing Co., Hartford; Manhattan Silver Plate Co., Lyons, N. Y.; Watrous Manufacturing Co., Wallingford; Rogers Cutlery Co., Hartford; Meriden Silver Plate Co., Meriden; Wilcox Silver Plate Co., Meriden; Rogers & Hamilton Silver Plate Co., Waterbury; Norwich Cutlery Co., Norwich; Standard Silver Plate Co., Toronto; Holmes & Edwards Silver Co., Bridgeport.

It is proposed to issue $5,000,000 of the preferred and $10,000,000 of the common stock to acquire the assets of the concerns in the above list, and to hold the remaining $1,000,000 of preferred and $1,000,000 common stock in the treasury to purchase other companies, etc. There will also be an authorized issue of $1,500,000 of 6 per cent bonds, of which only $3,150,000 will be issued at present. The companies not at present controlled are R Wallace & Sons Manufacturing Company, Wallingford; C. Rogers & Brothers, Meriden; Simpson, Hall, Miller & Co., Wallingford, and several smaller concerns. Besides silver-plated ware, the new company is expected to be an important factor in the production of sterling ware. It is the purpose not to raise prices, but to restore the fixed standard that has yielded large profits heretofore. It is estimated that the combine will save at least $1,000,000 a year through reduction of salesmen and advertising. The officers are as follows:

President, Samuel Dodd, of the Wilcox Silver Plating Co.; 1st Vice-President, Geo. H. Wilcox, of the Holmes & Edwards Silver Co.; 2d Vice-President, C. A. Hamilton, of the Rogers & Hamilton Silver Plating Co.; Auditor, Orlando F. Thomas, of the Manhattan Silver Plating Co.; Treasurer, Gen. Samuel Thomas; Assistant Treasurer, Geo. M. Curtis, of the Meriden Silver Plate Co.; temporary Secretary, J. J. Treacy.—V. 67, p. 223.

Kansas City Pittsburg & Gulf Ry.—Canal Decision.—The Supreme Court of Texas has handed down a decision in favor of the Port Arthur Channel & Dock Co., in the injunction suit brought by the property-holders near Port Arthur. The decision, it is said, disposes of all questions in connection with the completion of the canal which is in course of construction at Port Arthur to connect the terminals of the Kansas City Pittsburgh & Gulf Ry. with deep water, a distance of 6¼ miles. The Port Arthur Channel & Dock Co. had the canal well under way when the work was stopped by an injunction granted by a Jefferson County court. It was necessary to condemn the land for the canal, and the right to do this under the charter was questioned. The decision of the Supreme Court, it is understood, ends the matter, and makes it possible for the canal company to push the work to completion. The canal is practically finished for a distance of 4¼ miles.—V. 67, p. 1054.

Knickerbocker Ice Co., Chicago.—Balance Sheet.—The company has been completely reorganized, in accordance with the plan already announced, and has acquired all companies in the ice business in Chicago with the exception of two of minor importance. The company owns real estate valued at $1,000,000, also 47 miles of railroad sidings. The entire plant is valued at $3,203,383. The following is the balance sheet Sept. 30, 1898:

Manhattan Railway.—New Vice-President.—At a meeting of directors this week Alfred Skitt, General Manager of the New York Central's lighterage department, was elected Vice President and a director of Manhattan Railway, succeeding R. M. Galloway as Vice President and Amos L. Hopkins as director. The new Vice-President will have charge of the financial and other management of the property, as did the late Col. F. K. Hain, except that General Manager Francioli will, as heretofore, attend to the active mechanical management of the lines.—V. 67, p. 1053, 1055.

McKeesport Gas Improvement—Mortgage Filed.—The company has made a mortgage to the Guaranty Trust Company of New York as trustee, to secure $500,000 bonds. The business, it is understood, is allied with that of the United Coke & Gas Co., embracing the manufacture of coke, gas and other bi-products at Glassport, about two miles above McKeesport on the Monongahela River. The intention is said to be ultimately to make gas for the Consolidated Gas Company of Pittsburg.

Metropolitan Street Ry. of New York City.—Third Avenue RR.—Proposed Extensions.—These companies have presented simultaneously to the Council and the Board of Aldermen petitions for extensions which indicate anew the amicable agreement existing for a division of the streets over which the companies wish to operate. On the Boulevard, from Manhattan Street to 133d Street, the cars of both companies are to run over the same tracks, but there are to be different slots through which the power is to be transmitted. It was decided in both houses of the Municipal Assembly to hold a public hearing on the matter next month. The extensions and connections asked for in the petitions are as follows:

Metropolitan Street Railway.—Fort George & Eleventh Avenue RR.
Boulevard or 11th Avenue from Manhattan Street to 133d Street.

Mexican Central Ry.—Mexican National RR.—Traffic Agreement.—The report of the Mexican Railway Co. for the year ending June 30, 1898, says: "The pools covering competitive traffic under the Mexican Traffic Association have continued in operation during the half year ended June 30 last, and the separate pools between the company and the Inter-oceanic Railway have been renewed until June, 1899. The pools between the four railway companies expire at the end of this year, and the question of a new agreement for 1899 is to be shortly considered."—V. 67, p. 634; V. 66, p. 760.

New York Central & Hudson River RR.—Exchange of Bonds.—J. P. Morgan & Co. and their London firm, referring to their previous circular of July 26th last, announce that their offer to exchange various New York Central & Hudson River RR. bonds for the new 3½ per cent gold mortgage bonds, due 1997, of the same company, now give notice that their offer to make such exchange will be withdrawn after Monday, 28th inst. Holders wishing to make the exchange of old bonds for new can do so on terms which will be made known on application at the bankers' offices.—V. 67, p. 737.

New York Ontario & Western Ry. Co.—Bonds Called.—The $5,600,000 consolidated first mortgage 5 per cent gold bonds of 1889 were this week called for payment. They will be redeemed at 105 and interest on June 1, 1899, upon presentation at the company's office, 56 Beaver Street, New York.

Option to Refund.—Kuhn, Loeb & Co. offer to the holders of the consols thus to be redeemed the right to refund their bonds into 4 per cent refunding mortgage gold bonds due 1992 of the denomination of $1,000 each. Holders desiring to refund will receive in exchange the 4 per cent bonds and a difference of 3½ per cent in cash (interest to be adjusted as of June 1, 1899,) upon surrender of their bonds to the Mercantile Trust Co., 120 Broadway, New York. On the retirement of the consolidated 5 per cent bonds, now called, the refunding mortgage 4 per cent bonds will become the first lien upon the entire property. See further particulars in our advertising columns.—V. 67, p. 1004.

Northern Pacific Ry.—$1,777,000 Prior Lien Bonds Listed.—The New York Stock Exchange has listed $1,777,000 additional prior lien railway and land grant 4 per cent bonds, making total amount listed to date $47,901,000. These bonds have been issued to redeem general first mortgage bonds of the Northern Pacific RR Co., either drawn to the sinking fund or deposited with the trustee as additional security for the new bonds. The total amount of these underlying bonds now outstanding is $7,020,000 exclusive of those called for redemption.—V. 67, p. 1055.

Northern Pacific Ry.—Oregon RR. & Navigation.—Clearwater Extension.—For stock market purposes much has been made during the week of the differences supposed to exist between the Northern Pacific and the Oregon RR. & Navigation regarding the construction of road in the Clearwater Valley country in Idaho. The matter, which has been magnified out of all proportion to its importance, it is understood is in a fair way of adjustment.—V. 67, p. 1056, 1055.

Ogdensburg & Lake Champlain RR.—Quarterly.—Earnings for the quarter ending Sept. 30 have been reported:

3 mos. ending Sept. 30—	Gross earnings.	Operating expenses.	Net earnings.	Other Net for int., income.	taxes, &c.
1898	$701 217	$144,157	$56,060	$1,565	$57,625

The amount paid for taxes for each of the quarters was $3,100.—V. 67, p. 1056.

Pennsylvania Salt Manufacturing Co.—New Stock.—The Philadelphia "Times" says: "The company has decided to issue 10,000 new shares of a par value of $50 to present shareholders, for the purpose of enlarging the plant and purchasing raw material. The outstanding stock now amounts to $1,649,150, and the additional $500,000 will increase it to $2,149,150. As the bonded debt of $344,000—due January 15, 1900—has been provided for by a sinking fund, and will be paid at maturity, the actual capital increase is, therefore, only $156,000. There will be no change in the dividend rate of 12 per cent per annum, and the new stock will participate in the dividend in October, 1899." Dividends of 12 per cent yearly, it is said, have been paid since 1882.

People's Gas Light & Coke Co. of Chicago.—The report to the City Comptroller as to the gross receipts from sales of manufactured gas to private consumers for the third quarter of 1898, and also the report for the nine months ending Sept. 30, in comparison with same periods of previous year:

	3 Mos. to Sept. 30.	Jan. 1 to Sept. 30.

These figures do not include natural gas or the Mutual Fuel and Universal plants, but they do embrace the greater part of the business of the People's Company, and therefore indicate in a general way the trend of affairs as compared with last year.

New Stock.—A circular to stockholders announces an increase in the capital stock from $25,000,000 to $30,000,000. Of the $5,000,000 new stock $3,750,000 will be issued at once. Stockholders of Dec. 10 will have the right to subscribe at par to the extent of 15 per cent of their present holdings. The circular says:

"The proceeds of the stock issue are required: (1) For the extension and promotion of the sale of manufactured gas for fuel purposes, which is now being vigorously pressed; (2) For the exploitation of natural gas, under an arrangement reached whereby the company is guaranteed a minimum return of 7 per cent upon all moneys so expended; (3) To secure for the company its supply of oil and naphtha, the principal materials required for the manufacture of gas, at largely reduced prices; (4) To pay for improvements and betterments which will increase the efficiency and earning power of the company. Further details of the foregoing matters will be submitted to the stockholders in the forthcoming annual report of the company for the year 1898.

"It is the judgment of the directors that the policy now adopted of providing for capital expenditures through the issue, and sale to the stockholders at par, of the stock of the company, in lieu of an increased issue of bonds and the consequent increase of fixed charges, is not only a sound and conservative one, but that under this policy the stockholders will obtain, in the most direct and most advantageous way, the benefits of the economies and increased earnings which will result from the expenditures above outlined."—V. 67, p. 1056.

Pittsburg & Western Ry.—Pittsburg Cleveland & Toledo.—Loan of $500,000.—Thomas M. King, receiver of the Pittsburg & Western, has received permission from the United States Circuit Court to borrow $500,000 from the Pittsburg Cleveland & Toledo Railway Co., on 6 per cent receiver's certificates. The proceeds of the loan will be applied to necessary improvements and for general expenses.—V. 67, p. 1052; V. 65, p. 1169.

Richmond & Petersburg—Petersburg—Atlantic Coast Line RR. of Virginia.—Consolidation.—The Richmond & Petersburg and the Petersburg stockholders on Monday voted to consolidate under the title of the Atlantic Coast Line RR. Co. of Virginia.—V. 67, p. 843.

St. Louis Cape Girardeau & Fort Smith Ry.—Cape Girardeau & Southwestern RR.—Purchase of Underlying Bonds.—The $108,500 underlying bonds issued by the Cape Girardeau Ry. have all been secured by the reorganization committee, of which Mr. Newman Erb is the Chairman. The St. Louis Iron Mountain & Southern held $78,500 of the bonds. This clears the way for the foreclosure of the Cape Girardeau & Southwestern consolidated mortgage.—V. 63, p. 407.

Saginaw (Mich.) Union Street Ry.—Union Street Ry.—Saginaw Valley Traction Co.—Inter-Urban Ry. Reorganization and Consolidation.—The Eddy reorganization committee issued a plan of reorganization and consolidation under date of Nov. 1, 1898. This plan has received the affirmative consents of the holders of more than two thirds of the bonds of the Saginaw Union Street Ry., represented by the Trust Certificates, issued under the agreement of March 25, 1897, and is therefore declared effective.

The plan provides for the consolidation of the Saginaw Union Street Ry., the Saginaw Consolidated Street Ry. and the Inter Urban Ry., the last named being an electric road 14 miles in length, connecting Saginaw and Bay City. The consolidated company will be known as the Saginaw Valley Traction Co. and will be capitalized as follows:

Common stock	$700,000
Of which as part consideration for Union Street Ry	280,000
do do do do Inter-Urban Ry.	215,000
do do do do Saginaw Consolidated St. Ry.	205,000
Preferred stock, 5 per cent cumulative, preferred both as to assets and dividends	400,000
Which as part consideration for Union Street Ry.	325,000

To be applied to payment of $185,000 receivers' certificates, to purchase of new equipment and for improvements	290,000
To be held in escrow for additions and improvements	125,000

This will give to each holder of the present Union certificates (issued against deposit of bonds of the $325,000 issue of 1891) $1,000 of preferred stock and $900 of common stock in the new corporation for each $1,000 of the certificates which he holds. To the holders of Saginaw consolidated certificates (issued against deposit of bonds of the $225,000 issue of 1894) it will give $1,000 in common stock and $1,000 in first mortgage 5s for each $1,000 certificate. Fifty per cent of all of the common stock taken pro rata from all who are entitled to it under this plan will be placed in the hands of three trustees, to be held by them for the purpose of voting the stock for a term of ten years. All the property transferred to the new company is to be free and clear of all encumbrances excepting said $185,000 of receivers' certificates. Of these $140,000 are outstanding against the Union St. Ry., the balance being on the Consolidated Street Ry.—V. 67, p. 843; V. 63, p. 794.

San Francisco & North Pacific Ry.—Purchase of Stock.—President A. W. Foster and Director George A. Newhall, it is reported, have bought the 32,000 shares of stock owned by other parties, and with the 28,000 shares already owned are in absolute control of the road. The purchase, it is stated, will not affect the lease to the California Northwestern.—V. 67, p. 788.

Southern Pacific R. R. Co. of California.—Bonds Listed.—The New York Stock Exchange has listed $10,000 000 "first consolidated guaranteed gold 5 per cent coupon bonds, stamped, 1905–37," and has reduced the amount of consolidated gold fives of 1937 from $19,671,000 to $9,671,000.

The $10,000,000 of guaranteed bonds are made subject to call at 107½ and interest on and after April 1, 1905, upon six months' notice. The total issue under the consolidated mortgage (other than bonds issuable against underlying securities) is limited to $30,000,000. This and other restrictions are is set forth in a supplementary mortgage, viz.:

(A) The total maximum issue of bonds under the mortgage of Sept. 15, 1893, (other than the bonds provided to be issued against underlying securities) shall not exceed $30,000,000.

(B) The company will keep with the trustee of the mortgage a register of the rolling stock subject to its lien, and will so mark the equipment as to identify the same.

(G) The Southern Pacific Company agrees that the mortgage of 1893 shall have priority of lien upon the property mortgaged over all the rights of the Southern Pacific Company as lessee thereof.

The foregoing provisions of this Supplement to the Mortgage (except those contained in subdivision E) all inure to the benefit of all bonds issued under the mortgage of 1894, whether stamped as redeemable on and after April 1, 1905, or not.—V. 67, p. 1052, 1056, 1062.

Staten Island Rapid Transit.—Reorganization Notice.—The New York Committee, J. W. Davis, Chairman, now represents the first mortgage 6 per cent bonds due Jan. 1, 1913, that were recently on deposit with the Investment Company of Philadelphia, that company having withdrawn in favor of the New York Committee. The committee announces that a large proportion of this loan has already been deposited with the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, and that the time for receiving additional deposits has been limited to Dec. 5.—V. 67, p. 1056.

Brooks, of the Pennsylvania Company, $775,000, and so gradually the bids were increased until the property was knocked down to Mr. Brooks for $1,060,000. There was $137,000 of accumulated rental fund which, added to the purchase price, provided the necessary amount, viz., $1,185,000 to give the bondholders par and interest and interest on int rest and also to meet the expenses of foreclosure.—V. 67, p. 902.

Toledo St. Louis & Kansas City RR.—New Receiver.—Judge Taft yesterday accepted the resignation of Receiver Pierce, who resigned because of ill health, and appointed Samuel Hunt, of Cincinnati, President of the Cincinnati Portsmouth & Virginia RR. to be receiver in his stead.—V. 67, p. 957.

Tradesmen's National Bank of New York.—Liquidating Committee.—Comptroller Dawes has appointed David H. Bates, W. Wolverton and Julius Kaufmann a committee to take charge of the liquidation. The bank must be open for this purpose on or before Dec. 1. The receiver, the Comptroller states, has on hand $1,600,000 in cash and quick assets amounting to between $600,000 and $700,000 additional, so that all depositors will be paid at once in full, except those who consented to an extension of four months, and even these, it is expected, will be paid before the expiration of that time.—V. 67, p. 1004.

United States Electric Light Co. of Washington.—Option on Stock.—An option upon the stock at 120 has been in circulation for the past few weeks, and it is said that a majority of the stock has been secured. The stock has been paid for in drafts upon the National Corn Exchange Bank of New York City, and the party said to be managing the purchases in this city are Mr. Mearns, of Lewis, Johnson & Co., and Mr. Stilson Hutchins. At the annual election for directors on the 9th inst. the following gentlemen were elected for the ensuing year, viz.: A. A. Thomas, Stilson Hutchins, S. W. Tullock, James L. Norris, W. H. Slater, Samuel J. Butterfield, John Cammack, Charles C. Duncanson, Clarence F. Norment, Charles Werner and George W. Pearson.

Union Pacific Denver & Gulf Ry.—Colorado & Southern Ry.—Sold.—The property of the Union Pacific Denver & Gulf Ry. was sold under foreclosure Nov. 19 and purchased for $9,250,000 by E. C. Henderson, of New York, for the reorganization committee. The Denver Leadville & Gunnison also was sold under foreclosure on November eighteen, as stated above. Both sales were confirmed on Monday, and will be followed by the reorganization of the two properties under the title of the Colorado & Southern Railway, per plan in V. 67, p. 748. Julesburg branch 151 miles is to be turned over to the Union Pacific RR. The Colorado Southern is authorized to issue $31,000,000 common stock, $8,500,000 4 per cent first preferred stock and the same amount of 4 per cent second preferred stock and a thirty-year 4 per cent gold mortgage for $20,000,000.

Cheyenne & Northern.—The status of this road has not been finally determined. Some negotiations have been going on with the Union Pacific for the trading of several branch lines, including the Cheyenne & Northern, running 154 miles north from Cheyenne, but no agreement beyond that for the transfer of the Julesburg branch has as yet been reached.

Sale of Securities.—The reorganization syndicate managers have sold to Kean, Van Cortlandt & Co. the $1,250,000 Colorado & Southern first mortgage 4 per cent bonds belonging to the syndicate. The managers have likewise disposed of blocks of first and second preferred stocks taken by the syndicate.

On Unlisted.—The common, first preferred and second preferred shares of the Colorado & Southern were admitted to the unlisted department of the New York Stock Exchange on Tuesday.—V. 67, p. 1004; 957.

Union Tobacco Co.—Stock Paid Up.—The company has filed a certificate in the office of the County Clerk stating that the number of directors has been increased from three to nine, and that more than half of the $10,000,000 capital stock has been paid in. It is understood, in fact, that over three-quarters of the capital stock has been paid in and that Thomas F. Ryan, W. L. Elkins, P. A. B. Widener and Thomas Dolan, have secured a controlling interest in the enterprise. The company is reported to have purchased the National Cigarette Company, the leading rival of the Trust in the cigarette manufacturing business.

The Union Tobacco Company was incorporated about a month ago at Albany with a capital of $10,000,000, of which $2,000,000 is preferred and $8,000,000 common stock. The preferred stock is to receive a non-cumulative 6 per cent dividend.—V. 67, p. 905.

Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing.—Debentures Offered.—Of the company's new issue of $3,500,000 of 5 per cent gold coupon debentures, $500,000 were offered for sale this week by a Pittsburg bank at 102½ and interest. The following facts are given regarding the loan:

Fifteen-year 5 per cent gold coupon debentures, free of tax, issued by the Mercantile Trust Co. of New York against the bond of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co.; total issue $3,500,000; denominations $1,000; interest payable January and July. Secured by total assets of the company, which on Sept. 30, 1898, exclusive of patents, charters, franchises, good will etc., aggregated $16,043,382.

The debenture contract provides by ample agreement, and by proper instrument on record in the recorder's office, that there shall be no lien placed upon the company's present or future real estate or other assets that does not provide for these debentures. Commencing 1899, the company shall pay to the trustee, either in cash or by surrender of debentures, $150,000 yearly. For the purpose of the sinking fund, the company may draw debentures by lot, and the debentures so drawn shall be paid for at $1,050 each, with accrued interest.

William Cramp & Sons Ship & Engine Building Co.—Dividends Resumed.—The company has declared a quarterly dividend of 1¼ per cent, payable Dec. 15th. Dividends were suspended in 1896 to pay floating debt. The amount paid was 7 per cent in 1895, 10 per cent in 1894 and 10 per cent in 1893. —V. 66, p. 1092.

One object of the issue, we are informed, was to enable the receivers to dispense with using a portion of the equipment heretofore operated at an alleged exorbitant rental under lease from the Central Car Company, a company whose capital stock is the chief asset of the $3,612,122 joint improvement bonds of 1891. (See V. 66, p. 37, and V. 67, p. 31)—V. 67, p. 1065.

—Clarence H. Wildes & Co. offer, on a basis to pay 4⅝ per cent, a limited amount of Atlantic Avenue Railroad Co. of Brooklyn Improvement 5 per cent gold bonds due 1934. The bonds offered are an underlying lien of the authorized mortgage for $15,000,000 4 per cents guaranteed by the Nassau Electric Railroad Co. of Brooklyn.

COMMERCIAL EPITOME.

FRIDAY NIGHT, November 25, 1898.

The observance of a mid-week national holiday has had a tendency to interrupt business to some extent. A severe snow storm has been experienced in the Northwest and this also has had a tendency to interfere with general business activity in that section of the country. At the close of the week the more wintry weather had been experienced in practically all quarters of the Republic. Confidence in the general business situation has continued quite pronounced and in speculative circles the general tendency of prices has been towards a higher basis. A continued active export demand has been a feature in the markets for breadstuffs. Reports from the South to the effect that indications are that the cotton crop has been somewhat over-estimated has attracted slightly more outside speculative interest. More favorable progress has been made by the Peace Commissioners at Paris and at the close of the week indications were that an agreement had been practically reached.

Lard on the spot has had only a limited sale. Early in the week prices advanced, but at the close, owing to the slowness of the demand, prices weakened slightly, closing at 5·27½c. for prime Western and 5c. for prime City. Refined lard has advanced, but the close was quiet and easier at 5·55c. for refined for the Continent. Speculation in lard for future delivery has been moderately active. Early in the week prices advanced on a demand from shorts to cover contracts and buying by outsiders. Subsequently, however, selling by packers caused part of the improvement to be lost. The close was quiet.

Cut meats have had only a small sale, and prices have been easier, closing at 5⅝@6c. for pickled bellies, 14@10 lbs. average, 4@4⅛c. for pickled shoulders and 6¾@7¼c. for pickled hams. Beef has been quiet but steady at $8 50@9 00 for mess, $9@10 for packet, $10 50@11 for family and $14@15 50 for extra India mess. Beef hams have been dull at $19. Tallow has been quiet, and the close was easy at 3½c. Oleostearine has been quiet and easier at 5@5½c. Lard stearine has advanced to 6½c. for prime City. Butter has had only a limited sale, but prices have held steady at 15@23½c. for creamery. Cheese has been in fair demand and firmer, closing at 7@10c. for creamery. Fresh eggs have been firm, closing at 23½@24c. for choice Western.

Brazil grades of coffee have had a more active distributing sale, as the country trade has been a better buyer and has paid full values. Invoices have had a limited sale at firm prices, closing at 6¼c. for Rio No. 7 on the spot. West India growths have been in moderate active demand and steady, closing at 7¾c. for fair Cucuta. East India growths have been quiet but steady. Speculation in the market for contracts has been quiet, and no important changes have occurred in prices, they closing firmer on a light crop movement and European buying. Following are the final asking prices:

Raw sugars have been sparingly offered, and sales made have been at higher prices closing firm at 4⅛c. for centrifugals, 96 deg. test, and 4c. for muscovado, 89-deg. test. Refined sugar has been quiet. Monday prices were advanced 1-16c., but to-day they were lowered 1-16c., closing at 5¼c. for granulated. Spices have been in fairly speculative demand and pepper has been higher. Molasses closed firmer.

Speculation in cotton for future delivery has been slightly more active. There has been some broadening of the speculative interest shown in the situation, and there has been a slight upward turn to values. Outsiders have done a little more trading, commission houses, as a rule, reporting some improvement in the run of orders, which, with few exceptions, have been to buy. Regular operators as a rule have appeared to show more confidence in the situation, the feeling in the local trade being more favorable to better prices than for some time past, and there has been some buying by local and foreign shorts to cover contracts. The principal strengthening feature has been advices received from the South stating that it was the general impression that the crop had been somewhat over-estimated, as shown by the fact that the general tendency has been to lower estimates. The movement of the crop has continued large and this has had a tendency to make some of the leading bear operators more aggressive in the operations at any improvement in values; consequently this has held the advance in check to some extent. Foreign advices have been favorable for higher prices, as Liverpool has reported a slight advance in futures and business in the spot market has continued fairly active. To-day the market was fairly active, but the tone was somewhat unsettled. At the opening prices were slightly higher on buying by out siders; then came a reaction on free selling; after this selling had subsided prices again improved slightly. Toward the close, however, under the large movement of the crop, values again eased off a few points. Final prices were 1 point higher for November, but other months were 1 to 3 points lower for the day. Cotton on the spot was advanced 1-16c on Monday. To-day the market was firm at unchanged prices, closing at 5 7-16c. for midling uplands.

On the basis of the rates on and off middling as established by the Revision Committee, the prices for a few of the grades would be as follows:

The above statement shows: 1.—That the total receipts from the plantations since Sept. 1, 1898, are 4,593,505 bales; in 1897 were 4,255,176 bales; in 1896 were 3,964,408 bales.

2.—That although the receipts at the outports the past week were 422,957 bales, the actual movement from plantations was 468,144 bales, the balance going to increase stocks at interior towns. Last year receipts from the plantations for the week were 452,284 bales and for 1896 they were 341,073 bales.

WEATHER REPORTS BY TELEGRAPH.—Telegraphic advices to us this evening denote that rain has fallen in most sections of the South the past week, but that on the whole the precipitation has not been heavy. The temperature has been lower generally, interrupting somewhat the gathering of the crop. Reports from Texas indicate that the crop of that State is about all picked.

Galveston, Texas.—In general the crop is about all gathered and in many localities farmers are busy preparing land for next season. Rain has fallen on two days of the week, the precipitation reaching seventeen hundredths of an inch. The thermometer has averaged 59, the highest being 74 and the lowest 34.

Palestine, Texas.—There has been rain on three days during the week, the precipitation being seventy hundredths of an inch. Freezing weather. The thermometer has averaged 54 ranging from 26 to 82.

Corpus Christi, Texas.—We have had heavy rain on one day during the past week, to the extent of one inch and twenty-six hundredths. The thermometer has ranged from 40 to 76, averaging 58.

San Antonio, Texas.—Rain has fallen on one day of the week, the precipitation reaching eight hundredths of an inch. Minimum temperature 32.

Paris, Texas.—Picking still continues. Rain has fallen on two days of the week. The thermometer has ranged from 24 to 82.

New Orleans, Louisiana.—The week's rainfall has been two hundredths of an inch on two days. The thermometer has averaged 55.

Shreveport, Louisiana.—Rain has fallen on one day of the week, to the extent of fifty-six hundredths of an inch. The thermometer has averaged 50, ranging from 25 to 79.

Meridian, Mississippi.—Much cotton is unpicked and will be lost for want of labor to pick it. The thermometer has ranged from 28 to 60. Rain on four days.

Columbus, Mississippi.—It has rained on two days of the week, the precipitation reaching one inch and seventy-two hundredths. The thermometer has ranged from 25 to 80, averaging 58.

Leland, Mississippi.—We have had rain during the week to the extent of eighty hundredths of an inch. Average thermometer 51·3, highest 77 and lowest 23.

Vicksburg Mississippi.—We have had rain on one day of the week, the rainfall being sixty-six hundredths of an inch. The thermometer has averaged 49, the highest being 76 and the lowest 26.

Little Rock, Arkansas.—There has been rain on one day during the week, the rainfall reaching forty-nine hundredths of an inch. The thermometer has averaged 45, ranging from 19 to 73.

Helena, Arkansas.—High winds, rain and low temperature have done much damage to cotton. There has been rain on one day of the week, the rainfall being seventy seven hundredths of an inch. The thermometer has ranged from 20 to 72, averaging 44.

Memphis, Tennessee.—Cold weather has interfered somewhat with picking, but marketing continues active. Rain has fallen on one day during the week, the precipitation reaching eighty four hundredths of an inch. Average thermometer 46·3, highest 74·2, lowest 20·3.

Mobile, Alabama.—Cotton picking is making very slow progress on account of cold weather and dissatisfied labor. There is a large quantity in the fields, but the popular opinion is that much of it will never be gathered. It has rained on three days of the week, the precipitation reaching two inches and twenty four hundreths. The thermometer has averaged 54 and has ranged from 31 to 73.

Montgomery, Alabama.—Rain and freezing weather the latter part of the week are to some extent the cause of light receipts. We have had rain on two days of the week, the precipitation being two inches and eighteen hundredths. The thermometer has ranged from 30 to 74, averaging 52.

Selma, Alabama.—We have had rain on one day of the week, the rainfall being ninety-eight hundredths of an inch. Average thermometer 48, highest 72, lowest 25.

Madison, Florida.—There has been rain on two days during the week, to the extent of forty hundredths of an inch. The thermometer has averaged 56, the highest being 77 and the lowest 39.

Augusta, Georgia.—Rain has fallen on three days of the week, the precipitation reaching one inch and two hundredths The thermometer has averaged 50 and has ranged from 32 to 69.

A considerable portion of the Sea Island cotton shipped to foreign ports goes via New York, and some small amounts via Boston and Baltimore. Instead of including this cotton for the week in which it leaves the Southern outports, we follow the same plan as in our regular table of including it when actually exported from New York, &c. The details of the shipments of Sea Island cotton for the week will be found under the head "Shipping News," on a subsequent page.

EGYPTIAN COTTON CROP.—The following is the report of the Alexandria General Produce Association for the month of October:

The high temperature during October was favorable to the cotton trees and to a certain extent increased the yield. Nevertheless the fields that had already been seriously damaged by want of water and fogs did not profit by the heat. The first picking is already finished and the second is in the way of being so. In general, a diminution from last year has been found. As for the third picking, which suffered the most, it will be small. Also the yield in ginning is slightly inferior to that of last year. We are therefore obliged to hold to the forecast of our resume of September and estimate the crop at about 4,000,000 cantars. As regards the quality, the staple of the first picking is better than that of last year, but in consequence of the the fogs a appearance is not quite satisfactory.

AUGUSTA (GA.) STRIKE.—Three thousand operatives in the Augusta (Ga.) cotton mills struck against the reduced wage scale on Monday, Nov. 21, and by Wednesday the number was augmented to about six thousand. The mill-owners seem determined to enforce the new wage scale, and state that it is based on the rates of wages paid in the Carolinas. As the week closes it is reported that the operatives show some disposition to yield.

NEW ENGLAND COTTON MILLS SITUATION.—The Thorndyke Cotton Mills, Worcester Mass., started up Nov. 21 after a two weeks' shut-down. The Border City Mill No. 2, Fall River, resumed operation Monday last after an idleness of over a month, due to a strike.

JUTE BUTTS, BAGGING, &C.—The demand for jute bagging during the past week has been only moderate. Quotations have been reduced to 6⅛c. for 1¾ lbs. and 6½c. for 2 lbs., standard grades. Car-load lots of standard brands are quoted at 6⅛c. for 1¾ lbs. and 6½c. for 2 lbs., f. o. b. at New York. Jute butts have been very dull at 1·90c. for paper quality and 1¾c. for mixing.

EXPORTS OF COTTON GOODS FROM GREAT BRITAIN.—Below we give the exports of cotton yarn, goods, &c., from Great Britain for the month of October and since January 1 in 1898 and 1897, as compiled by us from the British Board of Trade returns. It will be noticed that we have reduced the movement all to pounds.

A further matter of interest is the destination of these exports, and we have therefore prepared the following statements, showing the amounts taken by the principal countries during October and since January 1 in each of the last three years:

COMPARATIVE PORT RECEIPTS AND DAILY CROP MOVEMENT.—A comparison of the port movement by weeks is not accurate as the weeks in different years do not end on the same day of the month. We have consequently added to our other standing tables a daily and monthly statement, that the reader may constantly have before him the data for seeing the exact relative movement for the years named. The monthly movements since September 1, 1898, and in previous years, have been as follows:

Monthly Receipts.	Year Beginning September 1.

This statement shows that up to October 31 the receipts at the ports this year were 231,835 bales more than in 1897 and 52,442 bales greater than in 1896. By adding to the totals to Sept. 30 the daily receipts since that time we hall be able to reach an exact comparison of the movements for the different years.

To Japan since September 1 shipments have been 10,956 bales from Pacific Coast.

Below we give all news received to date of disasters to vessels carrying cotton from United States ports, &c.

BURCHFIELD, steamer (Br.), at Galveston, loading. Fire, Nov. 15, in hold No. 3 of the British steamer Birchfield did damage to about 100 bales of cotton. The fire originated next to the port bunker between the bales of cotton. The damaged cotton was removed and that on fire was sprayed as it came from the hold.

IRAN, steamer (Br.), from New Orleans, at Havre, Nov. 12, with 15,125 bales of cotton. A fire broke out, Nov. 21, in 5,000 bales of cotton lying at a wharf at Havre, and destroyed 2,100 bales before it was got under control.

MONTENEGRO, steamer (Br.), from New Orleans for Bremen, with 7,361 bales of cotton, is ashore at Nieuwe Diep. Assistance has been sent.

SANTANDERINO, steamer (Span.), loading cotton at Pensacola. Surveyors ordered the cargo of No 2 hold of steamer Santanderino, leaking, to be discharged. Divers found the leak was caused by a started bolt, which was repaired, and after discharging the damaged cotton, she loaded again and proceeded.

TREASURY, steamer (Br.), from Galveston, Nov. 4, for Bremen, with 6,881 bales of cotton, put into New York harbor Nov. 15 with her cargo of cotton on fire. The fire was extinguished and 500 bales have been discharged, of which 150 bales are reported damaged by fire or water.

BREADSTUFFS.

FRIDAY, November 25, 1898.

Reflecting a stronger market for the grain, there has been a hardening of values in the market for wheat flour, prices as a rule showing an advance of about 10c per barrel. The volume of business transacted with the home trade has been of only limited proportions, as jobbers, as a rule, have their wants supplied for the present and have been disposed to hold off at any advance in prices. The export business, however, has been moderately active, the demand coming principally from the Continent, with spring clears and straights the grades mostly taken. Rye flour has been firm but quiet at unchanged values. Buckwheat flour has had a fair sale at full values. Corn meal has been in slow demand and values have ruled slightly in favor of buyers.

Speculation in wheat for future delivery has been moderately active and there has been a gradual hardening of values. The principal strengthening features have been a continued active export demand and stronger foreign advices. The fact that the movement of the crop in the Northwest was smaller, which necessitated lighter offerings from the interior, also has had its influence in favor of values. The falling off in the Northwestern crop movement, however, it was generally understood, has been due to the interruption of railroad traffic by snow-blockades. The export demand has been well up to that experienced earlier in the fall, the purchases averaging slightly in excess of 1,000,000 bushels daily, the bulk of which has been spring wheat. The demand has been about evenly divided between the United Kingdom and the Continent. Early in the week a large increase in the supply of wheat in sight caused a temporary slight reaction in values. To-day there was an easier market in response to weaker foreign advices, and under realizing sales by longs, closing ¼@½c. lower for the day. Business in the spot market was fairly active, as exporters continued buyers; their purchases here and at outports reported as amounting to 600,000 bushels.

There has been more activity to the speculative dealings in the market for Indian corn futures, and the tendency of prices has been towards a higher basis. The improvement was most pronounced early in the week, stronger foreign advices and an active export demand being the principal strengthening features, the export purchases for the week here and at outports averaging in excess of 500,000 bushels daily, and on Tuesday the purchases exceeded 1,000,000 bushels. Wednesday there was a slight reaction in values, under increased pressure to sell, prompted by the belief that the cold weather in the corn belt would raise the grade of the crop. To-day the market was slightly easier under realizing sales by longs. The spot market was fairly active and about steady. Sales for export here and at outports were 510,000 bushels.

Oats for future delivery at the Western market have received a moderate amount of attention. Early in the week, there was an advance in prices in sympathy with the rise in values for other grains and on a moderate movement of the crop. Wednesday there was some selling by longs to realize profits and part of the improvement was lost. Business in the local spot market has been fairly active as the home trade has been a buyer and prices have advanced. The export business has been quiet. To-day the market was quiet but steady. The spot market was steady, and there was an unconfirmed rumor of sales for export of 100,000 bushels.

THE DRY GOODS TRADE.

NEW YORK, FRIDAY, P. M., November 25, 1898

Although the week has been broken in upon by the Thanksgiving holiday, the aggregate results in the cotton goods division compare favorably with previous weeks. The general trade demand has shown an improvement in volume, while the low prices for bleached cottons noted last week have evoked quite a liberal demand in that particular division. Exporters are still in the market for heavy brown cottons, and their purchases make some amend for a quiet home demand. Reports of retail distribution are encouraging, and as there is a disposition to regard the raw cotton market as having seen its worst and likely in future to prove a stregthening factor, the tone of the market at the close is distinctly more cheerful than for some time past. In the woolen goods division the market has not undergone any change of moment. The demand shows some expansion, but there are still too many mills short of work for the situation to be satisfactory. There are few complaints heard on the score of collections, payments as a rule being promptly made.

WOOLEN GOODS.—The demand for spring weights of men's wear woolen and worsted fabrics shows some improvement in volume, an increased number of re-orders coming to hand. Both wholesale clothiers and cloth jobbers are, however, still buying conservatively, and the situation is not yet an entirely satisfactory one. Sellers are firm on such lines as serges and Clays, but in fancies, particularly in goods of low quality, there is considerable irregularity in prices. There are reports of business doing in new heavy-weights for next fall, but agents are not yet openly upon the market, and sales are made more or less subject to developments. Satinets are dull and doeskin jeans inactive. Business in new heavy-weight overcoatings has been moderate and in cloakings sales are of indifferent volume. Dress goods for spring have sold to a little fuller extent than of late, but the majority of agents still complain of poor results. Flannels and blankets quiet and unchanged.

DOMESTIC COTTON GOODS.—The exports of cotton goods from this port for the week ending November 21 were 1,412 packages, valued at $97,934, their destination being to the points specified in the tables below:

* From New England mill points direct.

The value of the New York exports for the year to date has been $10,003,799 in 1898, against $9,358,294 in 1897.

Fair sales for export have been reported in heavy sheetings and drills and prices of these are firm. Four-yard goods in better demand but generally easy to buy. Fine yarn light weights have sold fairly and are against buyers in price. Duck dull and easy; brown osnaburgs quiet and unchanged. Sales of bleached cottons in fine and medium grades have been liberal, and the market at the close is firmer. Low grades quiet but supported by the strength in print cloths. Wide sheetings irregular, with fair sales. Cotton flannels and blankets quietly steady. Denims in moderate request, but stocks much reduced lately and prices steady. Ticks are quiet and plaids in steady demand at previous prices. Other coarse, colored cottons quiet and unchanged. Kid-finished cambrics quiet but firm, in sympathy with print cloths. Business in regular lines of printed calicoes has been of average volume. Shirting prints sell well for spring and fair business in new fancy calicoes subject to opening prices. Printed specialties in both fine and low grades in fair request. Ginghams in all staple makes of both staple and dress styles are well sold and firm in price. Regular print cloths have ruled firm at 2 1-16c. with a limited business; odd goods occasionally 1-16c. higher.

FOREIGN DRY GOODS.—In the woolen goods division importers of both men's-wear and dress goods fabrics are much dissatisfied, only a poor spring business being secured up to date. Silks are in moderate demand and steady. Ribbons and laces quiet. Hosiery and underwear dull and irregular. Linens steady, with a moderate business.

Baltimore, Md.—No Debt Limitation in City Charter.—In the State and City Supplement for October we stated that under the new city charter adopted by the Legislature March [illegible], 1898, it was provided that "no debt in excess of 7 per centum of its (the city's) taxable basis" should be contracted. Mr. J. Frank Supplee, City Register, writes us to say that this is a mistake—that there is no such limitation. It appears that the original draft of the charter contained a section embracing the words above quoted, but that this was stricken out by the Legislature prior to the adoption of the charter.

Council Bluffs, Iowa.—Bonds Temporarily Enjoined.—J. J. Shea has petitioned the courts to enjoin the issuance of the $150,000 4½% bonds recently authorized to fund outstanding warrants Mr. Shea claims that the warrants to be funded are illegal because the same were issued in excess of the 5% constitutional limit of indebtedness. Mr. Shea has raised this same question as to the debt limit several times during the last year in other suits and has been defeated.

Dallas, Texas.—Proposed New City Charter.—The City Council on November 10, 1898, passed a resolution ordering that application be made to the next Legislature for a new city charter. The present charter, although in operation less than two years, has, it is stated, proved very unsatisfactory.

Findlay, Ohio.—Proposed Sale of Gas Plant.—The City Council has under consideration a proposition from William B. Cutter to purchase the city gas plant for $150,000. A suit brought by several taxpayers to prevent this resulted in the Court holding that the Council has the power to dispose of the plant if it so desires. Judge Melhorn, in his decision, held that the municipal right to acquire gas plants was fixed by general laws, and that such property was of the same nature as water-works, and therefore it was not necessary to have special legislative action to sell the plant. An appeal, it is stated, will be taken to the Circuit Court.

Green County, Ky.—Tax Decision.—Judge Barr, in the United States Court on November 15, 1898, handed down an opinion in a case that has been pending for many years. In 1878 George Thomas and others filed suit to compel the payment of coupons aggregating, it is stated, $20,000 on Green County railroad aid bonds. Judgment was then given against the county in default. The Court at that time ordered the county to levy a sufficient tax to satisfy the judgment, but no residents of the county would serve as tax collectors. The taxpayers in order to evade the collection of the tax also refused to elect a Sheriff. The present decision of Judge Barr orders that further steps be taken to collect the tax, and inasmuch as the county citizens refuse to serve as collector, the plaintiffs have a right, the Judge holds, to designate any citizen, whether a resident of the county or not, to collect the tax.

Lawrence County, S. Dak.—Bonds Valid.—We take the following despatch, dated Deadwood, November 9, from the Minneapolis "Journal." "The famous Lawrence County bond suit, which has been in the courts a number of years, was settled this week by Judge Amidon of North Dakota, in favor of the plaintiff, H. L. Jewell. Several years ago the Commissioners of Lawrence County floated $300,000 of 5% bonds with which to take up the same amount of bonds carrying 10%. The 10% bonds were not due for ten years and some of the holders refused to surrender them. As a consequence there was an increased indebtedness of the county amounting to about $179,000 of the 5% bonds which had been sold. Three years ago the commissioners attempted to repudiate this much of the 5% bonds. The case has been in court ever since and Judge Amidon decides that the county will have to pay the full amount of the bonds."

Macon County, Mo.—Bond Litigation.—We take the following dispatch from Hannibal dated November 19, 1898, from the St. Louis "Globe Democrat:" "A suit to renew judgment in the case of Bradley A. Griffin of New York vs. Macon County, involving $28,251 10, was filed to-day in the United States Circuit Court. The amount is the interest and principal of certain railroad bonds issued by Macon County.

Maryland.—State to Sell Interest in Canal.—On November 18, 1898, the Board of Public Works decided to advertise for sale all the State's holdings in the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal. Some years ago the State's interest in the canal was figured at $29,052,724 44, computed as follows: Common stock, $788,-724 44; preferred stock, $4,375,000; mortgage under Act of 1874, $2,000,000; unpaid guaranteed dividends for fifty six years, $14,689,000, and unpaid interest for sixty years, $7,200,-000. Since there have been further unpaid accumulations of interest. The canal securities have never earned for the State any returns. After the freshet of 1889, which nearly demolished the canal, a receiver was appointed. On October 2, 1890, Judge Alvey passed a decree for the sale of the canal, but suspended the operation of the decree until May 1, 1895, and in January, 1894, it was further suspended until May, 1901. This was done at the instance of the trustees of the holders of the bonds of 1844, a chance being given them to operate during these years in order to demonstrate that the canal could be made to pay. The State of Maryland owns a majority of the stock of the canal, and the purchaser of this stock will control the organization of the company. Whether those acquiring the property will be able to get it out of the hands of the Court is a question. The purchaser of the canal will have to take all risks of prior liens. The lien which takes priority over all others is the mortgage of 1878 for $500,-000, with accrued interest, amounting to about $300,000 more. The bonds of 1844 are secured by a mortgage upon the revenues of the canal and not upon the corpus. These amount, with accrued interest, to almost $6,000,000 It is stated that the majority of bonds of 1878, as well as those of 1844, are in the hands of persons friendly to the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

Mississippi.—Amendment to the Constitution Carried.—At the election held November 8, 1898, the amendment to the Constitution ceding the control of the Mississippi levees to the United States Government carried by a large majority. These levees have been a sonrce of great expense to the counties maintaining them, and their acceptance by the U. S. Government would relieve these counties of a great and increasing burden of taxation.

Montgomery County, Ky.—Bond Election Decision.—We have received the following letter from Thomas J. Bigstaff, attorney-at-law, relative to a case brought to determine whether or not the bond proposition voted upon at the recent election received the legal majority. Mr. Bigstaff says:

"The case of Montgomery Fiscal Court vs. John C. Trimble, recently decided by the Kentucky Court of Appeals, has not yet been published in our Kentucky Law Reporter or Official Reports. In fact I think the time for filing petition for rehearing has hardly expired, so the opinion has not been sent out to the parties. However, I have seen a newspaper report which announces that the case has been reversed. This suit was brought in our Montgomery Circuit Court by one of our Magistrates, Squire Trimble, to settle the question as to whether or not the bond issue carried at the last election. The Acts of 1896 of our Legislature provides that if two thirds of the legal voters voting on said proposition vote in favor of the proposition, then said Fiscal Court shall issue bonds as provided herein. It was found that two-thirds of all the votes cast on all the questions at the election was not cast in favor of the bond issue, and it was generally thought - especially in view of the case of Belknappvs. City of Louisville, reported in 93 Ky., page 414—that the bond issue did not carry, so it would seem that the Court of Appeals has taken back its ruling in that case in deciding that two-thirds of the votes cast on this particular question, and not upon all the questions voted for, control."

Norwalk, Conn.—Bonds Illegally Voted.—Some time ago suit was brought to enjoin the delivery of $300,000 3½% funding bonds awarded last August to Farson, Leach & Co., New York. The ground on which this suit was entered was that the vote authorizing the bonds was illegal, as the notices calling the meeting were signed by the Selectmen's Clerk, whereas the law says that they must be signed personally. Judge Wheeler, in the Superior Court, has decided against the town, and a new meeting has now been called, at which the vote will be taken over again.

Oneida County, Wis.—Division of Town.—The County Board has voted to divide the town of Pelican (consisting of eleven townships) into two new towns, to be named Newbold and Sugar Camp.

Oxford, N. C.—Bonds Valid.—Judge Purnell, in the United States District Court, recently decided a suit of long standing. In 1891 the town voted to subscribe to $40,000 bonds of the Oxford & Coast Line Railroad Co., and a year later refused to pay them on the ground that the railroad company was not carrying out its part of the contract. The suit which resulted was compromised by the town subscribing for one-half the original amount. Bonds were issued in 1892, and two years later their legality was questioned on the ground that the election was held without authority of law. In 1895 the State Supreme Court held that the bonds were invalid because issued under an Act of the Legislature which had been passed irregularly. It appears that in the Lower House the second and third reading of the bill was compassed on the same day instead of on separate days. That decision was appealed to the United States District Court and has now been reversed, Judge Purnell following an old decision of the Supreme Court in which it was held that an Act signed by the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House is law.

Providence, R. I.—New City Charter.—At a recent meeting of the Common Council, the proposed new charter for the city was presented. Under this charter, the city is authorized to issue bonds, which shall be exempt from all taxation under any law of the State of Rhode Island, but it is provided that the limit of indebtedness shall not exceed 10 per centum of the assessed valuation of real estate. The charter also provides that no ordinance authorizing bonds shall be passed unless it receive the affirmative vote of two-thirds of all the members of the Common Council.

South Dakota.—Amendments Voted and Defeated.—At the general election held November 8, 1898, three amendments to the State Constitution were voted upon with the following results as indicated from the latest returns. Women suffrage was defeated by a majority of over three thousand; State control of the liquor traffic, the vote was very close, with the chances slightly in favor of the proposition. The Swiss initiative and referendum carried by a very large majority. This amendment provides that when 5% of the voters of the State petition for a law on any subject that the Legislature shall frame such a law and submit it to the voters at the next election.

Vermont.—Tax Bill Defeated.—On November 22, 1898, the State Senate, by a vote of 15 to 14, defeated what is commonly known as "Governor Smith's Taxation Bill." This bill passed the House on November 17, 1898, and its purpose was to attract people of wealth to Vermont by offering inducements through a special board of tax commissioners empowered to make a contract for taxes for a period of not more than thirty years.

Victor, Col.—Bond Litigation.—Suit has been entered in the District Court against the city by Channing Sweet to recover $945 claimed as unpaid on bonds owned by the plaintiff.

Wilkes County, N. C.—Bonds Illegal.—A recent decision of the Supreme Court declares illegal $100,000 bonds issued in aid of the Northwestern North Carolina Railroad. The bonds were issued under an Act of the General Assembly ratified February 20, 1879. This Act was not passed, it is claimed, in accordance with the mandatory provisions of the Constitution, in that there was no call of the ayes and noes on the second passage of the bill in the House.

Willapa (Pacific County, Wash.,) School District.—Bond Litigation.—We take the following dispatch from South Bend, Wash., dated November 11, 1898, from the Portland "Oregonian:"

The Marble Savings Bank has instituted a suit to compel the County Commissioners to levy a tax to pay interest coupons due on $5,000 worth of Willapa school bonds. The last interest coupons paid were those dated August 1, 1895. Since then the School Board has refused to pay interest, on the grounds that the bonds were illegal, and if legal that other school districts which have been split off from Willapa since the bonds were voted should pay their share. A suit which was instituted about a year ago against the district by the bondholders was thrown out of court on technicalities and the merits of the case have never been tried. According to the law passed by the last Legislature the Commissioners make the tax levies to pay interest on all bonds, and they did so in every instance except that of Willapa, where the Board forbade them to do so. The interest now due amounts to $1,050.

Oakman, Ala.—Bonds Proposed.—The authorization of school bonds to the amount of $5,000 is being considered in the State Legislature.

Orangetown (N. Y.) Union Free School District No. 3.—Correction.—Owing to a typographical error in last week's CHRONICLE the bond offering of this district was given under the head of Orangetown, New Jersey instead of New York.

Parkersburg, Pa.—No Bonds to be Issued at Present.—We are advised that the $20,000 school bonds voted at the recent election will not be sold until next year. These bonds will most likely be taken by home investors.

Port Chester, N. Y.—Temporary Loan.—The village has borrowed $3,000 for payment of bills until money is received from the recent sale of bonds.

We are now advised that, owing to the ruling of the Attorney General, the district cannot issue $4 000 in bonds based on the 1898 valuation, and as the school building it is intended to erect will cost from $4,000 to $5,000, it has been decided to postpone the issue for a few months. The Secretary says: "We are quite certain that the 1899 taxable values will carry a bond issue of $4,000 to $5,000, and just so soon as these values are known, we will issue from $4,000 to $5,000 6% 5-20-year optional bonds."

We are advised by the City Recorder that no bonds will be issued this year, and that no vote has yet been taken on the question; the matter is simply that the companies owning and operating the light plant and water works are trying to get the city to purchase the same.

Willimantic, Conn.—City Meeting.—At the annual city meeting to be held December 5, 1898, the question of establishing a sinking fund for the payment of the city's bonded debt and also a sinking fund to be laid aside from the revenue of the water works for the purpose of meeting the water bonds when they fall due, will be voted upon.

NOTICE OF FORECLOSURE SALE

OF THE

Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway.

Notice is hereby given that pursuant to the decree of foreclosure and sale made and entered by the Circuit Court of the United States for the Eastern District of North Carolina held at the City of Wilmington in the State of North Carolina, on the 31st day of March, 1897, and the Amended and Supplemental decree made and entered on the 1st day of July, 1897, in a certain consolidated cause in equity pending in said Court, wherein the Farmers' Loan & Trust Company, Trustee, is complainant, and the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway Company and others are defendants,

We, E. S. Martin and Clement Manly, as Master Commissioners appointed by said decree of March 31st, 1897, for that purpose, shall and will sell, at public auction to the highest bidder, according to the terms and provisions of said decrees at the passenger depot of said Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway Company in the City of Fayetteville, State of North Carolina, on the 29th day of December, 1898, at twelve o'clock noon, the property, rights, privileges, and franchises hereinafter described respectively mentioned in the said decrees to wit:

FIRST.

All and singular the entire line of railroad of the said Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway Company, situate, lying, and being in the State of North Carolina, as the same was located and constructed at the date of the execution of the deed of trust or mortgage executed by said Railway Company to the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, dated the first day of June, 1886, or as the same was thereafter located and constructed, and more particularly described as follows:

That certain railroad in the State of North Carolina, extending from the City of Greensboro to Fayetteville, and from Fayetteville to the boundary line, between the States of North Carolina and South Carolina, where it intersects the same, and also that certain line of railroad, extending from Fayetteville aforesaid to Wilmington, and also that certain line of railroad extending from Greensboro aforesaid to the boundary line between the State of North Carolina and the State of Virginia, at a point near Mount Airy, whether held at the date of the said deed of trust or mortgage, or thereafter constructed; and also all the branch lines belonging to or constructed by said Railway Company, to wit: The "Factory Branch," the "Madison Branch," the "Granite Branch," the "Furnace Branch," the "Aldrich Branch," and the "Buff Quarry Branch," as the same were constructed at the date of the deed of trust executed by said Railway Company to the Mercantile Trust and Deposit Company of Baltimore, dated the first day of October, 1889, with all extensions and additional branches thereafter constructed; together with the right of way for said railroad and branches, and also all depots and station grounds and buildings thereon, and also all shops, engine-houses, turn-tables, water stations, warehouses, and lots, gravel pits, stone quarries, and other real estate used in operating said road and its branches, or in connection therewith.

And also all side tracks connected with said railroad or its branches upon the line thereof, as is here described, and any other lands or buildings or structures connected therewith or appurtenant thereto, owned at the respective dates of said deeds of trust, or thereafter acquired; together with all rolling stock (except as hereinafter mentioned), floating and other equipment, machinery, tools, implements, fuel, and materials owned at the respective dates of the deeds aforesaid, or thereafter acquired for constructing, maintaining, operating, replacing, improving, or repairing the said road or its branches, as herein described, or any part thereof, in or for the business of said railroad.

And together with all the corporate rights, privileges, and franchises of the said Railway Company, possessed at the respective dates of the deeds aforesaid, or thereafter acquired, connected therewith or relating to the said railroad and its branches, and the construction, maintenance, use, and enjoyment of the same.

And together with all the estate, right, title, interest, property, claim, and demand of every nature and kind whatsoever, including all tolls, incomes, rents, issues, and profits thereof of the said Railway Company, owned and possessed at the respective dates of the deeds aforesaid, or thereafter acquired, connected with or pertaining to the above-described road and its branches, as well at law as in equity of, in, and to the same and every part and parcel thereof.

And also all the right, title, interest, and property of the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway Company in the South Carolina Pacific Railway, and the franchises, property, real and personal, used in connection therewith in operating the same; together with all appurtenances of every sort thereto belonging, leased, and conveyed to the said Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway Company, by said South Carolina Pacific Railway Company, by the Indenture of Lease dated the 8th day of January, 1895, for the term of thirty years thereafter, which said lease is recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds Conveyances in the town of Bennettsville, County of Marlboro, State of South Carolina, in book 3 of Mortgages of Personal Property, pages 443, et seq., to which said lease reference is hereby made for fuller particulars.

The entire property, described as aforesaid, covered by the deeds of trust or mortgages aforesaid, or either of them, will be sold as a single parcel, and as an entirety, except the rolling stock hereinafter mentioned. And no bid for the property aforesaid (exclusive of said rolling stock) will be accepted which does not equal the sum of Two million dollars.

Legal Notices.

SECOND.

Secondly, and separately, from the aforementioned property, but at the same time, will be sold all such rolling-stock, belonging to said Railway Company, as is not appurtenant to any one of the three Divisions of said Railway Company, mortgaged to the Farmers' Loan & Trust Company aforesaid, a schedule of which will be announced at the time of sale.

The said decrees provide that no bid for the entire property mentioned and described above (exclusive of said rolling stock) shall be received from any person until such person shall have deposited with the Master Commissioners the sum of Thirty Thousand Dollars; and the sum so deposited shall be returned to the person depositing the same if no bid made by him is accepted, but if any bid made by him is accepted, then the amount so deposited shall be held by the Master Commissioners on account of the purchase. Any purchaser hereunder, when the property is struck off to him, shall at once pay to the Master Commissioners on account of his purchase a sufficient sum to make up, together with the amount already deposited by him as aforesaid, the sum of $200,000, and in the case of the said rolling stock twenty per cent. of the accepted bid. The deposits and payments required shall be made in United States currency, or in such certified drafts, certificates, or checks as may be satisfactory to the Master Commissioners.

It is further provided by said decrees that should such purchaser or purchasers fail to make such payment at once, the mortgaged property and premises struck off to such defaulting purchaser shall be resold, either immediately or at such adjourned day as the Master Commissioners may determine, but in any case without further advertisement, the Court reserving the right to consider such resale either as made on account of the said proposed purchaser or as an original sale; and further that the deposit received from the successful bidder or bidders shall be applied on account of the purchase price, and that such further portions of the purchase price shall be paid to cash as the Court may from time to time direct, the Court reserving the right to resell the premises and property therein directed to be sold upon the failure of the purchaser or purchasers, his, its, or their successors or assigns, to comply within twenty days with any order of the Court in that regard; and that the balance of the purchase price may be paid either in money or in bonds or in overdue coupons secured by the mortgages of The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway Company to the Farmers' Loan & Trust Company and the Mercantile Trust & Deposit Company of Baltimore, now foreclosed, each such bond and coupon being received for such sum as the holder thereof would be entitled to receive under the distribution ordered in said decrees and according to the priority therein adjudged.

It is further provided by said decrees that the purchaser or purchasers shall, as part consideration, and in addition to the sum bid for such property, take the same and receive the deed or deeds therefor upon the express condition that to the extent that the assets or the proceeds of assets in the Receiver's hands shall be insufficient, such purchaser or purchasers, his or their successors or assigns, shall pay, satisfy, and discharge (a) any unpaid indebtedness and obligations or liabilities which shall have been duly contracted or incurred by the Receiver before delivery of possession of the property sold; and (b) also any unpaid indebtedness or liability contracted or incurred by said defendant Railroad Company in the operation of its railroad, payment whereof was provided for in the order in said cause appointing the Receiver, and which is prior in lien or superior in equity to said mortgages, except such as shall be paid and satisfied out of the income of the property in the hands of the Receiver, or out of such other assets, upon the Court adjudging the same to be prior in lien or superior in equity to said mortgages, and directing payment thereof; and for the purpose of enforcing the foregoing provisions of the decree, jurisdiction of the cause is retained by the Court, the Court reserving the right to retake and resell the property in case such purchaser or purchasers, or his or their successors or assigns, should fail to comply with any order of the Court in respect to the payment of such prior indebtedness or liabilities, within thirty days after service of a copy of such order.

It is also provided in said decrees that the purchaser or purchasers of such property shall also take the same, subject to the performance by him or them, or his or their successors or assigns, of all pending contracts in respect thereof, theretofore lawfully made by the Receiver; and that the purchaser or purchasers at any such sale, and his or their successors and assigns, shall have the right, within ninety days after the completion of the sale and delivery of the deed as therein provided, to elect whether or not to assume or adopt any lease or contract sold with the railroad and other property and franchises; and that the purchaser or purchasers, his or their successors or assigns, shall not be held to have assumed any of said leases or contracts which he or they shall so elect not to assume.

It is further ordered by said decrees, that within thirty days from the confirmation of said sale or sales, or such further time as the Court may allow for good cause shown, the purchaser or purchasers of said property shall complete payment of the entire amount or amounts bid to the said Master Commissioners, and that on such payment, and upon complying with all the requirements of said decrees, the said purchaser or purchasers shall be entitled to receive deeds of conveyance thereof from the Master Commissioners and from the other parties to this cause, as therein provided, and shall receive possession of the property so purchased from the parties holding possession of the same.

The said sales will be made subject to the terms, conditions, reservations, and obligations in said decrees contained.

And for further particulars reference is hereby made to the said decrees of said Court.

Dated this 25th day of November, 1898.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION.

Not even the depressing influences of a phenomenal snow storm, resulting in clogged city streets as well as crippled business over all the steam railroads entering this centre and more or less over the roads throughout the Eastern and Middle sections, have been able seriously to check progress in our markets. Public optimism very seldom overlaps such depressing weather and wretched traffic conditions as have existed a good portion of the time since last Saturday. It may be assumed by some that the settlement in all substantial particulars of terms of peace by the Congress sitting at Paris was accountable for the continued buoyant feeling. That event has been all along anticipated, the anticipation too being fully warranted, and Wall Street always discounts that sort of coming event. Indeed, many astute operators acting on that theory sold stocks all day Tuesday thinking it was the "pin point of time" to gather in the profits. But note that the buying was just as free and eager as the selling.

What does all this mean? It means that we have entered upon an industrial revival which is as yet in its incipient state. Of course in the end the speculative interests will overdo the conditions, for earning capacity is the gauge of every security's value. But we have not neared the end yet. We have no more than touched its opening phases. At the threshold it is possible that we may meet disappointment. Should the rumors and outcroppings of opinions as to the probable course of the Administration with regard to currency reform prove correct, industrial revival after a brief course will fall into that old, dull, fitful, creeping state of affairs that we have experienced during so many recent years We do not believe these rumors are to be trusted. We believe the party in power, now that it has the power, will go forward in spite of enemies in the camp or out of it, and redeem its pledges.

Indeed, as we write, we see Mr. H. H. Hanna, Chairman of the Indianapolis Sound Money Convention, declared, at the Chamber of Commerce meeting Thursday, that President McKinley's purpose had not changed a bit. Mr. Hanna's statement was that on Tuesday of this week when he asked the President what he could say to the people when he went back to the West to begin his work, the President replied: "You can say that I stand for monetary legislation and I am determined that every pledge the Republican Party ever made along this line shall be kept." That statement obviously means all that any sound money advocate could desire. It does not mean that the bill before the House will be pushed; it would be senseless to force through the House a measure that every one knows will in the Senate meet an insurmountable obstacle which the conditions already fixed tell us will be removed in a few months. Moreover, it would be endangering the whole movement for sound money to attempt legislation at the coming session; for the House bill once in the Senate would most likely be saddled with a 16-to-1 amendment or with, what would be worse, a silly compromise. Legislation ending in such a fiasco would disturb business and thoroughly disgust the public with currency reform. Besides, recent developments show that the country has outgrown that bill. The best opinion looks for an early meeting of the new Congress soon after the 4th of March, and for the passage of a measure better and more simple than the report the Banking and Currency Committee has made to the present House, but attaining, only by a shorter road, the same ends sought by it.

This statement of the President will satisfy the people that they are not to be jockeyed with this time; and so long as the outlook for currency legislation is interpreted by the public as ensuring within a reasonable period satisfactory action, that question can have no harmful influence upon industrial development. In the meantime, too, the evidences of expansion in business operations day by day are being disclosed and will be accepted not only as a present fact, but likewise as correctly forecasting future growth; that is, as indicating a like progressive movement during coming months. How material the development now in progress has recently been is proved by all the ordinary records of business activity. Clearings, measured in periods of three months, have shown steady increases this year since the decline in April; the total for November, notwithstanding there were two holidays in the month, reaches $6,473,734,355, which is not only the largest total for any month in 1898 but the largest ever recorded, and contrasts with $4,972,366,528 in April last. Moreover the November total ($6,473,734,355) and the average monthly total for the 11 months ending with November 1898 ($5,592,977,781) are both larger than any corresponding totals in our records. Of course comparisons with previous years are to some extent inexact, because cities are added to our list whenever new Clearing Houses are organized. In this way it happens that to-day's figures cover 81 cities, whereas the 1891 figures covered only 61 cities. It is to be said, however, that the clearings of new places added are as a rule quite small, and the amount reported by each represents but a trifling percentage of the aggregate of all. Moreover, since 1892 there have been only 9 cities added and only 3 since 1893. On the other hand, and more than offsetting the exchanges of these new cities, is the work since 1892 of the New York Stock Exchange Clearing House in reducing the business theretofore done by the New York Clearing House Association. Indeed were we able to estimate and make allowance for the loss to bank clearings resulting through this organization for clearing stocks, our comparisons with the more recent years, during which our list of cities has been almost stationary, would be far more striking even than they appear above.

Railroads likewise are just now affording evidence not only by their large earnings of business activity, but in one direction at least of the forceful position they hold as reproductive agents. They always through their earnings directly represent industrial revival. That aspect in their affairs, as every one well knows, is at the moment peculiarly striking and is doing more than all things else to stimulate activity in the security markets. But it was their bearing upon future development in other departments of trade that we had in mind to refer to. Our readers are familiar with the wonderful expansion made in iron production this year; consumption, too, has been equally surprising and has kept well abreast with production. Within the month just closed the railroads have begun to add to this consumption by putting out large orders for steel rails. These orders were for needed current repairs and other work on old lines. They do not, though, cover the sort of work that promises to furnish during the ensuing year the chief requirement for rails; plans are in hand and contracts are being entered into which make it evident that considerable new track is to be laid, that railroad building will be undertaken in 1899 to a much larger extent than in any recent year. This is likely to be an important movement in industrial affairs the coming twelve months. It not only gives promise of a further development of our already phenomenal iron production, but, as the spring opens, of new employment for labor in building road and laying rails and of new activity in all allied departments of trade. Railroads are but one department—a conspicuous one to be sure—but only one of the many which might be cited as indicative of the new spirit of enterprise that is abroad and at work.

The announcement that the Union Pacific Railroad Company is to absorb the Oregon Short Line by an exchange of its common stock for the shares of the Short Line, will serve to define clearly the relations between those two properties. The act of acquisition, however, is not to be taken as a new development or as introducing a new factor in affairs. It is only the method of carrying out or perfecting the acquisition that constitutes a new feature. The fact that a large block of Short Line stock was held in the interest of the Union Pacific has been well established for a long time. The aggregate amount of Short Line stock is $27,460,100. Of this $8,460,000 was purchased last year by the Union Pacific Reorganization Committee from the Morgan trust, and in March of the present year it was stated that enough more of the stock had been acquired by the Committee to give practically a controlling interest. The only open question since then has been as to the method of financiering the acquisition. It will be admitted, we think, that the method adopted of providing for the purchase by an issue of stock rather than by an issue of bonds is wise and conservative. Control of the Short Line of course carries with it the ownership of that company's holdings in the securities of the Oregon Navigation Company. The Short Line owns $16,281,400 of the $24,000,000 common stock of the Navigation Company. This however does not necessarily give control of that property, since there is also $11,000,000 of Navigation preferred stock, which, under the voting trust, elects two-thirds of the board of directors. A majority of this preferred stock is held in the interest of the Union Pacific, the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific, thus giving these three companies joint ownership of the Navigation. As far as the Oregon Short Line is concerned, the matter of importance to connecting lines is whether with the Union Pacific in actual control the open gateway at Ogden will be continued, or whether the Union Pacific will limit through traffic to itself, as was formerly the case. The general belief is that the open gateway will be maintained.

The Texas roads have been successful in their fight against the arbitrary action of the State Railroad Commission in seeking to compel them to move freight at non-paying rates. It will be remembered that on October 31 Judge McCormick in the United States Circuit Court at Dallas issued a temporary restraining order enjoining the roads from putting into effect the latest cotton schedule of the Commission, which was but little short of confiscatory. Up to that time the railroads had been very conciliatory in their attitude and had adopted the various rate schedules of the Commission promulgated from time to time since 1894, even though the schedules involved important losses in revenues. But when on top of all the previous reductions the Commission ordered a still further reduction, the roads thought it time to resist and see whether application to the Court would not secure for them that justice which was denied to them at the hands of the State Board. They had no difficulty in convincing the Court that the proposed cotton tariff was unjust. At the same time they were desirous of having the Court pass on the previous rate orders of the Commission, issued since the decision of the United States Supreme Court in 1894, and accordingly they gave notice that on the 10th of November they would make application for a general injunction. The date was subsequently postponed to November 21, at the request of the Attorney-General of the State. Since then the hearing has been going on before the Court, and very elaborate arguments made both on behalf of the railroads and the Commission. These arguments have filled columns of the Texas papers daily. Finally, on Thursday evening of this week, Judge McCormick rendered his decision, and, according to a dispatch to the "Sun" of this city, it seems to be a sweeping victory for the roads. He enjoins the Commission and all others from enforcing "any" rate made by the Commission since August 10 1894. The ruling it will be seen is very broad, and its beneficial effects on the carriers can hardly be exaggerated. For the first time in over four years they will be free from the thraldom in which they have been held, and will be at liberty to develop their business according to the requirements of trade and the dictates of common sense.

The distinction between the character of the returns of railway earnings here in the East and those in the West and South, to which we have several times of late directed attention, is still noticeable in a marked degree. In illustration we may point to the reports received this week for the month of October, which are highly favorable in the case of Southern and Western roads, and indifferent or adverse in the case of Eastern roads. As types of the former we may refer to the Milwaukee & St. Paul, with $498,609 increase in gross and $306,677 increase in net; the Burlington & Quincy with $276,956 increase in gross and $198,516 increase in net; the Atchison, with $299,888 increase in gross and $227,437 increase in net; the Union Pacific, with $267,268 increase in gross and $307,892 increase in net; and the Louisville & Nashville, with $234,432 increase in gross and $192,941 increase in net. On the other hand, as we approach the Atlantic seaboard, the comparisons change materially. The anthracite coal roads, for well-known reasons, belong in a class by themselves. Some of these record improvement on their railroad operations, but all seem to have contracted their mining operations very materially. On the railroad and mining business combined, the Reading shows net of only $1,164,865 for November, 1898, against $1,367,670 for November 1897, and the Lehigh Valley net of only $903,661, against $1,050,291. The Central of New Jersey on its railroad business shows a small increase in both gross and net —$14,319 in the former and $32,297 in the latter. The Erie, which is both a trunk line and an anthracite coal road, reports $153,145 decrease in gross and $42,970 decrease in net.

The Pennsylvania Railroad—certainly a representative road in this part of the country—also reflects only moderately favorable conditions. There is improvement over a year ago, but it is small; on the lines east of Pittsburg & Erie $5,000 increase in gross and $68,700 increase in net, and on the lines west of Pittsburg & Erie $4,300 increase in gross and $121,400 increase in net. These results, however, must be regarded as highly satisfactory, all things considered. We know that the rate situation was very bad, and we imagine also that the road had a smaller grain tonnage. At the same time, the present increase follows very notable gains a year ago, when on the combined Eastern and Western lines there was an improvement of $960,000 in gross and of $453,100 in the net. The following furnishes a comparison for the Eastern lines for a series of years.

One important feature of the week has been the resumption of engagements of gold in London for shipment hither. Such engagements were interrupted the latter part of October by reason of the financial tension at Berlin, and since then the movement hither from Europe has been comparatively unimportant. The renewal of the engagements has been caused by the fall in exchange under the pressure of offerings of commercial bills against cotton and breadstuffs, the fall being accelerated early this week by offerings of drafts against purchases on Monday of securities for European account, which buying was stimulated by the acceptance by Spain of the Peace ultimatum. At the same time there was a supply of cable transfers drawn by Speyer & Co. against Southern Pacific securities. This combined pressure of bills, with a concurrent absence of demand, forced exchange rates to the gold-importing point, and hence the engagement on Wednesday by Morton, Bliss & Co. of £200,000, which was withdrawn from the Bank of England on that day for shipment by the Majestic. Thursday it was announced that this withdrawal failed to reach that steamer in time for shipment and that it will leave to-day on the Umbria. There was an inquiry on Saturday last by the Bank of British North America regarding terms on which £100,000 gold could be procured in London, but gold bars were then held at 77s. 11d. per ounce while American gold coin was correspondingly high, and at the current rate of sight exchange the importation was found to be unprofitable. A further fall in sight exchange rates to 4·8460 on Monday was in good part counteracted, so far as gold imports were concerned, by a rise in the price of gold bars in London to 77s 11½d. and by a further advance in coin, and it was then reported that this price was being bid by German bankers for bar gold for Berlin, and therefore the metal could not be taken for New York at a profit. On Wednesday, though sight sterling fell one quarter cent, the price of gold bars in London advanced to 78s. ¼d. and American coin to 76s. 6½d. per ounce, thus apparently placing gold beyond the reach of New York importers. But the announcement of the engagement by Morton, Bliss & Co. showed that there was a profit on the transaction, for the gold was imported as a regular business transaction, simply because the results would be more satisfactory than would be the purchase of exchange at the market rates.

That gold imports were likely sooner or later has been evident since the middle of November. But in view of the fact that the effect of the engagement of £200,000 gold on Wednesday for New York and of the taking also from the Bank on Wednesday of £500,000 for Germany was to advance the open market discount rate in London to 3⅝@3¾ per cent against 3¼ per cent on Monday, and in view also of the successive advances in the price of gold which have resulted from the inquiry and movements of gold for Germany during the week, a flow of gold to New York remains an uncertain problem. Of the $249,307 arrivals of gold at the Custom House this week, $139,925 consisted of foreign gold coin by the Bremen steamer, consigned to the National City Bank. It is reported that $1,000,000 in gold coin was shipped to Havana by the Orizaba, which left this port on Wednesday.

Money on call, representing bankers' balances, has loaned at 2 per cent and at 2½ per cent during the week, with the bulk of the business at 2¼ per cent, and the average slightly above 2¼ per cent. Banks and trust companies quoted 2½ per cent as the minimum early in the week, but on Wednesday and thereafter the larger banks and the principal trust companies reduced the minimum to 2¼ per cent. Brokers report a liberal supply of money offering on time, and much of it comes from Eastern cities, while some is from Chicago and nearer-by Western points. The demand is said to be quite moderate, and rates are 3 per cent for sixty days to four months and 3½ per cent for five to seven months, on good Stock Exchange collateral. The volume of commercial paper offering is comparatively small, while the demand is excellent, not only from the city but from out of town. Boston and other Eastern buyers are in the market for paper and the Western inquiry is good. Rates are 3¼@3½ per cent for sixty to ninety-day endorsed bills receivable, 3½@4 per cent for prime four to six months' single names, with some sales of exceptionally choice four months' at 3 per cent, and 4@5 per cent for good four to six months' single-name paper. The transfers of currency through the Sub-Treasury have been light, and the bank interior movement has been generally toward this city. Bankers still seem to be of the opinion that there should be at least a moderate degree of activity in money in the near future, as the result of the comparatively low bank reserves, but brokers feel convinced that money will be fairly easy until toward the end of the year. It is announced that the Sixth National Bank has been sold, by the Gallatin Bank interests, which control the Sixth National, to interests controlling the First National and the Astor National banks.

The feature of the week in European political circles has been the acceptance by Spain of the final terms of peace imposed by the United States. The Commission is now engaged in perfecting the Treaty of Peace and it will probably be speedily signed. The Bank of England minimum rate of discount remains unchanged at 4 per cent. The cable reports discounts of sixty to ninety day bank bills in London 3½@3⅝ per cent. The open market rate at Paris is 3 per cent and at Berlin and Frankfort it is 5¼@5½ per cent. According to our special cable from London, the Bank of England lost £787,380 bullion during the week and held £32,189,673 at the close of the week. Our correspondent further advises us that the loss was due to the export of £909,000 (of which £599,000 were to Germany, £250,000 to the United States, £50,000 to Montevideo and £10,000 to Santos), to receipt of £16,000 net from the interior of Great Britain and to the import of £106,000, of which £98,000 were from the Cape and £8,000 from France.

The range for nominal rates for exchange was from 4 82½ to 4 83 for sixty day and from 4 85½ to 4 86½ for sight on Monday. On the following day the range was from 4 82 to 4 82½ for the former and from 4 85 to 4 86 for the latter, Brown Brothers quoting the lower rates; but in the afternoon these bankers advanced the sight rate half a cent, and the range thereafter was from 4 82 to 4 82½ for sixty day and from 4 85½ to 4 86 for sight. Rates for actual business opened on Monday at a reduction compared with those at the close on Friday of last week of one quarter of a cent for long and short, to 4 81½@4 81¾ for the former and 4 84½@4 84¾ for the latter, while cable transfers were reduced half a cent, to 4 85@4 85¼, and the market was weak, due to the influences above noted. On the following day the market was easy, and while rates for actual business in long sterling were unchanged, those for short sterling and cable transfers were reduced one quarter of a cent, to 4 84¼@4 84½ for the former and to 4 84¾@4 85 for the latter. On Wednesday the market was steady and the only change in rates for actual business was a reduction of one quarter of a cent in long sterling, to 4 81¼@4 81½. On Thursday the tone was firm, with only moderate transactions, and while rates for actual business in long sterling were unchanged those for short sterling and cable transfers were advanced one quarter of a cent, to 4 84½@4 84¾ for the former and to 4 85@4 85¼ for the latter. It was reported that there was a good inquiry for seventy-day bills for investment and that these were being exchanged for drafts which would run to sight early in the current month. There was a perceptible relaxation in the pressure of cable transfers. The market was barely steady on Friday. Rates for actual business in long sterling were advanced one quarter of a cent, while those for short sterling and cable transfers were reduced one quarter of a cent. The following shows the daily posted rates for exchange by some of the leading drawers.

RAILROAD POOLING IN ITS RELATION TO RAILWAY RATES.

The series of papers on railway transportation questions by H. T. Newcomb, which have been appearing in the "Railway World" of Philadelphia, have been reprinted in book form.* They are well worth reprinting. The author is Chief of the Section of Freight Rates in the Division of Statistics of the United States Department of Agriculture, and in that capacity rendered important services recently in compiling very extended and comprehensive tables showing the great reductions that have been effected during the last two or three decades in the transportation charges of United States railroads. By these tables he clearly demonstrated that important though the decline in the price of farm products has been during this period, the decline in railway charges has been very much more rapid. There was of course nothing new in that fact. But the work was very thoroughly done, and there was great advantage in having authentic information of this kind come through a department of the Government devoted to the interests of the agricultural classes, thus disseminating useful knowledge among those most in need of it.

This reference to the author's compilations regarding railroad rates is pertinent as showing his complete familiarity with one of the most important elements in the railway problem, which is so urgently pressing for solution. The book now before us attempts a scientific analysis of railway transportation in its relation to industrial development in the United States. While only a small work, its merit is such as to ensure for it a conspicuous place with the standard literature on railroad subjects. No student of railroad questions certainly can afford to ignore it, for it is an intelligent and rational discussion, in unconventional form, of the subjects treated. The title—"Railway Economics"—conveys no definite idea as to its contents; indeed it is not easy to indicate in a few words what its scope is with any degree of precision. In the language of the preface, the work is "intended to present the principal facts which establish the position of railway transportation in the present organization of industry in the United States, with only so much of comment and discussion as seemed absolutely necessary in order to define the relations among those facts."

A considerable part of the book is devoted to a discussion of the subject of rates and the causes and agencies that have contributed to their decline. The author takes the position that the independent competition of the separate roads has been a much less important factor in this decline than is generally supposed, and that the public has nothing to gain, but rather the reverse, from the continuance of such competition. Hence, that the Inter-State Commerce law and the efforts to prevent pooling and other arrangements for the regulation of rates rest on a fallacy and misconception. He says that a thorough and impartial examination of the circumstances attending the decline in the average charges for railway service will show that the efficient cause of rate reductions has been the competition of rival commercial centres, markets and producing regions, and that the "pseudo" competition, as he calls it, among railway routes connecting the same localities, though producing reductions more or less permanent in through or competitive charges, has actually prevented a progressive decline in the average rate representing both local and through traffic. The distinction between these forms of competition, he well says, is very important, particularly in view of the fact that the popular belief that the competition of the second form has a substantial regulative effect on railway charges has been the prolific parent of much unwise and positively detrimental restrictive legislation.

In discussing this phase of the question, he observes at the outset that however efficient competition in either form may have been in securing to the public the benefits of cheaper transportation, it would have been impotent to produce permanent reductions of the magnitude of those which have actually occurred had not circumstances permitted the corporations engaged in railway transportation to furnish their services at lower cost to themselves. In the first place the increase in the volume and density of the traffic has necessarily made it possible to move traffic at a lower cost per unit of service. There are many items of expenses that by no means vary in the same ratio as traffic. The obvious consequence is that each increment of traffic permits the distribution of expenses among an increased number of tons and of ton-miles, and thus reduces the average amount of cost assignable to each. The efficiency of railway service has steadily increased during the last two or three decades through physical improvements of great importance. The substitution of steel rails for iron rails, made possible through the great reduction in the price of steel, has been one of these improvements. Heavier locomotives, bigger cars and faster and larger trains are secondary consequences of the reduced cost of steel rails, and these increase the efficiency of the train as a machine for moving commodities. The administrative economies established are too numerous to mention, but have all tended in the same direction. At the same time there has been no decrease in the wages paid railroad labor, but instead an increase.

Not only has the public received all the benefits resulting from the cheapening of the cost of the service, but it has also received the benefit of the lowering of the rate of interest on the bonded indebtedness of the railroads. The author makes only incidental allusion to this saving from the decline in the rate of interest, but in our estimation it has really been one of the most important elements permitting a permanent reduction in the charges for railway transportation. Twenty to twenty-five years ago 7 and 8 per cent bond issues were still common on the best of roads; now we have come down to 4 per cent, and even to 3½ per cent in a good many instances.

As already stated, it is the author's contention that competition among markets and producers furnishes the true explanation of the great decline in transportation rates which has occurred. Every producer who desires to extend his business or increase his income perceives that in order to secure a wider market or to obtain greater profits in those already reached, it is only necessary to obtain lower rates on his shipments. But any concession of this kind made to one shipper invariably inspires demands for similar reductions not only on the part of competitors in the same locality but on the part of others in distant regions whose products meet with those of the locality affected by the initial reduction in a common market. Whether salt from Kansas or from Michigan shall be consumed in certain sections of Iowa and other Western States is determined by the relation between the rates imposed for transportation to the consuming region from the salt-producing sections of the former States. Boots and shoes manufactured in Chicago or St. Louis meet with those from the Atlantic seaboard on equal terms in every community to which the respective charges for transportation plus cost of production in each related locality produce equal sums, and not infrequently the manufacturer finds the former element more readily controllable than the latter. To illustrate his remark, the author points to the commercial rivalry of New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Baltimore, each seeking to add to the volume of its export trade. It is his opinion that this has been much more effective in inducing the present low rates for moving grain to these ports than the more or less continuous competition among the railways serving them.

Reference is also made to the great waste attending competition between individual carriers—the large commissions paid to secure traffic, the expense incurred in maintaining joint agencies, the competition of long, circuitous and commercially illegitimate routes, the running of unnecessary trains, and the duplication of service in various other ways. As one instance of this latter, it is noted that forty-four trains leave Chicago for New York every day. By reason of these unnecessary and useless expenditures rates must obviously be higher than they otherwise would be. Accordingly, every one will agree with the statement that "whenever it becomes possible, by means of the adoption of wiser principles, as the basis of regulative legislation, to eliminate from the cost of railway operation these economically useless and wasteful expenditures, now reluctantly incurred in consequence of vicious laws which are intended to perpetuate competition among railway carriers, the saving thus effected will accrue to the benefit of the general public through further reductions in rates which will thus be permitted to result from the action and inter-action of commercial forces." A further fact which cannot be ignored is that far the greater number of railway stations are dependent upon single railway lines, and that the larger portion of railway traffic has no alternative route available. "To these stations and this traffic the relation of the railway corporation is that of a monopoly, and from them the latter can and will, within certain limits and with certain qualifications, recoup all losses that may be sustained at the comparatively few points and in carrying the relatively inconsiderable traffic with regard to which there is actual competition."

It is also shown that it is impracticable to prevent unjust discriminations in charges for railway service by any method that does not effectually limit competition, and that no such limitation is possible while rates for similar services are independently made by the officers of separate corporations. Competition may of course be checked by general consolidation, and it must be admitted that considering the salutary results already secured through the process of unification, the desirability of its continuance seems proven. But the author well says that to admit that unification of the railway system may be desirable is very different from agreeing that a natural process apparently leading to that result should be artificially stimulated. Indeed, one may go further, he argues, and declare that consolidation, if unduly stimulated, may develop dangers of a serious character. It is unduly stimulated when, by restricting or withdrawing the privilege of entering into contracts among themselves, it is made the only means of harmonizing the interests of railway corporations. The conclusion therefore is, that so long as the provision forbidding pooling remains in the Federal statutes, unjust discrimination will continue, and the process of railway consolidation will be unnaturally, perhaps harmfully, stimulated.

There are chapters in the book showing how "socially unprofitable" transportation may occur, and dealing with various aspects and branches of railway affairs, such as capitalization, taxation, construction, income, etc. The chapter justifying a greater charge for a short haul than for a long haul, where the conditions warrant such a discrimination, treats the matter from a somewhat different standpoint than that ordinarily adopted. With reference to taxation, figures are adduced to prove that the burden on the roads has been an increasing one. It is shown, too, that the effect of the imposition of excessive taxes may easily be detrimental to the communities adopting such a course. For so far as these taxes tend to increase the cost of transportation, the result must be to limit the area within which commodities can profitably be marketed. As a consequence, any community which taxes the transportation agencies by which it is served more heavily and vigorously than those which serve competing regions are taxed, naturally places itself at a disadvantage in common markets.

AMERICAN DIPLOMACY.

The consent of the Spanish Commissioners to the American demand for the Philippines, which was formally granted at Paris last Monday, was accompanied by a species of protest against the terms of peace. The Commissioners for Spain affirmed their own unwillingness to admit the legal propriety of the required cession, declared the proffered indemnity of twenty million dollars to be inadequate, and stated their own position to be that of negotiators yielding only to superior power to avoid further loss of blood and treasure.

There is a strong element of the pathetic in this surrender—a surrender which virtually marks the end of a colonial career unparalleled in history for the dramatic circumstances of its rise and fall. It is not unnatural that many Americans should wish that the element of liberality on our own side might have been emphasized, even if strained a little, in this final chapter of the negotiations. But it ought not to be forgotten that the United States had to take all or none of the Philippines; that it would have been quite within the bounds of precedent, and within the terms of the protocol, if the islands had been demanded without compensation; and that, nevertheless, the sum of $20,000,000 had been offered in return for actual Spanish outlay on the islands. Since the Philippines have been a continual drain upon the Spanish exchequer, Spain's material position is certainly better than it was before. The case contrasts most strikingly, as we have hitherto pointed out, with the forced cession of Alsace-Lorraine by France to Germany, the Rhine provinces having been highly productive in taxes and service both to the army and the State. For these possessions the Germans paid nothing. The Spanish memorandum declaring that its negotiators have yielded only to superior force states a situation which necessarily exists with every defeated combatant. Spain has indeed had to give up more than it thought it would be compelled to surrender. But without the American war it is quite possible that Spain would have lost the islands irrevocably as a result of insurrection. As a diplomatic fact, the United States might have retained the islands and exacted from Spain a money payment of many millions in addition. The concluded negotiations, while they perhaps leave the Spanish Government worse off than it had hoped, certainly end more advantageously to Spain than they might have ended at the hands of another Power.

We have suggested these reflections in view of the tone of some foreign comment on the terms of peace. The criticism of our Government's policy by the continental press has not to be sure been uniformly unfavorable, but it has rather generally intimated that the United States has been unreasonably severe. The animus of such criticism, however, whether instinctive or deliberate, is invariably shown to rest in the resentment of the writers at the intrusion of a new Power into their own selected field. Coupled with this, not unnaturally, is a feeling of dislike at the rise of a new and strong colonial ally of England. We suspect that very much more severe exactions, made merely in regard to West Indian possessions, might have been made without calling forth similar objections.

Nor do we think that circumstances wholly warrant the further criticism from some European sources on our diplomatic policy in general. Recent Paris despatches, for instance, quote an officer of the French Foreign Ministry as contending that the "lack of diplomatic manners" among Americans will be a sure source of future trouble. There is ground for this criticism, we fear, if we may suppose it to refer particularly to some such recent unfortunate incidents as the correspondence between our country and Great Britain over the Bering Sea dispute and over the Venezuela matter. In these instances, however,

It is fair to recall that Mr. Sherman's blunt accusations about the fisheries were matched by Mr. Chamberlain's retort, while the sharp declarations of Mr Olney and President Cleveland in the earlier episode were perhaps partially provoked by the cynical tone of Lord Salisbury's messages in the matter. We have often expressed our own further opinion that such lack of formality in the exchange of State papers between England and the United States was explainable chiefly by the fact that no outright breach was regarded as a possibility, and that therefore no such breach was expressly guarded against.

But the question of our diplomatic capacity is so highly important in its bearing on our new responsibilities, that we think it worth while to review our record somewhat more extensively, in order to ascertain whether any real ground exists, even potentially, for such doubts. Not much can be inferred from the Peace Commission itself. That body has performed its duties with sufficient dignity and courtesy, and with a good deal of foresight in the matter of prescribing, so exactly as to avoid later dispute, the limits of the American demands. But the task of negotiators who dictate terms under precise instructions from a home administration, and who impose them on a completely defeated government, is on the whole the easiest in all diplomacy. The true test of diplomatic capacity and skill usually arises in cases where the negotiators' moves are not conducted before the public eye, and such a test was certainly provided by the labors of our ambassadors at foreign capitals during the early stages of the war.

The task of these envoys at all the capitals of Europe was infinitely more delicate and serious than the Anglo-American negotiations of 1897 and 1895. The position of the continental States regarding the Spanish-American war was not defined, but it was pretty clearly suspected that in some, at least, of these communities, the official disposition was unfriendly to the United States. It is true that the positive stand of Great Britain in our favor, and probably a negative stand on the same ground by Russia, were factors of the greatest possible importance. But after allowing for all such outside help, we believe even Continental critics will acknowledge that the course of events at all the foreign centres was such as to enhance our diplomatic reputation. The cordial relations continuously maintained by our envoys at the great continental capitals, not only with their fellow-diplomats but with the society of the cities, which so largely shapes public opinion, were of incalculable service in smoothing over possible causes of friction. On at least one occasion an incident which might have aroused the exasperation of the American people, or of the French people, or of both, was turned by a discreet order from Washington into an act of friendliness which went very far towards removing elements of misgiving. There was witnessed on these occasions certainly no lack of "diplomatic manners."

At the time, and in the light of events then occurring in the larger theatre of war, these incidents may have seemed trivial. They were, nevertheless, a highly important factor in our diplomatic position, both for the time and for the future. It is precisely this sort of amenities to which reference is made in such phrases as "diplomatic manners." As a historical fact, the successful diplomat is perhaps that one who gains the largest concessions for his government, and who averts most effectively the plans of hostile envoys. But even with this test applied, it will readily be seen that tactful conduct and the maintenance of cordial personal relations at a foreign capital are methods of policy both fundamental and indispensable. The Richeliens, the Talleyrands, the Metternichs and the Bismarcks no doubt achieved their highest successes because of their profound knowledge of human character and political tendencies; but with these eminent statesmen, equally with the great body of successful diplomats in the less exalted ranks of the service, the qualities of tact, common sense and courtesy were necessary preliminaries.

What our ambassadors achieved in this regard last summer, under somewhat trying circumstances, has been achieved in our Foreign Office on many previous occasions. It has been a familiar comment that our ministers to Great Britain have been successful, not because of any particular diplomatic skill, but because of the high position won by them in England from a personal and social point of view. They have been men, as a rule, of notable literary qualities; very successful as after-dinner speakers; much sought after at social and public gatherings. Gratified as our people have been by these achievements of our envoys, we have nevertheless been rather prone to argue that very different qualities would be needed for the real diplomat, and to forget that in reality our Lowells, Phelpses and Bayards were actually exhibiting the most important qualities expected, for instance, even from a British envoy at St. Petersburg or Paris. To win the confidence, respect and good-will of the people to whom he is accredited is, as we have shown already, the prime essential of a successful ambassador, without which all other qualities are likely to go for nothing.

The peculiar success of our foreign service in Great Britain—a service whose efficiency in averting friction and paving the way for this year's extremely important entente ought now to be universally recognized—has been due unquestionably to the fact that our ministers to London have been selected very rarely because of political connections, but because of their known adaptability to the requirements of the office. Whenever and wherever this criterion has been applied, our foreign service has satisfactorily met the test of circumstances. Readers of Mr. John Quincy Adams's published diary will understand what it meant to us in the troubled days of 1812 to have a Minister of high personal qualities and great personal tact, first at St. Petersburg and then at London. Benjamin Franklin was far from being a trained diplomat in the European sense, but his career in the Paris mission during our Revolutionary War is a most important chapter in the history of our Government. What might have happened in 1862 if instead of Mr. Charles Francis Adams we had placed in London some such representative as has too often been found in our foreign consulates, one does not like to think. In brief, the double lesson taught by our diplomatic past is that our people are perfectly well able to provide the material for efficient foreign ministers, but that the test of personal fitness, not of political claims, must hereafter be the single ground of selection. The past gives ample reason for confidence in efficient American diplomacy, but it shows also the possibility of bad judgment and failure, if diplomatic posts are ever to be awarded as the spoils of domestic politics. But the history of our English mission, we think, is bright with encouragement, not alone because of the successful occupants of the office, but because of the invariable acquiescence of people and even politicians in the proper principle of appointment.

VALIDITY OF MUNICIPAL BONDS PAYABLE IN GOLD.

The decision of the Texas courts affirming the right of municipalities to issue bonds payable in a specific kind of money, namely gold, possesses some features of general interest. The decision was in the case of the bonds of the city of Fort Worth, and we made brief allusion to it in our State and City Department on November 19. But the same question has been raised in the case of the bonds of other Texas municipalities, and for about a year past it has commanded a good deal of attention in the Lone Star State. In at least one instance not a little ill-feeling it seems was aroused by the proposition to make a proposed issue of a certain Texas municipality payable in gold. The City Council of the municipality in question, in passing the ordinance authorizing the bonds, inserted the gold-payment clause; the Mayor vetoed the ordinance because of that clause; the Council then passed the ordinance over the veto, and thereupon the free-silver contingent in the town, according to the newspaper reports, burnt the City Council in effigy.

The question as to the authority to provide for payment in gold arises out of the fact that there is no provision either in the Texas Constitution or the Texas statutes prescribing the kind of money in which the bonded indebtedness of municipalities may be discharged. It was this absence of express authority that led those opposed to gold payment to deny the right to pay in that way, while on the other hand those who took the affirmative view argued that the laws being silent, the matter was simply one of contract between the municipality and the bondholders. Mr. Robert R. Lockett, an attorney at Austin, and one of our Texas correspondents, early took decided ground in favor of the legality of the gold requirement, and in a paper prepared last April advanced strong arguments in support of this position.

In the Fort Worth case, where an authoritative and final ruling has now been obtained, the question first came up over a year ago. The city authorities of Fort Worth had brought suit against J. K. Winston to recover certain taxes alleged to be due the city for the year 1895 and to foreclose the tax lien on certain real estate belonging to said Winston. In his defense, Winston set up the claim that the greater portion of the tax which the city sought to collect had been levied to raise money to provide for the interest and sinking funds on the city's bonds and that these bonds were illegal and void. This contention as to the illegality of the bonds he rested on a variety of grounds, all of which have been declared untenable. We are concerned on the present occasion only with his objections against the proviso in the obligations requiring payment in "gold coin of the United States of the present standard of weight and fineness." He claimed that there was no special authority to make city bonds payable in a specific kind of money. Furthermore that as the city, under the law, must in collecting taxes accept any kind of money tendered by the taxpayer—be it currency, gold or silver—a bond with a gold clause attached is a contract which would or might make a municipal corporation, when judgment was rendered, a purchaser in the market for gold as a commodity, and that this was beyond its powers. He argued that the validity of the contract is dependent upon the capacity of the city to discharge that contract; that as it can not compel the payment of taxes in gold, and possesses no means of obtaining gold in the ordinary course, the contract could no more be discharged than if the city had agreed to pay in so much wheat, since the law does not authorize municipal corporations to deal in a commodity.

On the other hand on behalf of the city it was contended that as the Legialature has granted power to borrow money, and issue interest-bearing bonds therefor, the city authorities had the right to elect (unless there was a limitation in the city charter restricting the power to make the bonds payable in all kinds of legal tender) what kind of money the bonds should be made payable in. This latter view prevailed in the lower court, as it now has on appeal; for on November 6 of last year Judge Edward Gray of Dallas delivered his opinion upholding the validity of the bonds. From that ruling an appeal was taken, and Governor Culberson constituted a Special Court of Civil Appeals to decide the case. It is this Court which a short time ago (November 12 1898) conclusively settled the matter, and the "Galveston Daily News" has published the decision pretty nearly in full.

The Appeals Court notes that there are two distinct propositions of law involved. The first proposition was that the power given in the city's charter "to borrow money on the credit of the city and issue coupon bonds therefor" does not authorize its Council to borrow "gold coin of the United States of the present standard of weight and fineness," or to issue bonds payable in that medium. The Court finds itself unable to accept that view. It says there is some conflict of authorities, but the weight of opinion is against such a construction. Without attempting to argue the point, the Court announces its conclusion as follows: "We hold that the power to borrow money on the credit of the city and to issue bonds, given by the charter, is a general power, investing the authorities of the city with the discretion of determining the means to be used in the accomplishment of the end desired. And as, at the time, there existed and was current in the United States different kinds of money of equal legal-tender qualities, a discrimination as to the particular kind of money to be borrowed, or as to the particular medium of payment, was necessarily incident to the execution of the power granted." A long line of authorities is cited in support of this conclusion.

Nor can the Court see any merit in the second proposition, that bonds payable in gold coin of the United States of the present standard of weight and fineness are in legal effect obligations for the delivery of specific articles and hence are not money obligations, and as the city has only authority to enter into the latter class of contracts, it had no power to make the bonds. In support of this contention Winston had referred to the decision of the United States Supreme Court in the legal tender cases. But the Texas Court says the U. S. Supreme Court did not decide that in order to be a money obligation a bond must be payable in money generally. The Court was discussing the constitutionality of the Legal-Tender Act of 1862, and in holding that that Act did not impair the obligations of prior contracts in providing an additional medium of payment, the Court merely announced the rule that a contract solvable in money generally could be legally satisfied in any medium recognized as money by law at the time payment is to be made. "We do not believe that that Court ever intended to hold in any of its decisions cited by appellant that an obligation specifically payable in a particular kind of money current and recognized by law as a legal tender at the time the contract was made was not a money obligation, and was governed by the same rules of law in every respect as a contract to deliver specific property. The burdens of contracts payable in gold, such as the ones in question, may be greater than if payable in money generally, and some of the rules of law governing their forced collection may be the same as the rules governing the enforcement of contracts for the delivery of specific property, but they are nevertheless money demands as distingnished from contracts for the delivery of specific property, and we believe their execution is authorized under a general power to execute bonds for money. Such bonds were lawfully solvable in legal-tender money when executed, and it is the law in force at the date of the execution of the contract that controls its validity."

THE FIRST RAILROAD TO THE KLONDIKE.

Among the short railroads to be completed during the current year within the territory of the United States, one particularly is worthy of note. The line is only 22 miles in length, extending from Skaguay, on the coast of Alaska, to the international boundary near White Pass. While nominally the property of the Pacific & Arctic Railway & Navigation Company, its real control is vested in the White Pass & Yukon Railway Company. This latter is an English corporation whose line, as we shall see, is well started towards its northern terminus at Fort Selkirk, in the Klondike district, 312 miles from Skaguay and only 125 or 150 miles from the main city of Dawson, a point which from Fort Selkirk is easily accessible by boat. Indeed, reports just at hand indicate an intention to extend the system to Dawson and beyond to the Alaskan boundary; also to the Atlin gold fields.

Not only, therefore, will our little American road be the first to reach the Alaskan gold fields in the neighborhood of Skaguay, but it is to form the western terminus of the larger enterprise, by which the material welfare not only of the Klondike, so-called, but also of the entire civilized world may quite likely be in no small degree affected.

The White Pass & Yukon Railway Company at present has 16 miles of road in operation and expected to have its trains running over the difficult White Pass, 20 miles from Skaguay, by December 1, unless construction was delayed by unexpectedly bad weather. Considerable progress has also been made with the line on the other side of the summit, and if the weather is not more severe than usual, it is hoped by January 1 to have the road opened and trains running from Skaguay a distance of 35 miles to a place called Log Cabin, which is distant only about 8 miles from Lake Bennett, the head of river navigation for persons taking this northerly route to the Klondike. The line will be completed to Lake Bennett next spring, some time before navigation opens on the Yukon River, but in the meantime connection from the end of the line will be maintained by sleighs to facilitate the movement of the large amount of freight which is expected to be forwarded to the Lake ready for the resumption of river transportation. The descent of the river in boats, though requiring much time, will be the necessary mode of transit until the entire line can be put in operation.

Thirty-five miles of track as the result of seven or eight months of steady work seems at first sight a small record, but the conditions to be overcome were extraordinary. Indeed the remaining 277 miles, or eight-ninths of the entire road (as first projected to Fort Selkirk), is comparatively easy of construction and is expected to be completed in little more than the same interval of time that was required to build this short section of 35 miles. By the end of another year it has been hoped to have the line finished through to Fort Selkirk, together with a branch to the promising gold fields around Lake Atlin. The coast division, of which we have been speaking, has involved engineering difficulties of the first magnitude. From a point three miles from Skaguay the line is practically a niche cut in the rocky side of the mountains as far as the summit of White Pass, and in this short distance of 17 miles an altitude of 2,850 feet is attained. That this is accomplished without switchbacks, with no grades in excess of 206 feet (3·9 per cent) to the mile and no curves with a radius less than 358 feet (16 per cent), speaks well for the engineers in charge. The "Railway Age" of Chicago in two articles recently published regarding the road gives some striking photographs of the rocky barriers that have proved such serious obstacles to all attempting to reach the gold fields by this route and which stood in the way of the proposed railroad. In one place a cliff 120 feet high, over fifty feet long and 15 to 20 feet wide had to be thrown by blast into the hollow below to afford foothold for the rails, while a short distance beyond three tunnels, one of them 500 feet long, were necessary in order to pass an opposing buttress. The road is three-foot gauge and, it is said, solidly built Snow sheds are proposed that there may be no interruption to the traffic in winter.

Our readers will be interested to know that the 6 per cent first mortgage debenture stock of the White Pass & Yukon Railway was offered at par in London last August to the amount of £250,000. The proceeds of the issue will go to the contractors, who will also get £250,000 of the £1,000,000 capital stock in payment for the construction and equipment of the road over the White Pass to or near Lake Bennett. The balance of the share capital will be issued to the contractors in consideration for the charter rights and concessions over the entire line as projected and for supplying the company with working capital as provided in the contract. Additional debenture stock will no doubt be issued to meet the expense of building the remainder of the line, which, it was estimated, would not exceed $25,000 or $30,000 per mile. Strong names are connected with the project, so that its fulfilment seems assured. The difficulty of building the first division of the road would not of itself be reason for editorial mention; nor would the sentimental idea attached to one more invasion by railroad trains of a section of the globe seemingly the special property of Natu e—may we not say in this case, Nature's own "strong box?"—merit discussion. It is the commercial importance of the undertaking that has interested us. Many schemes have been suggested for bringing the Klondike into close connection with the outside world, but here is one that promises early realization. Even were the opinion of our London contemporary justified, which several months ago pronounced the debenture stock of the enterprise "as great a gamble as the mines in the district which it is intended to serve"—even were that statement justified, the undertaking would be noteworthy.

Our point is that the Klondike region has been and still is a place most difficult of access; that nevertheless a remarkable amount of mineral wealth has thus far been discovered there, and that the full value of its ore deposits can never be ascertained or its mines be thoroughly worked without the aid of railroad facilities. The Director of the United States Mint states that in the current calendar year to November first there was received at Seattle and San Francisco a little over $10,000,000 of Yukon gold. He adds: "Present rates for the conveying either of freight or passengers are practically prohibitive. With the most primitive railroad facilities, even, making it possible to transport provisions, lumber, etc., from coast to interior, the ratio of increase in the gold production, from $3,000,000 in 1897 to possibly $11,000,000 in 1898, might be expected for the year succeeding its completion." At all events, for a new district the addition the Klondike has made and is likely to make to the world's supply of the precious metal is on a remarkable scale and in the interest of a single basis for the currency of the world there is good reason for gratification upon the promised development of the country's resources through adequate railroad facilitities. In March last the lowest rate for the transportation of freight from Skaguay to Lake Bennett, about 43 miles by rail, was stated as $220 per ton, and even this was reported as much less than the summer tariff. Obviously, the railroad which can revolutionize such rates as this in a region like the Klondike is not without a future of importance.

COTTON CONSUMPTION AND OVERLAND MOVEMENT TO DECEMBER 1.

The marketing of cotton has made excellent progress during November, the amount brought into sight having been even heavier than in the same period of 1897, when the total was greater than ever before recorded in a single month. According to our statements, 2,353,009 bales came into sight through the ports, interior towns and the rail movement overland in the month this year, or 15,897 bales more than in 1897, when the aggregate was 2,337,112 bales; the total reached 1,634,210 bales in 1896 and 1,321,097 bales in 1895. The aggregate for the three months of 1898 is 5,634,381 bales, against 5,278,566 bales for the like period a year ago, 4,748,059 bales in 1896 and 3,585,613 bales in 1895. Northern spinners have taken 380,815 bales during the month, but their total takings for the season to date exhibit a decrease of 130,327 bales compared with last year.

OVERLAND MOVEMENT TO DECEMBER 1.

The gross shipments overland have been more during the month than in the like period of the preceding year, reaching 348,898 bales, against 327,943 bales last year, 228,696 bales in 1896 and 235,300 bales in 1895. The season's total is now 2,279 bales less than in 1897 and 61,353 bales greater than for 1896. The net overland for November is less than for the month of 1897, having been only 220,390 bales, against 244,205 bales, but there is an increase of 60,131 bales compared with 1896, when the aggregate was 160,259 bales. For the three months the aggregate net is 405,318 bales, a decline from 1897 of 56,732 bales, but compared with two years ago the gain is 7,512 bales. Presented in our usual form the results for the past three seasons are as follows:

RECEIPTS, EXPORTS AND SPINNERS' TAKINGS.

Receipts at the ports for November have been in excess of any preceding month in our record, reaching 1,861,619 bales, against 1,776,907 bales last year and only 1,286,251 bales in 1896. The aggregate for the three months is consequently 306,547 bales more than for the same period in 1897 and 627,810 above the total for two years ago. The outward movement of cotton has been extremely full in November this year, the total foreign shipments having been 1,398,505 bales, against 1,278,562 bales a year ago and 1,056,661 bales in 1896 and for the season to date the aggregate exports have been 2,820,074 bales, or 220,422 bales more than for the corresponding period of 1897. Contrasted with 1896 there is a gain of 470,334 bales. Port stocks have increased 287,964 bales during November and are now 268,244 bales more than on November 30 1897. Total receipts.....bales.	4,700,381	4,4[illegible]0,566	4,065,059
Southern consumption since September 1	339,000	298,000	261,000
Total to Nov. 1.....bales.	5,039,381	4,738,566	4,326,059

The amount of cotton marketed since September 1 in 1898 is thus seen to be 300,815 bales greater than in 1897 and 713,322 bales more than in 1896. To determine the portion which has gone into the hands of Northern spinners during the same period we have prepared the following:

Total receipts to Nov. 30, 1898, as above.....bales.		5,039,381
Stock on hand commencement of year (Sept. 1 1898):—
At Northern ports.....	61,054
At Southern ports.....	114,952— 176,006
At Northern interior markets.....	10,266— 186,272
Total supply to Nov. 30, 1898.....		5,225,653
Of this supply there has been exported to foreign ports since Sept. 1, 1898.	2,820,074
Less foreign cotton included ....bales.	8,637— 2,811,437
Sent to Canada direct from West.....	24,861
Burnt North and South.	642
Stock on hand end of month (Nov. 30, 1898)—
At Northern ports.....	248,559
At Southern ports .....1,162,778— 1,311,337
At Northern interior markets.....	13,254— 4,161,531
Total takings by spinners since Sept. 1, 1898.....		1,061,122
Taken by Southern spinners.....		339,000
Taken by Northern spinners since September 1, 1898.....		725,122
Taken by Northern spinners same time in 1897....		855,449
Decrease in takings by Northern spinners this year..bales.		130,327

The above indicates that Northern spinners had up to Nov. 30 taken 725,122 bales, a decrease from the corresponding period of 1897 of 130,327 bales, but a gain over the same time of 1896 of 8,510 bales.

AMOUNT OF CROP NOW IN SIGHT.

In the foregoing we have the number of bales which has already been marketed this year and the two previous seasons. An additional fact of interest is the total of the crop which was in sight on December 1 compared with previous years, and which is shown in the following:

Total marketed, as above....bales.	5,039,381	4,738,566	4,326,059
Interior stocks in excess of Sept. 1.	595,000	540,000	422,000
Total in sight ..... bales	5,634,381	5,278,566	4,748,059

This indicates that the movement up to December 1 of the present year is 355,815 bales more than in 1897 and 886,322 bales more than in 1896.

As it will interest the reader to see what has come into sight each month of the season during this and previous years, we have prepared the following, which shows the movement for the last four seasons.

It will be noticed that the movement up to Dec. 1 shows an increase in the average weight as compared with the same period of last year, the average this year being 516·40 lbs. per bale, against 508·05 lbs. per bale for the same time in 1897 and 503·08 lbs. in 1896.

DRY GOODS TRADE IN NOVEMBER.

Business in cotton goods during November has reached a considerable total, and at the close of the month there is a material improvement in the general tone. A continued demand for heavy brown sheetings and drills has kept these well sold ahead, very firm, and occasionally ⅛ advance realized. Leading makes of bleached cottons were reduced ½c. to lowest prices on record about the middle of the month, but the demand since then has been so good that there has been a slight recovery in values. In print cloths business has been on an extensive scale and with shortened production. Stocks have been brought down to a smaller figure than for some years past. Prices have advanced 1-16c. and still tend upwards. In dress cottons, such as prints and ginghams, the spring demand has been liberal. Retail trade is reported good, and with a growing impression that raw cotton is more likely to prove a strengthening factor than otherwise in the future, the trade outlook is regarded with a considerable degree of confidence.

Clearings by Telegraph.—Sales of Stocks, Bonds, &c.—The subjoined table, covering clearings for the current week, usually appears on the first page of the CHRONICLE, but on account of the length of the other tables is crowded out once a month. The figures are received by telegraph from the leading cities. It will be observed that as compared with the corresponding week of 1897 there is an increase in the aggregate of 20·4 per cent. So far as the individual cities are concerned, New York exhibits an increase of 30·1 per cent, and the gains at other points are; Boston 9·6 per cent, Chicago 6·5 per cent, Baltimore 21·2 per cent; New Orleans 1·6 per cent and St. Louis 0·8 per cent, Philadelphia records a loss of 2·2 per cent,

Monetary Commercial English News

LONDON, Saturday, Nov. 19.

While trade at home continues good, the foreign trade, as was observed last week, has been somewhat affected by the war apprehensions, and business on the Stock Exchange is as stagnant as ever. New York is buying American securities, especially bonds, in very large amounts, and Continental capitalists are purchasing first-class British securities, especially consols. But the British public itself is doing nothing. Speculation is paralyzed, as it has been for months past, and investment is upon a smaller scale than for many years.

There is, however, a more hopeful feeling this week, largely due to Mr. Chamberlain's speeches at Manchester. The effect of the withdrawal of Major Marchand from Fashoda was neutralized by Lord Salisbury's warnings at the Guildhall. But Mr. Chamberlain this week hints at an understanding with the United States, Germany and Japan, and naturally the public see more in his statement than perhaps it contains, and at once conclude that such a combination will compel France and Russia not only to keep the peace but to avoid all disturbing action of every kind.

Mr. Chamberlain's references to the United States have been hailed especially with joy by people in this country. We all wish to live amicably with other nations, but we do not care for an alliance with them. They are too military and their ways in politics are not our ways. Anything like an alliance, then, with any Continental Power would be distasteful. But it is entirely different with the United States. People here do not hope for an actual alliance. That would probably not suit either country. But a cordial, permanent understanding with a willingness on the part of each to help the other when necessary is the one great wish of the British people. The hope that such an understanding can be brought about has done much to calm the apprehensions that exist.

Still there is so much uncertainty that the public will not enter into any new risks. Everywhere bankers report that their customers are lodging money with them, unwilling to invest here. If, however, the political horizon clears, we shall probably see an extraordinary expansion of business. For three whole years now there has been exceedingly little doing. Few companies of any magnitude have been formed, there has been scarcely any speculation, and even investment has been on a small scale. All the time, however, saving has been going on, and the amount of money now lying unemployed is consequently immense.

Probably if political confidence revives, we shall have a large investment of British capital in the United States, in the Colonies, in India, Egypt and China. In any case there will be whenever confidence recovers a great increase in business.

Upon the Continent there is just as great stagnation as here at home. In Germany the liquidation of bad business is going on and will have to continue for months yet. But though it is generally expected that the stringency in the money market will continue to the end of the year, it is believed by the best informed that the real danger is passed. In the acute stage of the Fashoda dispute the great French banks, which have invested immense sums in Germany, began calling in their money. If that had lasted long there is little doubt that there would have been a crash in Berlin. But the French banks have stopped now withdrawing their money, and in the meanwhile the German banks have had two months in which to make all necessary preparations against contingencies. Serious danger, then, may be looked upon as passed. But of course there will be considerable losses, and especially there will be a very large lock-up.

In France there is paralysis of every enterprise, owing partly to the disputes with this country and partly to the Dreyfus affair and partly to the breakdown of Spain. In Spain itself bankruptcy is imminent. The general impression is that Spain will repudiate the Cuban debt, will probably settle with the holders of the Philippine debt out of whatever money may be paid by the United States, and will reduce the interest upon its own debt to 3 or possibly 2 per cent. At the same time, it is expected that a very heavy and stringent income tax will be imposed. Many great authorities say the tax will be at the rate of 10 per cent and other sweeping measures will be taken. All this is on the assumption that some kind of government can maintain itself and keep order. But many fear that the present dynasty is doomed, and that we shall see before long either a Carlist restoration or a military dictatorship. Few believe that the Republicans are strong enough to establish a Republic, or indeed that they are capable of maintaining it if it were set up.

In Italy there is a very slow and gradual recovery. In Austria-Hungary the intestine divisions of the nationalities have put a stop practically to all business that can be postponed.

The money market has become easy this week, contrary to all anticipation. Last week the Bank of England was borrowing in the outside market to get control of the market, and everybody assumed that is would continue to do so until it succeeded. But the great joint-stock banks were opposed to the policy, and it is rumored that the directors of the Bank of England itself were not agreed. At all events, borrowing has stopped, rates have fallen away, and the prospect of the Bank getting control of the market has for the time being vanished.

Perhaps the more hopeful view taken of foreign politics accounts for this to some extent. Perhaps also the stoppage by the great French banks in calling in money from Germany has likewise contributed, and perhaps likewise the honorable manner in which the Court of Cassation is conducting the Dreyfus case has had considerable influence. At all events the Bank is not borrowing and rates have fallen away.

In Germany the stringency continues and it seems likely the rate of discount will be raised to 6 per cent. In France there is comparative ease. Some little time ago it was thought probable that the Bank of France would put up its rate to 4 per cent. Now the belief is that it will not do so, and that early in the new year it will put down the rate to 2 per cent. That of course will depend upon the way in which the revision of the Dreyfus case goes and upon the result of the orisis in Germany. Assuming that everything turns out favorably, there will probably be a reduction in the rates both of the Bank of France and the Imperial Bank of Germany early in the new year and no doubt the Bank of England will follow shortly afterwards.

In the meantime, the India Council continues very successful in selling its drafts. It offered for tender on Wednesday 40 lacs and the applications exceeded 157 lacs. The whole amount offered was sold at prices ranging from 1s.3 29-32 to 1s.3 15-16d. per rupee.

WALL STREET, FRIDAY, DEC. 2, 1898.—5 P. M.

The Money Market and Financial Situation.—There has been no important change in the general conditions governing security markets this week. There was a steady demand from day to day for investment issues, both bonds and stocks, the result of which is higher prices for all classes of securities. In the bond department Government 3s made a new high record, Virginia fund. debt 2-3s of 1991 advanced to 1¼ points above their previous highest quotation this year, and some issues of railway bonds also advanced sharply. It is evident that there has been absorbed and taken out of the market considerable quantities of interest-paying securities during the last few weeks, and the demand at this writing shows no sign of abatement.

One feature of the week at the Stock Exchange was a largely increased activity in some of the speculative industrial shares. Business in this department, which has been relatively dull for a month or more, seems to be taking on new life, and the usual erratic movement in prices is noted. Another feature which attracted attention was lower rates for exchange and the engagement of gold in London for shipment to this country. The money market conditions at home and abroad do not favor such a movement, however, and it does not seem likely that gold in any considerable quantity will come this way at present.

The open market rates for call loans on the Stock Exchange during the week on stock and bond collaterals have ranged from 2 to 2¼ per cent. To-day's rates on call were 2 to 2¼ per cent. Prime commercial paper quoted 3½ to 4 per cent.

The Bank of England weekly statement on Thursday showed a decrease in bullion of £787,380, and the percentage of reserve to liabilities was 49·50, against 51·60 last week; the discount rate remains unchanged at 4 per cent. The Bank of France shows a decrease of 3,400,000 francs in gold and 4,925,000 francs in silver.

The New York City Clearing-House banks in their statement of Nov. 26 showed an increase in the reserve held of $764,300 and a surplus over the required reserve of $18,357,575, against $16,667,375 the previous week.

Foreign Exchange.—Rates for foreign exchange declined early in the week to the lowest quotations recorded during recent months and some engagements of gold for shipment to New York were made in London. On Thursday the market was firmer.

Railroad and Miscellaneous Stocks.—On a volume of business averaging nearly 500,000 shares per day, the stock market has been generally firm, with a notable advance in some issues. The market was irregular and somewhat reactionary to-day under sales to realize profits; and the best prices of the week, as mentioned below, have not been maintained in many cases. Arbitrage houses were active, the transactions including both purchases and sales, and indicating a speculative interest. The trans-continental shares have been conspicuous features. Central Pacific, on an unusual demand, advanced over 5 points and Union Pac. issues about 2 points.

The anthracite coal stocks have continued strong on rumors of a prospective favorable policy in the coal industry. Louisville & Nashville advanced to the highest quotation recorded in recent years on its improved traffic reports. Baltimore & Ohio preferred (when issued) and Southern Railway preferred advanced a point or more. The grangers were strong except North West., which declined when announcement was made that the dividend rate was not increased. Metropolitan Street Railway was a strong feature, advancing 6½ points.

Speculation is again active in the industrial stocks. Transactions in American Sugar Refining have been heavy and it advanced nearly 8 points. American Tobacco fluctuated over a range of 5½ points. United States Rubber shows a gain of 4 points on the increased demand for rubber goods. Federal Steel issues were strong on the large steel rail contracts and National Linseed Oil on reorganization prospects.

RAILROAD EARNINGS.

The following table shows the gross earnings of every STEAM railroad from which regular weekly or monthly returns can be obtained. The first two columns of figures give the gross earnings for the latest week or month, and the last two columns the earnings for the period from January 1 to and including such latest week or month.

The returns of the street railways are brought together separately on a subsequent page.

STREET RAILWAYS AND TRACTION COMPANIES.

The following table shows the gross earnings for the latest period of all STREET railways from which we are able to obtain weekly or monthly returns. The arrangement of the table is the same as that for the steam roads—that is, the first two columns of figures give the gross earnings for the latest week or month, and the last two columns the earnings for the calendar year from January 1 to and including such latest week or month.

Street Railway Net Earnings.—The following table gives the returns of STREET railway gross and net earnings received this week. In reporting these net earnings for the street railways, we adopt the same plan as that for the steam roads—that is, we print each week all the returns received that week, but once a month (on the third or the fourth Saturday) we bring together all the roads furnishing returns, and the latest statement of this kind will be found in the CHRONICLE of November 19, 1898. The next will appear in the issue of December 24, 1898.

This deficit is explained by the fact that a strike in the Ohio coal fields, which extended from about March 1 to the first week in May, entailed a great loss of revenues to the company and caused an increase in the price of coal used for fuel on the line. Also, during the month of March, 1898, a severe flood occurred in the States of Ohio and Indiana, which was extraordinary and unusual, and caused a direct loss by reason of the damage to the line of $77,000, and business was interrupted for four or five days, causing a further indirect loss. There has been charged to operating expenses this year $101,900 on account of loss and damage by floods and for the proportion of the damage of the floods of 1897.—V. 67, p. 1108.

Welsbach Commercial Co.

(Report for year ending Aug. 31, 1898.)

The circular issued by President Thomas Dolan under date of Nov. 17, furnishes the figures shown below for the late fiscal year and says:

"After paying dividends of 8 per cent on the preferred stock there remained undivided profits for the year of $7,729, which, added to balance carried forward from previous years, makes the undivided profit account Aug. 31, 1898, $53,390. At the directors' meeting, held to-day, a dividend of 1 per cent was declared, payable December 10, 1898, for which checks will be mailed. Your directors have deemed it prudent to reduce the quarterly dividend to one per cent until the final results of pending patent litigation are known, and the effect of the recent reduction in the selling price of lights and mantels has been fully ascertained. Since the reduction in selling price the sales have very largely increased."

The reports for the last two fiscal years in comparison with figures for the thirteen months ending Aug. 31, 1896, make the following exhibit:

American Thread Co.—Securities Offered.—J. & W. Seligman & Co. and the National City Bank of this city and the Bank of Montreal, at its main office and branches, and also various institutions in Great Britain, received subscriptions at par on December 1st and 2d (till 4 P. M.) for $4,000,000 5 per cent preferred stock and $4,000,000 first mortgage 4 per cent gold bonds of this new consolidation. The company was incorporated March 10, 1898, under the laws of New Jersey, and is authorized to issue capital stock to the amount of $12,000,000, divided into five-dollar shares, viz.: $6,000,000 5 per cent cumulative preferred shares (preferential as to capital as well as dividend, the dividends to be paid in gold in New York or in sterling in London at the fixed rate of 20s. 8d. per $5) and $6,000,000 shares of common stock, of which last it is expected that not more than $3 per share will be called at present.

The company is also authorized to issue first mortgage 4 per cent gold or sterling bonds, $6,000,000 in size of $1,000, $500 and $50, due Jan. 1, 1919, both principal and interest being payable in gold in New York or in sterling in London at the fixed rate of 20s. 8d. per $5. The bonds will be secured by mortgage in favor of the Guaranty Trust Co. of New York, as trustee, upon all the shares which have been or may hereafter be acquired in the undertakings hereinafter mentioned, together with all or any other property of the company. The interest will be payable on the 1st days of July and January in each year, the first proportionate payment to be made on the 1st day of July, 1899.

$6,000,000 of the common stock, $2,000,000 of the gold or sterling preferred shares and $2,000,000 of the first mortgage gold sterling bonds are reserved for issue to the directors and shareholders of the vendor companies and the members of the vendor firms and their friends and to J. & P. Coats, Limited, and the English Sewing Cotton Company, Limited.

Prospectus.—The company's prospectus says in substance:

This company has been established primarily to unite the undermentioned American manufacturers of spool, crochet, knitting, mending and other cottons, including in some cases the allied businesses of cotton spinning, doubling, twisting, dyeing, bleaching, polishing, spool-making, etc. With this view options to purchase the bulk of the common stock or the plants and stocks-in-trade of the under-mentioned companies have been obtained, and it is proposed at once to take up these options. The companies proposed to be included are as follows:

Estab'd.	Name and address.
1881.—Glasgo Yarn Mills Co., Glasgo, near Norwich, Conn.
1883.—Glasgo Thread Co., Worcester, Mass.
1863.—Hadley Co., Holyoke, Mass.
1881.—Kerr Th'd Co., Fall River, Mass.
1865.—Merrick Th'd Co., Holyoke, Mass.
1873.—National Thread Co., Mansfield, Conn.
1881.—New England Thread Co., Pawtucket, R. I. (includ. good-will and trade-marks of J. O. King & Co. in cotton-thr'd business.)
1834.—E. J. W. Morse Co., Boston, Mass. (including the patent rights, machinery and good-will of the Morse Machinery Co.)
1891.—Ruddy Th'd Co., Worcester, Mass.
1895.—Warren Th'd Co., Ashland, Mass.
1891.—Wm. Clark Co., Westerly, R. I.
1854.—Willimantic Linen Co., Willimantic, Conn.

The business of the above companies has for a considerable time been injuriously affected by excessive competition among themselves; and the cutting of rates having, during the past three years, resulted in a very large portion of the trade being done below cost of production, it was realized that a complete consolidation of the various interests was necessary to insure renewed prosperity. The advice and co-operation of the English Sewing Cotton Co. Limited having been sought regarding consolidation, the Chairman and Vice-Chairman of that company visited the United States and made a careful investigation into all the circumstances of the case. During their stay in America they examined the works of all the different concerns and are of opinion that the plants generally are in a high state of efficiency. At the principal mills they found the machinery to be of the most modern type; and the power, buildings, and appliances throughout to be well adapted for the special work required to be done. At the same time Messrs. Ernest Crewdson and S. R. Maw, of the firm of Jones, Crewdson & Youatt, Accountants, investigated in America the accounts of all the above-mentioned companies except one whose assets are small, and whose liabilities are not being taken over by this company; and except those of the Kerr Thread Co., whose balance sheet and certified abstract of accounts at 31st December, 1897, have been accepted by this company.

Having satisfied themselves as to the favorable prospects of this company, notwithstanding the fact that the profits of the recent past had been very small owing to the extraordinary cutting of rates referred to above, the directors of the English Sewing Cotton Co. Limited, on behalf of their company, have agreed to take up (at issue price of par) 320,000 shares of the common stock of this company, and to pay all calls thereon as and when made, in cash, on condition that the balance of the share capital and bonds be subscribed. Messrs. J. & P. Coats, Limited, have intimated that they will apply for 100,000 of the preferred shares, and the directors have reserved the same for allotment to them. Already, with the aid and through the instrumentality of the English Sewing Cotton Co., Limited, important readjustments have taken place which have established a largely increased income.

The companies above mentioned have in nearly every case loan as well as share capital, and it is estimated that the amount which this company will be required to pay for the purchase of the whole of the common and preferred stocks of the above-mentioned companies will be $11,017,630, and that the amount required to pay off the mortgages and other liabilities of such companies taken over by this company (as ascertained by Messrs. Jones, Crewdson & Youatt) will be $4,118,555, making together a total sum of $15,136,185.

The following are the aggregate values of land, buildings, machinery, plant and effects, stock-in-trade and book debts of the various companies above mentioned, as shown by their respective accounts (after making such deductions therefrom as are in the opinion of the Chairman and Vice Chairman of the English Sewing Cottou Co., Limited, fair and reasonable), also the cost of trade-marks, good-will, promotion, etc.:

Land, buildings, machinery, plant and effects	$7,000,053	Cost of trade-marks, patent rights, good will payable to the different companies and promotion, completing purchases, and formation expenses will be	$3,477,657
Stocks in-trade	3,447,051
Book debts	1,205,424
Total	$11,652,528

Making together the before mentioned amount of $15,136,185

On this basis the capitalization of $18,000,000 will be sufficient for the purchase of all the shares of common and preferred stocks or plants and stocks-in-trade and for the payment of all the mortgages and liabilities of the above-mentioned companies, as ascertained as aforesaid, and after providing ample working capital there will remain a surplus of at least $2,400,000 available as uncalled capital in reserve. Three of the directors permanently residing in the United States will be the executive committee, and the three managing directors of the English Sewing Cotton Co., Limited, have been appointed the governing committee. Where practicable it is intended that at least one partner or one director in each of the undertakings acquired by the company shall continue in responsible management.

The intended officers are as follows:

Lyman R. Hopkins (The Merritt Thread Co.), President.
Alexander King (The Barstow Thread Co.), Vice-President.
Theodore Milton Ives (The Willimantic Linen Co.), Treasurer.
Offices: 243 Washington Street, Jersey City, U. S. A.; Secretary (pro tem) L. L. Samuels, 7 Norfolk Street, Manchester, England.—V. 67, p. 1109.

Baltimore & Annapolis Short Line RR.—Bonds Sold.—The $325,000 new bonds offered at par by Alexander Brown & Sons of Baltimore were subscribed five times over. These bonds are part of an issue of $100,000 gold 5 per cents due Dec. 1, 1923, but subject to call at any interest period at 110. They are the first and only lien upon the property, rights, franchises, etc., of the Short Line Co., and also on 3,575 shares, out of a total of 3,580 shares, of the Annapolis Washington & Baltimore RR. Co., which property is unincumbered. The remaining $75,000 of the authorized issue are to be issued only if and as future requirements of the company may demand.—V. 67, p. 1002.

Baltimore Consolidated Ry.—New Stock.—The capital stock is to be increased from $9,172,000 to $9,672,000, to meet the expense incurred for the new line recently put in operation to Ellicott City. Present stockholders will be allowed to subscribe for the new issue at par in amounts proportionate to their holdings.—V. 66, p. 383.

Baltimore & Ohio RR.—Equipment Bonds and Receiver's Certificates Called.—The following receiver's certificates and equipment bonds are called for redemption and will be paid on the day named, Speyer & Co. having provided the necessary cash at a nominal rate of interest pending completion of reorganization:

	To Be Paid. Where.	When.

Leased Line Securities.—The Columbus & Cincinnati Midland bonds and Central Ohio stock are to be purchased by the Baltimore & Ohio Reorganization Committee and deposited under the plan as stated under the caption of those companies respectively.

Default.—The semi-annual interest due Dec. 1 upon the $4,500,000 Schuykill River East Side fives was not paid. The loan is guaranteed by the Baltimore & Ohio RR. and covers the connecting link of the Baltimore & Ohio and the Philadelphia & Reading lines in Philadelphia. The default is said to be simply technical, as under the B. & O. plan this is one of the issues which was to be dealt with separately. It is hoped that a speedy adjustment may be made which will yield the security holders as much for their bonds as they have heretofore sold for.—V. 67, p. 1108, 1109.

Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern Ry.—Reorganization.—At the recent annual meeting the following facts were made public regarding the financial plans of the company: "The progress of the reorganization of the Baltimore & Ohio RR. presents an opportunity for this company to determine its future relations with that reorganized company and to procure through the guaranty of its securities, etc., ample capital to complete the improvements proposed and place the property in a position where it can be successfully operated. Negotiations are now under way by the President and board of directors with the reorganization managers of the Baltimore & Ohio RR. Company. In order to meet present rate conditions the company should increase its motive power by securing a large number of heavier locomotives, at least 3,000 cars and expend at least $1,500,000 in the reduction of its grades, increase its sidings and remove the lighter rail from the line and replace it with heavier rail. It is estimated that the expenditure of at least $5,500,000 will be required to secure all the desired improvements and the property will then be in a condition to meet prevailing low rates and secure profitable operation."—V. 67, p. 1108.

Bangor & Aroostook RR.—Sale of Refunding Bonds.—This company has sold to Messrs. Brown Bros. & Co. and Lee Higginson & Co. $1,500,000 of 5 per cent bonds. A portion of the proceeds will be used to take up $600,000 six per cent bonds and $325,000 sevens of its leased line, the Bangor & Piscataquis, which mature April 1, 1899; also $300,000 Greenville extension fives due April 2, 1913. The remainder of the new issue will be used for improvements.—V. 66, p. 855.

Central Ohio RR.—Baltimore & Ohio RR.—Proposition Endorsed.—The stockholders of the Central Ohio RR. on Tuesday voted by a large majority to accept the new terms offered by the reorganization managers of the Baltimore & Ohio RR., namely the exchange of Central Ohio common and preferred stock for preferred stock of the reorganized Baltimore & Ohio, dollar for dollar, and a cash bonus of $7 50 per $50 share. Stockholders have until Dec. 5 to accept the proposition and to deposit their holdings with the Maryland Trust Co. of Baltimore.—V. 67, p. 1106, 1108, 1109.

Chicago Burlington & Quincy RR.—Bonds Called.—Iowa Division bonds dated Oct. 1, 1879, have been drawn by lot for payment, viz. 53 five p. c. bonds and 176 four p. c. bonds, all for $1,000 each. These bonds will be paid at the office of the company, No. 704 Sears Building, Boston, Mass., on April 1, 1899, at 105 per cent and accrued interest to April 1, 1899, for 5 per cent bonds and at par and accrued interest to April 1, 1899, for 4 per cent bonds.—V. 67, p. 839, 842, 851.

Colorado Midland Ry.—Bonds Called.—Fifty equipment bonds, Series B, dated Jan. 1, 1890, have been drawn for redemption.—V. 67, p. 1109.

Columbus & Cincinnati Midland RR.—Baltimore & Ohio RR.—Official Circular.—An official circular announces as follows the offer from the Baltimore & Ohio Reorganization Committee of 94 flat, in cash, for certificates representing the deposited bonds of the Columbus & Cincinnati Midland:

The bondholders' committee of the first mortgage bonds of the Columbus & Cincinnati Midland R.R. co. informs the holders of the certificates issued by the Guarantee Trust & Safe Deposit Co. for bonds deposited with it that they have received an offer for such certificates which in satisfactory to them and which they unanimously advise the holders to accept. The offer is at 85, to cash, and payment of all expenses of the committee not already reimbursed. All deposit contracts will pass with the bonds. This offer is conditional upon acceptance by holders of a majority of the bonds. All holders of certificates desiring to accept this offer must, on or before the 20th day of December, 1898, send the enclosed order and deposit their certificates with the Guarantee Trust & Safe Deposit Co., No. 316 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, which will issue a temporary receipts therefor. As soon as the assent of the holders of at least a majority of the bonds has been received by it, the Guarantee Trust & Safe Deposit Co. will be in a position to demand the agreed-upon price, and upon its collection will pay the same to those assenting upon surrender of its temporary receipts.

Bonds belonging to certificate holders who do not assent before Dec. 20, heretofore deposited with the Guarantee Trust & Safe Deposit Co., will be returned.

Holders of bonds not already deposited under the agreement of this committee can for the present deposit their bonds with the Guarantee Trust & Safe Deposit Co. upon the payment of a penalty of $20 per bond.—V. 67, p. 1108, 1109.

Columbus (O.) Street RR.—Called Bonds.—Twenty-one first mortgage gold 5s of 1899 issued by the Columbus Consolidated Street RR. have been drawn for the sinking fund, and will be paid at the Central Trust Co. on or after Jan 1, 1899, at 110 per cent, together with the coupon maturing Jan. 1, 1899.—V. 66, p. 857.

Columbus Sandusky & Hocking Ry.—Receivers' Certificates.—Judge Taft in the United States Circuit Court has authorized the receiver to issue $330,000 certificates to pay for equipment already purchased and for the purchase of 200 new coal cars.

Opposition to Plan.—The North American Trust Co. recently requested John G. Carlisle, Charles S. Hinchman and Joseph F. Randolph to investigate the subject of reorganization. The result of their inquiries is set out in a circular, which says, in substance:

"The title of the present corporation is open to so much question, the estimated indebtedness required to be met in cash contains such large items open to dispute, and the rentals for which the property is responsible are so heavy, that we cannot advise the North American Trust Company to identify itself with any substitute plan for reorganizing the company until the actual status of the property has been better defined and the rights of the general mortgage bonds thoroughly investigated."

Those persons who have deposited their bonds with the company may, therefore, if so disposed, withdraw their bonds, upon payment of the agreed sum. Certain of the depositors, however, have requested that their bonds might remain with the company, and that the gentlemen above named take steps for the protection of the bonds. Accordingly, if the holders of not less than five hundred of the general mortgage bonds shall sign the power of attorney submitted within ten days the gentlemen above named will comply with the request.—V. 67, p. 1100."

Denver & Rio Grande Ry.—Notice to Bondholders.—Notice is given that on Dec. 15, 1898, the privilege of converting the first mortgage 7s bonds into 4½s first consolidated mortgage bonds, as heretofore offered, will cease.—V. 67, p. 788.

Detroit & Lima Northern Ry.—Receivers' Certificates.—The report that the receiver has applied for the authorization of additional certificates is denied. Of the $500,000 heretofore authorized only $300,000 have as yet been issued.—V. 67, p 1109.

Essex & Hudson Gas.—Consolidated Gas of Newark.—Incorporated.—The Essex & Hudson Gas Co., with capital stock of $6,500,000, filed articles of incorporation this week at Newark, N. J. The incorporators are Thomas N. McCarter, Jr. of Newark, George S. Phillier and Elmer Smalling of Philadelphia. The offices will be at the present quarters of the Newark Gas Co. in Newark. The new company is the one referred to in the item touching the Consolidated Gas Co. of Newark in our issue of Nov. 12, page 1002, and there called the Essex & Union Gas Co., which was the name at first proposed. The object of the company is fully stated in that item from official data. See also item headed "Newark Consolidated Gas Co.," below.—V. 67, p. 1002.

Federal Steel.—Demand for Steel Rails.—President E. H. Gary on Monday said:

"The various steel companies have made contracts in the past two or three days to furnish more than 500,000 tons of standard rails. Fully 225,000 tons represent orders booked by the Federal Steel Co. through the Illinois Steel Company. The Carnegie Company has about the same amount of orders. The Illinois Steel Company's orders include 75,000 tons ordered by the Chicago & North Western RR., 35,000 tons by the Chicago Milwaukee & St. Paul RR. and 30,000 tons by the Illinois Central RR. We have received other orders, among them an export order for 500 tons of rails to go to Honolulu to be used in the construction of a Hawaiian railroad with eighteen miles of track. The shipment to Honolulu will probably be made from this port. Another sub-company of the Federal Steel Co., the Lorain Steel Co., has been receiving large orders for girder rails, the rails used in street railway construction. In general the steel rail outlook is of the most promising sort. We now have under consideration at least fifteen inquiries for rails from various interests."

Purchase of Stock.—Messrs. Flower & Co. confirm the reported purchase by them of a block of 30,000 shares of the company's preferred stock.—V. 67, p. 1008, 1009.

Flint & Pere Marquette Ry.—Bonds Sold.—Application has been made to list on the New York Stock Exchange $500,000 additional first consolidated mortgage 5 per cent gold bonds, which have been sold and their proceeds applied to payment of floating debt. The transaction is said to have placed the company financially in easy circumstances.—V. 67, p. 177.

General Electric.—Dividend.—The directors, at a meeting on Friday, directed the payment of a dividend of $17 50 on the preferred stock. This, with the dividend of $11 66 recently paid, represents one-half of the accumulated dividends on the old preferred. The dividend is payable Dec. 23d, the books being closed from Dec. 12th to 23d.—V. 67, p. 956.

Gunpowder Valley RR.—Sold.—This road, extending from Hoffman to Hoffmansville, Md., on the Western Maryland RR., a distance of three miles, was purchased at foreclosure sale on Nov. 19 by John Roney for $3,500.

International Silver Co.—Prospectus.—Prospectus says:

The company is a corporation of the State of New Jersey, with an authorized capital of $10,000,000, consisting of $3,000,000 preferred stock and $7,000,000 common stock, and has already acquired control of the following silver-plating companies: [Here follows the list given in the CHRONICLE last week, to which is added Manning, Bowman & Co., Meriden, Conn.] The output of these concerns represents over 70 per cent of the silver-plating industry of the country.

The amount of preferred stock issued and to be issued in the acquirement of the companies above mentioned is $4,250,000. The balance of the preferred stock, consisting of $1,750,000, will remain in the treasury, to be devoted to such purposes as the board of directors may from time to time determine. The amount of common stock issued in the purchase of these companies amounts to $4,000,000. The company has provided for an authorized issue of $4,500,000 6 per cent first mortgage bonds, of which only $3,150,000 have been issued. These bonds have been recently sold at par to a syndicate and proceeds used in purchase of properties.

This company, by the acquisition of the above concerns, has the right to manufacture the celebrated brand of Rogers Table Ware, and also controls the right to manufacture all inlaid silver specialties and forks, enjoying trade-marks of established favor, and having acquired all of the popular brands of silver-plated ware now in use in this country. The company has also a large sterling silver output, which will enable it always to control the sterling silver product of the low-priced manufacturers, which has heretofore competed with the sale of plated goods.

The object of this combination is not to raise the price of staple articles, but to restore a standard fixed price which formerly yielded a profit sufficient to pay dividends on all classes of securities, as shown by the books of the various constituent companies. A complete examination of the accounts of the incorporations and firms included in the new company, extending over a period of ten years, or for such length of time as they have been in business, has been made by the Audit Company of New York. The statement of the results shows that for the past ten years—during a period of most active competition—the average net earnings of the companies in the present combination have been more than enough to pay the interest upon the bonds and 7 per cent upon the preferred stock issued, leaving something for the common, to be greatly augmented by the economies effected by the combination of interests. The savings to be effected by the consolidation are estimated as high as $1,000,000 per annum, the largest being in dispensing with an unnecessary duplication of salesmen, stores, designers, machinists, etc.

A list of the officers was given last week.—V. 67, p, 1109.

Joliet Gaslight.—Mortgage for $300,000.—The company has filed a mortgage for $300,000 to the American Trust & Savings Bank of Chicago as trustee. The new bonds, it is stated, will be applied to the redemption of $225,000 old bonds and to the improvement of the plant.

Kodak, Limited — Eastman Kodak Co. — Eastman's Photographic Materials, Limited.—Stock of Consolidated Company Offered.—The Kodak, Limited, was recently organized under the English Companies Acts, 1862 to 1898, for the purpose of acquiring the business and property of the Eastman Photographic Materials Co., Limited, of London, including the shares of the German Eastman Kodak (Gesellschaft mit beschrankter Haftung) and the French Eastman Kodak (Societe Anonyme Francaise), and not less than 95 per cent of the shares of the American Eastman Kodak Co., thereby bringing under a single control all the Eastman Kodak companies, covering the whole world.

The capital stock of the Kodak, Limited, is £1,600,000, divided into 600,000 6 per cent cumulative preference shares of £1 each, with preference also as to capital, and 1,000,000 ordinary shares of £1 each. It is not intended to issue debentures or debenture stock, and there are no mortgages on any part of the property. It is proposed to pay dividends on the preference shares half-yearly on January 1 and July 1. One third of the issue of each class of shares was taken by the vendor in part payment of the purchase money, and in addition 63,154 preference and 382,928 ordinary shares were applied for by shareholders of the British and American companies, and will be allotted in full. The remainder of the capital stock was offered for subscription, viz., 336,846 preference shares at par and 233,742 ordinary shares at £1 5s.

Prospectus.—The prospectus says in part:

The company will acquire the valuable trade-marks Kodak and Solio, and will possess or control many valuable patents for Great Britain, France, Germany, Belgium and the United States of America, and of many secret processes and formulas. It will be possessed of extensive and completely equipped factories and business premises in Europe and America, and will have the services of the existing highly experienced staff. The employes in Europe and America number about 2,000.

Price, Waterhouse & Co. have examined the books of the Eastman Photographic Materials Co., Limited, and of the Eastman Kodak Co. of Rochester, U. S. A., and find therefrom that the profits of the two businesses, after charging all working and general expenses, including directors' fees, depreciation of buildings and plant, and cost of exhibitions in London and New York, but without charging interest on borrowed money or providing for the redemption of the cost of patents, were as follows: For the year ending Dec. 31, 1895, £49,856 13s. 4d.; 1896, £152,676 19s. 3d.; 1897, £185,232 0s. 1d., and for the six months ending June 30, 1898, £103,459 3s. 4d., the latter being an increase of 11½ per cent as compared with the corresponding period of 1897.

Price, Waterhouse & Co. furnish also the following summary of assets other than good will and patents as of June 30, 1898: Freehold land and buildings, £125,977 14s. 10d.; plant, machinery, tools, utensils, leases, fixtures, fittings and furniture, £128,968 19s. 10d.; stock in trade, £121,773 16s. 5d.; cash in hand and at banks, £41,740 8s. 6d.; book debts, bills and other assets, after deducting current trade liabilities, £133 19s 3s. 4d.; total assets, etc., £561,64 2s. 11d.

[NOTE.—Securities to the value of £98,660 have since been realized and the proceeds form part of the £150,000 cash working capital below mentioned.]

Taking the future profits as equal only to those of 1897 the revenue of the company will be more than five times the sum required to pay the preference dividend, and after payment of the preference dividend there will remain sufficient to pay 10 per cent on the ordinary shares and leave the sum of £14,234 for reserve fund, directors' fees and the small percentage of American profits to which the holders of shares in the American company not acquired by this company will be entitled. The cash on hand and at banks on Oct. 1, 1898, exceeded £150,000, and the vendor guarantees that the cash balances of the combined businesses shall not be less than that sum on Jan. 1, 1899. This amount is considered more than ample working capital for all purposes.

The services of Mr. George Eastman, the founder of the business and inventor of the Kodak, transparent films, etc., have been secured for a period of five years upon advantageous terms, and the company will be entitled to the benefit of all the inventions and discoveries in connection with photography he may make during this period.

Litchfield Carrollton & Western RR.—Sold.—At the foreclosure sale on Nov. 26 the property was purchased by P. M. Johnson of the firm of Johnson Bros. & Faught, railroad contractors, of St. Elmo, Ill., for $85,000. Hon. Bluford Wilson, representing Eastern capitalists, it is understood, bid as high as $80,000. The unpaid taxes, it is said, aggregate $15,000.

Mutual Gas Co.—Consolidated Gas Co. of New York.—Purchase of Control.—It is understood that a large block of the stock of the Mutual Gas Co., reported to be sufficient to carry control, has been purchased by interests identified with the Consolidated Gas Co., with a view to the ultimate bringing all the local gas companies of the city under a harmonious control.—V. 67, p. 578.

National Linseed Oil—American Linseed Oil Co.—Reorganization and Consolidation.—The plan for the reorganization of the National Linseed Oil Co. and its consolidation with the leading linseed oil companies of the United States has been practically completed. The plan provides for the organization of a new company under the laws of New Jersey which shall create $16,750,000 of common stock and $16,750,000 of 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock. This new stock will be applied as follows:

	Common.	Preferred.
To acquire plant of National Linseed Oil Co.	$4,500,000	$4,500,000
To acquire plants of independent concerns..	3,750,000	3,750,000
To be issued to syndicate for $6,000,000 cash.	6,000,000	6,000,000
To remain in treasury	2,500,000	2,500,000
Total.....	$16,750,000	$16,750,000

The $6,000,000 cash to be provided by the syndicate will be applied to treasury purposes and will give the new company ample working capital. The company will be entirely free from bonded or floating indebtedness. The transaction has been underwritten, but the mill owners will subscribe to about $1,500,000 of the $6,000,000, reducing by that much the amount to be allotted to the underwriters. The underwriting syndicate made up by Poor & Greenough announced on Friday that the stock had all been subscribed for.

Besides the plants of the National Company, the new company will own :

Cleveland Linseed Oil Co., Cleveland and Chicago, two plants; Metzger Linseed Oil Co. of Toledo; Metzger Linseed Oil Co. of Chicago; Leonard & Daniels Co., Piqua, Ohio; Campbell & Thayer, New York; Dean Linseed Oil Co., New York; Toledo Linseed Oil Co., Toledo.

The new company also has options on two other plants and will control all told over 85 per cent of the linseed oil properties of the United States.

Exchange of Stock.—The National Linseed Oil Co. will receive $4,500,000 of common and $4,500,000 of preferred stock, out of which they will sell sufficient to pay all debts, and the balance will be divided among the stockholders, which, as near as can now be figured, will give about nine shares of preferred and nine shares of common for every 100 shares of the old stock.

Reorganization Notice.—The Olcott Committee gives notice that a majority of the shares of the stock of the National Linseed Oil Co. has been deposited under the provisions of the stockholders' agreement dated Sept. 8, 1898, and that no further deposits will be received after Dec. 22, 1898, except on such terms and conditions as the committee may impose. —V. 67, p. 1055.

Newark Consolidated Gas.—Bonds Offered.—Redmond Kerr & Co., of New York, and the Fidelity Trust Co. of Newark offer for subscription at 102½ and accrued interest the unsold balance of $4,600,000 consolidated mortgage 5 per cent gold bonds due Dec. 1, 1948. The amount of the issue outstanding is $4,600,000, of which $3,600,000 have already been placed. The facts regarding this loan were fully given on page 1002 of the CHRONICLE of Nov. 12, under heading consolidated Gas Co. of Newark. The advertisement appears on another page of to-day's issue.

Officers and Lease.—The company has elected the following:

President, Thomas A. Nevins; Vice-President, William Scheerer; Secretary and Treasurer, U. H. McCarter; Directors, Thomas A. Nevins, Ebenezer C. Hay, Adrian Riker, Thomas N. McCarter, Jr., William Scheerer, Edgar Ward, Jerome B. Taylor, Jeremiah O'Rourke and Arthur D. Ball.

A formal lease of the property for a period of 999 years to the United Gas Improvement Co. of Philadelphia was made on Dec. 1, the lease being then assigned to the Essex & Hudson Gas Co., the new corporation which filed articles as stated under its own caption. The terms of the lease were given in the item already mentioned.—V. 67, p. 1002.

Northern Pacific Ry.—Called Bonds.—An additional $425,000 of the general first mortgage bonds of the Northern Pacific RR. have been drawn for the sinking fund and will be paid at 110 and accrued interest at the Central Trust Co., No. 54 Wall Street, New York. The interest on the above bonds will cease on and after Jan. 1, 1899. The new company will take over about thirteen elevator manufacturing companies, comprising about 85 per cent of the business and every standard company in the country. The capitalization is $4,500,000 non cumulative 6 per cent preferred stock and $6,500,000 common. The par value of the stock is $100 a share. There are no bonds. The issue of the preferred stock is said to be well safeguarded and to represent less than the value of the property, upon which it is substantially a first lien. Of both stock issues $500,000 are retained in the company's treasury. There will be a working capital of $1,000,000.

Pacific Coast Co.—Second Dividend on Common Stock.—The company has declared a second dividend of 1 per cent on the common stock, payable Dec. 15, 1898, to stockholders of record Dec. 10, 1898.—V. 67, p. 949, 956.

All the bonds of both these companies are deposited as part security for the St. Louis Southwestern Ry. 4s dealt in on the New York Stock Exchange.—V. 67, p. 902.

Sixth National—Astor National Bank of New York City.—Consolidation.—Control of the Sixth National Bank has been purchased from persons identified with the Gallatin National Bank by interests representing the Astor National Bank. Formal merger with the latter is proposed as soon as necessary arrangements can be effected. The Sixth National has been paying 12 per cent per annum in dividends, and its statement last week showed deposits of $1,538,000; loans, $1,763,000, and $349,300 surplus. The total capital stock is $200,000. The price paid, according to current report, is $350 a $100 share.

Texas Railroad Commission.—Enforcement of Rates Enjoined.—At Dallas, Tex., United States Circuit Judge McCormack has handed down his opinion enjoining the State Railway Commission from enforcing or using any rate made by them since Aug. 10, 1894. An article on the subject appears in our editorial columns.—V. 67, p. 979.

Tradesmen's National Bank of New York.—Liquidation in Progress.—The liquidation of the bank began on Thursday. Depositors representing $618,000 have agreed to accept certificates of deposit bearing 4 per cent interest and payable four months from Dec. 1. All others are being paid on application. Toledo St. Louis & Kansas City RR.—Hearing on the Appeal.—The hearing on the appeal from the foreclosure decree is expected to come up on Monday at Cincinnati. At the October term of the Court the case was postponed because of a lack of a quorum of judges.—V. 67, p. 1111.

Tuscarora Valley Ry.—Mortgage.—The company is reported to have filed a mortgage for $310,000 to provide for the construction of its line from Port Royal southwest 31 miles to McConnellsburg.

Union Pacific Denver & Gulf Ry.—Stockholders' Suit.—A suit has been brought by George N. Miller of this city for the purpose of testing the validity of the voting trust contained in the plan of reorganization and also the legality of the proposed issues of first and second preferred stock. The New York Security & Trust Co., No. 46 Wall Street, has consented to act as the representative of holders of trust certificates of stock who may unite in the litigation.—V. 67, p. 1112.

Union Pacific RR.—Oregon Short Line Ry.—Exchange of Stock.—The Union Pacific stockholders will meet on Jan. 10 to act upon a proposition to issue Union Pacific common stock in exchange, dollar for dollar, for stock of the Oregon Short Line RR. The total issue of Oregon Short Line stock is $27,435,700, and a controlling interest therein was acquired several months ago in the interest of the reorganized Union Pacific. The direct ownership of the stock is now provided for by the proposed exchange.

Union Pacific RR.—Foreclosure of Land Mortgage of 1873.—The Union Trust Co., as mortgage trustee, has made application before Judge Sanborn in the United States Court for a degree of foreclosure under the Union Pacific land mortgage of 1873, securing the bonds known as sinking fund 6s, no interest on which has been paid since March, 1896. The bonds are practically all held by the reorganized Union Pacific RR. Co., and the foreclosure is merely a formal matter to perfect its title to the lands.—V. 67, p. 937.

Union Tobacco Co.—Directors.—The stockholders have elected these permanent directors:

Thomas F. Ryan, Samuel Taggart, Frank Tilford, Frank McCoy, R. A. C. Smith and William H. Butler of this city; P. A. B. Widener, George W. Bremar and William L. Elkins, of Philadelphia.

William H. Butler on Wednesday tendered his resignation as a director of the American Tobacco Co. and on Thursday was elected President of the Union Tobacco Co. Seward, Guthrie & Steele were elected general counsel.—V. 67, p. 905.

United States Tin Plate Co.—Consolidation.—The facts regarding the pending consolidation of the leading tin plate works of the country were given in the CHRONICLE of Nov. 19, page 1065. The proposed new company is to be organized under the laws of the State of New Jersey and known as the United States Tin Plate Co., or other appropriate name. Its issue of capital stock has been so largely subscribed by the manufacturers that it has been necessary to scale the applications from capitalists. The amount allotted to the latter is, therefore, limited to 10 per cent of the amount of the subscription.

Business Acquired.—The new company, it is said, will eventually acquire from 90 to 95 per cent of the tin plate capacity of the country, nearly all of the plants having been built within the last few years. "Chicago Economist" says:

The industry was started in this country in a small way about 1890. Last year the output was about 6 million boxes, this year it will exceed 9 million, and an output from 9 to 10 million boxes of 100 pounds each is expected for next year. The consolidation will result in a large saving in freights. The new company will make arrangements to enter the markets of Canada and Australia, besides pushing the export possibilities of the trade in other directions. The management will be intrusted to the men who have been most successful in the business, and the promoters will have practically all the talent in the industry to pick from.

Orders, it is said, have been given that all the works in the combination shall close down for the transfer of the properties on Dec. 15 to the new company.—V. 67, p. 1065.

Virginia Electric Co. of Norfolk.—New Enterprise.—This company, $300,000 of whose bonds were recently offered at 95 and interest, was organized in April, 1898, and consolidated the Electric Co. of Virginia and the Electric Lighting Department of the City Gas Co. It is at present the only electric light company doing business in Norfolk. It has an exclusive contract for lighting the city, a perpetual charter from the State of Virginia, and a franchise from the city council. The capitalization is as follows: Stock authorized, $500,000, of which $50,000 in treasury; bonds authorized, $500,000, dated April, 1898, due April, 1928, interest April and October at office of the United States Mortgage & Trust Co., the mortgage trustee. Of the bonds $50,000 remain in the treasury, and are to be issued only for future extensions, to an amount not exceeding 75 per cent of the actual cost thereof.

For the first six months ending October, 1898, the gross income was $17,933; net income, $24,746. Deducting six months' charges, including sinking fund, $2,250, and interest, $11,250, and deducting also $3,426 for improvements, there remained a surplus for the half-year of $8,020, applicable to dividends.—V. 66, p. 1238.

Waterville & Wiscasset RR.—New Bonds.—The stockholders have authorized a first mortgage to secure $160,000 of 5 per cent bonds, to draw interest from Dec. 1. The bonds, together with $60,000 stock and $40,000 cash, it is said, will be given to the construction company for the building of a proposed line from Weeks Mills to Waterville, Me., 16 miles.

White Pass & Yukon Ry.—Pacific & Arctic Ry. & Navigation Co.—British Yukon Ry.—Klondike Roads—Construction.—The White Pass & Yukon Railway Co., Limited, is the name of the organization incorporated under the English Companies Act of 1862-1893, to own a narrow gauge line 312 miles in length, extending from Skaguay Harbor, Alaska, an ocean port at the head of the Lynn Canal (open, it is said, to navigation all the year round), to Fort Selkirk, on the Yukon.

The charter rights and concessions are vested in: 1. The British Yukon Mining Trading & Transportation Co., by special Act of Parliament of the Dominion of Canada; 2. The British Columbian & Yukon Railway Co., by special Act of the Legislature of British Columbia; 3. The Pacific & Arctic Railway & Navigation Co., a company incorporated in the United States. Of these three, the first named, the British Yukon Mining Trading & Transportation Co., it is understood, will apply to the next session of the Dominion Parliament for permission to change its name to the British Yukon Railway, and for the right to extend the system from Fort Selkirk to Dawson, and thence to the Alaskan boundary; also from Caribou Crossing or Tagish Houses to Teslin Lake or River, and to Atlin, and to construct branch lines in Yukon, each not to exceed 50 miles in length. The system, therefore, promises to penetrate the very heart of the Klondike district.

The first division of the railway, about 43 miles from Skaguay over the White Pass, 2,850 feet high, to Lake Bennett, at the head waters of navigation on the Yukon Railway, is rapidly approaching completion. This is by far the most difficult portion of the road to build. To pay for the same was offered in London last August £250,000 of 6 per cent first mortgage debenture stock, secured by deposit with the Railway Share Trust & Agency Company, Limited, of the first mortgage bonds created in respect of this first division by the local companies above mentioned. The debenture stock is due Dec. 31, 1925, but is subject to call at 110 at any time on six months' notice. The contractors building the road are the Pacific Contract Co., Limited, with capital of £300,000 stock, of which in August last £200,000 had been subscribed. These contractors guarantee for two years the payment of the semi-annual interest at 6 per cent on the debenture stock. The first instalment of this interest is due Jan. 1, 1899.

The capital stock of the White Pass & Yukon Ry. is £1,000,000 (in £10 shares), of which £250,000 is payable to the contractors (together with the proceeds of the £250,000 debenture stock) for the construction and equipment of the road to Lake Bennett, and the balance, £750,000, will be issued to the same parties "in consideration of their handing over all the charter rights and concessions over the 325 [now stated at 312] miles above mentioned and providing the company with necessary working cash capital as provided in the contract."

Close Brothers & Co., of Chicago and London, are interested in the enterprise, and from their Mr. S. H. Graves we have received the following letter under date of Nov. 17:

I have just returned from a trip to the Pacific coast where I had a conference with E. C. Hawkins, our chief engineer, who had just come down from Skaguay to meet me, and I can therefore give you the latest information in connection with the progress of the road. We expect to have our trains running over the summit of the White Pass by the 1st of next month unless work should be delayed by unexpectedly bad weather. All the heavy work on this side of the summit has been completed and the only thing which is delaying us is the tunnel, of which there were some 100 feet still to be driven in order to connect. Work is being pushed in the tunnel from both ends, but is retarded because of the impossibility of getting horses up on the mountain, so that all the rock has to be carried out by hand. A good deal of work has been accomplished on the other side of the summit and we hope if the weather should not be worse than usual up there that by the first of January or soon after our trains will be running to Log Cabin, a distance of some 15 miles beyond the summit. From this point it is 8 miles to Lake Bennett and the work is not especially difficult compared to what we have had to contend with in getting over the summit, although elsewhere it would be considered heavy rock work. In fact, the entire line from tide water at Skaguay to Lake Bennett is practically all rock work, most of it of an extremely difficult nature. Our hope is that by the end of February at the latest we shall be running our trains into Bennett but of course in the meantime there is good connection during the winter by means of sleighs over the snow and the road from the end of our railway is all down grade. In any case our line will be complete to Bennett long before navigation opens on the Yukon next spring, and it is our expectation that before that time an enormous amount of freight will be at Bennett ready for the opening of navigation.

It is our intention to push work on the line as rapidly as possible from Lake Bennett to Caribou Crossing and thence onward to Fort Selkirk. We are also applying for power from the Canadian Parliament to build a branch line to Lake Atlin to assist in opening up the wonderful new gold fields which are being developed in that district, which bids fair to be much larger than the Klondike, and is likely to support a much larger mining population. Should Parliament grant us the necessary charter for this line, work would be pushed on it as rapidly as possible next season and there ought not to be any special difficulty in having trains running to the Atlin gold fields before the end of the season. Our traffic manager reported to me that he has contracted already for so much freight to be handled in January and February next that our locomotive power will be severely taxed and we are endeavoring to augment it as speedily as possible. We have got five engines working on the road now.

The company's passenger fare from Skagnay to White Pass City, Alaska, the 16 miles now in operation, is reported as $5. Passengers are allowed 150 pounds of baggage. The freight traffic to White Pass City is $3 50 per 100 pounds; in lots of 400 pounds, $3 90 per 100. The "Railway Age" says: "Traffic Manager Gray is figuring on 3,000 tons of freight for shipment to the Lake Atlin country and to the Klondike between January 1 and July 1 of next year. This freight will be transported for about $150 a ton, and the entire contract will aggregate $450,000 From the summit of the pass freight is taken on to Lake Bennett by packers."

The officers, etc., were stated last August as follows:

Hon. Sidney Carr Glyn, director of the North London Ry., Chairman.
Sir Allen Sarle, director of the London Brighton & South Coast Ry.
Joseph Price, Vice President of the Grand Trunk Ry. of Canada.
Edwin Hanson, of Hanson Brothers, of Montreal.
William Brooks Close, of Close Brothers & Co., London and Chicago. Brokers.—Coates, Son & Co., 99 Gresham Street, E. C. Bankers.—Glyn, Mills, Currie & Co., 67 Lombard Street, E. C. Secretary and offices.—W. H. P. Stevens, 17 St. Helens Place, London, E. C.

Various other facts regarding the enterprise will be found in our editorial columns.

Wichita Railway & Illuminating Co., Wichita Kan.—Incorporated.—This company has been incorporated to operate a street railway and an electric lighting and power plant in Wichita. Capital stock, $500,000. The directors are Ernest Rambeck, E. L. Matling, H. G. Landis, W. O. Church and George E. Spalton, all of Wichita. The new company is presumably organized as successor to the Wichita Ry. Light & Power Co.

Zanesville Street RR.—Zanesville Ry. & Electric Co.—Ordered Sold.—Judge Taft, of the United States Circuit Court, has ordered the sale of the property under foreclosure of the mortgages of both the afore-named companies. The amounts due on the two loans for principal and interest are $191,222 and $138,187, respectively. The upset price is $75,000.—V. 67, p. 824.

The Sinking Fund in the United States Treasury was created by the "Thurman Act" of May 7, 1878. The Secretary of the Treasury, as custodian of this fund, made investments at various times in United States bonds and first mortgage bonds of the respective companies whose lien was prior to that of the United States, but always at a premium. This premium amounted to the sum of $1,344,234 68, shown above.

The investments remaining in the hands of the Secretary of the Treasury on account of the Sinking Funds of this Company on June 30, 1898, are as follows: United States 5 per cent bonds of 1894, $125,000; Western Pacific Railroad, first mortgage bonds, $117,000; Total inves ment, $242,000.

* * * * * * *

"SETTLEMENT WITH THE CENTRAL PACIFIC AND WESTERN PACIFIC RAILROADS: That the Secretary of the Treasury, the Secretary of the Interior, and the Attorney General, and their successors in office, be, and they are hereby, appointed a commission with full power to settle the indebtedness to the Government growing out of the issue of bonds in aid of the construction of the Central Pacific and Western Pacific bond-aided railroads, upon such terms and in such manner as may be agreed upon by them, or by a majority of them, and the owners of said railroads: Provided, That any and all settlements thus made shall be submitted in writing to the President for his approval or disapproval, and unless approved by him shall not be binding.

"That said commission shall not agree to accept a less sum in settlement of the amount due the United States than the full amount of the principal and interest and all amounts necessary to reimburse the United States for moneys paid for interest or otherwise: And also provided, That said commission are hereby empowered to grant such time or times of payment by instalment, and at such rates of interest, to be not less than three per centum per annum payable semi-annually, and with such security as to said commission may seem expedient: Provided, however, That in any settlement that may be made the final payment and full discharge of said indebtedness shall not be postponed to exceed ten years and the whole amount, principal and interest, shall be paid in equal semi-annual instalments within the period so limited, and in any settlement made it shall be provided that if default shall be made in any payment of either principal or interest, or any part thereof, then the whole sum and all instalments, principal and interest, shall immediately become due and payable, notwithstanding any other stipulation of said settlement: Provided further, That unless the settlement herein authorized be perfected within one year after the passage of this Act, the President of the United States shall at once proceed to foreclose all liens now held by the United States against said railroad companies and to collect the indebtedness herein sought to be settled, and nothing in this Act contained shall be held to waive or release any right, lien, or cause of action already held by the United States.

"That there is hereby appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of twenty thousand dollars to defray the expenses of said commission in making the said settlement."

The Commercial Times.

FRIDAY NIGHT, December 2, 1898.

The severe wintry weather experienced early in the week interfered with business activity to some extent locally, and in the Eastern States, where the blockade of traffic and interruption of communication was quite general. Shipping also suffered much loss as a result of the storm. At the close, however, normal conditions are again prevailing. Encouraging reports are heard as a rule over the outlook for healthy business conditions, and values in the main have been favorable to sellers. As anticipated, the Peace Commissioners at Paris have reached a settlement, Spain acceding to the demands of this Government.

Speculation in cotton for future delivery has been moderately active and the tendency of prices has been towards a higher basis. The principal strengthening feature in the situation has continued to be the steadily growing impression that the crop has been somewhat over estimated. There also has been a slight falling off in the crop movement. This, however, it is claimed by some, has been due to the recent unfavorable weather at the South for the handling of the crop. The demand for actual cotton at the South has continued active. Europe has been a free purchaser and domestic spinners have been good buyers, the recent improvement in home trade markets for cotton goods stimulating the demand for raw material. Monday an advance in prices of 15@18 points was of a sensational nature as compared with the recent fluctuations in values. The improvement was based primarily on decidedly stronger foreign advices and buying by foreign and local operators to cover short sales. A steadily broadening demand from outsiders for investment account also was a strengthening feature. Subsequently, however, under a weaker turn to foreign advices and renewed selling for foreign account, together with realizing sales by recent buyers, Monday's advance was lost. Thursday the market again turned firmer, prices advancing 4 to 5 points on slightly better foreign advices than expected and the fact that the movement of the crop was falling off a little. To-day the market was moderately active and prices advanced a fraction on buying by Wall Street and outsiders for investment account. The selling was principally for foreign account. At the close there was a slight reaction under realizing sales and the final prices were unchanged to 1 point lower for the day. Cotton on the spot advanced ½c. Monday, declined 1 16c. Wednesday, and to-day advanced 1-16c., closing steady at 5½c. for middling uplands

On the basis of the rates on and off middling as established by the Revision Committee, the prices for a few of the grades would be as follows:

MANCHESTER MARKET.—Our report received by cable to-night from Manchester states that the market continues firm for both yarns and shirtings. Spinners are considered to hold small stocks of yarn. A considerable portion of the Sea Island cotton shipped to foreign ports goes via New York, and some small amounts via Boston and Baltimore. Instead of including this cotton for the week in which it leaves the Southern outports, we follow the same plan as in our regular table of including it when actually exported from New York, &c. The details of the shipments of Sea Island cotton for the week will be found under the head "Shipping News," on a subsequent page.

COTTON CONSUMPTION AND OVERLAND MOVEMENT TO DEC. 1.—In our editorial columns to-day will be found our usual overland movement report brought down to December 1.

SOUDAN COTTON.—Recent cable advices state that 17 bags of cotton, grown in the French Soudan, but not ginned, have been admitted to the Havre Chamber of Commerce as an experiment. Some of the cotton is reported to be of very good quality, and it is said that the cost of production, packing and freight did not exceed 2½d. per pound.

NEW YORK COTTON EXCHANGE.—The proposed amendments to Section 81 of the by-laws were balloted upon Wednesday, Nov. 30, and defeated. The vote was: In favor of amending, 27; against, 60. The proposed amendments were printed in the CHRONICLE of Nov. 12, page 1016.

AUGUSTA (GA.) STRIKE.—The Augusta (Ga.) mills started up again on Monday, Nov. 28, with a small force, but after running two days the attempt to operate was given up, as the strikers remain firm. To day the Sibley, King, Isaetta and Langley mills are closed again. It has been announced by the officials of the King, Langley, Sibley and Isaetta mills that they will not be run again until the operatives signify their intention of resuming work under the reduced wage scale. The Warwick Mill, the smallest in Augusta, is running, Mr. Clark, the proprietor, having withdrawn from the Southern Manufacturers' Association, and restored practically the old scale except a cut of one cent a side on spinners.

COMPARATIVE PORT RECEIPTS AND DAILY CROP MOVEMENT.—A comparison of the port movement by weeks is not accurate as the weeks in different years do not end on the same day of the month. We have consequently added to our other standing tables a daily and monthly statement, that the reader may constantly have before him the data for making the exact relative movement for the years named. The monthly movements since September 1, 1898, and in previous years, have been as follows:

This statement shows that up to November 30 the receipts at the ports this year were 303,547 bales more than in 1897 and 627,811 bales greater than in 1896. By adding to the totals to Sept. 30 the daily receipts since that time we shall be able to reach an exact comparison of the movement for the different years.

JUTE BUTTS, BAGGING, &C.—The demand for jute bagging during the week has been fair. Quotations are unchanged at 6⅛c. for 1¾ lbs. and 6¼c. for 2 lbs., standard grades. The aggregate stock in the hands of importers and speculators at New York and Boston on November 30 was nil against nil at the corresponding date in 1897, and the amount afloat for the United States reaches 35,040 bales, against 85,606 bales last year.

CATO BLANCO, steamer (Br.), from New Orleans, which arrived at Antwerp, Nov. 23, with 1,949 bales of cotton, reported she encountered very boisterous weather on the passage and sustained some damage about the deck.

LISBORN, steamer (Br.), from Charleston, with 10,197 bales of cotton, has arrived at Bremen, and reports while at sea (Nov. 10) a fire broke out on board in No. 3 hold. Fire was extinguished. Damage unknown.

MATTEAWAN, steamer, at Galveston, for New York and Boston. After injecting steam all night into No. 3 hold of steamer Matteawan (before reported on fire), hatches were raised on the morning of Dec. 1 and 350 bales between decks discharged and no trace of fire discovered. Vessel re-loading.

OAKFIELD, steamer (late Aldersgate), from Galveston, with 9,014 bales of cotton, arrived at Liverpool Nov. 27. It is reported that cotton in No. 1 hold is on fire.

SILVERTON, steamer (Br.), from Port Royal, Nov. 6, for Liverpool, with 6,242 bales of cotton, put into Queenstown Nov. 26 to coal. She reported had decks swept and other damage; shipped a quantity of water, which got into the hold, and it is feared part of her cargo is damaged.

BREADSTUFFS.

FRIDAY, December 2 1898.

Business in the market for wheat flour has been quiet and no changes of an important nature have occurred in values. The demand from exporters has been spiritless, their purchases being of an unimportant nature, and the demand from the home trade has continued light, as jobbers as a rule appear to have their wants supplied for the present and see nothing in the situation to induce them to add to their present holdings. The demand for rye flour has been limited to peddling lots, but values have held to a steady basis. Buckwheat flour has been sparingly offered, and prices have been well maintained. Corn meal has been quiet and without changes.

Speculation in wheat for future delivery has been only moderately active and no decided changes have occurred in values. Advices received from the foreign markets have not been of a nature to create speculative activity. The export demand has continued fairly brisk, but this has been offset by a free movement of the crop in the Northwest and on Tuesday and Wednesday there were fractional declines under liquidation by longs and the absence of aggressive buying. Increased official estimates of the Russian crop have had some influence against values. Business in the spot market has been fairly active, as the demand from exporters here and at outports has continued, their purchases daily being in the neighborhood of 1,000,000 bushels. To-day there was a quiet but steady market, as there were no new developments in the situation to stimulate trading on either side. The spot market was fairly active and steady. The sales for export here and at outports were 520,000 bushels.

Indian corn futures have been moderately active and the tendency of prices has been towards a higher basis. There has been some speculative buying for investment account, stimulated by a continued active export business, and the fact that the movement of the crop latterly has been running rather small. Weather conditions in the corn belt have been reported as unfavorable for the advancement of the quality of the grain, and this, together with firm foreign advices, also have had a strengthening influence. The spot market has been firmer. The sales for export here and at outports have averaged about 750,000 bushels daily. To-day the market was steady, firm foreign advices offsetting realizing sales by longs. The spot market was active. The sales for export here at outports were about 900,000 bushels.

Oats for future delivery in the Western market have been moderately active and prices have advanced to a slightly higher basis. The principal strengthening factors have been the comparatively small supplies in sight and only a moderate crop movement: sympathy with an advance in corn and a fairly active cash trade also have had their influence in favor of values. Business in the local market has been fairly active. The home trade has been a buyer, and there has been increased activity to the export demand; prices have advanced. To-day the tone of the market held steady. Business in the spot market was fairly active, although the demand came wholly from the home trade.

THE DRY GOODS TRADE.

NEW YORK, FRIDAY, P. M., December 2, 1898.

The improvement in the general tone of the market for cotton goods which was noted last week has made further progress this week, and at the close there are only a few exceptions to what may reasonably be characterized as a strong market. The heavy snowstorm at the beginning of the week impeded store trade to some extent, but the aggregate business secured has reached a liberal total. Cold weather is helping the retail distribution materially and this is a good factor in the general situation, coming as it does earlier than usual. The stock condition of the primary market has improved decidedly during the past few weeks and sellers are now in more or less independent position on brown and bleached cottons and on the gingham fabrics. Print cloths also have worked into better shape than they have been in for some years past. The result is seen in an advance of 1-16c. in the latter, occasional slight recovery in prices of bleached cottons and a hardening tendency in various other directions. In the woolen goods division, also, business is improving in volume, although there has not been any stiffening of prices.

WOOLEN GOODS.—In most directions an increase in the volume of orders for spring weights of woolens and worsteds for men's wear has been reported this week. Wintry weather has so far improved the distribution of seasonable clothing that the clothing manufacturers are operating more freely for next season. Their purchases up to the present time have been short of an average volume and agents are now counting upon a liberal supplementary business. They are not disposed to check this by undue stiffness in attitude, and the demand is freely met at previous prices. There has been no open business in new heavy-weights for next fall, except in overcoatings, and in these prices are from 10 to 15 per cent lower than at the opening of previous season. Cloakings are inactive and featureless. Dress goods show improved demand but no change in prices. Flannels and blankets quiet; prices unaltered.

DOMESTIC COTTON GOODS.—The exports of cotton goods from this port for the week ending November 23 were 16,504 packages, valued at $520,455, their destination being to the points specified in the tables below:

* From New England mill points direct.

The value of the New York exports for the year to date has been $10,524,254 in 1898, against $9,398,928 in 1897.

Advances in leading makes of bleached cottons are reported this week. Lonsdale 1¼ per cent and Hills 2½ per cent up, with Fruit of the Loom and Masonville ⅛c. per yard higher. The demand has been liberal and stocks now well under control. Low grades are quiet but fully supported by the strength of the grey cloth market. Wide sheetings have been weak but are firmer in some quarters at the close. Cotton flannels and blankets firm but quiet. Heavy brown sheetings and drills firmly held in all leading makes. Home demand is moderate but exporters still bidding for fair quantities. Fine light-weights strong and generally 1-16c. higher. Ducks are quiet and easily bought. Brown osnaburgs unchanged. Denims steady with moderate sales, other coarse colored cottons in average demand at previous prices. Kid-finished cambrics occasionally ⅛c. higher. Second grades of fancy calicoes for spring are opened at 3¾c. to 4c. per yard, but no open prices named on first qualities. More staple lines of prints in improving demand, with firmer tone. Fine printed fabrics generally well sold. The gingham market is firm throughout. Print cloths close at 1-16c. advance, or 2⅛c. for regulars after liberal sales.

FOREIGN DRY GOODS.—Conditions in the foreign goods division of the market continue unsatisfactory. A slight increase in the demand for dress goods and silks is noted, but it is far short of making amends for previous poor business. Men's-wear fabrics are neglected. Linens in quiet request, and barely an average business doing in ribbons, laces, hosiery, underwear, etc.

MUNICIPAL BOND SALES IN NOVEMBER.

In reviewing the state of the municipal bond market during the month just concluded, we find present the same conditions that have prevailed for some months past, namely a short supply of bonds, a large demand, with high prices ruling.

Our usual compilation shows that during the month of November $7,524,284 bonds were floated. This total does not include $1,037,274 of temporary loans reported, nor does it include nearly five millions of bonds of the State of Maryland, issued in exchange to holders of outstanding bonds, some of which do not mature for several years. It does not seem proper to include this exchange of bonds in the total, inasmuch as the transaction was an exceptional one and can hardly be considered a sale in the true sense of that term.

The figures for November, as given above, compare with $6,868,775 for November 1897 and with $4,906,607 for October 1898. While the total for November 1898 is somewhat greater than that for either the previous month or the corresponding month in 1897 (due to the negotiation of several very large issues), the number of municipalities issuing bonds is less than that reported for either of those months. Our records show that for November 1898 but 105 municipalities (emitting 129 separate issues) put bonds on the market, whereas in October 1898 there were 118 municipalities and 132 issues, and in November 1897 120 municipalities and 148 issues.

Two events of more than ordinary interest transpired during the month and may well receive a passing mention. The first was the November elections, when issues amounting to over 19 millions of dollars were voted upon, the results being largely against the increase of indebtedness. Indeed, if we except those places voting to refund outstanding bonds and also those counties in Kentucky voting to issue bonds for the purchase of free turnpikes, the verdict was almost universally adverse.

The other conspicuous feature was the sale of the $1,725,000 New York City bonds, bids for which were opened last Tuesday. It is interesting to note that thirty-eight proposals were received for this loan, aggregating over 14 times as much as the loan itself. This active bidding and the basis on which the bonds were awarded (3·05 per cent) speaks well for the credit of the municipality. It should also be stated that part of this loan (namely the $500,000 10-year assessment bonds, which sold at 106·10,) went on a basis of 2·797 per cent.

The New York City sale was of course the principal one of the month. Other sales of interest were the Cook County, Ill., $750,000 4 per cent 1-20 year (serial) gold refunding bonds, awarded to the First National Bank of Chicago at 106·763; New York State, $400,000 3½ per cent 4-7 year (serial) public defense bonds, awarded to Abraham White, New York, at 103·165; Albany, N. Y., $209,000 4 per cent bonds, awarded to various parties at from par to 106·60.

In the following table we give the prices which were paid for November loans to the amount of $5,851,961 issued by 86 municipalities. The aggregate of sales for which no price has been reported is $1,672,323, and the total bond sales for the month $7,524,284. In the case of each loan reference is made to the page of the Chronicle where a full account of the sale is given.

Texas.—Legality of Municipal Bonds Payable in Gold.—In our editorial columns will be found an article reviewing the recent decision of the Court of Civil Appeals affirming the legality of municipal bonds payable in gold.

Austin, Texas.—Proposed Amendment to City Charter.—At the next session of the State Legislature, which convenes in January, application will be made to have the city charter amended so as to permit the sale of the great dam across the Colorado River, which has cost the city nearly two million dollars to build. Our correspondent in Austin writes us, it is thought that in the event the dam is sold to individuals or to a corporation that the purchasers will buy for the purpose of running large factories with the enormous water power furnished by the river above the dam. Austin being in the center of the cotton-growing country, it is regarded as a most suitable location for cotton mills.

Council Bluffs, Iowa.—Judgment Secured.—On November 26, 1898, Edmund Jeffries secured, in the Superior Court, judgment against the city for $4,954·96 represented by eleven warrants issued prior to the current year. This suit was instituted in accordance with a decision of the Supreme Court given a few weeks ago, and which will be found in the CHRONICLE November 5, 1898.

Jefferson County, Wash.—Reduction in Interest.—This county has entered into an agreement with its bondholders whereby the interest on bonds outstanding is reduced from 6% to 4% for a term of five years from January 1, 1898, the County Commissioners agreeing to levy a tax to meet such interest. Mr. M. M. Smith, County Auditor, in writing to us on the matter, states that the general business depression caused such a shrinkage in values that it was impossible to meet the 6% rate. The proposition reducing the interest to 4% was made through N. W. Harris & Co., Chicago.

Minneapolis, Minn.—New Charter Defeated.—At the general election held November 8, 1898, the citizens of this city, among other propositions, voted on the adoption of a new city charter, but the question met with defeat.

Mount Vernon (Township), Ill.—Bonds Illegal.—We take the following dispatch from Springfield, Ill., dated November 25, 1898, from the St. Louis "Globe Democrat:" "In the United States Circuit Court to day Judge Allen decided the case of D. B. Wesson of New York City vs. Township of Mount Vernon, Ill., in favor of the defendant. Wesson brought suit to compel the payment, principal and interest, of bonds issued by the township of Mount Vernon in favor of the Wabash Chester & Western Railroad. The Court decided the bonds were illegal because the election was held July 16, 1870, whereas the constitutional amendment prohibiting cities and townships voting aid to railroads went into effect July 2, 1870. The bonds involved were for $25,000 with interest."

New York City—Brooklyn.—Gravesend Bonds Legal.—A decision was recently handed down by Judge Thomas in the United States Circuit Court in Brooklyn in the suit of James C. E. D'Esterre against George W. Palmer, former Comptroller of Brooklyn. In 1893 the town of Gravesend, since annexed to the former city of Brooklyn, issued bonds to the amount of $148,000, of which the plaintiff is owner of $24,000. Subsequently it was contended that the bonds were defective, inasmuch as they were never registered. The plaintiff then began action to establish the validity of the bonds and to compel their registration. In his decision Judge Thomas holds that the purchaser of the bonds should not be held liable for any errors committed by the city officials.

Peoria Heights, Ill.—Proposition to Incorporate.—An election was held recently to vote on the question of incorporating this place as a village. The proposition carried by a vote of 46 to 5.

Wilkes County, N. C.—Decision Appealed.—The case involving the validity of $100,000 railroad-aid bonds, recently declared illegal by the State Supreme Court, has been appealed to the United States Supreme Court. See CHRONICLE November 26, 1898.

Bond Calls and Redemptions.

Clearfield County (P. O. Clearfield), Pa.—Proposed Redemption of Bonds.—The County Commissioners offer to purchase jail-loan refunding bonds, Redemption Series, to the amount of $22,000, consisting of 50 bonds of $300 each and 14 bonds of $500 each, payable June 30, 1903, but redeemable at the option of the Board after June 30, 1899. As the Board has sufficient money on hand to redeem these bonds at this time, they will pay principal and accrued interest of all bonds of this series that are presented at the office of the County Treasurer for cancellation.

Multnomah County, Ore.—Warrant Call.—Ralph W. Hoyt, County Treasurer, has called for payment county warrants, Class 35, drawn upon the general fund that were presented and indorsed "Not paid for want of funds" from October 1, 1897, to October 31, 1897, both dates inclusive. The county is under city control and has no separate debt. In the following table the various issues of bonds under the general heads, Taxed City Loan and Untaxed City Loan, are given in the order of their dates of maturity.

The city, in November, 1897, voted in favor of $11,200,000 bonds for various improvements, (the actual amount voted was $12,200,000, but the lease of the city's gas works obviated the necessity for issuing the $1,000,000 included for the improvement of the gas plant, thus reducing the amount to $11,200,000), and the City Councils, in June, 1898, took the necessary steps to authorize the bonds, but their issue has been thus far (Dec. 1) defeated by litigation.

The full details of clearings for the week covered by the above statement will be given next Saturday. We cannot, of course, furnish them to-day, bank clearings being made up by the various clearing houses at noon on Saturday, and hence in the above the last twenty-four hours of the week have to be in all cases estimated, as we go to press Friday night.

We present below our usual detailed figures for the previous week, covering the returns for the period ending with Saturday noon, December 3, and the results for the corresponding week in 1897, 1896 and 1895 are also given. In comparison with the preceding week there is an increase in the aggregate exchanges of two hundred and eighty-six million dollars, and at New York alone the gain is one hundred and sixty-six millions. Contrasted with the week of 1897 the total for the whole country shows an increase of 18·1 per cent. Compared with the week of 1896 the current returns record a gain of 34·7 per cent, and the excess over 1895 is 31·1 per cent. Outside of New York the increase over 1897 is 6·9 per cent. The excess over 1896 reaches 18·9 per cent, and making comparison with 1895 the gain is seen to be 19·6 per cent.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION.

There has been but little of a definite character disclosed this week in the President's message to Congress and the accompanying Department reports relating to future plans of the Administration. No solution of either the colonial or financial problems which confront the Government was offered in any of these documents. We have written in a subsequent column in reference to this particular phase of the message, so far as it relates to our new possessions; the omission referred to in that article has been widely noted and no doubt has caused some good people disappointment. Omitting, however, further reference here to that subject and confining our remarks in this column to the currency question, our comment with reference to the message and reports is that the public expected too much in those documents, because it expected to find something in them that would be out of character and out of place. It would have been indecorous in the President to have assumed that the present Congress would not pass a good currency bill. It would have looked very like an expression of distrust coupled with a threat, to have announced the calling of an extra session of the newly-elected Congress soon after the 4th of March for currency legislation. It would have encumbered his message with superfluous material to have rehearsed at length the views on currency reform he expressed so fully a year ago. Instead of that, he wisely summarizes his position and views in a few effective sentences; while Secretary Gage puts what he has to say on the subject in a brief, modest, clear and convincing form at the very end of his report. We see no reason for drawing any unfavorable conclusion with regard to future action from this method of treating the sound money issue. Hitherto the Administration has been faithful to its pledges, and it is consequently entitled to the presumption that hereafter it will be the same; at least we shall accept that view until we have much better reason than we have now for abandoning it.

The other topics of chief interest this week have been the very free demand for bonds at high prices; the dividend resumptions or increases announced, with others reported to be in prospect; and the money market present and future. Nothing perhaps marks more clearly the growth in confidence that has taken place than the change in the methods of our railroad management, of which these added dividends are an indication. We referred last week to the enlarged purchases of steel rails for current repairs and other work on old roads, and to the contracts being entered into showing that much more new track would be laid in 1899 than in 1898. Twelve months ago earnings were likewise good, but the future was not so fully assured. Those who direct the policy of our carriers husbanded their resources then, now they are ready to spend more freely in distributing their income to their shareholders and using their earnings in new work, because they feel persuaded that the business activity at present under way will go on developing. These same facts are in part the explanation of the increased demand not only for high grade bonds, but for bonds also of the second class at advancing prices, the dividends wherever made being an added guaranty of the safety of the bonds, while affording a presumption that the enlarged distributions may become quite general. Of course at such a time speculative as well as legitimate influences are at work, for by no means will every common or even every preferred stock become a permanent dividend payer. There is though, as we have often explained, a solid basis for much better revenue returns after the prolonged recuperative experience the roads have passed through, during which they have not only decreased their fixed charges but also learned how to get a profit out of work done at fabulously low rates. What is also of importance is that while all this was transpiring the country tributary to the various systems was growing in population and in wealth.

What will be the future course of our money market is likewise a question widely discussed. The general public apparently has accepted the view that the tendency after the new year opens is likely to be towards greater ease. Such a conclusion is reasonable. It is the natural assumption, judging from the experience of the past few years, and there are many important particulars which encourage that belief. Chief among these are first the large balance the Government is carrying in Sub-Treasuries and which, under the action of the deficit—that is expected to reach, according to Secretary Gage, $112,000,000 the current year—will no doubt in large part be drawn out and go into active circulation; second, the large amount Europe owes the United States on our foreign trade balance, a debt, if interest rates should rise, that would insure a new supply of currency through gold imports; third, the plethora of money which now appears to be the condition not only at New York but at all important trade centers; and finally the increased amount of currency in the country to-day compared with a year ago, the increase within the twelve months being over 150 million dollars. These conditions, if they made up the whole case, would seem to promise an inexhaustible supply of money for all prospective demands during the coming six months.

But there is another fact which must not be overlooked. What is it that at present causes the plethora of money here and at other trade centers? Is it not in very large part due to the Government deposits which the banks are now carrying? Nearly 100 million dollars of Government money is to-day on deposit in the national banks of this and other cities. New York alone holds probably not far from 50 million dollars of that amount. These funds not only swell our deposits and our loans, but the loans also again go to swell our deposits. Secretary Gage, in his report, refers to this well-known expansive feature. He states—"deposits may be increased by loans as well as by the deposit of cash. A loan for ten thousand or a hundred thousand goes to the borrower's credit upon the bank's books and swells the deposit account by so much. True, the borrower may check against this fund, but his check may also be deposited in the same bank, in which case it is a mere transfer to another account; or if it be deposited in another bank, it is still a transfer." If the reader of the foregoing will give his imagination a little play he will be able to realize how seriously our credit structure might be undermined by the unskilful drawing down of the Government deposits. Of course that will never be done; the Department will not check against them except slowly and wisely. But we can rest assured that they will be reduced not so very long hence if the traditional policy of the Treasury followed. Such a reduction carried forward concurrently with a corresponding outflow of currency from the Sub-Treasury would minimize any possible friction and would be likely to relieve it wholly unless increasing business wants should act as an absorbent of currency at the same time. We call attention to this situation to remind our readers that here is a dormant force acting on conservative bank managers which presumably will prevent very low interest rates. On the other hand, do not the conditions previously recited tend to support the opinion that those conditions are of such a character as to ensure the borrower against very high rates. Presumably there will be increased activity as the month closes and the new year opens.

We referred last week to Judge McCormick's decision in the United States Circuit Court at Dallas enjoining the confiscatory schedules of rates for Texas roads which the Railroad Commission of that State sought to enforce. At that time we had only the telegraphic announcement of the fact. The receipt of the full text of the opinion strengthens the impression created by the first report. The matter has attracted considerable attention this week, and it seems likely that for the roads in that part of the country the event will prove one of the most important happenings of recent years. On the Stock Exchange the securities of Southwestern properties have shown special strength and have in some cases displayed greater activity than for a long time past. In certain quarters the improvement has been attributed to other causes, but it seems to us it simply indicates a realization upon the part of investors that the outlook for Texas roads has been greatly changed for the better as the result of the decision. Since 1894 the Railroad Commission has been constantly at work shaving down rates. At first it proceeded cautiously, but as the roads manifested a conciliatory attitude and evinced a disposition to yield, out of a desire to avoid antagonizing public sentiment, the Board grew increasingly bold, until finally the roads were forced in self-defense to seek protection in the courts. In this effort we see they have been successful, and the whole series of rate orders promulgated by the Board since 1894 falls to the ground. The Commission may prepare new rate schedules, but they will have to be on a higher plane than those now enjoined if they are to secure the sanction of the Court.

The decision is likely also to have great influence in other directions, for the ruling of the Court overthrows completely the contention of the Commissioners that they could place some low, arbitrary estimate of valuation upon railroad property, declare that all capitalization beyond that was excessive and must be disregarded, and then argue that rates yielding some trifling return on this absurdly low estimate of valuation would be held by the courts to be "reasonable." We do not know of any opinion in recent years that has been so instructive on this point, completely exposing, as it does, the fallacy and absurdity of the contention. Says Judge McCormick: "In countries conditioned as Texas has been and is, such a railroad property (Houston & Texas Central Railroad) and business cannot be reproduced except substantially in such manner in which this has been produced—that is, by a judicious selection of location, by small beginnings and gradual advance through a number of years, more or less, of unproductive growth. * * And a system of rates and charges that looks to a valuation fixed on so narrow a basis as that shown to have been adopted by the Commission, and so fixed as to return only a fair profit upon that valuation, and which permits no account for betterments made necessary by the growth of trade, seems to me to come clearly within the provision of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, which forbids that a State shall deprive any person of property without due process of law, or deny any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws." In the courts, as we all know, precedent counts for a great deal, and we shall be much surprised if this lucid definition of the requirements is not extensively cited in other similar cases and generally adopted and followed by the courts.

As we are speaking with reference to the Southwest, it seems desirable to advert to another interesting event that has occurred in that section within the last few weeks. We refer to the opening of the Sapulpa extension of the St. Louis & San Francisco from Sapulpa to Oklahoma City in Oklahoma Territory. The complet on of this new road means much for Oklahoma. It means much for St. Louis, to which it furnishes a short and direct route into Oklahoma Territory, and it means much for the St. Louis & San Francisco. Two weeks ago a large delegation of citizens from Oklahoma visited St. Louis, making the journey over the new line, and some interesting ceremonies attended their reception and welcome. The new extension brings St. Louis 159 miles nearer Oklahoma than before, and a large interchange of trade with the territory is looked for as the result. One of the speakers was Gen. John W. Noble, formerly Secretary of the Interior under President Harrison, and who is known as "The Father of Oklahoma Territory" by reason of the prominent part which he took in securing the opening up to settlement and civilization of Oklahoma—the territory having been opened during his tenure of office. Gen. Noble spoke in enthusiastic terms of the future of the Territory, predicting that with its natural resources and thoroughly American population it must become ultimately one of the grandest States in the Union. The Sapulpa extension has been built under the name of the St. Louis & Oklahoma City Railway, the enterprise being under the active charge of Mr. C. G. Jones, its President, who is so well known in that part of the country. In his speech at the festivities in St. Louis Mr. Jones pointed out that two million dollars was necessary to build the road, and that every dollar of it was raised in St. Louis except what was subscribed by the people of Oklahoma City.

Money on call, representing bankers' balances, has loaned during the week at the Stock Exchange at 2½ per cent and at 2 per cent, with the bulk of the business and the average at 2¼ per cent. Banks and trust companies quote 2½ per cent as the minimum, though some of the institutions have permitted loans at 2¼ per cent to remain undisturbed. Large amounts of money are loaned for sixty to seventy days on sterling collateral and it is estimated that such loans in this city alone exceed $40,000,000. While there is a fairly good demand for time money the offerings are liberal and quotations on good Stock Exchange collateral are 3 per cent for sixty days to four months and 3 to 3½ per cent for five to six months, thus carrying borrowers over the end of the year and until June. Though there is a slight increase in the supply of commercial paper, the demand is sufficiently urgent to absorb all offerings and rates are 3@3¼ per cent for sixty to ninety day endorsed bills receivable, 3¼@4 per cent for prime four to six months single names, with some sales of very choice at 3 per cent, and 4¼@5¼ per cent for good paper for the same periods of maturity. The movement of money to the interior has been light this week and principally through the Treasury to New Orleans for sugar and cotton.

The speech of Sir Edmund J. Monson, British Ambassador at Paris, at the annual banquet in the French capital of the British Chamber of Commerce on Tuesday evening, wherein he criticised the policy of "pin-pricks" in which the French Government and the people and the press were indulging, excited considerable comment in European political circles. On Thursday evening Mr. Chamberlain, Secretary of State for the Colonies, in a speech at Wakefield, Yorkshire, in referring to France, is reported to have said: "Friendship was incompatible with the exasperating policy of twisting the lion's tail which had been pursued for so many years." These speeches have caused some irritation in Paris, but they appeared to have no important influence upon the financial markets either at Paris or London. The Bank of England minimum rate of discount remains unchanged at 4 per cent. The cable reports discounts of sixty to ninety day bank bills in London 3¼ per cent. The open market rate at Paris is 3 per cent and at Berlin and Frankfort it is 5¼@5½ per cent. According to our special cable from London the Bank of England lost £938,930 bullion during the week and held £31,250,743 at the close of the week. Our correspondent further advises us that the loss was due to the import of £6,000 from miscellaneous sources, to shipments of £388,000 net sent to the interior of Great Britain and to the export of £557,000, of which £296,000 were to Germany and £261,000 to France.

The foreign exchange market has been almost destitute of feature during the week, and though the tone has been easy the changes in rates were unimportant until Friday. Commercial bills have been plentiful, but they seem to have been promptly absorbed, for rates for them have not yielded, indicating that the offerings have not been unduly pressed upon the market. It is reported that the majority of the investment bills which have run to sight have been exchanged for long, thus renewing the investment operation, and there have been some new purchases of seventy-day sterling in the expectation of profit resulting not only from the interest account but also from the probability of rates for short being maintained at about current figures until the maturity of the investment bills. As an indication that this will be the case, it is reported that bids have been made this week for the delivery late in February of short sterling at about 4 84¼. There have been some offerings of security bills against stocks and bonds bought for European account, but these offerings have not been large. Business in demand checks and in cable transfers has been limited to current requirements, and trading in them between bankers is small. The remarkable steadiness in rates for short sterling is very readily explainable. Presumedly all the foreign bankers are, to a greater or less degree, interested in the investment operations in exchange which are now the feature of the market. It is essential to the success of these operations that rates for short sterling shall not be unduly depressed, but that they shall be maintained at figures which will enable maturing long sterling investment bills to be sold or exchanged at a profit. It is also desirable that gold imports from Europe in any large amount shall be prevented if possible. The metal is not needed here, while it is required in the European markets, and especially in London and in Berlin. If there should be a drain of gold to New York while Germany's requirements were unsatisfied, doubtless important financial interests abroad would be deranged.

While present conditions of exchange prevail, the foreign bankers can realize a greater profit by carrying long sterling bills here than by forwarding them for discount, loaning the accumulated credits resulting from the payment of commercial bills in the London and the Berlin markets. With from $40,000,000 to $50,000,000 of long sterling carried here, and, at present at least, under absolute control of the foreign bankers, the maintenance of rates for sight sterling at figures just above the gold-importing point, and high enough to afford a profit upon investment bills, does not seem to be difficult. Something may, however, occur at any time to derange these plans of the foreign bankers. It is quite possible that one or more of their number may find it profitable to import gold, in which case the concert would be broken and general importations of gold might follow. Then again a relaxation of the financial tension abroad, from any cause, which threatened to reduce or to extinguish the profit on investment sterling holdings, would most likely be followed by efforts to market maturing bills. Therefore while the speculation in exchange seems, at the moment, to be safe enough, it is attended with some risk, and the hazard will naturally increase in proportion to the augmentation of the volume of investment holdings of long sterling. The steamer which left Sydney, N. S. W., October 23 with $2,750,000 gold for San Francisco will be due next week, and it is reported that a similar amount of gold will arrive at San Francisco from Australia early in January. Imports of gold reported at the Custom House during the week were $925,189, of which $733,400 consisted of French gold coin consigned, $193,000 to Heidelbach, Ickelheimer & Co., $289,500 to the National City Bank and $250,900 to Müller, Schall & Co. The imports of foreign gold coin and bullion passing through the New York Assay Office from April 28 to December 3, inclusive, amounted to $57,706,630 47. This is exclusive of American gold coin imported during this period.

Though the Bank of British North America reduced the sight rate for exchange on Tuesday to 4 85½, the range for nominal rates has remained unchanged during the week at from 4 82 to 4 82½ for sixty day and from 4 85½ to 4 86 for sight. Rates for actual business remained unaltered throughout the week until Friday, at 4 81½@4 81¾ for long, 4 84¼@4 84½ for short and 4 84¾@4 85 for cable transfers. The market was inactive though generally easy in tone, and the business was almost wholly confined to commercial bills, of which there was a plentiful supply, to long sterling, for which there was a good demand, and to maturing investment sterling, which was exchanged for long. The tone was a shade firmer on Thursday, though not quotably higher. On Friday rates were advanced one-quarter of a cent for long and short and half a cent for cables. The following shows daily posted rates for exchange by some of the leading drawers.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE AND THE COLONIAL QUESTION.

We must confess to a little feeling of disappointment on reading that part of President McKinley's message which deals with our new dependencies. It had seemed to us that a calm and thorough discussion of the various problems and alternatives evoked by Spain's territorial cessions was quite necessary at the present time, and that its introduction in the regular message of the Chief Executive would be particularly timely. The sooner the present nebulous drift of public opinion in this matter can be brought to a focus, through the clear outlining of what is actually before us, the better not only for the people but for the legislators.

The President, it is true, does not ignore the question of our new acquisitions, but defers its consideration. "Such discussion," he adds, "will be appropriate after the treaty of peace shall be ratified." It may be that Mr. McKinley has thus only postponed recommendations on the matter, and has done it out of courtesy to the Senate. Silence on the subject may have been intended as a concession to legislative dignity. Since, however, the question of endorsing the peace treaty itself is very largely bound up with the territorial problem concerned in such endorsement, the desire for suggestions at once was deeply felt. This very week, in advance of any Senatorial vote upon the treaty, we have seen a resolution proposed in Congress declaring explicitly that the colonial system cannot be established under our present Constitution. The offering of that resolution would not of itself materially affect or interest the public. But it so happens that there has also been published during the same period the report of the Commissioners on Hawaiian administration, who distinctly recommend that this first of our ocean acquisitions be erected into a territorial government similar to that of Arizona or New Mexico; with, of course, the ultimate privilege, at the will of Congress, of incorporation into sovereign statehood.

These two incidents illustrate how fast events are moving, and they prove, we think, the very serious danger that events will move faster in this matter than sober public opinion. When it is kept in mind that the hasty vote of a single day in both houses of Congress will decide irrevocably this vital question, and that the people at large have certainly reached as yet no definite conclusions, it seems to us that public policy calls for a declaration from the Executive with an urgency which wholly supersedes questions of diplomatic conventionality.

For ourselves, we are distinctly opposed to the formal admission even of Hawaii on any basis looking towards eventual statehood. The in orporation of these islands as a territory under existing laws may conceivably be planned with the honest purpose of keeping them permanently on such a status—as Alaska, for example, has been kept during the twenty-two past years. But if this is the purpose of the statesmen who have reported on the question, they are taking small account of human nature and American history. If the internal history of our Government during this generation has taught anything, its teaching is that a territory will be admitted as a State the moment a dominant party discerns in such an act an obvious partisan advantage at a critical juncture of Congressional politics. To prove the truth of this assertion, we refer our readers to the chapter of recent legislation when, in a single session of the Fifty-first Congress, statehood responsibilities were hastily thrust upon six Territories, whose aggregate population barely amounts to-day to one-fifth the population of New York State alone. It is generally believed that this sudden and wholesale proffer to frontier communities of a large representation in the Federal Legislature was immediately induced by the narrowness and uncertainty of party majorities in that particular Congress. Whether this explanation is altogether true or not, no one can shut his eyes to the powerful temptation presented for such action at such a time.

Nor is this conspicuous episode of 1889 and 1890 the only case in point. We may appeal still further back to the notorious instance of Nevada, admitted to statehood in 1864, with a total population smaller than that of an average third-rate eastern city, and with substantially no increase in the thirty-four subsequent years—admitted avowedly for its influence on Congressional majorities. We do not question the wisdom of Mr. Lincoln's action, from the single point of view of the critical situation with which he had to deal. What we do, however, wish to emphasize, is the political truth, as plainly illustrated by the experience of Utah as by that of Wyoming, by Montana as well as by Nevada—that territorial government under existing laws cannot be permanent, and that it paves the way with unerring certainty to sovereign statehood, with two representatives guaranteed in the Federal Senate to each new arrival in the Union. We hardly need to demonstrate to our readers what has been the actual influence on our Upper House of the experiments of eight and nine years ago. But it is not perhaps equally well known to every one how strong a body of opinion exists among our people, hostile on fundamental principle to the maintenance of territorial governments when there can be discovered the least apology for statehood.

We believe that this problem must be confronted and settled in the decision on a government for Hawaii. It may be settled in advance of any decision on the Philippines and Porto Rico; if so, we cannot help suspecting that legislation on our earliest island acquisition will fix the precedent for the ceded Spanish colonies. For this reason, we notice with regret that the President, even in the matter of Hawaii, merely expresses his belief that the commission's recommendations "will have the earnest consideration due to the magnitude of the responsibility resting upon you to give such shape to the relationship of those mid-Pacific lands to our home Union as will benefit both in the highest degree." But nothing can ensure such earnest consideration, in our judgment, except a thorough review of the situation by the head of the Government; and since Mr. McKinley has postponed such executive review, we trust at least that he will supplement this week's message, at a very early date, by a distinct discussion of our problems alike in Hawaii, Porto Rico and the Philippines, and by the outlining of the Administration's views. It seems to us, indeed, that whether people agree with Senator Vest or not in his resolution of last Tuesday, they must at least admit that he has performed a public service in submitting his positive declaration that all territory acquired by our Government "must be acquired and governed with the purpose of ultimately organizing such territory into States suitable for admission into the Union." This is a proposition submitted in such a form that people may clearly make up their minds about it. Whatever may be the wisdom or motive for the principle thus set forth, it touches the very root of our important problem.

It is scarcely necessary for us to say, however, that we cannot agree with Senator Vest in his general position on the question. Assent to the flat proposition that our Government ought to hold no territory, except with a view to its eventual construction into statehood, is bound to be governed by the further question, what new territory is our Government to acquire? The two problems are inseparable. Senator Vest himself, we think, would hardly venture to submit the double proposition that the United States annex Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippines, and that it forthwith take the necessary steps towards their incorporation as qualified members of the Union. His own constituents, we are very sure, would protest in no unmistakable language against such an intimation. But if the Senator and his sympathizers do not mean to propose such disposition of the Spanish cessions, what will they have us do with them? Are we to return the islands to Spain, cede them to England, or set them up as native republics? These questions must presently be answered, and it is precisely for this reason that we regret the absence of a definite proposition from the Administration. It is the function of an opposition, not primarily to propose but to criticize executive plans and policies, and even the opposition is at sea just now, in the absence of any clean-cut outline of policy by the governing party. We trust neither they nor the general public will be left long in this position.

As to the two new acquisitions regarding which some definite statements have been made by the Administration Party, we have a word to add. The bill proposed by the Commissioners on Hawaii lays down provisions for the suffrage beside which the recent new Mississippi constitution is a marvel of liberality. No regulations could be much further removed from a free ballot and an equal vote than the clauses withholding the franchise from alien laborers, who make up very nearly one-half the total population, and fixing, in a country of small incomes, a heavy property qualification for the vote for local Senators. We do not say that these restrictions are unwise; on the contrary, it strikes us that the Commissioners have been honestly forced to such conclusions by their study of real conditions. But, not to mention the immense disadvantage of giving a possible balance of power in some future Federal Senate of our own to an island in the middle of the Pacific Ocean, what kind of material for statehood is presented by an electorate bound and fettered with such restrictions as these?

In the matter of Cuba's governmental future, the President declares explicitly that "as soon as we are in possession and have pacified the island, it will be necessary to give aid and direction to its people to form a government for themselves." In taking this position Mr. McKinley is consistent; he could take no other stand, it seems to us, in view of the solemn Congressional declaration, in last April's intervention resolution, that "the United States hereby disclaims any disposition or intention to exercise sovereignty, jurisdiction or control over said island, except for the pacification thereof, and asserts its determination, when that is accomplished, to leave the government and control of the island to its people."

We presume that for similar reasons Congress will follow the President's lead in guaranteeing self-government to the Cubans. But whether such government could contain the elements of permanence, whether the situation of the island under it, with the guerrilla element released from the restraining influence of our troops, would not be as bad as that under Captain-General Weyler, we confess ourselves reluctant to predict. The political future of Cuba is to our mind almost if not quite as uncertain as it was when intervention was under debate at Washington. Not without significance, in current discussion of the matter at home and abroad, is the evident assumption that Cuba is certain to drift sooner or later, through force of circumstances, into the direct control of the United States. The English have a shrewd way of drawing parallels between our occupation of Cuba and their own occupation of Egypt. The points of difference are manifest, but there are undoubtedly many strong and suggestive elements of similarity. This, however, is a part of our war problem which may be left, more safely than the others, to work out its own solution. The one obvious inference, in the case of Cuba as in that of Hawaii and the Philippines, concerns the future possibility of annexation as a sovereign State, even at its own request. Before any such petition, however presented, is considered, the people of the United States may as well make up their mind, once for all, whether they propose to grant a share in their own Federal Government to island communities which have proved their incapacity to govern themselves.

THE READING REPORT.

The annual report of the Reading Company, the first since the reorganization, makes a favorable impression. And this for a double reason: (1) Because of the fullness and clearness with which the accounts and operations are presented, and (2) because of the nature of the results disclosed. When one contrasts the present report issued in folio form and embracing fifty pages of matter, covering every detail of the company's doings and affairs, with the meagre and insignificant annual statement formerly put out, one is forced to recognize that the reorganization, besides working a change in the financial condition of the property, has at the same time been attended by a departure in the company's methods and policy in the matter of enlightening security holders and the public as to its affairs.

The fiscal year of the company formerly ended November 30 but now ends June 30, and the report before us covers the nineteen months from November 30 1896, when the new company took hold, to June 30 1898. Comprehensive tables are given showing the results for the even year ending June 30 and making comparison with the corresponding twelve months of previous years. The appearance of the report has been delayed because it was first submitted to expert accountants for examination and scrutiny, and the security holders now have the satisfaction of seeing the certificate of Messrs. Haskins & Sells (who a few years ago were called in to aid in devising a new system of accounts for the United States Government) attached, testifying to the correctness of the accounts and statements. Through the courtesy of the managers we have been favored with an advance copy of the report.

As far as the fiscal results are concerned, the satisfactory and encouraging feature is that these results are very much better than expected. Some writers have recently (basing their arguments wholly on the known bad state of the anthracite coal trade) seriously contended that another reorganization of the company would shortly have to be undertaken. It is, therefore, an agreeable surprise to find that the road has passed very creditably through a trying period and that there is absolutely nothing in the condition of the company, or its situation as to revenues, on which to rest the lugubrious predictions that have been circulated with so much freedom.

We speak of the period as having been a "trying" one, and that is an all-important point to remember in considering the outcome for that period. No interpretation of the results would be worth anything that ignored that fact. The coal trade has been unsatisfactory many times in the past, but we think we are within the mark when we say that never has it been so bad as during the last year or two. More than that, in the whole of this period the conditions have been steadily growing worse. It hardly seems worth while to cite facts in support of a statement whose correctness is so well known to all, and yet it may serve to emphasize the unfavorable nature of the situation, in the mind of the reader, to note the influence of that fact as reflected in the exhibits of the stanchest of the anthracite properties. Take the Delaware Lackawana & Western for example. That road has for several years shown a deficiency (and an increasing one) in meeting its dividends. On the operations of the twelve months of 1894 the shortage was only $196,656; for the calendar year 1895 the deficiency was $479,339; in 1896 it was $509.260. For 1897 there was according to the report a small surplus ($76,300), but examination of the accounts discloses that this was wholly the result of severe economies in operations—that the gross revenues recorded a still further falling off. The present year, it is needless to say, the outlook has been even less promising. What is true of the Lackawanna is true also of the Delaware & Hudson. The reader need hardly be told how gloomy the accounts have latterly been regarding this property, the stock having at one time been sold down to 93 on the strength of them; and while these accounts have undoubtedly been exaggerated (as we have several times taken occasion to point out), there can be no question that they have found underlying support in the adverse situation of the coal trade, which has been subjecting all the anthracite carriers to a severe test. The seriousness of the situation may perhaps be best judged when we recall that in the case of this great property, where the dividends only last year were reduced from the basis of 7 per cent per annum to 5 per cent, the possibility of a further cut was openly suggested—a suggestion which we are bound to say has not been widely credited.

It must also be admitted that the results as to the Reading itself as they have been presented from month to month have had a somewhat discouraging look. Last September the company gave out a preliminary statement covering the operations for the nineteen months to June 30. It dealt only with the final result, and showed that for this period the new concern had barely earned its fixed charges. As it was not possible at that time to give details indicating the way the figures had been made up, very naturally rather unfavorable conclusions were drawn from the bare statement of such an apparently indifferent outcome. Now, however, that we have the full report, the figures assume a different aspect. It is seen that there is really much for encouragement in the year's operations. The figures in the report differ somewhat from those in the early preliminary statement, being a little more favorable, but they do not essentially change the general character of the exhibit. For the twelve months ending June 30 1898—that is for the fiscal year ending with that date—there is a surplus over and above all obligatory charges and expenses in the amount of $1,376,420. This is a sum sufficient to pay the full 4 per cent on the $23,000,000 of 1st preference stock outstanding (the amount of this stock issued is $28,000,000, but somewhat over $5,000,000 is held in the company's treasury), with a balance equal to about one per cent on the amount of 2d preferred stock outstanding.

As it happens, none of this surplus on the operations for the late twelve months was available in payment of dividends, it being offset by an almost equally heavy deficiency on the operations of the previous seven months, from November 30 to June 30. This deficiency for the seven months amounted to $1,243,127. Hence, taking the entire period of 19 months since the new company has been in control, the result is a surplus of only $133,293. The deficiency for the seven months referred to possesses no significance as bearing on the earning capacity of the property, for those months in every year comprise the period of dulness in the coal trade when earnings are always small. Figures are incorporated to indicate the result with the previous five months included. In that way the total covers a full year and the deficiency is reduced to $579,134. Moreover, we may say that with charges no heavier in that year than they were in the late year, there would have been no deficiency at all but a surplus of nearly $300,000. In the year mentioned the saving in fixed charges through refunding of outstanding bonds at a lower rate of interest and the various reductions in the rental charges of leased lines had not yet gone into effect.

Thus analyzed, the showing is satisfactory in both years. The striking fact is that the final net result for 1897-8 is about a million dollars better than that for 1896-7. How, it will be asked, was this improvement possible in face of the depressed state of the coal trade? The answer to this question serves to throw a flood of light on the way the business of the company is being broadened and developed. The company managed to add slightly to its anthracite shipments, having carried 9,464,598 tons in 1897-8, against 9,230,238 tons in 1896-7, an increase of 234,360 tons or 2·54 per cent. This is very good, considering the conditions prevailing in the anthracite trade. But if there had not been progress in other directions there could not have been improvement in the final result such as that indicated above. We find, in the first place, that there having been no opportunity for growth in the anthracite line, the road added enormously to its shipments of bituminous coal. In 1896-7 the traffic in bituminous coal had been only 2,432,938 tons; for 1897-8 it was 3,517,069 tons, an increase of considerably over a million tons, or 44½ per cent. As a result of this and the small gain in anthracite, the gross revenues from coal were increased almost four hundred thousand dollars—$396,219. At the same time the merchandise traffic was enlarged over 1½ million tons—in exact figures, 1,538,589 tons, or 18·48 per cent. This gave an increase in the revenues from that class of traffic of more than seven hundred thousand dollars—$708,139. There was likewise moderate expansion in the passenger traffic and in the passenger revenues.

But when we note that the company earned a surplus of $1,376,420 above all expenses and charges, in one of the very worst years ever experienced in the anthracite trade, we do not reveal in full the favorable nature of the exhibit disclosed. As in the year preceding, some heavy outlays were made for renewals and improvements, and these were all charged to expenses and deducted from earnings before arriving at the surplus above given. Nothing has been charged to construction account since the new company has been in existence. It is not necessary to go into the details of these renewal and improvement outlays, as the report does that so fully; but the reader will get an idea of the extent of the same when we say that for the Railway Company the equipment renewals were $341,782 and the "improvements" $360,222; while in the case of the Coal & Iron Company the cost of the new work at the collieries was $630,624. The three items together, it will be observed, aggregate $1,832,628. It is reasonable to suppose that the expenditures of this character will diminish hereafter. Indeed, new work at the collieries has already begun to call for less, the outlay for this purpose in 1897-8 at $630,624 comparing with $836,781 in 1896-7.

Nor should the fact be overlooked that the company made its surplus on very low average rates for coal and passengers. On this point the report we are sure will furnish some surprises to the average reader. We are so accustomed to hear of the high tolls exacted by the anthracite carriers in carrying coal to market that one is inclined to pause when one discovers that in the late year the Reading averaged only 7·14 mills per ton mile on its coal shipments, this comparing with 8·26 mills in the year preceding. It is the merchandise traffic, and not the coal traffic, on which the rates are above the ordinary, the average for 1897-8 having been 1·042 cent against 1·165 cent. On this merchandise traffic, too, the haul is short and the train load small—the former only 69⅝ miles, the latter 129¼ tons. The coal traffic shows clearly the efforts at increasing economy in operations. With an increase of 20·45 per cent in the amount of transportation service rendered (that is, in the number of tons of coal moved one mile) the increase in train mileage was only 7·62 per cent, nearly 12 per cent (11·92 per cent) having been added to the train load, raising it to the large figure of 294½ tons. Rates on the Reading's passenger traffic have long been low, and in 1897-8 fell off a trifle more, bringing them down to only 1·645 cent per passenger per mile.

Altogether, therefore, the report presents many encouraging features. It comes, too, at a time when the outlook in the anthracite trade has materially brightened. The colder weather has stimulated the demand for coal and the revival in general trade is operating slowly but surely in the same direction. At the same time the prospect seems good for more harmonious relations between the different carriers, which is perhaps the best feature of all. The Sherman Anti-Trust Law forbids anything in the nature of a pool or combination between the various interests, but there can be no doubt that efforts have been making for some time to bring about a better understanding and that according to the best information obtainable regarding so delicate a matter, these efforts seem likely in the near future to be crowned with a large measure of success. In the Reading case, one further favoring circumstance is to be noted. In the new fiscal year the monthly returns have been rather poor thus far, net earnings for the combined companies for the four months to October 31 having fallen $556,921 behind. This, we are informed, has been due in no small measure to the fact that Mr. J. S. Harris, the President, was sick during the summer months. Mr. Harris has now recovered and is again at the helm.

RAILROAD GROSS EARNINGS FOR NOVEMBER.

Railroad gross earnings continue highly satisfactory. We present below our compilation for the month of November, and while the improvement over last year is only moderate—reaching on the roads reporting $2,187,476, or 4·58 per cent—its significance or importance is not to be measured by that circumstance. It must be borne in mind that the gain is cumulative, that the present year's increase is additional to and comes on top of an extraordinary increase, both in ratio and amount, in the corresponding month last year. Indeed, our statement at that time showed the most striking improvement ever recorded in any early compilation prepared by us. The increase then aggregated $8,981,448, or 20·79 per cent, and so general was the growth in revenues that out of the 131 roads contributing returns only 7 fell behind. It is after this expansion of nine million dollars, in November 1897, that we now have the further expansion of $2,187,476, or 4·58 per cent. Viewed in that way the result is certainly in the highest degree encouraging. The following carries the comparisons as to the totals back to 1894.

The conditions were generally favorable but not uniformly so. Our industries were in an active state and the volume of general trade was undeniably larger than a year ago. Yet there was one drawback which acted as a bar to full industrial activity. We refer to the elections, which were this year, because of their character and importance, much more of a disturbing influence in affairs than last year in the same month. There was a disposition to wait and see the result of the vote and its effect on the complexion of the new Congress. Of course this applies only to the first part of the month. When it was found that the elections fulfilled the most sanguine expectations business affairs were conducted with more confidence than at any previous time for years.

In rate matters there was much room for improvement. Rates were unsatisfactory last year, too, but matters have been going from bad to worse during the last ten to twelve months, and practically everywhere rates were cut and there was a breaking away from agreed schedules. The weather likewise was to an extent adverse. There were some severe storms, extending over large areas and accompanied by heavy falls of snow, and while the effects were not permanent, they acted as temporary drawbacks. Here in the East we had the latter part of the month (on the 26th and 27th) a blizzard which blockaded the railroad lines all over the New England States, though it is only fair to say that the roads from that section of the country find only slim representation in our list.

In the South, the cotton movement in the aggregate was in excess of that of a year ago. But there was considerable irregularity as between the different parts of the Southern country. The shipments overland amounted to 348,898 bales in November 1898 as against 327,943 bales in November 1897. The receipts at the Southern outports reached 1,747,822 bales, against 1,705,491 bales; but at quite a number of points they were considerably smaller than last year.

The grain movement in the West was a positive favoring factor of large dimensions. After a tremendous increase in the movement last year, there was the present year still further expansion. Taking wheat, corn, oats, barley and rye combined, the receipts for the four weeks ending November 26 in 1898 were 73,405,716 bushels, against 65,173,590 bushels in 1897, being an increase of over 8 million bushels. But even here there has been no uniformity in the movement; for oats, barley and rye the receipts have in each case been below those of a year ago, while as regards wheat the gain has come from the spring-wheat sections, several of the winter-wheat points showing a falling off. The details appear in the following.

At Chicago, usually the most favored point, the receipts for the even month show on the whole but slight additional gain following the exceptional increase last year. Considerable expansion occurred in the deliveries of live hogs, which are reported at 959,129 head, against 817,547 in November 1897, but it deserves to be noted that this does not indicate the character of the live-stock movement as a whole, in which the deliveries were but 24,678 car-loads, against 25,524 car-loads.

As regards the separate roads, the character of the returns is accurately reflected in the comparisons of the grand totals reviewed above—that is, the gains are quite moderate in amount, even the largest of them, but this is owing simply to the fact that they follow very heavy gains last year. Take the Northern Pacific—its gain is only $146,020, but it is additional to $958,088 gain in 1897. So the increase of $172,001 for the St. Paul comes after $589,925 increase the previous year. Below we show all changes the present year exceeding $30,000 in amount, both increases and decreases.

It will be seen that there are only three companies which have lost more than $30,000. The Canadian Pacific is one, the Western New York & Pennsylvania is another, and the Missouri Kansas & Texas, a Southwestern system, is the third. As a group, the Southwestern roads make perhaps the least satisfactory exhibit. A six-year comparison for this group is annexed.

—Mr. William H. Porter, Vice-President of the Chase National Bank, will, at the end of the year, sever his connection with that institution, to becomes active Vice President of the Chemical National. Mr. Porter's banking education began in the Fifth Avenue Bank, from which so many prominent down-town bank officers have gradnated. On the reorganization of the Chase National he was made Cashier, and was later promoted to the Vice-Presidency. He is very popular in banking circles, and is regarded as among the best equipped bank officers in the city.

Monetary and Commercial English News

London, Saturday, Nov. 26, 1898.

Although there is a decidedly more hopeful feeling than there was, there is very little increase in the amount of business doing. In the Stock Exchange itself members are speculating somewhat more in American securities, and outside professional operators are likewise buying upon a small scale. But the general public is holding aloof.

Likewise there has been a sharp rise in Italian securities, but that is chiefly owing to purchases in Italy and France. Here there is very little doing. For many years past there has been not only an estranged political feeling between that country and France, but there has been a war of tariffs. The attempt to renew the commercial treaty, though often resumed, has always failed up to now. Of course, France somewhat suffered. But the injury was very much greater to Italy. France does not herself grow enough of grapes to manufacture all the wine she consumes and sells, and she is therefore under the necessity of buying foreign grapes. Formerly her imports were far larger from Italy than from any other country. But since the lapse of the commercial treaty she has bought from other countries, notably from Spain, and this has caused heavy losses to the wine growers in Italy. The imports of grain and other produce into France have likewise fallen off.

Suddenly the negotiations, which have been held in abeyance for a considerable time, have been taken up again and a new treaty has been agreed upon. Only the broad features are as yet known. But the agreement has been welcomed both by France and Italy. For Italy the object was entirely economic. For France it is mainly political. The foreign policy of France for many years past is now recognized to have been a great mistake. She has pursued a course which has not only kept up the hostile feeling between herself and Germany but at the same time she has estranged Great Britain and Italy. In Paris it is believed that the French Government hopes it will be able to bring about some kind of political understanding with Italy. Whether that can be done remains to be seen.

Beyond all question the attempt of Italy to play the part of a great Power, and to keep up a large army and navy, has imposed an expenditure upon her altogether beyond her resources. And if, without breaking off her connection with Germany and Austria-Hungary, she can come to such an understanding with France as will enable her to reduce her armaments, that will undoubtedly benefit very greatly her finances.

But, although the conclusion of the treaty has caused an increase of business in Italian securities, both in France and in Italy, the Paris Bourse continues very depressed—and no wonder: for the Dreyfus case continues to be a source of the gravest apprehension, while the naval and military preparations, both in this country and in France, keep anxiety awake.

It would seem that the reports concerning our own naval preparations have been greatly exaggerated. Speaking at Edinburgh, on Wednesday evening, the Chancellor of the Exchequer said that undoubtedly preparations had been and were still going on. But the navy was at the outset so completely prepared that the outlay was immensely smaller than had been supposed. Instead of millions, he assured his audience, the cost would not exceed a few thousand pounds. However that may be, apprehension undoubtedly exists here at home, as well as upon the Continent, and therefore it is very natural that the public should refuse to engage in new risks of any kind. Indeed, even investment is upon an unusually small scale just now.

France is a very rich country and can bear a heavy burden. But her taxation all the same is exceedingly burdensome. The new budget just submitted estimates the revenue for next year at the enormous sum of over 140 millions sterling, and the budgets of the Departments and the Communes amount to about 20 millions sterling more, so that the total sum to be raised for national and local purposes will be 4 milliards, or 160 millions sterling. In Italy, although there is improvement, the finances are in a very bad plight, and the new Secretary of the Treasury admits that next year and the year after there will be heavy deficits.

The crisis in Berlin continues. In Austria-Hungary matters are going from bad to worse. And as regards Spain, it is certain that there will be a financial crash, even if there is not civil war.

On Saturday last the Imperial Bank of Germany raised its rate of discount from 5½ per cent to 6 per cent, showing that the stringency in the money market is certainly not abating. The Bank, moreover, is buying gold in the open market in London. It is buying largely in Paris, and it is said that it is obtaining gold likewise from St. Petersburg and Vienna. There was some speculation as to whether the Bank of England would meet this by advancing its rate. But the directors have decided not to do so. Indeed, they were not in a position to put up the rate with any effect. A fortnight ago they were borrowing upon a considerable scale, and if they had continued their policy they would probably be now in a position to control the outside market. But they suddenly stopped borrowing, and the result is that rates have fallen away, and that consequently unless they begin to borrow again more actively, they cannot possibly get control of the market. Next week, the end of the month, will necessarily tighten up the market, and if the Bank of England then decides upon borrowing, it may be able to advance its rate. But whether it will do so will depend largely upon the action of the great French banks.

Since the decision to withdraw Major Marchand from Fashoda the French banks have stopped calling in money from Germany, and if they continue that policy the crisis in Berlin, no doubt, will be got over with comparative smoothness. But if the great French banks call in much money, the consequences may be serious. In any case there will be a large lock-up.

Meanwhile the money market in India remains easy, and the India Council continues to sell its drafts successfully. It offered for tender on Wednesday 40 lacs, and the applications exceeded 806¾ lacs. The whole amount offered was alloted at prices ranging from 1s. 3 29-32d. to 1s. 3 31-32d. per rupee. Subsequently a small amount was sold by private contract.

The following return shows the position of the Bank of England, the Bank rate of discount, the price of consols, &c., compared with the last three years:

WALL STREET, FRIDAY, DEC. 9, 1898.—5 P. M.

The Money Market and Financial Situation.—The features that have been conspicuous for some time past continue to affect favorably the security markets, which have been active and buoyant this week. Not only at the Stock Exchange, but in private offices, there is a constant demand for investment securities that is quite unusual. As a consequence, the quotations for bonds, including Government, State and railway issues, have in several cases been the highest ever recorded. The President's Message and the reports of the heads of the various Departments seem to have been generally well received in Wall Street, and so far as they relate to matters of interest here are encouraging.

The two features which attract increasing attention are the phenomenal trade situation and the condition of the money market. As to the former, the history of recent months tells its own story; but what may we not expect when contracts are being made for the transportation from this country to Birmingham, England, of street railway equipment, including cars, rails, wire and iron poles, as we are informed by transportation agents is now the case. The money market situation is well illustrated by the fact that 8¼ per cent railway bonds are in some cases selling within 2½ per cent of their face value and 4 per cent securities of the same class bring a premium of from 10 to 12 per cent. At the same time it is not surprising to find banks, and especially savings banks, discussing the proposition, which now confronts them, and which will soon become imperative, of paying a lower rate of interest to depositors.

The open market rates for call loans on the Stock Exchange during the week on stock and bond collaterals have ranged from 2 to 2½ per cent. To day's rates on call were 2 to 2½ per cent. Prime commercial paper quoted 3 to 4 per cent.

The Bank of England weekly statement on Thursday showed a decrease in bullion of £938,930, and the percentage of reserve to liabilities was 50·60, against 49·50 last week; the discount rate remains unchanged at 4 per cent. The Bank of France shows a decrease of 1,975,000 francs in gold and 4,725,000 francs in silver.

The New York City Clearing-House banks in their statement of Dec. 3 showed an increase in the reserve held of $439,500 and a surplus over the required reserve of $17,097,950, against $18,337,575 the previous week.

State and Railroad Bonds.—Sales of State bonds at the Board include $53,000 Virginia fund. debt 2 3s of 1991 at 80¾ to 81¼, $55,000 Virginia 6s deferred trust receipts, stamped, at 7 to 7¼, and $4,000 Tennessee settlement 3s at 95 to 96.

Notwithstanding the marked and altogether unusual advance which has been recorded for many issues of railway bonds during recent months, as shown by the subjoined list of quotations, the demand seems to be increasing, and the tendency of prices is still upward. Business at the Exchange increased from about $4,500,000, par value, on Tuesday to $6,440,000 on Thursday, and included a large number of issues. There was a conspicuous absence of high-grade bonds, however, and a notable increase in the movement of issues recently inactive. Of the latter, St. Louis Southwestern are prominent and have advanced about 3 points within the week.

Railroad and Miscellaneous Stocks.—The stock market has been firm in tone and quotations are generally higher, although erratic or sensational changes in the railway list are rare. The volume of business was good, transactions on Thursday amounting to nearly 540,000 shares. The anthracite coal stocks were again prominent, led by Delaware & Hudson, which advanced over 6 points. Chicago & Alton was bid up over 5½ points on limited transactions, and Central Pacific advanced to the highest quotations recorded during the current year. The local traction stocks were favorites, Metropolitan Street Railway and Brooklyn Rapid Transit selling about 8 points and 2 points, respectively, above their previous highest records.

The miscellaneous list is gradually assuming its former position of relative prominence, but here, too, fluctuations were in most cases within a comparatively narrow range.

RAILROAD EARNINGS.

The following table shows the gross earnings of every STEAM railroad from which regular weekly or monthly returns can be obtained. The first two columns of figures give the gross earnings for the latest week or month, and the last two columns the earnings for the period from January 1 to and including such latest week or month.

The returns of the street railways are brought together separately on a subsequent page.

b Net earnings here given are before deducting taxes.

c Deducting other expenditures for repairs, replacements and general expenses, net income applicable to interest on bonds in October was $171,574, against $102,573 last year, and for January 1 to Oct. 31 $1,046,880, against $1,184,810. This is the result in Mexican dollars treated (according to the company's method of keeping its accounts) as equivalent to 80 cents in United States money—that is, depreciation beyond 20 per cent has already been allowed for.

Interest Charges and Surplus.—The following roads, in addition to their gross and net earnings given in the foregoing, also report charges for interest, &c., with the surplus or deficit above or below those charges

STREET RAILWAYS AND TRACTION COMPANIES.

The following table shows the gross earnings for the latest period of all STREET railways from which we are able to obtain weekly or monthly returns. The arrangement of the table is the same as that for the steam roads—that is, the first two columns of figures give the gross earnings for the latest week or month, and the last two columns the earnings for the calendar year from January 1 to and including such latest week or month.

Street Railway Net Earnings.—The following table gives the returns of STREET railway gross and net earnings received this week. In reporting these net earnings for the street railways, we adopt the same plan as that for the steam roads—that is, we print each week all the returns received that week, but once a month (on the third or the fourth Saturday) we bring together all the roads furnishing returns, and the latest statement of this kind will be found in the CHRONICLE of November 19, 1898. The next will appear in the issue of December 24, 1898.

ANNUAL REPORTS.

Annual Reports.—The usual index is omitted this week but that published in the CHRONICLE of Dec. 3 covers all reports published to Nov. 26, inclusive.

Reading Company.

(Report for 19 months ending June 30, 1898.)

The remarks of President J. S. Harris and various tables showing the company's earnings, balance sheets, etc., will be found on pages 1216 to 1219, while in the editorial columns is given an article reviewing the results of operations for the nineteen months covered by the report.—V. 67, p. 579.

San Antonio & Aransas Pass Railway.

President T. E. Stillman says in part:

General Results.—The decrease in passengar and freight earnings resulted from the effects of the partial failure of the cotton crop, interruption of traffic by quarantine restrictions in September and October, and reduction in freight rates, particularly on cotton, enforced by the State Railroad Commission. The total number of tons of commercial freight carried was decreased 7·32 per cent and the number of tons carried one mile decreased 2·11 per cent. The average receipts per ton per mile were 1·876 cents, against 2·002 cents in 1897, a decrease of 9·29 per cent.

Physical Condition.—There was expended during the year for construction and improvement $113,804, which includes $12,374 for the cost of new brick passenger station at Yoakum and $30,203 for equipment, mainly for equipping cars with air brakes and automatic couplers—a total of $144,010, which was charged to capital account.

The physical condition of the property has been fully maintained, and it is being improved as renewals become necessary, as will be evident from the character and amount of material used in making renewals. Betterments and additions are made to the property as required by the increasing business. Of the 1,436 freight cars in revenue service there remain but 69 to be equipped with air brakes and 39 with automatic couplers. Of the 60 cars in road service 20 are equipped with air brakes and 20 with automatic couplers.

Payment of Equipment Trust Notes.—Equipment trust notes to the amount of $683,065 have been paid since the property passed into the hands of the present owners. The monthly payments on the $139,453 outstanding June 30, 1898, are at the rate of $8,700 per month. The final payment on the 46 box cars purchased under agreement dated March 26, 1897, was made on August 1st of this year. After that date the payments to be at the rate of $7,144 per month.

Statistics.—The earnings, expenses, charges, etc., have been as given below:

Maritime Canal Company.

(Report dated Dec. 5, 1898.)

The annual report transmitted to Congress this week by Secretary Bliss says the company has issued 10,145 shares of stock for which $1,007,840 has been paid in. Other receipts have brought the total amount of cash received up to $1,150,421. For construction work the company has paid $1,146,-

$30 in cash, 31,900 shares of stock of the par value of $3,199,000, first mortgage bonds aggregating $150,000 and its obligations for $6,705,000 of first mortgage bonds. In payment of rights and franchises the company has also issued stock to the par value of $18,000,000,

The liabilities of the company consist of the amounts still due under concessions granted to the company; of the $6,705,000 of bonds before mentioned, which are due to the assignees of the Nicaragua Canal Construction Co. for work and labor done and materials furnished; and of cash liabilities outstanding amounting to $100,000. The assets of the company consist of its unused capital stock, of $318,500 first mortgage bonds, 2,420 shares of capital stock received in liquidation, together with concessions, rights, franchises and the plant and other property.—V. 67, p. 29.

International Packing Company.

(Statement for year ending Oct 31, 1898.)

No interest was paid on the company's $2,438,000 of debenture 6s on Nov. 1. At the third annual meeting held recently President A. Stamford White explained that for the six months ending May 1, 1898, there were net profits of $121,469, from which the semi-annual interest of $73,140, due in May last, was paid, but that there had since been a deficit owing to the keen competition which during the recent summer and early autumn months kept the price of live hogs relatively higher than the cured product. The war brought some profitable business, but advanced prices just at the time the heaviest summer receipts of hogs began, so the summer opened at the high point for hogs, with a gradual depreciation thereafter. The consumptive demand, however, was the largest ever experienced, and the company killed no less than 639,237 hogs.

The statement of earnings compares as follows:

GENERAL INVESTMENT NEWS

Reorganizations, Etc.—Defaults, Reorganization Plans, Etc.—The usual index is omitted this week, but that covering the items published to November 26, inclusive, will be found in the CHRONICLE of December 3.

American Linseed Oil.—National Linseed Oil.—Incorporated.—The American Linseed Oil Co. filed articles of incorporation at Trenton, N. J., on Monday. The company is organized to carry out the plan of consolidation and reorganization as described in the official circular cited last week.

As to the volume of business, the same circular says:

The quantity of linseed used for crushing purposes in the United States at the present time is about 16,000,000 bushels, yielding about 40,000,000 gallons of oil (or 800,000 barrels), and 300,000 tons of linseed cake, worth in the aggregate about $22,000,000. The average price of oil for the last ten years has been about 40 cents per gallon, the range having been from 25 cents to 60 cents. In May last it was 45 cents, and to-day it is 35 cents per gallon. The manufacturers who use linseed oil we id rather pay a uniform price of 40 cents than have the wild fluctuations of the past few years. The present revenue law protects linseed by a duty of 25 cents per bushel. The linseed oil manufacturer is protected by a duty of 20 cents per gallon, or at the rate of 80 cents per bushel.

The linseed crop of the country is limited, and the manufacturers of oil comp te against each other in the purchase of this, their raw material, ther by causing, within a few months, the price of seed to fluctuate from 80 cents a bushel to as high as $1 40. At the present time the various companies are actively operating in 12 different States more than 30 mills, with numerous smaller stations, the capacity of which is more than sufficient to supply the country. Each of these mills has formerly been running independently and competing with all the others, both in purchase of seed and the sale of the product. It is estimated that the total economies in concentr tion of manufacture, insurance, purchase of supplies, saving in commissions in purchase of seed, in selling expenses, in distribution of seed to the mills and distribution of output, will amount to eight cents per bushel making a total legitimate saving of $960,000 on the 12,000,000 bushels the new company should crush the first year.

There has been two short recent periods when the companies in question have acted in some degree of harmony in the matter of price on oil alone. At such times they have made as high as $1,948,598 in one year, and during a period of four years averaged $1,094,374 per year. Adding the above savings to the legitimate profits of the business as it at present conducted, it is estimated that, without an increase of price the new company, controlling over 85 per cent of the business, should be able to net annually not less than from $1,960,000 to $2,000,000.—V. 67, p. 1161.

American Tobacco—Continental Tobacco.—Sale Authorized.—The stockholders of the American Tobacco Co. on Thursday voted to sell the company's plug tobacco business to the Continental Tobacco Co., recently organized in the interest of the American Company to combine the various plug tobacco companies of the country.

Directors.—Harrison Drummond has been elected a director in the place of William H. Butler, who resigned to become President of the new Union Tobacco Co.—V. 67, p. 1001, 1002, 955.

Atchison Topeka & Santa Fe Ry.—Ratified.—At the annual meeting on Thursday the stockholders formally ratified the purchase of the San Francisco & San Joaquin Valley Ry. They also ratified the purchase and lease of various branches of the Atchison system, described in the CHRONICLE of Oct. 22, p. 841.—V. 67, p. 899.

Baltimore & Ohio RR.—Schuylkill East-Side Deposits.—Deposits of Schuylkill River East Side fives, consequent on the default announced last week, are requested with the Pennsylvania Company for Insurance on Lives & Granting Annuities of Philadelphia, and already a majority are in the hands of that company. The committee representing the bonds consists of the following:

Henry N. Paul, President Pennsylvania Co. for Insurance on Lives & Granting Annuities; Ralph P. Cullinan, President Beneficial Saving Fund Society; Samuel R. Shipley, President Provident Life & Trust Co; George Stevenson, of Seller & Stevenson, bankers; Julius A. Baller, capitalist, Philadelphia. The bonds, which were selling at 102¼, have since the formation of the committee, sold up to 108.—V. 67, p. 1159.

Brooklyn Ferry—Tenth & Twenty-third Street Ferry.—Lease.—The Brooklyn Ferry Co. has secured a ninety-nine year lease of the Tenth & Twenty-third Street Ferry at 5 per cent yearly on $550,000 bonds and a five per cent dividend on $1,000,000 capital stock. The lessee has the privilege of buying the stock at any time during the lease.—V. 67, p. 370.

Buffalo Gas.—Agreement.—The outlook for an agreement between the opposing gas interests in Buffalo is more favorable. Some modifications in the consolidation plan are proposed.—V. 67, p. 427

Central Ohio RR.—Official Notice.—A committee consisting of D. C List, William A. Fisher, James Sloan, Jr., Geo. C Jenkins and A. B Crane, gives the following notice to the common and preferred stockholders:

At a meeting of stockholders held at Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 29th ult., a majority of all the stock resolved to accept one $100 share of the new Baltimore & Ohio RR. Co. preferred stock and $15 in money for two shares of Central Ohio stock, common or preferred, and appointed the above-named committee to negotiate such a settlement with the managers named in the reorganization plan of Sept. 28, 1898. For the purpose of securing the effective co-operation of all stockholders the committee was instructed to invite deposits of stock with the Maryland Trust Co. of Baltimore under a stockholders' agreement. Copies of the stockholders' agreement can be obtained on application to the Maryland Trust Co., depositary. Stockholders wishing to participate in the benefits of the agreement must deposit their stock with the Maryland Trust Co. on or before Dec. 31, 1-98, in exchange for negotiable certificates of deposit.—V. 67, p. 1159.

Chattanooga (Tenn.) Electric Ry.—Mortgage for $625.000.—The company has filed a consolidated mortgage to secure $625.000 of 5 per cent bonds to the Maryland Trust Co. of Baltimore as trustee. President Warner says: "This new mortgage takes the place of the $325.000 old bonds now existing, the object being to reduce the interest from 6 to 5 per cent. We have made arrangements with the bondholders to refund the old bonds into the new consolidated loan covering the entire property."—V. 63, p. 1114.

Chicago City Ry.—$2.000.000 New Stock.—Official notice is given that at the annual meeting on Jan 16 the stockholders will vote upon a proposition to increase the capital stock "in an amount or sum not to exceed $2,000,000, at the option of the directors." The present stock of the road is $12,000,000. The new issue will provide the means for extensions and to pay for the outlay in connection with the purchase of the General Electric Ry.—V. 67, p. 691.

Chicago Great Western Ry.—First Dividend on Preferred A.—The company has declared a semi-annual dividend of 2 per cent on its preferred "A" stock "out of the net earnings for the half-year ending with Dec., 1898, payable on Jan. 31, 1899, to the holders of record on Dec. 31, 1898 and has ordered that the surplus earnings for said half-year applicable for dividends on said stock shall be carried forward and held available for the dividend at the end of the next half-year ending with June, 1899."

Of the preferred "A" stock $8,073,800 is entitled to dividends in cash, but the remaining $4,086,200 at present receives dividends only in scrip. Of the 4 per cent debenture stock, also, $3,220,000 is entitled for the time being only to scrip payments Cash distributions, however, will be payable on both issues when the $280,490 debenture scrip on hand June 1, 1898, shall have been paid out for interest or dividends per plan of 1894. The debenture interest due July 1, 1898, and Jan. 1, 1899, called for $78,800 of this, and the preferred stock dividend Jan. 31, 1899, calls for $61,724 more, making in the aggregate $150,524 thus far appropriated, and leaving of the $280,490 yet to be distributed $129,966, or a little more than enough to pay the July, 1899, interest and dividends on the shares concerned. After Jan. 1, 1900, all the shares will be on the same footing.—V. 67, p. 900.

City of Chicago Brewing & Malting Co.—Dividend Passed.—This English company has passed the December dividend on its £925 000 of 8 per cent preferred stock The full 8 per cent per annum was paid from 1891 to 1897, both inclusive, except in 1895, when none was paid.—V. 67, p. 73.

Columbus Hocking Valley & Toledo Ry.—Burke Suit.—The Ohio Supreme Court on Nov. 29 affirmed the judgment of the lower court in the case of the Central Trust Co. of New York vs. Judge Stevenson Burke et al., the former owners of the Columbus Hocking Valley & Toledo RR. Co

The suit involves the $8,000,000 bond issue by the former owners of the road, the Central Trust Co. moving for a dismissal. This was opposed by parties who are interested in securing a judgment against Judge Stevenson Burke and others, if possible, for $8,000,000. Judge Pugh, who passed on the case in the lower courts, held that the trust company could not cause the case to be dismissed, though it could bring the suit in behalf of the bondholders. An appeal was taken by the trust company and Judge Burke and his associates. The decision is adverse to Judge Burke and leaves the case open. Its effect is to send the case back to the Common Pleas Court, where bondholders may push it if they desire.

Reorganization Plan.—It is reported that the plan of reorganization will very shortly be announced.—V. 67, p. 955.

Consolidation Coal Co. of Maryland.—Called Bonds.—The following first mortgage bonds, dated January 1st, 1897, have been drawn for the sinking fund and will be paid on and after Jan. 1, 1899, at the Guarantee Trust Co. of New York at 105 per cent with accrued interest to that date, viz.: Nos. 136; 165; 305; 309; 367; 375; 390; 395; 410; 446; 461; 489; 530; 576; 578; 583; 586.—V. 66, p. 330, 339.

Borne, Chairman, gives notice that upwards of three-quarters of those loans having been deposited with the committee, the time for the deposit of bonds is extended to Dec. 15, after which date no bonds will be accepted except upon the payment of a penalty of 1 per cent.—V. 67, p. 1160.

Elmira Municipal Improvement Co.—Plan Operative.—The plan of reorganization (V. 67, p. 1109) has been declared operative. Further deposits may be made on or before Dec. 30.—V. 67, p. 1109.

Kodak, Limited—Eastman's Photographic Materials.—Official Circular.—A circular from the Eastman Photographic Materials Co., Limited, says in substance:

The new company contemplated by the contract with Mr. George Eastman has been duly incorporated under the title of Kodak, Limited. The capital of Kodak, Limited, not taken by the vendor and shareholders of the English and American Companies, has been offered to the public and largely over-subscribed. The shares to which our shareholders are entitled will be distributed shortly after January 16, 1899. The issue having been so successful Mr Eastman will not avail himself of the option reserved by his contract to pay the cash portion of the purchase money in shares.

The combined profits of the business continue to advance. The profits for the year ending 31st Dec., 1897, were £185,234; for the half-year ending 30th June last they were £103,459; for the three months ending 30th Sept. last they were £95,755; total £199,214. The profits for the nine months exceeded, therefore, those of the preceding twelve months. These latter figures were not received in time for publication in the prospectus.—V. 67, p. 1160.

Lehigh Valley RR.—Earnings in New York State.—The lines in New York State, total 597 miles, report for the quarter ending September 30 as follows:

—V. 67, p. 530.

Lindell Ry of St. Louis.—Purchased.—A syndicate represented by Brown Brothers has purchased the Lindell and Missouri Street railway systems of St. Louis for $8,502,000. The purchase price paid is on the basis of $174 a share for the $2,400,000 Lindell stock and $182 for the $2,300,000 Missouri stock.

The "St. Louis Republic" of yesterday said:

"The firm of Brown Brothers, which is managing the deal is acting, it is understood, for the Elkins-Widener syndicate. It is believed that within the next ten days every share of stock in the Lindell and Missouri properties will be acquired.

"It is reported that the franchise of the Central Traction Co. of this city has been turned over to Brown Brothers by Sullers McKee, of Pittsburg, at a valuation approximating $1,000 000. Whether the Hamilton syndicate lines [National Railway system] and the Southern Electric are to be absorbed can be only conjectured at this early date. The formal transfer of the Hamilton roads to Messrs. Spencer and Orthwein, of this city, was made on Wednesday, and sufficient time has not elapsed for formal action in that direction to be taken, even had the Eastern syndicate made an offer to the purchasers for the property."—V. 65, p. 69.

Little Rock Hot Springs & Texas RR.—Sale Jan. 5.—Judge Williams in the Federal Court at Little Rock has declined to confirm a private sale of this property to the syndicate headed by Col. S. W. Fordyce of St. Louis and has ordered the Master to advertise a public sale of the property for January 5. The upset price is to be $50,000.—V. 67, p. 320.

Logansport & Wabash Valley Gas.—Purchase.—A press despatch says the natural gas system of Converse, Ind., has been sold by the Converse Natural Gas & Pipe Line Co. to S. T. Murdock, General Manager of the Logansport & Wabash Valley Gas Co. The system, it is said, will be operated separately, and not as a part of the Wabash Valley Co.

Metropolitan Street Ry. of New York City.—Dividend Increased.—The quarterly dividend was increased this week from 1¼ to 1¾ per cent, putting the stock on a 7 per cent basis.

Extension of Underground Trolley Service.—On Thursday the underground trolley service on the Eighth Avenue line was extended to Hudson St. and via Hudson and Canal St. to Broadway. On Dec. 15, it is expected, the Sixth Avenue trolley service will be extended from Fourth St. to Rector St.

Air-Power Motors.—The air-power motor cars, it is expected, will begin to run on the Twenty-eighth and Twenty-ninth streets cross-town lines in January. They will also be available for emergency use on other lines. The new air compressor, and air power house at the foot of West Twenty-third Street are practically completed.

Electric Lighting.—The New York News Bureau says: "Much interest is excited by the reports that the company will shortly enter the electric-light field, or at least will furnish electricity for electric-light companies. Officers of the company have given mysterious hints to their friends of expected large increases in its revenue within a short time, and it is surmised this increase will arise from the furnishing of such power."—V. 67, p. 1110.

Metropolitan West Side Elevated RR. of Chicago.—Sale Jan. 4.—The foreclosure sale is set for Jan. 4.—V. 67, p. 789.

Michigan Portland Cement Co.—Mortgage Filed.—The company has made a mortgage for $1,000,000 to the Central Trust Company of New York as trustee.

Missouri Pacific Ry.—Payment of Floating Debt.—It is officially announced that the company has paid off a loan of about $1,300,000 due to Russell Sage and has thus canceled its entire floating indebtedness. The company authorized in 1895 an issue of $8,256,000 collateral trust gold notes, and these notes were accepted for their advances by all of the floating debt holders except Mr. Sage, who preferred to hold Iron Mountain 5s as security. These bonds having reached a fair price have now been sold by the company and the proceeds used to pay Mr. Sage.—Vol. 67, p. 1108.

New York Mutual Gas Light Co.—Consolidated Gas Co.—Standard Gas. Offer for Minority Stock.—The stockholders on Thursday received the following signed by James Stillman, a director of the Consolidated Gas Co:

"In accordance with an agreement with the Messrs. Vanderbilt, all of whose stock as well as that of others, in the New York Mutual Gas Light Co. has been purchased by the parties represented by us, we, on behalf of said parties, hereby offer to purchase the stock held by any other shareholder of that company at the rate of $300 in cash per share (the price paid to Messrs. Vanderbilt) at any time prior to January 7, 1899, upon transfer in blank of the certificates of stock."

It is thought by some that the sale merely represents a transfer of the ownership of the Mutual Company from the Vanderbilts and others to the Rockefeller interests. At the time of the organization of the Consolidated Gas Co. in 1882, it is said, the Mutual Company would have entered the consolidation had its charter not prohibited the company from consolidating or merging.

Position of Standard Gas Co.—Russell Sage, President of the Standard Gas Co., said Thursday that, so far as he knew, there were no negotiations now in progress for the consolidation of the Standard and the New Amsterdam or any other company. He had made no reduction in the price or valuation of the Standard properties from that which he gave when the idea of a general consolidation was first considered.—V. 67, p. 1161; V. 65, p. 516.

Nassau Electric.—Quarterly.—Earnings for the quarter ending September 30 have been reported:

3 mos. ending Sept. 30—	Gross earnings.	Net earnings.	Other income.	Interest, taxes, etc.	Balance, surplus.

National Ry. of St. Louis.—Southern Electric Ry.—Purchased.—President C. S. Spencer and other stockholders of the Southern Electric Ry. Co., it is understood, have practically closed a deal for the purchase of all the lines of the National Railway system, including 95·04 miles of track, of which 80·37 miles are electric and 14·67 miles cable.—V. 66, p. 284; V. 64, p. 809.

National Tube Works.—Dividend on Common Stock.—Besides the regular quarterly dividend of $1 75 on preferred stock, payable Jan 2, the company has declared a dividend of $1 on common shares payable Feb. 15. This is the first dividend on common stock for several years. The capital stock is $11,500,000, of which half is 7 per cent cumulative preferred. The company was organized in 1891 under the laws of New Jersey. Its works are at McKeesport, Pa., and its main office is at Boston, Mass. David W. Hitchcock is President and A. F. Luke Secretary and Treasurer.

Newark (N. J.) Consolidated Gas Co.—Bonds Over Subscribed.—The $1,000,000 of 5 per cent gold bonds offered last week at 102½ and interest by Redmond, Kerr & Co. and the Fidelity Trust Co. of Newark, were over-subscribed eighteen times.—V. 67, p. 1161.

New Orleans Traction Co.—Reorganization.—A committee consisting of R. M. Walmsley, Chairman, of Louisiana National Bank, New Orleans; E. W. Clark, Jr., of E. W. Clark & Co., Philadelphia, Pa., and John C. Russell, of Louisville, Ky., with A. H. Ford as Secretary, New Orleans, La., has been organized to effect a reconstruction of the company and its constituent companies. Copies of the plan can be obtained of any of the committee or of the depositaries. Holders of Crescent City RR. stock and consol. 5s, New Orleans City & Lake RR. stock, and New Orleans Traction stock and collateral trust notes are invited to deposit their holdings with the Continental Trust Co. of New York, Fidelity Trust & Safety Vault Co., Louisville, Ky., or United States Trust & Savings Bank, New Orleans, La. The plan is that already published in the CHRONICLE of Oct. 8, page 736.

Thirty-three and one-third (33⅓) per cent of the amount payable on New Orleans Traction Co. preferred and common stock, namely, $2 00 per share on the preferred stock and $1 00 per share on the common, is payable at the time of the deposit. Holders failing to deposit on or before Jan. 10, 1899, will have no right to participate in the plan, unless the committee should decide to extend the time.

The securities have responded to the plan, and the new preferred is quoted at 72 bid and the common 16 bid.—V. 67, p. 736.

New York New Haven & Hartford RR.—Sale of Stock.—The Company has sold $1,300,000 of its $3,161,400 treasury stock received in exchange for its New England stock holdings. The sale was for the purpose of retiring $1,000,000 New York Providence & Boston first mortgage 7s and $1,300,000 New Haven & Northampton 7s maturing Jan. 1, 1899, and $200,000 Housatonic RR. Co. rolling stock certificates which mature July 1, 1899. The New York Stock Exchange will list the new issue, making total stock listed $52,185,600.—V. 67, p. 1055.

New York Wyoming & Western RR.—Reported Purchase of Rails Confirmed.—An official of the company writes us as follows: "We are trying to conduct an enterprise on the principle of 'doing, not saying.' Yet, as the fact is generally known—here, at least—I see no impropriety in saying that we have ordered 7,000 tons 95-pound rails, for the 'new road,' and expect to haul our coal over them." The road is intended to run from Scranton to tide-water at New York City, primarily as an outlet for the coal of the independent coal operators. It is said the Erie & Wyoming tracks will be used into Scranton.—V. 66, p. 1046.

Nicaragua Canal—Maritime Canal—Interoceanic Canal Co.—Bill Reported by Senate Committee.—At Washington on Wednesday the Nicaragua Canal Committee laid before the Senate a substitute for one of the sections of the Nicaragua Canal Bill now on the Senate Calendar, and also submitted the report of Chairman Morgan regarding that bill. The amendment does away with $4,500,000 of guaranteed bonds which the company was to receive under the original section, and provides that the amount which shall be paid to the Maritime Canal Co. for all its concessions of every kind, and as a reimbursement of all that it has expended on the surveys and other preliminary work, shall be fixed by a commission to be appointed by the President, and shall not exceed $5,000,000. On Thursday the Senate voted to take up the bill as unfinished business, and then adjourned till Monday.

The report of Senator Morgan gives a history of the Cardenas Menocal concession, and aims to establish the right of the Maritime Canal Co. to construct the canal both now and under an extension of the concession for ten years from next October. As regards the new Cragin-Eyre syndicate and its concession, the report claims the Nicaraguan officials had no authority to promise a new concession without consulting the United States and Costa Rica.

Cragin-Eyre Concession.—The following are excerpts from a translation published by the "New York Evening Post" of the contract made by the Nicaragua Government with the Eyre-Cragin (Grace) syndicate: The document, it appears, is not a concession, but only a promise of a concession to take effect on the expiration of the old Menocal-Cardenas concession, which runs until next October. The document shows that the Nicaraguan Government does not hold itself to be under any obligations to extend the old concession.

"THE NATIONAL LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY," DECREES:

The provisions of contract entered into between the executive power and Messrs. Edward Eyre and Edward F. Cragin for the construction of the interoceanic canal through the Nicaragua Isthmus is hereby approved in the following terms:

Whereas, the Government of the State of Nicaragua considers the opening of an inter-oceanic canal through the Nicaragua Isthmus to be a necessity for the development of the country and for the commercial interest of the world:

Therefore, the Government of Nicaragua, represented by Senor Manuel Coronel Matus and Messrs. Edward Eyre and Edward F. Cragin have made the following agreement:

The Government of the State of Nicaragua permits Messrs. Eyre and Cragin, their heirs and assigns, to enter into negotiations with the Maritime Canal Co. of Nicaragua for the purpose of obtaining the immediate rescission of the present law contemplating an interoceanic canal, known as the Cardenas-Menocal contract, and dated April 24, 1887, which contract shall terminate on Oct. 8, 1899.

Messrs. Eyre and Cragin, their heirs and assigns, agree to cause the organization of a company, which shall be called "Interoceanic Canal Co.," and which shall have for its object the construction of an interoceanic canal across the isthmus of Nicaragua. This company shall be organized within six months following the date upon which Messrs. Eyre and Cragin, their heirs or assigns, notify the Government that the Cardenas-Menocal contract has been rescinded, presenting at the same time proofs thereof, or within six months following the day upon which said contract shall have ceased to have legal existance from any other cause than that of rescission. The company shall be organized under the laws of such State or country as it may select, and shall have all the powers necessary to fulfill the duties and to enjoy the privilege conferred upon it by this contract.

The Government promises to grant to the said Interoceanic Canal Co. the exclusive right for the construction of an interoceanic canal in accordance with the condition hereinafter stipulated, but it is understood that the company cannot demand the fulfilment of this promise except after the rescission of the Cardenas-Menocal contract shall be obtained or after said contract for other reasons shall cease to have legal existence.

The company shall have all the rights and privileges enjoyed by mining enterprises, and in general all mercantile companies, and may deal in real estate, establish banking institutions, issue bank-notes, etc., etc.

Messrs. Eyre and Cragin, as a guarantee that the company will be organized in the time and form indicated in Article II., agree to deposit in the General Treasury of the State the sum of $100,000, American gold, within three days following the publication in this city of the decree of ratification of this contract.

Within four months from the organization of the company it shall deposit in the General Treasury of Nicaragua $400,000 American gold. This sum, as also that of $100,000 mentioned in the preceding article, shall remain in the possession of the Government (and while so held shall bear 4 per cent interest) to respond for the fines which the company may incur according to this contract.

It is understood that for the purpose of this contract the Cardenas-Menocal contract shall cease to have legal existence on the ninth day of October, 1899, and therefore all the foregoing stipulations shall take effect without necessity of further action, declaration or law on the 10th of October, 1899, or sooner should Messrs. Eyre & Cragin, their heirs or assigns, obtain the rescission of the Cardenas-Menocal contract.

In witness whereof we have signed this contract, in duplicate, in the city of Managua, on the twenty-seventh day of October, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-eight.

(Signed) M. G. MATUS,
E. EYRE
EDWARD F. CRAGIN.

It is expected to have the entire line finished by the middle of January. From the operation of the completed portion of the road in November there were 800 cars of cattle delivered to the Atchison Topeka & Santa Fe. To the latter Company the Pecos Valley road will be a valuable feeder, as it opens up one of the largest cattle sections in the country. According to Lancaster papers the earnings this year show a large increase.—V. 66, p. 83.

Petersburg RR.—Richmond & Petersburg RR.—Atlantic Coast Line Co. of Virginia.—Consolidation.—Pursuant to the vote of the stockholders, November 21, the Richmond & Petersburg is to absorb the Petersburg, and change its corporate title to the Atlantic Coast Line Co. of Virginia. The capital stock of the Richmond & Petersburg RR. company is $1,000,000, and under the consolidation act it may be increased to $3,000,000. For every $100 of the Petersburg stock retired $150 of class B Richmond & Petersburg, it is stated, will be issued.—V. 67, p. 1111.

Rapid Transit in New York City.—Official Statement as to Status of Affairs.—On Saturday last President Orr of the Rapid Transit Commission issued a long statement as to the proposed underground road. The debt limit of Greater New York, he says, has been greatly exceeded and the debt-incurring capacity to result from increased valuation will not be sufficient, he believes, for several and perhaps for many years to come to permit the expenditure of $30,000,000 by the city for this purpose.

Two courses only, he says, appear to be open to the board:

First. A request for legislation making the rapid transit road an asset exclusively of the county of New York (boroughs of Manhattan and of the Bronx) and, correspondingly, making the debt incurred for its construction a charge exclusively upon the county. If this plan were adopted, the necessary legislation would be a single act so as (1) to make the debt for the rapid transit road a charge upon the county of New York; (2) to make the road itself an asset of the county; (3) to provide some details about official procedure, sale of county bonds, etc.

Second. A request for legislation enabling the Rapid Transit Board, in its discretion, and if, for any reason, construction by the county is found to be impracticable, to frame and sell to private capitalists a charter for the road. Provisions of that character are already in the rapid transit law. The new bill would need simply to permit the Rapid Transit Board to avail itself of those provisions, notwithstanding the vote for municipal construction. This alternative is not open to the Board under the law as it stands. It must, however, be remembered that if recourse is to be had to private capital to build the railroad, it may quite possibly be necessary to enter once more upon the long and expensive process of obtaining the consents of property-holders (or the substituted consent of the Court), as well as the consent of the municipal authorities.

The counsel of the Rapid Transit Commission holds that there is no constitutional limitation upon the power of the county to incur a separate debt in addition to the indebtedness of the city, if empowered by appropriate legislation, provided always that the debt incurred by it shall not exceed 10 per cent of the assessed valuation of its real estate. Rapid transit, Mr. Orr says, is essential, and he believes the county may properly be made the medium through which it shall be secured. He does not believe in surrendering the franchise to a private corporation. He says: "the enormous profits derived by the private corporations to which the city has in the past granted franchises in the streets abundantly justifies the belief of our board that the city should not part with this great franchise if by any means it can itself reap the benefit of owning it."—V. 66, p. 1189.

Rochester & Irondequoit RR.—Mortgage for $125,000.—The company has made a second mortgage of $125,000 to the Rochester Trust & Safe Deposit Co., as trustee, to secure twenty-year bonds dated July 1,1898.

Rutland RR.—New Directors.—David Wilcox, Chester Griswold and Charles A. Walker resigned this week as directors, and were succeeded by Dr. W. Seward Webb, E. V. W. Rossiter and George Bird. The change is the outcome of the recent sale of Rutland stock by the Delaware & Hudson Canal Co.—V. 67, p. 952, 954.

St. Louis & San Francisco Ry.—Dividend.—The directors on Thursday declared the usual semi annual dividend of 2 per cent on the first preferred stock, but decided to postpone consideration of the dividend on the second preferred until the February meeting, at which time they will have the full statement of earnings for the six months. The second preferred received 1 p. c. in July, 1898. V. 67, p. 902.

Swift & Co.—Increase of Stock.—It is announced that at the annual meeting on Jan. 5 the stockholders will vote on a proposition to increase the capital stock from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000. - V. 67, p. 321.

Southern Ry.—Called Bonds.—Georgia Pacific Ry. equipment mortgage bonds, dated July 17, 1889, forty nine in number, have been drawn and will be paid at par, with coupons maturing Feb. 1, 1899, at the office of the Central Trust Co. on and after Feb. 1, 1899.—Vol. 67, p. 843.

Staten Island Rapid Transit.—Majority of Bonds Obtained.—No Deposits After Dec. 20.—The reorganization committee, J. W. Davis, Chairman, announces that, a majority of the issue having been deposited with the Guaranty Trust Co., no deposits will be received after Dec. 20 except at the discretion of the committee.—V. 67, p. 1111.

State Line & Sullivan RR.—Bonds Authorized.—The stockholders have authorized the proposed issue of $600,000 new bonds to refund the $280,000 bonds due Jan. 1, 1899, and for other purposes.—V. 67, p. 801.

Terre Haute & Logansport Ry.—Reorganized Company.—This company has been incorporated in Indiana as successor of the railroad company, whose property was recently purchased at foreclosure sale by J. T. Brooks, representing the Pennsylvania Co. The incorporators are James McCrea, J. T. Brooks, E. B. Taylor, L. L. Gilbert and S. C. Scott, all officials of the Pennsylvania Co. The capital stock is $2,000,000.- V. 67, p. 1111.

Third Avenue RR.—Union Ry. of New York City.—To Yonkers for Five Cents.—The Union Railway Co. began this week to run cars from 129th Street and Third Avenue to Yonkers, the fare being 5 cents.—V. 67, p. 1110, 951.

Twin City Rapid Transit.—Called Bonds.—The following Minneapolis Street Ry. bonds of 1880 for $1,000 each have been drawn and will be redeemed at 105 and accrued interest upon presentation at the Farmers' Loan & Trust Co., New York, interest ceasing May 1, 1899, viz.:

Nos. 8, 12, 69, 93, 126, 129, 142, 143, 176, 222, 247, 251, 266, 274, 300 330 333, 352, 356 and 383.—V. 66, p. 469.

Union Pacific RR.—Oregon Short Line Ry.—Merger.—Under date of Dec. 2 a circular has been issued to the Union Pacific stockholders reciting the action taken by the Board of Directors recommending the increase of the common stock $27,460,100, for the purpose of exchanging for Oregon Short Line stock, share for share. The stockholders will vote on the proposition at a special meeting to be held Jan. 10. The determining factors which led to the action on the part of the Union Pacific directors is officially outlined in an interview published in the "Wall Street Journal:"

All of the auxiliary properties requisite to the rounding off of the reorganized Union Pacific system, such as the Union Pacific Coal Co., the Pacific Express Co. stock, the Occidental & Oriental Steamship Co. stock, the desirable branches, covering something like a thousand miles, water works and divers other properties, have been acquired without creating any indebtedness beyond the $90,000,000 first mortgage bonds issued under the reorganization. The company is in consequence at the time financially in an extremely strong position, without any floating debt, and with considerable resources. To secure the control of the Oregon Short Line has at all times been one of, if not the most important, problem before those in charge of the reorganization and the directors of the reorganized company. While not quite one-third in amount of the stock of the Short Line was secured in the interest of the Union Pacific at about the time its reorganization became completed, liberal purchases in the open market had to be made at prices considerably above the then ruling prices for Union Pacific stock, to acquire control, but even with this it was not found possible to secure an actual majority until some of the Boston holdings were purchased en bloc about two months ago, the Union Pacific thus securing the control at the recent election. Without the Short Line, the position of the Union Pacific would be greatly embarrassed through the competition of the lines to Denver connecting through Colorado with Salt Lake City and Ogden.

As illustrating the vital importance to the Union Pacific of permanent control of the Oregon Short Line, carrying with it—as it does—the final control of the Oregon Railroad & Navigation, and thus insuring to the Union Pacific a direct line of its own from the Missouri River to the Pacific Ocean, the well-known fact is interesting that the outlet thus offered to the Pacific has been coveted by several other lines, which, if it had materialized, would have seriously crippled the Union Pacific. It was through prompt and decisive action on the part of interests identified with Union Pacific that the possibility of such a contingency was averted, but it cannot be said to have finally disappeared till the Union Pacific will have actually taken over the Short Line stock.

Because of these conditions, and because the earnings of the Oregon Short Line show a development entirely justifying it, the permanent acquisition of the stock has been determined upon. It has been thought prudent to effect this in a manner which shall not make it necessary to create any obligation or fixed charge to precede U. P. stock. The geographical position of the Union Pacific by the action just taken becomes not only forever assured, but it is moreover confidently expected that the earning capacity and the general position of U. Pac. stock will be materially improved.—V. 67, p. 1161, 1162.

United States Automatic Telephone Co.—Incorporated.—This company has been incorporated at Albany for the purpose of introducing throughout the United States a new "automatic" telephone, invented by Elias E. Ries. The directors are Mr. Ries, Israel Steinhart, H. A. J. Wilkens, Martin Loenstein and Henry J. Furlong. The capital stock is $1,000 000, the majority of which has been subscribed. The company's offices are in the New York Life building, where the new telephone is on exhibition. Mr. Ries declares that "It will cost less than half as much as the Bell telephone to install and maintain, owing to the fact that the magneto bells in each subscriber's box are done away with, and the work at the central office is performed much more swiftly and easily." The "New York Times" says:

The connections in the receiver are made through a drop of mercury. When the receiver is in an upright position the mercury lies in contact with a tip of iron, and by this connection the "talking" circuit is established. A button in the receiver's top is used instead of a crank for calling central. The current comes from a single generator in the central office, which can serve any number of subscribers, thus doing away with the magneto bell in each subscriber's separate box. This central generator, to supply 5,000 customers, would cost about $100, Mr. Ries estimates, as against a cost of $5 to put in each magneto bell.

Wilmington & Northern RR.—Committee Representing Minority Stock.—A majority of the capital stock having been purchased by the Reading Company without provision being made for the minority interest, a minority committee has been formed and calls for deposits. This committee comprises W. W. Kurtz, Charles S. Wuelen of Philadelphia and Samuel Bancroft, Jr., of Wilmington.—V. 67, p. 843.

—Attention is called to the offering by Messrs. J. Harmanus Fisher & Son, Baltimore, of $150,000 City of Norfolk 4 per cent bonds. See advertisement in municipal department.

—The Middlesex Banking Company, of Middletown, Conn., begins its twenty-fourth year of business with a notice to its bondholders holding bonds maturing in December of 1898 and January and February, 1899, that it will pay in advance, upon presentation, with interest to date of payment, all of the bonds maturing in those months, comprising seven series.

—The Cleveland Trust Co., Cleveland, and E. O. McNair, Buffalo, offer for sale $400,000 Detroit Railway first mortgage 5 per cent bonds. The bonds are an underlying mortgage, covering franchises, real estate, equipment, and all property owned or hereafter acquired. Particulars regarding the offering will be found in the advertisement on another page.

—Reports of condition December 1 of the national banks named below will be found in our advertising columns: City, Market & Fulton, Mercantile, Gallatin, Continental, Am. Exchange, Chase, Second and Fourth of New York; the Union and Continental of Chicago; the Fourth Street of Philadelphia and the Citizens' of Baltimore. OPERATIONS OF THE TREASURY.

* * * * * * * *

In the character of the assets there was such an improvement as to constitute a substantial gain in strength. The changes were an increase in gold and in deposits with national banks, while the losses were in silver and Treasury notes. With insignificant interruptions, the free gold, which stood at $139,867,158 57 at the beginning of the year, continued to increase until it reached $181,240,388 81 on May 4, 1898. After this, the extraordinary expenditures caused by the war, together with the depletion of the other forms of cash, compelled the use of gold in current disbursements, and drew down the Treasury reserve, by June 18, to $163,474,057 32. After that date the proceeds of the loan began to afford relief, and the reserve grew rapidly, until it reached $245,063,795 51 on October 7, 1898, the highest point this fund has ever attained. Since then the necessities of the situation have required an enlarged use of the coin in disbursements, which has had the inevitable result of diminishing the holdings, though only to an insignificant extent.

The first proceeds of the popular loan of $200,000,000 were received on the 14th of June, and from that date forward the inflow of money from this source has been rapid and constant. The total amount received up to November 1 was $195,444,187 62.

With the object of averting the possibility of financial stringency which might have been apprehended as the result of the drain upon the currency in circulation, the payment of the interest due October 1 on the 4 per cent loan of 1907 was anticipated, the maturing coupons being made payable on September 10, while the checks for the interest on the registered bonds were sent out September 20. Like anticipation was also made in the case of the interest falling due November 1. The total amount of the payments thus advanced was $9,815,116 85. With like purpose, under the circular of September 3, 1898, the Pacific Railroad bonds, which will fall due on Jan. 1, 1899, amounting to $14,004,560, were made payable, principal and interest, in full, with a rebate of one-half of 1 per cent. It was also directed that a large share of the proceeds of the popular loan be deposited in national banks, so that these funds, while at all times available for use, might, until needed, remain in the channels of trade. The deposits in national banks were thus increased by $66,775,610 88 between May 31 and October 31.

PUBLIC MONEYS.

The monetary transactions of the Government have been conducted through the Treasurer of the United States, 9 sub-treasury officers, and 194 national-bank depositaries. The amount of public moneys held by them on June 30, 1898, including those to the credit of the Treasurer's general account and United States disbursing officers, was $38,743,017 17, an increase since June 30, 1897, in amount of holdings of $22,784,283 35.

Since the beginning of the present fiscal year deposits on account of the new 3 per cent war loan have been received to the amount of $200,000,000, and in order to avoid a dangerous stringency which might be created by a too rapid absorption of funds into the Treasury, a large number of national banks was designated, under section 5153, Revised Statutes, as depositaries of public moneys, and public funds deposited therewith temporarily, thereby increasing the holdings of such depositaries to an amount exceeding $90,000,000.

LOANS AND CURRENCY.

The interest-bearing debt July 1, 1897, included unmatured United States bonds outstanding in the amount of $847,320,000. No material change appeared in the debt statements in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1898, but on June 13 a circular was published inviting public subscription for $200.000,000 3 per cent bonds authorized by the Act of June 13, 1898.

The public response to this invitation was not confined to any section of the country, and during the thirty days prescribed in the circular as the period for subscriptions there were received 232,224, of $500 and less, accompanied by full payment for the bonds, and over 88,000, in sums greater than $500, accompanied in each instance by a deposit of 2 per cent of the amount subscribed. The total of subscriptions of $500 and less was $100,444,560, and the total in greater amounts than $500, including certain proposals guaranteeing the loan, amounted in the aggregate to more than $1,400,000,000.

As provided by the circular, the allotment of bonds to subscribers of amounts greater than $500 began immediately upon the close of the books July 14, the smallest subscriptions being first allotted until those of $4,400 and less had been reached. There was a residue, ascertained to be about two millions and a half dollars, which was allotted pro rata among the subscribers of $4,500, each subscriber for that amount being awarded the sum of $1,300. Further below will be found a statement showing the number of subscribers, by groups, for amounts over $500, and $500 and less.

The bonds were dated August 1, 1898, and their preparation was carried on as rapidly as possible. Soon after that date the Department began their delivery, subscribers for $500 and less being the first to receive their bonds substantially in the order of the receipt and acceptance of their subscriptions. The delivery of the bonds to subscribers of this class was practically completed about the 1st of September, though there are still some undelivered, owing to incomplete address or some other irregularity not yet adjusted.

Before the delivery of the bonds to subscribers of $500 and less had been completed, the Department began the delivery on account of greater subscriptions. This has continued to the present time, and is still in progress, as subscriptions amounting to about $200,000,000 are still in part unpaid under that provision of the circular of June 13 which provided for payments in instalments of 20 per cent at intervals of forty days.

The amounts given as receipts are those actually collected during the fiscal years mentioned, but in many cases the money collected on the last day of June is not deposited until the 1st day of July, thus causing a discrepancy between the collections and deposits for the year.

The total production of distilled spirits, exclusive of fruit brandies, for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1898, was 80,762,213 taxable gallons; the total production for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1897, was 62,465,648 taxable gallons, showing an increase in production for the fiscal year just ended of 18,296,565 gallons. A further comparison of the two fiscal years shows an increase of 128,421 gallons in the production of apple brandy, an increase of 16,429 gallons in the production of peach brandy, an increase of 947,677 gallons in the production of grape brandy, a decrease of 409 gallons in the production of pear brandy, a decrease of 93 gallons in the production of orange brandy, an increase of 190 gallons in the production of apricot brandy, an increase of 48 gallons in the production of berry brandy, and an increase of 508 gallons in the production of prune brandy, for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1898, an aggregate increase of 1,092,771 gallons produced from fruits as compared with the previous fiscal year.

During the fiscal year ended June 30, 1898, there were produced 37,529,339 barrels of beer; the number of barrels produced during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1897, was 34,462,822, making an increased production for the year just ended of 3,066,517 barrels.

PUERTO RICO—THE MONEY SITUATION.

An important question, which will no doubt demand consideration in Congress at an early day, is the money situation in Puerto Rico. The existing currency of that island consists of silver coins known as pesos and centavos. The peso is of the weight and fineness of the Spanish piece of 5 pesetas, and corresponds in both respects to the 5-franc pieces of the Latin Union. Its bullion value, compared to the bullion value of the American dollar, is as 93·5 is to 100. The centavo is one-hundredth of a peso, and the smaller coins consist of pieces of 20 centavos and 40 centavos, these being the exact counterparts in weight and fineness of the Spanish pieces of 1 and 2 pesetas and the French coins of 1 and 2 francs.

The Puerto Rican coins bear no fixed relation to gold, not being anywhere redeemable in the yellow coin. They were introduced into the island by Spain in 1895, and by a forced exchange were substituted for Mexican coin, which had previously constituted the principal money medium. The best estimates obtainable place the volume of this silver money now circulating in Puerto Rico at 5,500,000 pesos. The fact that the Spanish Government put the same quantity of fine silver into the peso as it did into the 5-peseta Spanish coin indicates a purpose to have maintained the two on a parity. If so the purpose was not accomplished; the Puerto Rican coins quickly fell below the value of the coins of the home government, and have since had no established relation in value to them. The oscillation in value as related to gold coin has been constant, rising and falling as affected by the state of exchanges between Puerto Rico and its foreign markets.

It is unnecessary here to point out at any length the general evil results upon industry and commerce of a currency medium so out of harmony with the world's money as to induce a widely fluctuating rate of exchange. It may be instructive to consider them as illustrated in Puerto Rico. Situated as that island now is, with a circulating medium void of any established relation to the world's money of commerce—gold—it is exposed, to the fullest extent, to such evil results A brief statement of facts will make this apparent. Dating back to 1894, the peso has oscillated in its power to buy sterling bills on London, or bills on New York payable in American money, as follows: In 1894 the average value of the peso, thus tested, was 65 76 cents; in 1895 it was 60·38; in 1896 it was 63·95; in 1897 it was 60·10; in 1898 it was 58·70. But these averages by no means represent steady, continuous values. Each year, each day of the year, the fluctuation has been wide. The limit of this fluctuation was: in 1894, 18 per cent; in 1895, 20 per cent; in 1896, 10 per cent; in 1897, 11 per cent.

Upon this wavering, uncertain, variable money medium the commercial and industrial affairs of the island have been conducted. The determining influence upon the value of Puerto Rican money seems to have been the state of the foreign exchanges. When exports of island products—sugar, tobacco and coffee—were large, the desire to convert the value of these products, realized abroad, into the domestic money, creating as it did an extra demand for it, caused the peso to rise, or, what is equivalent, it caused exchange to fall. From whatever point viewed, the result was the same in its effect upon the producer—he was deprived of a just realization on his products. This unfortunate currency condition was a tax upon his enterprise and industry.

Contrariwise, when foreign bills were not in supply, because crops had been marketed, and when those engaged in importing wares and merchandise from abroad were under necessity of settling their accounts in London or New York, the offering of domestic money to the bankers and brokers in exchange for drafts on London or New York increased in volume, exchange rose in price, or, what is equivalent, the peso fell in its power to exchange for the world's money.

Whichever way looked at, the effect was the same in raising to the merchant, and through him to the consumer, the cost of all products purchased abroad. The domestic and the wage-worker were the unconscious but the real victims of these financial derangements. The only beneficiaries were the speculator and the exchange dealer, for to these two it is an axiom that the wider the range of fluctuation the greater the range for possible profits.

It is highly important that American capital should find no obstacles in its transfer to and from Puerto Rico if the United States and the island alike are to reap the benefits which ought to flow from their proximity, their new relations and from the enterprising commercial spirit of our people. A wide difference in the rate of exchange, occasioned by the use of a differing and unrelated currency, is a serious obstacle to the transfer of capital, as it is to legitimate industry. The obstacle can and ought to be removed.

It is therefore suggested that, at the proper time, action be taken by Congress to assimilate the currency of Puerto Rico to that of the United States, so far and so rapidly as this can be done without unduly disturbing existing conditions and contract relations in Puerto Rico. This, it is believed, can be accomplished by making customs dues in the island payable in American money, yet receiving the silver pesos and centavos at a fixed relation to our dollar. The limited amount of Puerto Rican money would thus find an important avenue where a uniform value on the basis arranged would be realized. This avenue would probably be broad enough to give the assurance needed to keep the peso and its minor subdivisions current through the island at the custom-house valuation. If any doubt should arise as to the sufficiency of such a provision, it could be made the duty of the Secretary of the Treasury to give American coin in direct exchange for the Puerto Rican coin at the custom-house ratio whenever in his opinion it should be necessary so to do in order to maintain the ratio established.

The rate or ratio to be adopted should be determined by the fair average of the Puerto Rican coins during the last three or five years in their power to purchase bills of exchange on London or New York. If the information necessary for fixing the fair ratio be lacking, the subject might be referred to a commission of experts, who, after hearing testimony from merchants, bankers, and wage-earners in Puerto Rico, could undoubtedly fix the ratio based upon the specific facts presented to them.

From information fairly to be relied upon, it appears that the island coins have had a value in domestic exchanges and in the purchase of sterling bills considerably above their bullion value, measured by the world's price for silver. It would seem just and wise to adopt this local value in the establishment of a fixed ratio to the United States standard. To adopt the bullion value of the currency in fixing such a ratio would seriously disturb existing conditions in the value of wages and work injustice to contract relations between debtors and creditors.

If a laborer's wages be 1 peso per day, and the average power of that coin to purchase what his needs require be equal to 60 cents gold, then to reduce the value of the coin in which he is paid to 40 cents would by so much destroy the reward of his labor, although his nominal compensation should remain the same. On the other hand, to raise the value of the peso to the value of our dollar (though the disparity in weight and fineness between our silver dollar and the peso is small) would operate to increase the labor cost to the employer to a point where the product obtained might not justify by its market price the cost of producing it. This, of course, would depress industry and throw labor out of employment.

Again, the relations between debtors and creditors call for equitable and just consideration. It is estimated that in the form of mortgages, etc., there is an indebtedness of some twenty or twenty-five millions, and that the current shorter-time credit obligations aggregate about the same in amount. The average value of the peso for some time past is the best measure of the value that was transferred when these evidences of debt were issued. To make an arbitrary change so as either to enhance or reduce its general average value would therefore work hardship and injustice. The average power of the peso, while widely fluctuating between the two limits, has ranged from 160 to 190—that is to say, at times 160 pesos were as effective in paying a debt or buying goods in London or New York as 100 American dollars; at the other extreme, it has required 190 pesos to be as effective as 100 American dollars.

Subject to correction from a better knowledge, I think all interests would meet in giving a fixed value of 100% to the peso—that is to say, the peso shall be maintained at the value of 60 cents, first by receiving it in payment for customs at that price; second, by giving for it, when required, American money at that rate of exchange. It is by a similar process that our own silver money has been kept on a parity with our gold coins.

It is not contemplated in the considerations here presented to retire the Puerto Rican coins—certainly not until the coins of the United States have become familiar and acceptable to the people. There are three things to which a simple people cling with tenacity—their language, their religion and their money of account. The peso and its fractional part, the centavo, are terms made familiar by use to the laborer and the tradesman. These coins, valued and fixed as above suggested, would no doubt for some time be preferred to the American coin, which to their minds would present the apparent contradiction of a coin of the same material, possessing less bulk and weight, yet carrying with it a higher exchangeable value. They would doubt at first, refuse to believe, and cling to the terms "peso" and "centavo," rather than adopt the really effective ones, "dollars" and "cents." Therefore the peso, if received through the Custom House or for other taxes or if received in exchange for American money at the Government agency, should be again disbursed or re-exchanged as demand from the people might require. In fact, it may be necessary, in order to give absolute steadiness to the peso, not only to receive or redeem it at a fixed price, to be again disbursed at the same price, but it may also be necessary to coin at our mints an additional amount of pesos and their fractional parts for use in the island. If, as suggested, customs dues be made receivable in American money and the peso be received as equal to 60 cents, there is little or no danger that it will fall below that value anywhere in the island. Being effective at 60 cents for customs dues, it will not be exchanged elsewhere for less. But this would not prevent its rising above that value.

It is now apparent that the influx of American money is having the effect to give the peso a higher value. The peso being the domestic money, familiar to all the people of all classes, it becomes desirable to exchange American money for the domestic, and the pressure to do this raises artificially the exchangeable price of the peso. The broker and the money changer know how to make the most of the opportunity. To counteract this operation, which tends to repress the introduction of capital in the form of money, it may be necessary, as before stated, to coin on Government account an additional stock of the domestic money, which shall be freely offered in exchange at the uniform price, this new supply, together with the old stock, to be received at the custom house or otherwise redeemed at the same price.

At the risk of prolixity, which the importance of the subject might excuse, I submit this additional thought for such consideration as it may merit. The present Puerto Rican coins carry the emblems of Spanish sovereignty. Whether or not additions to the coinage be made, new coins should be struck, of the same weight and fineness, upon which should be imprinted proper emblems of our new relations, and these should be substituted for the old. By melting up the old as they come in and by paying out the new, such a substitution can be easily and quite rapidly effected. Gradually, custom and use would establish American money, whether silver, gold or paper, as the medium of exchange and payment.

Then, it may be expected that the present Puerto Rican money will not be called for, American money and American terms of account and payment having superseded those now in use. Then, upon the Government—either of the island itself or upon the United States Government, as may be determined—the loss will fall resulting from the redemption of the Puerto Rican coins at an overvaluation. If the peso be rated at 60 cents, as herein suggested, and if the bullion in the coin remains at its present value of 40 cents, and, lastly, if the amount of the silver money referred to be correctly estimated at 5,500,000 pesos, the loss would amount to $1,100,000 American money. This would be the ultimate cost of relieving the island from the grievous ills of a bad currency system. The benefits would be immediate, and, it may be hoped, would be continuous for all time. The cost, when it began to be experienced, would be distributed over a series of years, and might easily be covered by proper appropriations from the revenues of the island.

The necessity of securing stability to the peso is fully recognized by all parties in Puerto Rico, although opinions differ as to the ratio which ought to be observed in relating it to American money. Suggestions have also appeared in favor of an immediate and coercive exchange of the insular coins for our money upon a ratio to be determined. While this could be made operative to introduce American money and American terms of account at an earlier period than by the course above recommended, it is open to some objections. It would throw confusion into the minds of the simpler-minded people and excite suspicion as to the purity of our intention. It would create an immediate deficit for the difference between the bullion value of their coins and the price for which they were exchanged. This deficit would have to be faced and provided for at once, while by the slower process that deficit would be spread over a period of years, and could be more easily met.

I have so far spoken as if silver coin were the only medium of exchange in Puerto Rico. Such is not the fact. The Spanish Bank of Puerto Rico, holding a franchise from the Spanish Government, has been privileged to issue its notes to the extent of three times its capital, and the note issues of this bank at one time outstanding have been as high as 2,500,000 pesos. Under the circumstances now existing the notes of the bank are not in favor, and it is not improbable that its affairs will be liquidated. This being so, the function which it has in the past discharged should be assumed and prosecuted, within proper legal limitations, by some one bank organized with ample capital and with the right to establish branches at convenient points and to issue its own notes to circulate as money. Or, if this should not be favorably considered, then an Act extending to the island the rights and privileges of the national banking system might merit approval.

NEW BOND ISSUE.

Under the caption of Loans and Currency above will be found particulars (in the way of information) as to the issue of $200,000,000 3 per cent bonds, authorized by the Act of June 13, 1898. When the bill was reported, which after amendment became the law, some doubt was expressed by those best acquainted with such matters whether bonds bearing so low a rate as 3 per cent could be sold except at a discount. There were substantial facts cited in support of such opinion. The then recent declaration of war with Spain had disturbed the always sensitive conditions of trade and finance. The morbidly timid along our eastern and northern coasts were in a state of more or less alarm. The simpler-minded depositors in savings banks made withdrawals of their funds; the commercial banks in the larger cities sympathetically suffered through loss of cash reserves to savings institutions. The rate of interest rose; the price of securities declined. Even old issues of United States bonds fell to a point where they would yield to the investor from 3·1 to 3·25 per cent per annum upon an investment then made. Such was the condition of the financial market in the latter part of April and the earlier part of May last.

There was another factor, however, which operated to insure a successful negotiation of the new loan at 3 per cent, which it is well to note. That factor was the self-interest of national banks. These institutions as a whole then enjoyed an unavailed-of privilege under the law to issue nearly four hundred millions in circulating notes. True, the condition precedent to the exercise of such privilege was the deposit of United States bonds, the price of which in the public market had so advanced as to destroy the motive of profit for the exercise of the privilege. Owing to the feature of the National Banking Act which restricts the issue of circulating notes to 90 per cent of the face of the bonds deposited as security, a 3 per cent interest bond at par, when used for the purpose indicated, yields better returns to the banks than 4 or 5 per cent bonds at the rate of premium then or now prevailing. It is demonstrable that the 3 per cent bonds at par would afford to national banks the means of obtaining through circulating notes a profit of substantially 1·4 per cent on the amount invested. That this profit would furnish a sufficient motive for the banks as a whole to take up $200,000,000 in bonds need not be argued; it is self-evident. These conditions practically insured the successful negotiation at par of the loan at the rate of 3 per cent. This was quickly perceived in the money market, and, joined to easier conditions in general finances, it operated to establish a prospective premium on the anticipated issue; in fact, at the moment when the Act was approved, the whole issue of $200,000,000 could have been sold at a premium of probably 2½ per cent. This could hardly have been foreseen, and it was evidently the opinion of Congress also that a wide distribution of the obligations among the people, at the uniform price of par, was of more value to public interests than the realization of a possible bonus from small groups of professional dealers. The discriminating mandate of the law was thus expressed.

The bonds authorized by this section shall be first offered at par as a popular loan under such regulations, prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, as will give opportunity to the citizens of the United States to participate in the subscriptions to such loan, and in allotting said bonds the several subscriptions of individuals shall be first accepted, and the subscriptions for the lowest amounts shall be first allotted.

Obedient to the fair spirit of the law, the Treasury Department sought by every means to extend the opportunity for subscription to all the people. Every newspaper in the United States was supplied with interesting and instructive information relative to the issue, which, with few exceptions, was patriotically and free of charge prominently displayed. Blank forms for subscriptions, with circulars of information, were supplied to more than 22,000 money-order post offices, every express office and all the banks. A period of thirty-one days was allowed for the receipt of subscriptions. A summary of subscriptions received, classified as to amounts, is here given:

SUBSCRIPTIONS FOR $500 AND LESS.

$200 to $280	9,902
$300 to $380	7,594
$400 to $480	7,698
$500 only	180,573

SUBSCRIPTIONS FOR MORE THAN $500.

$1,000 to $1,980	25,152
$2,000 to $2,980	10,349
$3,000 to $3,980	5,165
$4,000 to $4,400	5,223
$4,500	1,875
	59,626
More than $4,500	28,376

The burden of work thus suddenly thrown upon the Department it is difficult to fully comprehend. In the mere matter of names and addresses, the work of writing—by reason of necessary duplication—was equal to a detailed schedule embodying several millions of names, with the address—town, county, and State—of each fully extended. To accomplish the work imposed, an addition for three months or more of nearly six hundred persons to the regular working force of the Department was necessary. The Bureau of Engraving and Printing was correspondingly overtaxed. The immense increase in the number of bonds of small denominations, as compared with any previous issues, is a partial explanation. The acquisition and installation of twelve high-grade power presses, made in anticipation of increased operations, alone saved that Bureau from a complete break-down.

That the popular-loan method so successfully used on this occasion gave general satisfaction to the people is beyond dispute. Led to believe—whether justly or unjustly—that on former occasions advantage had been taken of public necessities by intermediaries who made unfair profit between the Government and the people, they hailed with satisfaction this attempt to deal directly with the citizen. There was a great moral value in this, difficult to estimate in terms of money, yet worthy of consideration in the mind of the statesman. Was the operation advantageous also from an economic standpoint? As already indicated, a bonus of perhaps five millions could have been secured by offering the loan to competitive bidding. That was the sacrifice made in order to place the loan directly with the people at the uniform price of par.

The Act now under consideration was no doubt influenced by the theory, if not definitely shaped on it, that the dissemination of Government securities among the people would attach the holders thereof by closer bonds of sympathy to the Government, and secure from all such a more zealous watchfulness over public affairs; for it is this kind of watchful interest which best secures the welfare and perpetuity of a free State. If this motive operated in the legislative councils, its practical value was not so permanent as could be hoped for. As before stated, allotments were made to less than 325,000 persons, aggregating $200,000,000. From the moment the bonds were issued until the present time a movement of concentration has been observable. At this time $77,361,000, the original holdings of about 116,000 subscribers, have passed into the ownership of 1,001 persons, firms and corporations. To this extent the moral value of private ownership has already disappeared.

The loan was promptly taken; in fact, it was subscribed for many times over. From this it may be assumed that similar results would follow on future occasions. It will not do to rest securely on such an assumption. In fixing the conditions of a proposed bond as to time and rate of interest, Congress is in essence formulating a proposal. The public—the investor—is yet to determine whether or not the proposal is satisfactory. Congress can not exactly hit the mark in advance. If it determines that the proposed bond shall not be sold at less than par, it must so fix the rate of interest and time of payment as to make the new security somewhat more attractive than oustanding issues—price now being considered. It must also make allowance for a disturbance in the previous market equilibrium. A large addition to a previous supply, other things being the same, tends to reduce the price, whether of commodities or securities. I repeat that in a legislative act it is impossible to forecast and exactly determine these ruling factors. Economically considered, the part of wisdom would seem to be to provide a sufficient margin of new advantages in interest, or otherwise, to float the loan successfully, and then allow the market, by fair competition, to reduce the margin thus provided to the narrowest limit. The new bonds were properly fixed at 3 per cent. Strict business logic dictated that they should enter into competition with the older issues; it was the only way by which their true relative value could be determined. Instead of this, the whole issue was offered to the subscribing public at the uniform price of par. Nevertheless, the experiment may be considered a justifiable one, and it worked out in a way to strengthen the national credit. From it, however, useful suggestion may be derived.

It is evident that an attempt by Congress to fix the proper rate of interest to justify an offer of the Government's obligations at par will always be subject to one of two dangers—

First, if the rate of interest be fixed too low—time and circumstances being considered—the loan may fail, with the consequence of serious derangements to the Treasury; or,

Second, if the rate of interest be fixed too high, and the issue offered at par, while it will be eagerly taken, the result may be a great economic waste to the Treasury.

The considerations thus presented lead to the conclusion that while the features intended to make the loan a popular one should be preserved, provision should also be made to secure to the Government the highest value attainable under the fair operation of the popular-loan principle. It is but a commonplace to allege that in its relation to business affairs the Government should have strict regard to the principles which everywhere and elsewhere obtain, i. e., in the purchase of material and supplies required for public use, it should—as it does—seek the lowest price for the same goods; and, conversely, in the sale of what it may have to sell, whether of material or of its own interest-bearing obligations, it should also seek to realize the highest attainable price. Should exigencies arise—not now observable—under which further issues under the Act of June 13 should be made necessary, it would seem wise to modify in some way the mandatory provision which would now require an offer of the same to the people at par. With a market premium of 6 per cent now established, and conditions remaining the same, such a proceeding would involve an inexcusable economic waste. On the other hand, as before noted, it is not to be expected that a previous market premium can be fully realized on a large addition to the market supply. I believe that, with some extension of discretionary power to the administrative department of the Government in this connection, the popular features of the present Act can be fully preserved, while the risk of undue sacrifice in maintaining that valuable principle may be obviated.

Under the provisions of the Act one tenth of 1 per cent of the amount of the bonds authorized was allowed to "pay the expense of preparing, advertising and shipping the same." The records show an average cost to the Government of 1 per cent as the expense of negotiating and distributing securities in the past. The experiment proves that the allowance of one-tenth for expenses in connection with the late issue was inadequate. Instead of one-tenth, or two-twentieths, of 1 per cent, the total cost rose to thirty-five hundredths of 1 per cent, distributed as follows:

Compensation of temporary clerks, messengers, etc.	$160,966 96
Engraving and plate printing	88,356 30
Paper for bonds	16,370 61
Stationery and printing blank forms	12,813 37
Typewriting machines, purchase and rent of	1,292 45
Electric fans, electric lighting, wiring, etc., in new city post-office building	2,056 43
Tables and chairs bought and rented	1,154 69
Miscellaneous	3,943 08
Total	$292,959 98

The express charges for carrying the bonds, it is estimated, will amount to $65,000, bills aggregating some $22,000 already having been audited and approved, but which do not appear in the above total.

CURRENCY AND BANKING.

In submitting my report, I feel it my duty to impress upon Congress, as best I may, the important subject of currency and banking reform.

It is the misfortune of evil conditions to produce derangement and hinder progress, which, if long continued, so accustom the subject of them to their existence as to create in him apathetic indifference to needful and healthful reforms. Indeed, it is a familiar fact that individuals, families and nations ignorantly suffer under the illusion that the very source of their affliction is itself an agency for good. Something like this has marked our financial history for thirty years. Making progress in spite of all obstacles and embarrassments to commerce and industry, we ascribe the advancement to the causes which have really hampered and disconcerted the forward and upward movement. With a financial system condemned by the judgment of the most experienced and wise, both at home and abroad, its evils illustrated in daily business, and emphasized in recurring panics, we fail, with an obtuse timidity, to face the questions which must be met and rightly solved before industry and commerce can be established upon enduring conditions of security.

The arguments against Government issues of paper money as a medium for commercial exchanges have been fully made and need not be repeated in detail. Its rigidity, its failure to meet demands where demand is most urgent, the dependency of the whole industrial structure upon the state of the revenue and public expenditure—these are important links in that chain of argument. Even in a state of foreign war the civilized demand of both contestants is for due respect to private property and individual contract relationships. How much more in a state of peace, in a free State, should private rights and contract relationships be given immunity from the incidental, though serious, effects now suffered through perturbations in Government finances. The menace to our domestic affairs, several times recurring from a threatened change in the standard under which they are carried on, and our foreign trade settled, has been a companion evil—perhaps the greater of the two.

The cure for these evils is not difficult to find. It lies within the easy range of Congressional action. Nor is the remedy one to inflict even temporary pains or penalties on the body politic. The healthful, stimulating effect of right action in these directions would be experienced with the first sense of assurance that the desired end was to be accomplished.

The proposal to substitute bank issues for Government notes is opposed with many honest prejudices and assailed by bitter denunciations. The first arise from a failure to comprehend the true philosophy of a paper currency, and must be patiently considered. The latter obscure the question by reckless statements, charging that all propositions for currency reform are bank conspiracies to exploit the people. Referring to such proposals, an eminent speaker recently warned his uninstructed hearers: "These banks will become cormorants to eat up your substance, control your politics, and warp the political views in all the communities. Send a man to Congress to help defeat this great evil." Such tirades against reason, and such appeals to prejudice and ignorance, the statesman must oppose by the simple truth. Is a system of bank credit currency, in its ability to meet the varying wants of an industrious commercial people, superior to the issues of Government paper money? If that question be answered affirmatively, it may be safely left to time to show that the nature of the banker differs not at all from the general nature of men in other callings. As every other man who gets an honest living must live by service rendered in the sphere of his activities, so the banker must perform faithfully and well his function or fail of his fair reward. The motives for his action are the same. It is not for the benefit of the banker, or any particular class, that the plea for currency reform is urged; it is urged on behalf of the whole people, who will be the recipients of the benefits thereof. And it is on this ground only that the claim is entitled to consideration.

I shall not be outside of my duty if I venture to point out, in at least one important respect, the advantages to the money districts of the country of a properly constituted bank currency. It may be done by fairly describing the course of the financial movement as it now goes on, and by presenting in contrast the movement as it would go on under the conditions advocated. It is a familiar fact that, in the period of harvesting and crop moving, the currency is strongly drawn from the centers to the country districts. When the movement is over, the currency again tends toward the centers. The currency flows to the center to pay loans occasioned by its use and other general indebtedness, and also to secure the benefit of interest to the country banker for a portion of his funds which in a dull period would otherwise be unemployed in his hands. At present, the currency so sent consists almost entirely of legal-tender notes and Treasury notes—that is to say, in the money which the law recognizes as lawful reserve. Thus received by the banks in the money centers, it becomes a reserve for deposits in the relation of one to four. Now, deposits may be increased by loans as wells as by the deposit of cash. A loan for ten thousand or a hundred thousand goes to the borrower's credit upon the bank's books, and swells the deposit account by so much. True, the borrower may check against this fund, but his check may also be deposited in the same bank, in which case it is a mere transfer to another account; or, if it be deposited in another bank and paid in money by the lending bank, it is still a transfer. The total deposits of all the banks are swelled by this original loan.

In confirmation that this expansive movement is fairly described, I quote from the New York "Herald" of November 13 as follows: "Comparing yesterday's [Clearing House] statement with that of five weeks ago, it appears that the banks hold 13 millions more money and have expanded their loans by the surprising amount of 51½ millions, the increase in 'deposits' resulting from these two items being no less than 66 millions." It can be easily perceived that this possibility of increasing loans against an inflow of reserve funds in the proportion of four to one is a temptation to which the city bank is likely to yield. It must be remembered that this inward movement of currency from the country occurs at the time of year when commercial activities are the least and the general requirements for the use of loans in the interior are the smallest. The effort of the banks at the centers to increase their loans causes interest to fall. The fall in the rate of interest causes interest and dividend-paying securities to rise. The rise in securities induces speculative buying. The speculative buyer becomes the bank's borrowing customer. The banker is thus enabled to "put out his funds," as he is apt to term it, though he really does no such thing. He keeps his funds, but, in the way described, he swells his deposit liability until his funds on hand are made answerable to the rule of one of cash to four of liabilities, or 25 per cent against his "deposits."

It is in the condition above described, with varying degrees of regularity and intensity, that the financial status is found when the crops in the West and South approach harvest—that is to say, a maximum of loans and deposits; a minimum in cash reserves. During the season until then, the country banker has found that his drafts and checks on his Eastern correspondents, distributed to his customers, supplied their needs for instruments of exchange and payment; but he finds that for the payment of farm wages, the purchase and transfer of farm products, such instruments are not adequate; cash is required for these purposes, either in metallic money or paper currency. This forces him to make requisition in the form of money by express on his Eastern balances. Nay, more; if crops be large and prices good, he is forced to supplement his own resources by borrowing for a period at the centers. His correspondent at the center, in meeting his requisitions for the money due his country customer, is obliged to take it from what had before constituted his legal reserve. This disturbs the equilibrium of relationships. To recover his position, he turns upon the Street and calls in a portion of his loans. If the interior banker, after thus calling for the balances due him, asks in addition for a loan, the city banker is often obliged to inform him that "money is very close" and he can not accommodate him. It must be noted also that the effort of the city banker to restore his impaired reserve by calling money from the street does not accomplish that direct result. There is no money "in the street;" it is all in bank vaults, and the total stock can not be augmented except by inducing it to come in from without. What does result is a forced liquidation, a fall in prices of securities, a rise in interest sufficient to induce outside money to come in. In this process the merchant and the manufacturer find it difficult to negotiate their credits. They also are told "money is tight," and that they must withhold applications for discount favors.

I forbear to follow into further detail the unprofitable and vexatious movement. Gradually, after more or less strain and anxiety, sometimes bordering on panic, sometimes resulting in panic, a readjustment is secured. Crops from the interior—not seldom forced from the producer's hands, with little regard to price, because of his inability to borrow from his local banker—move to the seaboard. The strain on the country is relaxed. Again currency in the form of "reserve funds" moves to the center. Again one dollar thus received becomes effective as reserve for four dollars of liability. Money is quoted easy, as the prospect for summer dulness becomes assured. "The Street" breathes easier, stocks and securities become "firm," and the movement toward an expansion in loans, with its attendant phenomenon of an increase in deposits, is again observed, to be again followed by restriction and probable distress as the active season in productive industry and trade again appears.

Whoever has followed this delineation of our financial movement, and those who are familiar with the facts which are thus portrayed, ought not to have trouble in perceiving that the bottom cause of the irregular and deranging effects described is to be found in a fixed volume of paper money clothed with full powers of a legal tender. Upon this money—itself a credit obligation—other credit obligations, in the form of bank deposits through bank loans, may be built up in the proportion of four to one. With the volume of paper money thus fixed—with no natural movement toward its retirement when not needed in legitimate trade—the tendency to build the four-story structure upon it as a permanent base is irresistible. The withdrawal of the base by those who really own it causes the structure to vibrate and threatens it with a fall.

Consider now, as briefly as may be, the practical working of a bank-note currency—non-legal tender—if substituted for the paper money issued by the Government. Verification may be found by those who will look for it in systems now current in France, Germany, Scotland and Canada; or, if our own records be preferred, the New England system of forty years ago, or those then in vogue in Indiana, Iowa and Louisiana, will be equally good examples. Under such a system the financial movement may thus be described:

Commencing as before with an inward movement of funds from the exterior to the centres, the money forwarded would then consist largely of bank notes. These received at the centres would not, like the legal tenders of the present, form a base for expansion. The desire to obtain legal money in their place would cause the banks receiving them to push them home for redemption in legal money, but the general effort in this direction would neutralize, to a large degree, the effect desired. Bank A, sending home the notes of Bank B, would be met, not by a payment in legal money, but as an offset by the presentation of the notes of Bank B. There There would be a mutual retirement of their respective bank-note liabilities. Of course, this precision in offsets would not be the rule, but the illustration shows the general effect to be the temporary retirement of a currency when it can not be circulated in the service of the country's trade and exchange. Observe this: The power to lend is not thus lost; it is temporarily suspended. When, with the recurring needs of the interior to handle its products of the farm, the factory and the mine, the power to issue circulating notes may be summoned into use, then the needs of industry will coincide with the profit-moving motives of the banker, and the full value of this latent power will be experienced, not in the centres, where bank notes are not needed and will not circulate, but in the interior, where raw products are raised, and where the busy wheels of shop and factory certify that labor wages are to be paid.

The power of the bank note, so temporarily suspended, will always be restored in full upon the call of industry. The power of our present currency, on the contrary, is not suspended. It is, as pointed out, inevitably misdirected. It artificially stimulates speculative activity in securities at the centres. It periodically absorbs the credit powers at times when they should be made serviceable to the whole country. It ministers to the speculator, it prejudices the producer, the merchant and the manufacturer, though at last all suffer from its deranging influences.

These are the reasons, the more important reasons, why our banking system should be reformed and made effective to commercial and industrial needs; and these same reasons with others not here set forth call for the elimination, in a safe and proper way, of the injurious interference in our currency system by the legal-tender paper money of the Government.

If it be conceded that the legal-tender money issued by the Government does not possess the qualifications to make it a proper factor in the country's exchanges of products and manufactures; if the fact also be admitted that it is a deranging and disturbing factor in its relation to industry and commerce, then the time has come to substitute for it a currency which will adequately, economically and safely meet the ever-growing needs of the country, rapidly developing, as it is, in the power of production, in the number of its people, and the importance of its domestic and foreign trade.

Can a bank-note currency be established which will be adequate, economical and safe, and thus serve, in a better way than is now served, the public needs? Limited by space in this presentation, I point to the countries before named, where these conditions are realized. Our neighbor on the north, Canada, may be cited as a near-by witness in the same direction. With power to issue notes as profitable employment for their use in productive industry can be found, the power has never been overtaxed or exhausted. The rates of interest have varied but little between the richer provinces of Ontario or Quebec and the sparsely settled districts of Manitoba. The terms of interest are substantially as favorable to the farmer of the West as to the merchant of the metropolis.

While these conditions, in contrast with our own, which stimulates the operation of credit at the centers and starves it at the circumference, are due in part to other features of its banking system, the influence of the currency is most important. Certain it is that were bank-note issues in Canada repressed by restrictive laws, as they are with us, and if the field of circulation these notes now occupy were filled with the legal-tender notes of the Dominion, the facilities of banking now enjoyed on the frontiers would not be afforded. The same tendency toward congestion at the centers and scarcity in the outlying districts would be there, as it is here, plainly observable.

It is not intended by anything here said to offer the Canadian system as a model from which we should make exact copy. In certain particulars it would not at present suit our different conditions. The right of the Canadian banks to issue their notes without any special pledge of security for their redemption; the law which gives to the note holder, in case of bank failure, priority of claim over the depositors, while not operative to perceived injury, under their system of large banks with small branches, might, if adopted here, with a multitude of small banks, each independent of the other, result in an unjustifiable invasion of the equitable rights of the depositor. The dangers in this regard are ably discussed and fully illustrated in the annual report of the Comptroller of the Currency. To his argument nothing need be added. While the question of terms is important in itself, it is nevertheless a subordinate one.

The facts set forth by the Comptroller relate exclusively to the proposition that the notes of a failed bank shall be a paramount lien upon the assets for their full value before any rights accrue to other creditors.

The issue of notes upon the general assets of national banks may be made perfectly secure without the requirement that the notes be a first lien upon their assets. It would only be necessary to award to the note holder the same ratable proportion of the assets which went to other creditors, and to provide that the amount required to pay the difference be obtained by an assessment upon all the national banks, collected ratably in proportion to their share in the circulation of this character. The vital question is, What percentage of assessment upon this circulation would be required in order to cover the losses to note holders in the case of failed banks? The experience of the national banking system demonstrates that the assessment would be insignificant.

The total circulation of failed banks outstanding at the time of failure, up to October 31, 1897, was $20,893,827. The loss upon these notes, if the security for them had been impaired in the same degree as the security for other liabilities, would have been $5,379,165, or an annual average of about $163,000. This loss would have been made good by a tax of about one-twelfth of 1 per cent per year upon the circulation of the solvent banks. A tax of one-fifth of 1 per cent upon the average circulation of the national banks since the foundation of the system would have paid such losses up to October 31, 1897, amounting to $5,379,165, and have left a surplus of about $9,000,000 in the guaranty fund.

Whether preference be given to the note holder, as in Canada, or he be made to take his share of risk with the depositor, as in Germany, France and Scotland, or whether the note holder shall be protected by the special pledge of security, as now provided in our National Banking Act, these considerations affect the question relatively, not absolutely. Under either of these conditions provisions may be made which will furnish to the country a paper money adequate to commercial needs, economical to the people and safe in its general workings.

In the nature of things, the banker is the proper agency for operating this important function. He must have motive for his action or he will not exercise it. Given this motive he will, like the laborer, the merchant or the professional man, be diligent in the employment of his powers. That this motive must be the motive of gain does not differentiate the banker from other working forces of society, whose actions are healthful and helpful to the social whole.

In my last report I ventured upon specific recommendations. These recommendations, if adopted and formulated into law, would, in my opinion, be curative of the evils herein pointed out. In House bills 10289 and 10333 are embodied a series of measures in some respects more meritorious. The measures therein proposed are the result of careful study by expert and experienced men. With some modifications—the reasonable fruit of full discussion—they would, I believe, meet the country's needs. I commend the subject to the early and earnest attention of Congress.

WAR TAXES.

The report of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue possesses peculiar interest, indicating, as it does, the operation of the War-revenue Act of June 13, 1898. It shows quite clearly that the aggregate revenue to be derived therefrom will form a smaller total than was estimated by the more sanguine of its supporters.

The Commissioner's estimate of $100,000,000 from this source seems to be fairly justified by the results to the Treasury during the period from July 1 to the present time. His report goes also to show the friction and embarrassments which have arisen from the need of interpreting obscurities in the Act itself and the application of such interpretation to specific cases coming under the same general head, yet differentiated from each other by more or less important particulars. Many complaints have arisen from those unreconciled to such interpretations or applications, and, granted a well-balanced relation between revenue and expenditures, it might be well to consider the propriety of repealing some of the more vexatious features of the Act. Until more settled conditions, however, as to extraordinary expenditures for the army and navy are reached, even such repeal cannot be recommended by this Department. Some verbal amendments, making more clear the intentions of Congress, are to be desired, and representations in this direction may be made the subject of a separate communication to Congress at an early day.

READING COMPANY.

FIRST ANNUAL REPORT—FOR NINETEEN MONTHS, DECEMBER 1, 1896, TO JUNE 30, 1898.

The Reading Company submits, for the information of its stockholders, the following report, not only on the affairs of that Company, but also on those of the Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company and the Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Company, of which corporations substantially all the stock is owned by the Reading Company. This report includes the operations of the said two companies from November 30, 1896 (the date on which the property now operated by them respectively passed to them) to June 30, 1898, a period of nineteen months. The fiscal year of the Reading Company as well of the Railway Company and of the Coal & Iron Company, ends on June 30.

In this report the business of the three companies will be discussed without constant reference to the fact that each of the three companies above named is entirely distinct from the other, has a distinct organization and is engaged in a distinct occupation. This course is especially necessary in comparing the revenues of the last year with those of former years, as the properties formerly held by the Railroad Company and by the Coal & Iron Company have now been distributed between the three Reading companies, so that only by comparing the revenues and expenditures of the three companies for the period under consideration, with those of the two companies which formerly held the same properties, can we arrive at an intelligent comparison of the results under the present ownership with those attained under the former ownership.

In order to arrive at a correct understanding of the business affairs of the several companies, it will be desirable to outline, in a general way, their organization and scope:

In the report of the Receivers of the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad Company and The Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Company for the year ending November 30, 1896, it is stated that the General Mortgage of The Philadelphia & Reading Railroad Company and The Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Company had been foreclosed, and that under the direction of the Circuit Court of the United States all the properties and estates of these Companies had been sold by the Trustee of the General Mortgage and by the Receivers, and that the purchasers of the properties at that sale had organized a new Company, Philadelphia & Reading Railway Co., to which, and to the Reading Company and The Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Company, possession was transferred at midnight on the 30th of November, 1896.

The Reading Company owns practically the whole capital stock of the Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company and of The Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Company, and all of the other stocks and securities which were acquired by the purchasers under the sale made by the Trustee and the Receivers. It also owns the $20,000,000 Purchase Money Mortgage Bonds issued by the Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company, the locomotives, cars, steam colliers, tugs and barges constituting the railway and marine equipment, and all the real estate of the old Philadelphia & Reading Railroad Company, which was not appurtenant to the railroad itself. This, of course, does not include depots, rights of way, etc., which belong to the Railway Company.

The Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company, which was organized under the Act of the Legislature of Pennsylvania of May 31, 1887, owns all the railroads formerly belonging to The Philadelphia & Reading Railroad Company; and it controls the roads heretofore leased to that Company, either by transfer of the old leases or by new leases made since November 30, 1896. It leases from the Reading Company the railway and marine equipment which it uses in the conduct of its business and a number of wharves and warehouses on the Delaware River between South Street and Queen Street, Philadelphia.

Under the foreclosure sale the charter of the Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Company was preserved and it was purchased at the sale. The purchasers, after the acquisition of the charter and franchises, conveyed all of the coal lands and collieries which they had acquired at the sale to The Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Company. Its business consists exclusively of the mining and sale of coal.

The joint operations of the three Companies for the nineteen months since November 30, 1896, resulted in net earnings which were sufficient to meet all interest and other charges, all expenditures for betterments and improvements of every kind, and left a surplus of $133,293 12.

Stated in detail the seven months to June 30, 1897, show a deficit of $1,243,126 94, and the twelve months to June 30, 1898, a surplus of $1 376,420 06, the different character of the results for the two periods being mainly due to the fact that the seven months from December to June mark the regular annual period of dullness in the coal trade, and always show much smaller net earnings than the five months from July to November.

If we apply to the deficit for the seven months from December, 1896, to June, 1897, the surplus under the Receivership for the five months, July, 1896, to November, 1896, which was $663,932 56, we have as the result for the year from July 1, 1896, to June 30, 1897, a deficit of $579,134 38 as against a surplus (as already stated) of $1,376,420 06 for the fiscal year just closed, so that the result of the two years' business would have been a surplus of $797,285 68.

Eliminating all duplication of accounts between the three companies, the results for the past two years, including in the year 1896-7 as above stated, five months under the Receivership, may be stated in their simplest form as follows:

RAILWAY COMPANY.

The receipts of the Railway Company arising from the several classes of business compare as follows for the last five years, the period in each case being the twelve months ending June 30:

	Years Ending June 30.
	1897-8.	1896-7.	1895-6.	1894-5.	1893-4.
Coal Traffic	$9,931,895 07	$9,535,676 77	$9,706,230 28	$9,759,037 02	$10,319,816 33
Mail	112,677 90	103,157 51	100,780 15	97,731 86	97,805 38
Total	$21,475,241 64	$20,235,294 19	$21,324,761 42	$20,639,209 71	$20,797,607 74

The tonnage of anthracite carried increased from 9,230,238 tons in 1896-97 to 9,464,598 tons in 1897-8, a gain of 234,360 tons, or 2·54 per cent; and the tonnage of bituminous coal increased in the same year from 2,432,938 tons to 3,517,069 tons, an increase of 1,084,131 tons, or 44·56 per cent. The revenue from coal traffic increased from $9,535,676 77 to $9,931,895 97, an increase of $396,219 20, or 4·15 per cent.

Merchandise increased from 8,824,052 tons to 9,862,641 tons, a gain of 1,038,589 tons, or 18·48 per cent, and the earnings therefrom increased from $6,455,030 63 to $7,163,169 88, a gain of $708,139 25, or 10·97 per cent.

The number of passengers carried increased from 17,991,-326 to 18,671,433, a gain of 680,107, or 3·78 per cent, and passenger revenue increased from $3,763,890 07 to $3,877,546 68, a gain of $113,656 61, or 3·02 per cent.

Comparing these earnings with those of the four previous years, the total is the largest for five years. Coal earnings were exceeded only in 1893-4; merchandise and miscellaneous earnings are the largest in the five-year period, and passenger earnings were exceeded in 1893-4, 1894-5 and 1895-6.

The work of increasing the efficiency and promoting the economical operation of the Railway Company's roads, shops and terminal facilities and equipment has been continued.

The Catawissa Railroad, which is one of the Railway Company's leased lines, furnishes that Company's best connection with the bituminous coal region of northwestern Pennsylvania and with the great lakes, the grades on that line being much lighter than on our line through the Mahanoy and Shamokin Valleys. Upon that part of the line which ascends the Catawissa Mountain from the Susquehanna River, the road passes over a number of high trestles. These structures were originally built of wood and had been so maintained for many years without causing serious accidents or delays; but they were structurally too weak to carry the heavy locomotives in use, and they were very costly to keep in repair. During the year 1897 they were replaced by steel trestles heavy enough to permit the use of the heaviest locomotives, and the substitution resulted at once in a marked lowering of the cost of transportation. A number of small wooden bridges on this line have been replaced by steel bridges as renewals became necessary, and passing sidings have been constructed where the increasing traffic required them.

Upon the line of the Little Schuylkill Railroad, which is also a leased line, and which forms the connecting link between the southern end of the Catawissa Railroad and the main line of the Reading Railway at Port Clinton, it was found that the movement of trains was greatly delayed both below and above Tamaqua by the insufficient track facilities at that point. To remove this difficulty the siding below Tamaqua and that at Reynolds station were connected, making a section of double track five miles long, and the locomotive coaling station at Tamaqua was rebuilt in a position where it would not interfere with the movement of trains.

The Little Schuylkill Railroad from Port Clinton to East Mahanoy Junction, at which point the Mahanoy and Shamokin and the Catawissa routes diverge going northward, has a great and steadily increasing business, and it will be necessary in the near future to build additional track and to rearrange the yard at Tamaqua in order to move the business promptly and economically.

In Philadelphia, the terminal freight facilities have proved entirely inadequate to handle the miscellaneous business, partly because the yards have grown up by additions made through many years, and were not built upon a definite plan, and partly because the piers along the Delaware River have largely fallen into decay. The work of re-arranging these yards has been going on steadily for several years, and modern piers are being substituted for the old structures as our business requires it. The reconstruction of these facilities cannot be completed for several years.

Further extensions have been made of the system of electric signals which are used to guard the railroads at points where the business is exceptionally heavy, or where excessive curvature makes the close following of one train by another dangerous. The electric signals for the most part replace the old signal towers by a system which is more sure and more economical in its operation. These signals now guard the main line of the railroad from Mount Carbon to Leesport, a distance of 25 miles, on which section there is a great deal of freight movement, and where the track has an unusual amount of curvature, and a number of the roads about Philadelphia on which the passenger trains are very numerous, there being 130 miles of track in all thus guarded.

The introduction of electric signals has lessened to a marked extent accidents arising from the collision of trains, and has permitted quicker movement of freight trains.

The Reading Company is the owner of all the rolling and floating equipment formerly belonging to The Philadelphia & Reading Railroad Company. This equipment was leased to the Railway Company, which undertakes to keep unimpaired its carrying capacity and its working efficiency. The exhibits submitted herewith will show that this stipulation has been fully complied with. The expenditures for this purpose have been heavy and will so continue for two or three years.

The coal car equipment of the old Railroad Company consisted originally of cars holding abont 4½ tons each. These constituted the majority of the coal cars until 1873, and their construction did not wholly cease until 1884. In 1853 a car carrying ten tons was introduced and became the standard car, the number of these cars in use from 1873 to 1881 exceeding those of all other coal cars. The last of these cars was built in 1876. In 1881 a car with a capacity of sixteen tons was adopted as the standard, but its manufacture was discontinued after a few years. Since 1887 no coal cars have been built of less capacity than twenty-five tons, and since 1893 all the coal cars built have been of thirty tons capacity. All these classes of cars of less than twenty-five tons capacity have proved too weak to stand the strain of moving in such trains and at such speeds as are necessary to-day, and all those of less than sixteen tons capacity have practically disappeared from the road, the few that are left being used for light work, and being never placed in trains on the main roads. The rapid breaking up of these small cars has made heavy expenditures necessary to maintain the coal car equipment, but the work of reconstruction should be somewhat less heavy in future.

A large part of the cost of repairs in the last few years has arisen out of the requirement of an Act of Congress that all locomotives and freight cars used in Inter-State Commerce shall be equipped with air-brakes and automatic couplers, and the completion of this work is estimated still to take several years time. The cost of these changes so far as made has all been charged to the operating expenses of the Railway Company, as they do not increase the capacity of the equipment nor its efficiency to any marked extent.

The floating equipment has also been maintained in as high a state of efficiency as that in which it was received, new barges, tugs, and car floats having been built to take the place of those that have gone out of service, so that whether measured by tonnage capacity or by actual value, the equipment is fully equal to that acquired through the foreclosure sale.

The maintenance and renewals of equipment have been made by the Railway Company out of a fund arising from the setting aside of such a percentage of its gross earnings as the experience of the past fifteen years shows to be necessary for that purpose. This fund will not accumulate, but will all be used in repairs of equipment or in building new equipment.

The losses of property by fire have likewise been paid out of a fund arising from such a percentage of gross earnings as experience shows to be required, and there is in bank a small balance applicable to future losses from this source.

In the Receivers' Report for 1896 a statement was made regarding the inception of the work on what is known as the Philadelphia Subway. By the construction of this subway the City of Philadelphia undertook, at the joint expense of the City and the Railroad Company, so to change the grade of about two miles of the Reading's tracks in the City of Philadelphia as to avoid all grade crossings of the streets by the railroad on Pennsylvania Avenue. This work has so far progressed that the freight business at Broad and Callowhill streets has been transferred to the new lower level. This is the only change that it has been possible to make as yet in the conduct of the Railway Company's business on account of the Subway improvements, but the whole enterprise has progressed so far that its completion is looked for during the year 1899.

Several important changes in the various loans and lease obligations of the Railway Company and the Coal & Iron Company have been effected during the past nineteen months.

The Improvement Mortgage Loan of $9,364,000 of the Philadelaphia & Reading Railroad Company which matured October 1, 1897, was extended as of April 1, 1897, for fifty years, the interest being reduced from six per cent to four per cent per annum from October 1, 1897, effecting an annual saving of $187,280. The Reading Company joins with the Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company in guaranteeing payment of the interest on these bonds.

On March 1, 1897, the three Reading Companies joined in an agreement for the extension for forty years of the First Series 5% Consolidated Mortgage Bonds of the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad Company. These bonds being redeemable upon ten days' notice were called for redemption as of March 1, 1897, the holders being given the right to extend them at four per cent rather than take their money. Practically all the bonds have been so extended. The annual reduction of interest on this series of bonds will amount to $57,665.

The Divisional Coal Land and the Real Estate Mortgage Bonds which were a first lien upon a number of tracts of land and other property belonging to the Coal & Iron Company, have been taken up as they matured, the gross amount outstanding having been reduced from $12,050,606 on December 1, 1896, to $1,915,147, at which figure they stood on June 30, 1898. Three-quarters of the amount remaining will be retired in the year 1899 under arrangements already made, but the last of them will not mature till 1904. General Mortgage Bonds to an amount equal to the amount of the matured Divisional and Real Estate Bonds have been issued for the purpose of taking them up, and additional General Mortgage Bonds will be issued in like manner as the remainder of these bonds are retired. The Bonds above named bore interest at the rate of five per cent and six per cent per annum, and the saving of interest by these changes has been $199,243 per annum.

The Catawissa Railroad Company executed on April 1, 1898, at the request of the Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company, which is responsible for the interest on its bonds, a mortgage to secure an issue of $2,215,000 First Mortgage Consolidated four per cent bonds to be used for retiring all of the bonds of that Company then outstanding. Such of the old bonds as were controlled by the Reading Company have been converted into the new loan. The balance mature in 1900 and 1902. The present saving is $23,040 per annum; the ultimate saving will be $66,640 per annum.

Several of the agreements of lease under which The Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company held and operated railroads were revised at the time of the organization of the present Railway Company in 1896, viz.:

The rental of the Mine Hill & Schuylkill Haven Railroad Company was reduced from eight per cent on the capital stock per annum to six per cent, effecting an annual saving of $84,204.

The rental of the Catawissa Railroad was changed from a percentage of earnings with a mininum dividend of seven per cent on the capital stock, to a fixed payment of five per cent, the Reading Company assuming the payment of taxes, resulting in a reduction of about $21,650 in the rental. In the new lease, as in the old, we provide money to pay interest on the indebtedness of the Catawissa Railroad, but that interest has been reduced, as above stated.

The rental of the Little Schuylkill Railroad was reduced from a seven per cent dividend to a five per cent dividend and taxes, the saving being about $12,000 per annum.

The East Mahanoy Railroad's rental was reduced from six per cent to five per cent, the amount saved annually being about $1,450.

The Chestnut Hill Railroad's rental was reduced from twelve per cent to six per cent, the annual saving being $9,735.

The Gettysburg & Harrisburg Railway Company is one of the Reading's controlled companies. On the first of April, 1898, a mortgage for $100,000 on the property of the South Mountain Railway & Mining Company, one of the Gettysburg & Harrisburg's constituent Companies, matured. This was a first mortgage bearing six per cent interest on a railroad nearly eighteen miles long, and as the holders of the bonds declined to extend at a satisfactory rate of interest, the whole of the issue was purchased and is held by the Reading Company.

The Reading Company owns a large amount of river front, and several warehouses between South and Queen streets in the City of Philadelphia, known as the Delaware River Terminal. In connection with an exchange of property with the Knickerbocker Ice Company, by which we consolidated advantageously the property of the Reading Company, the Reading Company agreed to buy up and cancel $200,000 of the Delaware River Terminal purchase money mortgage bonds, which was done as of November 20, 1897.

The Atlantic City Railroad Company, which is controlled by the Reading Company through a majority ownership of the stock, has for several years carried over its road from Camden, N. J., to Winslow Junction, N. J., a distance of twenty-four miles, the business of the South Jersey Railroad destined to Cape May, Ocean City and other seacoast resorts in southern New Jersey. This business was carried also across the Delaware River from Philadelphia to Camden by the Delaware River Ferry Company, another of the Reading's controlled companies, and netted the two companies engaged in transporting it a considerable income. The South Jersey Railroad Company's property was sold under foreclosure proceedings in March, 1898, and the Reading Company, in order to prevent a diversion of the South Jersey's business from the lines controlled by the Reading Company, procured that a lease should be made by the Sea Coast Railway Company, successor to the South Jersey Railroad Company, of all its railroads and other property to The Atlantic City Railroad Company.

Under a contract made with The Philadelphia & Reading Railroad Company May 16, 1879, the Wilmington & Northern Railroad Company acquired certain valuable rights of passage over the Reading tracks which gave it entrance to the City of Reading. It also controls valuable business at Birdsboro, and at Coatesville, Pennsylvania, where there are large iron industries, and at and near Wilmington, Delaware, where there are a number of industrial establishments. Upon the line of this railroad about 100,000 tons of anthracite finds a market. The control of the Wilmington & Northern Railroad being in the market, the Reading Company, in order to prevent a diverson of its business acquired a majority of the stock of the Company, and the railroad will continue to be operated in harmony with Reading's interest. This purchase was made after the close of the fiscal year 1897-8.

COAL COMPANY.

The total production of anthracite coal from lands owned and leased by the Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Company in the year 1897-8 was 7,626,675 tons 16 cwt., an increase of 498,009 tons 2 cwt. over the production of the previous year, or 7 per cent, though the production of the whole region fell off in the calendar year 1897 3·5 per cent from the production of the year 1896.

The coal purchased aggregated 1,082,403 tons, an increase of 93,340 tons, or 9·0 per cent, and the sales amounted to 7,706,169 tons, an increase of 526,208 tons, or 7·8 per cent.

The cost of coal for the year was $1 78 6-10, which is 14·4 cents lower than the cost for the previous year.

All work done at the collieries, and all additions made to their structures have been charged to cost of coal.

The work, which has been carried on for several years with the purpose of reducing the number of separate workings and of increasing the output of individual collieries, and thus lessening the cost of each operation, has been carried so far that whereas in June, 1893, fifty-four collieries produced a daily average of 88,160 tons, or 703 tons per colliery per day, in June, 1898, forty two collieries produced a daily average of 46,970 tons or 1,106 tons per colliery per day. The decrease in the number of collieries has been caused by the closing of worked-out collieries, and of collieries of which the working was excessively costly, and by the consolidation of contiguous collieries. The collieries have still a capacity of daily production far in excess of the maximum amount that they are likely to be called upon to produce, and they and all their appliances are in better order than ever before.

MISCELLANEOUS COMPANIES.

In addition to its interest in the stock and bonds of the Railway Company and in the stock of the Coal & Iron Company, the Reading Company is also interested in the securities of various other Railroad Companies closely identified with the Reading System, some of which have been mentioned in this report, and also owns practically all the stock of the Reading Iron Company. A list of all securities owned is given in the Comptroller's report, and the actual income received therefrom (which is less than their net earnings) is included in the statement of Revenue herein-before given.

FINANCES.

The Commercial Times.

FRIDAY NIGHT, December 9, 1898.

The feature of the week was the reassembling of Congress on Monday and the subsequent sending in of the President's Message, which has been received with general approval. The report of the Secretary of the Treasury also has attracted much attention. Now that Congress is again in session the Nicaragua Canal question has been brought into prominence. With the approaching holiday season and the close of the calendar year a slight contraction of business operations has been perceptible in some lines of merchandise. A general feeling of confidence, however, has continued to be shown in the general outlook for business and in seasonable goods merchants as a rule state that they have been fairly busy. Speculative interest in cotton has been broadening somewhat and prices have shown a hardening tendency.

Lard on the spot has had only a limited sale, as exporters have been slow buyers, and the demand from refiners has been light. Prices have gradually weakened, and the close was quiet at 5·30c. for prime Western and 5c. for prime City. Refined lard has had only a very moderate call, and prices have weakened to 5·50c. for refined for the Continent. Speculation in lard for future delivery has been quiet, and under limited offerings by packers and the absence of aggressive buying, prices have gradually weakened. The close was quiet.

Speculation in cotton for future delivery early in the week was quiet, the market showing a hesitating spirit. Ontsiders evinced a disposition to hold back from making additional purchases, a full movement of the crop having much to do with keeping the demand in check. Regular operators also were slow to make new ventures, preferring to await developments. Subsequently, however, speculation again became fairly active, and the tendency of prices was towards a higher basis. The movement of the crop showed a slight falling off, despite the fact that weather conditions at the South were favorable. Advices from the South continued to report a good demand from both exporters and the home trade for actual cotton and at full values. Encouraging reports were received as to the condition of trade in foreign and domestic markets for cotton goods; and foreign markets for raw cotton have shown a tendency to harden. The fact that prices locally were on too low a basis to admit of bringing supplies forward from the South and profitably delivering them on contracts has had a tendency to make shorts in the near-by positions nervous and their buying has advanced prices for the early deliveries proportionately more than for the distant months. To-day there was an active market and prices for the near-by deliveries advanced sharply on a demand from shorts to cover contracts. Less favorable weather conditions at the South and firmer foreign advices also had a strengthening influence. At the close, under realizing sales by longs, part of the improvement was lost. The close showed prices 1 @ 4 points higher for the day. Cotton on the spot has been firmer. Prices advanced 1/8c. Thursday and 1-16c. to-day, closing at 5 13-16c. for middling uplands.

The rates on and off middling, as established Nov. 16, 1898 by the Revision Committee, at which grades other than middling may be delivered on contract, are as follows.

Fair	c. 1¼ on	Good Ordinary	c. 11/16 off
Middling Fair	7/8 on	Good Middling Tinged	Even

JUTE BUTTS, BAGGING, &C.—There has been a slack demand for bagging the past week, at lower quotations, the close to-night being at 6c. for 1¾ lbs. and 6⅜c. for 2 lbs., standard grades. Car load lots of standard brands are quoted at 6¼c. for 1¾ lbs. and 6½c. for 2 lbs., f. o. b. at New York. Jute butts have been very dull at 1·90c. for paper quality and 1⅛c. for mixing.

AUGUSTA (GA.) STRIKE.—Notices were posted Dec. 8 in the cotton mills at Augusta belonging in the Southern Manufacturers' Association that after the holidays all the mills now running will be closed if prior to that time the mills now idle have not resumed work. It is believed that the strikers cannot hold out much longer.

GALVESTON COTTON EXCHANGE.—At the annual election, held Monday, Dec. 5, the following officers were elected: President, W. L. Moody; Vice President, Robert Bornefeld; Treasurer, George Sealy; directors: Jens Moller, Wm. F. Ladd, J. D. Skinner, I. H. Kempner, Daniel Ripley, John D. Rogers and W. A. McVitie.

EGYPTIAN COTTON CROP.—Mr. Fr. Jac. Andres of Boston has mail advices from Alexandria of date Nov. 19 as follows:

Our market is very firm at the moment, with an upward tendency. On account of the unfavorable crop reports and poor out-turn of the second picking we do not anticipate any early decline in prices. The first picking, which has been very small, is satisfactory so far as staple is concerned, but the second picking is poor. Owing to the hot temperature during October planters were obliged to pick all the bolls, mixing together the cotton of the third crop. The better qualities are getting scarce.

The Cairo correspondent of the London Daily Mail reports that the Egyptian cotton crop is estimated at 5,750 000 cantars, which is 793,000 cantars less than the crop of last year, 129,000 cantars short of 1896-97 but 475,000 cantars greater than in 1895-96.

BREADSTUFFS.

Friday, December 9, 1898.

Early in the week there was a dull and uninteresting market for wheat flour. Subsequently, however, owing to the weaker drift to values for the grain, sellers as a rule weakened from 5c. to 10c. per barrel in their prices. At the lower figures business was more active, as both the home trade and exporters showed more of a disposition to make purchases. The demand for rye flour has been of only small proportions; offerings, however, have not been excessive and values have been fairly well maintained. Offerings of buckwheat flour have been small and the limited demand has been sufficient to hold prices firm. Corn meal has been quiet but steady at unchanged values.

Speculation in wheat for future delivery has been quiet and the drift of prices has been gradually downward; in fact, during the latter part of the week there was a fairly sharp break in prices. Foreign advices have reported quiet markets, with values showing a reactionary tendency. The crop movement in the Northwest has continued large. The export demand has shown something of a falling off, and there was a material increase in the supply of wheat in sight; all had their influence against values. There was selling by outsiders to realize on recent purchases and bear operators were disposed to be more aggressive in their operations. Advices received on the prospects for the Argentine crop have been conflicting, although the general impression appears to be that the outlook is fairly favorable. The interruption to wire service early in the week, the result of the severe storm, had much to do with the contraction of speculation for the time being. Business in the spot market has been only moderately active, as exporters have been less active buyers, although on Wednesday the Continent was a fair buyer, attracted by the lower prices. To day the market was easier early, in response to weaker foreign advices. Subsequently, however, on buying, principally by shorts to cover contracts, the loss was recovered, and the close showed prices slightly higher for the day. The spot market was quiet. Sales for export here and at outports were 120,000 bushels.

Indian corn futures have been moderately active and values have held to a fairly steady basis. The crop movement has been increasing. Cable advices have been easier and weather conditions in the corn belt have been of a favorable nature. Offerings, however, despite the bearish factors above noted, have been limited, and as the cash trade was fairly active both here and at the West, bear operators have shown no disposition to be aggressive in the operations, with the result that values have been fairly well maintained. To-day there was a quiet but about steady market. The spot market was quiet. The sales for export here and at outports were about 70,000 bushels.

Oats for future delivery at the Western market have been only moderately active and there has been a gradual sagging of prices, largely due to realizing sales by longs, prompted by an increased movement of the crop and sympathy with the decline in wheat. The local spot market has been quiet and weaker. The export demand has been flat and the demand from the home trade has been limited. To-day the market was steadier on limited offerings.

* Detroit—Stocks of Saturday, Dec. 3; to-day's stocks not received, owing to wire trouble.

NEW YORK, FRIDAY, P. M., December 9, 1898.

The favorable impression produced by the course of the cotton market, noted last week, has been further strengthened by this week's developments. The general demand has been well sustained for both staple and fancy lines, and evidences are increasing of stocks having worked into excellent shape in nearly all directions. The market has not presented an appearance of activity at any time, and yet sales have reached a large total, the demand continuing despite the fact that there has been a gradual stiffening in prices and not a few actual advances. Consumption, as indicated by the primary market conditions, has overtaken current production. The latter is not yet of normal proportions, but from indications there are likely to be few looms idle after the first of January. Retail distribution of seasonable merchandise continues active under the stimulating influence of cold weather. In the woolen goods division of the market the recent improvement in demand keeps up in both men's-wear fabrics and dress goods. Collections are generally satisfactory.

DOMESTIC COTTON GOODS.—The exports of cotton goods from this port for the week ending December 5 were 2,263 packages, valued at $137,147, their destination being to the points specified in the tables below:

* From New England mill points direct.

The value of the New York exports for the year to date has been $10,661,401 in 1898, against $9,505,016 in 1897.

Bleached cottons have again sold well and are firm in tone, with an advancing tendency in low and medium grade goods. Heavy brown sheetings and drills are scarce in all makes of any repute, and against buyers. Fine light-weights also sold up and are generally 1-16c. higher than a week ago. Denims are improving and occasionally quoted ¼c. higher. Ticks are less irregular than of late. Plaids steady, with fair sales. Other coarse-colored cottons in moderate request at unchanged prices. Wide sheetings steady, with quiet business. Cotton flannels and blankets firm, with fair reorder demand. Kid-finished cambrics firm. Corset jeans and satteens occasionally advanced ¼c. per yard. Pacific and Cocheco fancy prints for spring opened at 4½c. Other leading lines expected to open at same price. Tone in prints firm, and some staple varieties tending upwards, with considerable business doing. Ginghams well sold and firm throughout. Print cloths very firm, and 1-16c. up, at 2 3-16c. Wide odds 1-16c. higher, with fair business.

WOOLEN GOODS.—There has been a considerable volume of business reported coming forward in men's-wear woolens and worsteds for spring. The distribution of heavy-weight clothing under the influence of continued severe weather is on quite a liberal scale, and has a favorable effect upon wholesale clothiers' operations in light-weight goods. Agents are getting under orders to a fuller extent than seemed likely a short time ago, and a considerable amount of recently idle machinery has been re-started. The tone of the market generally is more hopeful, but there is no actual improvement in prices to record. New season heavy-weights are still held back, with few unimportant exceptions. Overcoatings quiet and cloakings inactive at unchanged prices. Flannels slow and blankets quiet. Reorders for light-weight woolen and worsted dress goods increasing, but market still irregular.

FOREIGN DRY GOODS.—There has been no improvement in the general demand for foreign merchandise. Orders are for limited quantities only in dress goods and men's-wear woolens and worsteds. Silks are in moderate request, with ribbons selling moderately. Fair business reported in linens.

* Partly estimated.

The full details of clearings for the week covered by the above statement will be given next Saturday. We cannot, of course, furnish them to-day, bank clearings being made up by the various clearing houses at noon on Saturday, and hence in the above the last twenty-four hours of the week have to be in all cases estimated, as we go to press Friday night.

We present below our usual detailed figures for the previous week, covering the returns for the period ending with Saturday noon, December 10, and the results for the corresponding week in 1897, 1896 and 1895 are also given. In comparison with the preceding week there is a decrease in the aggregate exchanges of sixty-two million dollars, and at New York alone the loss is forty-six and a quarter millions. Contrasted with the week of 1897 the total for the whole country shows an increase of 18·2 per cent. Compared with the week of 1896 the current returns record a gain of 53·7 per cent, and the excess over 1895 is 40·4 per cent. Outside of New York the increase over 1897 is 12·8 per cent. The excess over 1896 reaches 29·0 per cent, and making comparison with 1895 the gain is seen to be 18·5 per cent.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION.

Our financial and commercial interests, which as we all know have been most wonderfully favored the past two years and more, have just now taken a further auspicious turn. Thus it happens that the circle of prosperity is constantly widening and one after another of the industries so long impaired are being lifted out of their difficulties. What a contrast in affairs this feature marks between the situation to-day and as it stood when the new era opened. Before 1896 enterprise had been growing less free for years because the standard of values was threatened, the danger becoming each month more imminent. There had been in that year a good wheat crop and a phenomenal corn crop, with high prices realized for the former. But these conditions failed to work any material change. It was only under the influence of the public verdict in the Presidential election of that year against silver and in favor of a gold currency standard that the door was opened to the new cycle of prosperity.

Since that occurrence in November 1896 it seems as if every event in any way affecting financial or industrial interests had conspired to fortify and strengthen the hope which the outcome of the elections in that month gave birth to. Abundant crops, and good markets for them, resulting in an increasing favorable foreign trade balance and accumulating stocks of gold in the Treasury and in bank, have been continuing conditions; concurrent also with this development business expansion has been going on, at first slowly, but as the months passed with accelerating speed. Finally, to crown the whole, came the election of last month, when a majority of the membership in the Senate as well as in the House was secured for sound money. This was rightly construed by the public as an assurance that at last we are to have a currency system in touch with commerce, and that our industries are never again to be put in thraldom to the fear which has so long been a standing menace to all progress With such an essential reform as a speedy prospect, it can be no surprise that a new stimulus was imparted to industrial activity.

The "auspicious turn" in business affairs, referred to above as of recent occurrence, covers the extension of trade revival to certain large industries that we have on numerous occasions noticed as not sharing in the general expansion. Chief among these is the market for cotton goods and the market for cotton. Since the latter part of November the demand for both the manufactured article and the raw material have met with a decided improvement in the requirements for actual consumption. Woolen goods likewise—another industry hitherto lagging behind the development elsewhere—has during the same time been assuming a somewhat better shape. As to raw cotton, the adverse situation has had a double origin. The Southern States have been in recent years largely increasing the production, while our own manufacturing industry was passing through this period of severe depression European spindles during the same interval enlarged their use of the staple, having increased their takings within the last two years nearly three-quarters of a million bales. Hence, had American manufacturers also shown the old time progress in consumption, the surplus product would have been in good part used up and values of the staple would not have dropped to so low a figure. As it happened, the recent improvement noted above in the demand for goods in the United States has been attended by lower estimates of the current cotton crop, and as a result both of these industries are now in much better form; the stocks of cotton goods which have been such an unfavorable feature are fast passing into the hands of consumers, while cotton has been making a material advance in price.

Another leading industry which has now experienced a radical change and become a party in the business revival is the anthracite coal trade. It was only a very few weeks ago that this department of business and also the coal carriers were assumed to be in a deplorable condition. Stocks of that class of companies were consequently looked upon as the safest possible target for the parties to use who were disposed to bear the stock market. Under such a manipulation prices of these stocks gave way materially and the general opinion was that they would go much lower. A little cold weather has suddenly changed this outlook; it started the demand for coal, which had been for a time comparatively dormant awaiting the anticipated lower prices for that commodity. An important development likewise bearing upon the condition of these properties is that the analysis we have recently made of the reports of some of them show that the results for the twelve months ending with July 1 were far more favorable than they had been represented. Altogether, therefore, it may be said that the coal trade, and the railroads chiefly engaged in representing it, are now "in the swim," having passed from a condition of general despondency to one which affords fair promise of remunerative employment.

We have spoken above of the advantageous state of our foreign trade as having been the most important contributing factor to the prosperity we are now enjoying. This week the Bureau of Statistics has issued another monthly statement (the one for November), and like nearly everything else of an industrial character which belongs to the history of this wonderful year it surpasses all other similar exhibits ever issued. The exports reach a total value of $129,784,000. As we said in our issue of November 19 the largest previous total for any month in our trade record was in December 1897, when it was $125,053,961; this November total is consequently 4¾ millions in excess of that record, which was at that date the largest. What makes this result more noteworthy is the fact that the values of breadstuffs and cotton are both lower than they were in 1897. As our imports in the same period were small, slightly less even than a year ago, the net favorable balance has likewise reached unequaled proportions, it being $77,674,000. This final result is chiefly a matter for exultation, because our currency is still the identical currency that so very recently caused us so much anxiety and depressed all our industries. The evil influence exists; its power to work harm is just as great as ever; for the time being though it is chained, these favorable balances being the links that hold it, and thus afford our people the opportunity to correct the evil before trade conditions are reversed and the old devil is let loose again.

The new impulse to industrial advancement referred to above is also strikingly exemplified in the present state of the iron and allied trades. There the indications of activity are more pronounced than they have been for a long time past. The volume of business has been large for many months, but now the trade papers are beginning to talk of the markets getting "excited" and of things beginning to "boil." The demand is becoming so large that in certain lines manufacturers are obliged, for the present, according to the reports, to refuse orders. Such a situation naturally leads to improving prices, and this week there have been advances in several directions. Steel billets, for instance, have been advanced fifty cents a ton at Pittsburg, to $16 00. Wire rods, which recently sold at $20 00, are now $21 50. In the raw material there have been advances of 10 to 25 cents a ton. The key to this improving situation is easily found. During the period of depression our manufacturers learned severe lessons of economy, so that they have been turning out their products at a lower cost than ever before known. This has opened to them the markets of the world, and our exports of iron and steel in their various forms are on an unprecedented scale, and must continue to grow so long as the same conditions last. To this must now be added a steadily-widening domestic demand. The railroads — consumers of great magnitude — have been giving orders for rails on an extensive scale, not only for the renewal of existing tracks but for the building of new extensions, the prospect being, as we recently pointed out, for considerable addition to the railroad mileage of the country the coming twelve months. The increasing business of the roads is also inducing them to give orders for large amounts of new equipment—locomotives, cars, &c.—and to undertake extensive rebuilding of bridges and other work in which iron and steel enter in larger or smaller quantities. At the same time the revival of trade, which is now becoming such a feature of affairs as we have shown above, is increasing the general and miscellaneous demand for all kinds of iron and steel.

The monthly statement of iron production prepared by the "Iron Age" reflects in an instructive way the expansion which is in progress. We say "instructive" because when carefully examined these statistics make it plain that the movement seems to be a natural, healthy one, due to a legitimate and growing demand, and thus far is free from incidents that might occasion uneasiness or disquietude. Iron production is gaining, but not faster than consumption; in fact not so fast. Stocks are not increasing. They are still contracting in face of the expanding output, just as they had been decreasing for many previous months. The "Age" actually reports one furnace less in blast December 1 than November 1, but the weekly capacity between the same dates was increased from 228,935 tons to 235,528 tons. This latter is the largest figure ever reached in the country's history. But the significance of that statement can easily be exaggerated. Last March (before the decline in production which subsequently occurred), the output was 234,430 tons, and as compared with that total the increase, it will be seen, is only a little over a thousand tons a week. The record of furnace stocks which the "Age" keeps shows that the aggregate of the furnace holdings, both sold and unsold, was only 544,024 tons December 1, against 573,012 tons November 1, 621,728 tons October 1, 688,382 tons September 1, 739,288 tons August 1, and 805,311 tons July 1. The situation is thus one of great encouragement.

Two important developments in the affairs of the Northern Pacific have occurred this week. A dividend of 1 per cent has been declared on the common stock—the first on that stock since the reorganization of the property. The fact is not a surprising or an unexpected one. It is the natural outgrowth and fruitage of the prosperity which the company has been enjoying. A dividend had been looked for and was inevitable—the only question was as to the time when a payment should be made, and its amount. The company's report for the fiscal year ending June 30 1898 showed that after allowing in full for the 4 per cent dividends on the preferred shares, and after spending $811,709 for additions and improvements, there remained a surplus of nearly three million dollars—$2,897,874. For the current fiscal year there has been further growth in earnings, both gross and net, the increase in the gross for the four months to October 31 being $986,856, and in the net $871,072. It takes $800,000 to pay one per cent on the common shares.

The other incident of the week in the company's affairs has been the publication of a statement by President Mellen defining the company's relations with neighboring and competing roads. This has been perhaps the most assuring document that has come for a long time from the office of a railroad company, for it places these relations in a totally different light from what the investing public had been led to suppose they were. Newspaper accounts have been such as to foster the idea that great friction prevailed, that indeed the different roads were on the verge of open hostilities. Mr. Mellen disposes of these stories in short order. It is surprising to find what a small basis of fact there was for the statements so widely circulated that the different roads had laid out plans for unlimited amounts of new construction, each with the intention of encroaching upon and occupying the other's territory. Mr. Mellen tells us that as far as the Northern Pacific is concerned, the only construction in progress is about 75 miles in the Clearwater country in Idaho. As to that, a question has arisen as to whether the Oregon Navigation Company should not also be allowed to occupy that country without being considered as invading Northern Pacific territory. This question, it is assumed, will be amicably settled, and the company "is not engaged in any 'war' with any of its neighbors or competitors, and does not expect to be." In view of the persistent way in which reports to the contrary have been put forth, this news, we are sure, will be welcome to the security holders of the property.

Money on call, representing bankers' balances, has loaned at the Stock Exchange during the week at 3 per cent and at 2 per cent. The higher rate was only momentarily recorded on Thursday; immediately thereafter loans were made at 2½ per cent. The bulk of the business has been at 2½ per cent and at 2½ per cent, and the average has been about 2⅝ per cent. Banks and trust companies quote 2½ per cent as the minimum, some, however, obtaining 2½ per cent for new loans. Time money is in liberal supply while the demand is by no means urgent, and rates are 3 per cent for sixty days to four months and 3½ per cent for five to six months on good Stock Exchange collateral. The supply of commercial paper offering is moderate, but the demand is sufficient to absorb it, and brokers report a fairly large volume of business. Some exceedingly choice six months' single-name paper is reported to have been sold this week at 2½ per cent, but this quotation by no means reflects the condition of the market. Rates are 3 per cent for sixty to ninety day endorsed bills receivable, 3½@4 per cent for prime and 4½@5 per cent for good four to six months' single names. Chicago dispatches report an easier tone for money at that centre, call loans being made at 3½ per cent, against 4½ per cent a fortnight ago, and bankers' advices confirm this report, and they also state that money is growing easier at other Western centres. The movement of currency through the Sub-Treasury this week has been chiefly to New Orleans and to Southwestern points.

There has been no feature of importance either in the political or the financial situation in Europe during the week. The treaty of peace between the United States and Spain was signed on Saturday evening by the American and the Spanish Commissioners. The Bank of England minimum rate of discount remains unchanged at 4 per cent. The cable reports discounts of sixty to ninety day bank bills in London, 3½@3½ per cent. The open market rate at Paris is 3 per cent and at Berlin and Frankfort it is 5½ per cent. According to our special cable from London, the Bank of England lost £261,864 bullion during the week, and held £30,988,879 at the close of the week. Our correspondent further advises us that the loss was due to shipments of £187,000 net to the interior of Great Britain and to the export of £75,000, of which £50,000 was to Uruguay, £5,000 to Brazil, £10,000 to other South American points and £10,000 to the Continent.

The foreign exchange market has been dull and barely steady during the greater part of the week, the tendency toward ease being chiefly attributable to the inactivity of the market. Though there have been some purchases of long sterling for investment, buying of these bills has been somewhat checked by the comparative firmness in the rates, and there seems to be a disposition to defer further purchases until prices recede. The offerings of commercial bills against cotton, grain and provisions continue large, but they appear to be promptly absorbed. The arbitrage transactions in stocks have had little influence upon the exchange market either way. The steamship Alameda arrived at San Francisco on Wednesday with $3,510,000 gold from Australia, of which $3,000,000 consisted of sovereigns and the remainder gold bullion. The arrivals of gold from Europe were $1,287,184 for New York and 10,000,000 francs in transit to Cuba. These francs for Cuba will not appear in our import or export tables, being shipped on Wednesday direct to Cuba. The range for nominal rates for exchange has remained unchanged during the week at 4 82½ for sixty-day and from 4 85½ to 4 86 for sight. On Monday the tone of the market w easy, and rates for actual business for long sterling and cable transfers were reduced one-quarter of a cent compared with those at the close on Friday of last week, to 4 81½@4 81¾ for the former and to 4 85@4 85¼ for the latter, while the rates for short sterling remained unchanged at 4 81½@4 84¾. On Tuesday and on Wednesday the tone was barely steady and the market was very dull. On Thursday the tone was firmer, though rates were not quotably higher. The market closed firm on Friday. The following shows daily posted rates for exchange by some of the leading drawers.

COLONIES AND THE CONSTITUTION.

With the brief introductory speeches on Senator Vest's resolution, early this week, the debate on territorial expansion has been temporarily suspended. Very possibly the Senate is waiting until the whole matter can be brought up in connection with the submission of the treaty which was definitely signed last Saturday. The Commissioners left Paris yesterday, and the formal transmission of the document to the Senate will probably not be made until their arrival in this country. Meantime, Senators who are preparing for an open debate on the general question, more easily done in considering the Vest resolution than in deliberating on the treaty—which goes presumably before an executive session—are doing wisely. Not in this generation has a public question arisen calling so forcibly for display of Senatorial logic, eloquence and statesmanship.

We pointed out last week the fact that the Congressional opposition to what is supposed to be the Administration's policy has in reality a double problem with which to deal. It may or may not advocate ratification of the treaty by which the United States acquires control of Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines. It may or may not endorse Senator Vest's contention that our Government has no right to hold territory except with a view to its eventual construction into Statehood. But it cannot consider these two questions separately. If the opposition endorses Mr. Vest's construction of our Government's limitations, and then proceeds to repudiate the Paris Treaty, it must be prepared to say what shall be substituted for the terms of the Peace Commissioners. If, while still denying our Constitutional power to maintain dependencies unless as embryo sovereign States, it approves the Paris treaty, then it will obviously have voted its deliberate approval to the plan of adding these West Indian and Asiatic islands to the Union, with all the powers and responsibilities now enjoyed by Missouri or New York. In this regard there is no excuse for illusions, on the part either of Congress or of the people. The three distinct alternatives before the United States are, first, the acceptance of the Spanish cessions and their government on a hitherto untried system, which will exclude their admission as qualified members of the Union; second, the rejection of the peace treaty; and third, invitation to the people of these islands to prepare to participate with us, on equal terms, in the government of the United States.

We have already expressed our gratification that the Senator from Missouri should have submitted in behalf of the opposition so distinct and clean-cut an alternative. We wish further to make recognition of the eloquence and force with which Mr. Vest has this week presented his array of precedent and reasoning. From his basis of argument, we doubt if the task could have been better done. In the brief but compact speech of last Monday are contained, we believe, all the Constitutional and legal arguments which may be cited in behalf of his position. Concisely summarized, it may be said that he rests his anti-colonial position on the following facts: First, that our Government was founded as a protest against systems of colonial administration in which legislative participation was denied to the governed people. Second, that the decision of the Federal Supreme Court of 1857, already cited in these columns, distinctly denied the power of the United States to "enlarge its territorial limits in any way, except by the admission of new States" or by "the acquisition of territory not fit for admission at the time, but to be admitted as soon as its population or situation would entitle it to admission." Third, that the articles of cession for each of our early acquisitions under the Constitution, including Louisiana and Florida, contained an explicit proviso that as soon as possible these acquisitions should be organized into States. Finally, that the single seeming exception to this rule—Alaska, which was admitted nominally as a "district"—has been declared by the Supreme Court to be an organized territory under existing laws, with the right to eventual Statehood.

The first observation to be made on this argument of Senator Vest is that it rests its main position on a simple dictum of the Federal Court, contained in a decision whose main points have been wholly superseded and reversed by the arbitrament of war. This phase of the matter was brought out by Senator Platt of Connecticut, in a brief reply to Senator Vest last Monday. The point was, indeed, inferentially conceded by Mr. Vest himself. The remarks of the Court of 1857, on the limitations of territorial expansion were appended to the famous Dred Scott decision, whose most important rulings, as every one is aware, were that the Missouri compromise and the laws forbidding extension of slavery into new territories were unconstitutional, and therefore null and void. Senator Vest frankly stated last Monday his willingness to eliminate such portions of the opinion. "These questions," he added, "were settled by shot and shell and sabre-stroke for all time to come."

But this concession being made, it may be pertinent to inquire—it certainly will be inquired in the course of the pending debate—whether some other findings of the same Court have not been affected by the subsequent appeal to arms. In other words, the question is legitimate, whether or not the general dictum of the Court of 1857 regarding the Government's territorial powers may not have been based on the ante-bellum conception of the United States as a league of mutually independent powers. No other disputed question—certainly not even that of the legal status of the negro and of the right of States to prohibit slavery—was more distinctly affected by the result of the Civil War than the question whether the United States constituted a single national government or not. Its status as a nation was decided; the further question then arises, was or was not its right to exercise all the inherent powers of a nation decided simultaneously? We shall not undertake to discuss this pregnant question at the moment; it is an argument, however, of which the country will hear very much during the present Congressional session.

As regards Senator Vest's appeal to the position of our own Government at the time of its foundation, no one is likely to contest the assertion that colonial government without colonial representation was a foremost cause of the revolt from Great Britain. But there were two facts in the situation of the American colonies which greatly impair any supposed analogy with our proposed experiment in the Pacific Ocean. One, and the more important, is that the colonies not only were capable of self-government, but had proved such capacity, with a free popular suffrage, by long-continued and competent local administration. There is no parallel to this in the case of Porto Rico and the Philippines, and very little in the case of Hawaii. The other essential point of difference is that the American colonies demanded only the privilege of a voice in passing laws affecting their own pecuniary interests. Denial of such privileges brought on the separation, a fact most carefully and explicitly recited in the Declaration of Independence. But what right has any one to assume in advance that such privileges will not be extended, so far as is consistent with civilized administration, to the people of our new acquisitions? As we see it, decision on this point rests with the very Congress which is now discussing the right or wrong of a colonial policy in the abstract.

In other words, if we concede the general policy of territorial expansion—which would be done by ratification of the Paris Treaty—the rest of the problem must be settled quite as much in the light of public policy as of apparent judicial or historical precedent; notably so when the cited precedent of both courts and politics has to do with situations totally and radically unlike that with which we are now confronted. For this reason particularly, we doubt the force of Senator Vest's appeal to the precedent of Florida and Louisiana, whose cession to our Government, as he shows us, was accompanied by a pledge for their eventual construction into Statehood. The apparently sufficient answer to this appeal is that no such pledge has accompanied the Spanish cessions, and that there is very conclusive reason why the pledge should not accompany them.

There are, in our judgment, numerous questions of policy and law which remain to be solved in connection both with our Hawaiian acquisition and with the ceded Spanish colonies. These questions will equally remain open, even after formal ratification of the treaty. It is quite within the power of Congress to pass legislation, if it choose, to the effect that the United States will guarantee to the inhabitants of these islands, from the start, such measure of self-government as shall be practicable. We have sometimes wished that further expression might be made of our purpose, after a sufficiently long American protectorate, to release these communities as independent governments, freed from subordination even to the United States. But we fear that the annexation of Hawaii, whose importance as a precedent is too often overlooked, points in a very different direction. Whatever may be said, and justly said, against the wisdom of the Hawaiian experiment, the fact remains that Hawaii, alone of all our island acquisitions, had proved by experiment that it could govern its own affairs, and that nevertheless it was declared in the Congressional resolution of July 6, with the assent of the authorities of the island, that government by the United States was preferable. If this act is to be accepted as a precedent, we fear that proposals for the eventual independence of the Philippines can be set forth with little grace.

But this fact by no means involves the further conclusion—drawn very hastily, it seems to us, in current criticism—that our Government is about to establish tributary provinces, ground under the arbitrary exactions of American proconsuls as was the Sicily of Verres and the India of Warren Hastings. Still less does it involve the degrading alternative, which we have been sorry to see even hinted at in current controversy, that the United States should sell its Eastern acquisitions for a higher price than the indemnity allowed to Spain, and should pocket the difference. We believe that if the United States has any moral right for extending its rule over these Eastern and Western oceanic islands, the right has a deeper justification than can be argued from questions of financial or commercial profit

THE COMPTROLLER'S ARGUMENTS AGAINST A CREDIT CURRENCY.

The Comptroller of the Currency, Mr. Charles G. Dawes, has incorporated in his annual report to Congress an extended argument directed against the propriety and justice of creating a credit currency secured by a first lien upon the assets of the issuing banks. Perhaps to be strictly accurate we should say that he has devoted almost his whole report to this subject, for outside of ordinary routine matters there is comparatively little else in it. The argument is so thoroughly unsound and embodies so many fallacies and misconceptions, that except for one feature, we should not deem it worth while to take notice of it, feeling sure that among those likely to read such a document, its inherent weakness and the palpably misleading character of the statements it contains, would be manifest to all. What prompts us to refer to the matter is that seemingly the argument is fortified by a formidable array of figures and statistical data.

There is a glamour about mere figures which it is hard to overcome. Adroitly used, they become a powerful weapon in the hands of friend and foe alike, and this often whether they are right or wrong. Few of us feel competent to dissect a statistical statement dealing apparently with genuine results, and still fewer of us possess the inclination and necessary patience to enter upon such a task. If we can re-enforce an argument with material of that kind, we are apt to consider ourselves invincible and to think the discussion closed. For the general disposition is to look upon figures as in the nature of facts about which there can be no controversy. When these data come from a Government office and are announced with mathematical exactness, and seemingly based upon the results of actual experience, their potency and spell become all the greater, unless their accuracy or trustworthiness can be successfully challenged. In the case of the Comptroller's elaborate statements, much mischief may result through the total lack of familiarity of the average man with a subject so technical in its nature. We may be sure that those who have from the first opposed currency reform will be quick to seize upon these compilations and cite them as attesting the correctness of their attitude against almost any new plan. We purpose in the present article to show that the calculations have absolutely nothing to support them—that they are not only entirely hypothetical, but that they rest upon a hypothesis so remote from the range of probabilities that it is difficult to understand how one having knowledge of banking facts could seriously put them forth.

Mr. Dawes nominally rests his objection to the proposition for a bank note currency based on assets, on the circumstance that it provides for giving the notes a preferred lien. No one can read his remarks, however, without becoming convinced that he is opposed to currency reform. He assumes an attitude of neutrality, but does not attempt to conceal his hostility to the idea of a change from the present mixed system of Government issues and bond-secured notes. Thus we find him saying, "the Government of the United States is not in such straits, in connection with its present currency system, as to compel it to enter into a plan of currency changes by which it in effect sells extended and valuable currency privileges to the national banks of the country, in exchange for assistance from them in meeting its present governmental currency obligations payable in gold." Furthermore, he argues that "if the present conditions of governmental currency demand reforms, to secure which will entail cost, it is better for the Government, as the representative of all the people, and under all the circumstances connected with our banking system, to pay an ascertained and exact cost direct, than to endeavor to evade it by granting extensive currency privileges." The reader will recognize in this language a suspicious similarity to the arguments of the adherents of the old Greenback Party, who were always urging that the Government as the representative of all the people should take the profits accruing on bank note issues and replace them with unlimited legal tender governmental issues of greenbacks.

The Comptroller reveals the same attitude when he urges that the inelasticity of our present bank note currency is not a serious objection. He says that "under normal business conditions and in normal times the inelasticity of the present note issues of banks causes but small inconvenience." He has a novel idea that the use of checks and drafts, indulged in so freely in this country, provides a substitute for that requirement. "We have at present in this country an enormous volume of what may be called bank-credit currency, based upon the assets of our banks, and consisting of checks, drafts and bills of exchange. * * * It is extremely elastic and varies in amount at different seasons of the year. It is generally amply adequate to the business needs of the country, except in times of disturbed confidence and financial panic." Mr. Dawes is manifestly unfamiliar with the existing need and with the working of the present system. We would suggest that he read carefully and with an open mind the lucid exposition of the evils resulting from the rigidity of the existing note issues as contained in the annual report of Secretary Gage, published last week; if he will do this we think he will be inclined to change his opinion.

In dealing with the Comptroller's figures and statements, it is important to note in the first place that he reasons from false premises. He talks of "the wrong done the depositor class" by giving the note holder a first lien on assets, and speaks of the step as being new and "so revolutionary as to bring about the most injurious conditions in the general business of the country." But the step is neither new nor revolutionary. The existing banknotes have a first lien on assets and the best part of the assets, too—the Government bonds by which they are secured. He endeavors to show that the relations and conditions under which the lien is given would be different, but in this he is not happy in his reasoning. He is specially concerned about the smaller national banks. He says that from the depositors of these banks, least able to endure loss, "the greater part of the cost of this radical experiment in currency must be collected." But what are the provisions of the existing law regarding note issues? At present before a bank with $50,000 or $100,000 capital can start business, it must take out of its capital (its chief asset) a sum sufficient to purchase $12,500 and $25,000 respectively of Government bonds for deposit at Washington. These bonds go to form a basis for note circulation, though the requirement of a deposit of the bonds is obligatory in any event. But the moment the bank takes out its quota of circulation, the very thing happens which the Comptroller says should not happen, and which he claims is a wrong and injustice to the depositor, namely the note holder gets a first lien on the bonds and the depositor is subordinated to it, taking only such equity therein as may remain after the preferred claim of the note holder has been satisfied.

What becomes of the notes which the bank secures against its deposit of Government bonds? They are invested in commercial assets, subject to profitable employment or to the shrinkage and depreciation which the Comptroller contends is so detrimental to the interests of the depositor. In case of failure, does the bond-secured note holder bear any of the loss resulting from this depreciation? Not a particle of it. It all falls on the depositor, just as it would in the case of a credit currency. And this being so, it is difficult to see why the Comptroller should object so strenuously to the continuation of that feature when applied to a credit currency, and argue as if those in favor of this form of currency and who advocate the retention of the first-lien provision were proposing a radical departure and seeking to revolutionize the previously existing relations between the depositor and the note holder.

All the Comptroller's elaborate computations rest on the assumption that in the case of failed banks the rate of loss upon the new amounts of commercial assets will be the same as that upon the old amounts. "For the purpose of these tables it is assumed in the case of each class of insolvent banks that their officers would have made the same proportionate losses upon the commercial assets in which the notes issued were invested that they actually did upon the assets in which the deposits and capital of the banks were invested." How this rule is assumed to work can be easily seen. Take the case of a small failed bank, say with $100,000 capital, and whose assets had netted only 33⅓ cents on the dollar. Mr. Dawes assumes that if such a bank had possessed and used the right to issue $80,000 of circulation based on assets, these assets would have yielded no better results than the assets it actually held—that is, would have suffered a reduction of two thirds. Accordingly he finds his liability account swelled by $76,000 (namely, $80,000 notes, less the 5 per cent redemption fund which would be required in any event), while the addition to the amount of the good assets is only $25,333—33⅓ per cent on $76,000. As at the same time the $80,000 of notes become a paramount lien on the whole body of commercial assets, the showing for the depositor is naturally a poor one.

But this proposition is untenable for so many reasons one is at a loss to know where to begin in the enumeration of them. It ignores, first of all, one of the most striking characteristics in our records of bank insolvencies. We refer to the fact that a very large portion of them has been the result of fraud, instead of being caused by a shrinkage in the value of the commercial assets. Prof. J. Laurence Laughlin, in his report to the Monetary Commission, makes an analysis of the figures up to the end of 1896, as furnished by Comptroller Eckels, and finds that not less than 117, out of a total of 328 banks declared insolvent during the period from 1863 to 1896, were wrecked by defalcation or fraudulent management. Now we do not pretend to be able to say what the loss would have been had the people who wrecked these banks had a larger body of assets to work upon. Opinions may differ as to whether a cashier who has been carrying on a system of peculation for years, or an absconding paying teller, or a dishonest president, would have taken more in the contingency contemplated; but of this there can be no doubt, namely that such defalcations have no relation to the ratio of losses on commercial assets and have nothing whatever to do with the kind of currency system which may exist at the time they occur. To get results worth anything, each case would have to be considered by itself, and the circumstances and conditions under which the fraud was perpetrated considered. Generalizations are worse than useless in such a matter.

But Mr. Dawes treats all insolvencies alike, whatever their cause. Taking the country as a whole he calculates that the "ratio of valuable assets to nominal assets upon final liquidation" was in the case of the 195 failed banks which form the basis of his computation, 50·31 per cent. In the case of the different geographical divisions the ratio varied, he tells us, between 33·12 per cent and 59·36 per cent. He accordingly takes this latter percentage in each case as the measure of the shrinkage which would occur in the security back of the notes were they represented by commercial assets instead of by Government bonds as at present. In order to avoid misapprehension by the reader, we must caution him against supposing that these percentages show the amounts realized by the depositors on their claims. The depositors actually realized a great deal more; the failed banks in the whole country, as classified by Mr. Dawes, paid the depositors dividends averaging 74·16 per cent, and for the different geographical groups the amounts varied between 61·79 per cent and 83·64 per cent. It is Mr. Dawes's contention that these percentages would be heavily reduced in the event of the issue of uncovered notes, owing to loss on the added assets.

His computations are made to show the amount of reduction supposing notes were issued to the extent of 100 per cent of capital, and also to the extent respectively of 80 per cent and 60 per cent. In the first-mentioned case he figures that the average of dividends to depositors on the 195 banks closed in liquidation in the whole country, instead of being 74·16 per cent, would have been only 48·24 per cent. For the banks in the Far Western section, the dividends, instead of being 61·79 per cent, would drop to but 1·30 per cent. Now even supposing it were admissible to assume such a shrinkage in assets as Mr. Dawes has made the basis of his calculations, the results would still be erroneous. In the first place, the issue of 100 per cent of notes is not a supposable case. Under the plan of the Monetary Commission notes in excess of 80 per cent of the capital must pay a tax of 6 per cent per annum, and the extreme limit for note issues is 100 per cent less the investment in real estate. These requirements make it obvious that under no ordinary conditions and very rarely under exceptional conditions would 100 per cent of notes be put out. Even between 60 and 80 per cent there is a tax of two per cent. Furthermore, the picture is overdrawn in one other respect, and this whether the computation is made on a 100-per-cent basis or an 80-per cent or a 60-per-cent basis. In calculating the amount remaining for the depositors it does not allow for any credit to be obtained by further recourse to the double liability of the shareholders. In many cases no doubt this double liability has already been availed of to the full extent, and therefore could not be drawn on any further. But there must be many other cases where the credit has not been entirely exhausted—where shareholders have been assessed only to the extent of say sixty, fifty or forty per cent, leaving a credit fund still at command to make good additional deficits. To the extent that this was so the result to the depositor would be correspondingly more favorable than shown in the Comptroller's tables.

Entirely apart, however, from all these other considerations, the contention that had the banks had all their assets invested in commercial credits, instead of art in Government bonds, the percentage of loss would have been as large as on the present basis, will not stand the test of a moment's critical examination. What is it that determines the ratio of loss? Leaving out the banks wrecked through fraud, which we have already shown must be treated by themselves, experience proves that the percentage will fluctuate in an inverse ratio to the total of the deposits—that is, the larger the body of assets the smaller the proportion of loss. Except in rare instances, the loss does not follow from inferiority in the whole line of assets; it follows, as a rule, from the fact that there is a certain amount of bad debts. If the aggregate of the deposits is small, this amount necessarily forms a large proportion of the whole, but with the aggregate increased the proportion diminishes. This is so self-evident as to be axiomatic, and the Comptroller's own figures furnish proof of the correctness of the statement, for they show that while in the case of the banks with $50,000 capital the ratio of real to nominal assets was only 39·68 per cent, in the case of those with $100,000 capital it was 42·05 per cent, in those with $200,000 capital 44·48 per cent, in those with $300,000 capital 52·72 per cent and in the case of those with $500,000 capital 65·47 per cent.

Again, in the "nominal" assets, on which the percentages are figured, there may have been some items that were not genuine, and we know that there are some that are practically fixed and stationary, and do not vary with the fluctuations in the volume of the ordinary commercial resources. When a bank fails, it is nearly always found that the surplus fund and undivided profits were largely, if not wholly, illusory. Sometimes it is discovered that these items were ficticious, not being represented by any real, tangible assets. In such cases the effect has been to raise the amount of the nominal assets, and consequently to diminish the ratio of "valuable" or real assets to the nominal amount. Obviously a ratio thus obtained forms no criterion for determining the proportion of good to poor assets on a bank's ordinary loans and transactions.

Then the assets may, and often do, embrace the building in which the bank is located. This building may have to be sold at a sacrifice, involving a diminution of the assets of the failed institution. This is very apt to be the result where the bank is located at an interior point. The loss in that way is not of course increased with an addition to the bank's commercial investments So, too, the item of office furniture and fixtures—which usually disappears altogether as a tangible asset when the failure of a bank makes them useless—would be no greater, and yet this item, figuring as it does among the nominal assets, has tended in the Comptroller's calculations to reduce the ratio of real to nominal assets below what it otherwise would have been. The fact that furniture and fixtures frequently stand on the books for comparatively small amounts does not alter the general force of this criticism.

Nor should we lose sight of the fact that the expenses attending the winding up of insolvent institutions count for much in determining what depositors are to get. Such expenses act either to diminish the assets or to increase the liabilities. There are no details to show how the Comptroller has treated the item in his statement. It may be that his figures have been made up so that the ratio of real to nominal assets, which he uses, requires no modification on that account. But in any event the matter has a bearing on the amount finally to be received by the depositors. Hence it is important to note that these receiverships are very costly affairs. In another part of the Comptroller's report we find the situation as to the El Paso National Bank of Texas portrayed. This bank failed in 1894, and has therefore been in receiver's hands over four years. The actual expenses of the receivership up to date have been $31,876, besides which $2,000, it is estimated, will be needed to complete the work, making $33,876 together. The amount of the claims against the bank was only $284,656, so that the receivership has increased the liabilities by about 12 per cent. Incidentally we might also state that in this case there was a further addition of $35,481 to the liabilities for interest on the claims at 6 per cent from the date of suspension up to December 31 1898. Now no one will claim that if the liabilities had been say $120,000 larger by reason of the issue of uncovered notes, the receivership would be prolonged still another year or two and these expenses and charges increased proportionately. The case of this bank furnishes an excellent illustration showing the value attaching to a possible further recourse to the double liability of the stockholders, to which we directed attention above; for all the extra charges here enumerated have been provided for with an assessment of only 60 per cent, leaving 40 per cent still available in the event of an increased loss.

But it is hardly necessary to pursue this investigation further. We have said enough, we think, to show that the Comptroller's assumption that the proportion of loss on the commercial assets to be created by uncovered notes would be as great as that in his tables, is untenable because radically and fundamentally wrong. And yet all his compilations and conclusions rest on this and nothing more. He seeks by iteration and repetition to give force to his figures. He has worked out the results for the New England section, for the Eastern group, the Southern, the Middle, the Western and the Pacific. He gives the data for banks of $50,000 capital, for banks of $100,000 capital, and for the two combined; for banks of $200,000, of $300,000, of $500,000, and of over $500,000 capital, and for the four together. And he has made each one of these computations on the basis separately of 100 per cent of circulation to capital, and of 80 and 60 per cent respectively. In fact, he furnishes no less than forty-eight different sets of figures, and in each case gives them to the exact dollar, as if the matter were susceptible of a precise mathematical demonstration, and were not purely hypothetical. As was remarked at the beginning, such an apparently formidable array of statistical data possesses in a case of this kind much power for mischief, because suggesting a false appearance of strength and impregnability. And it is only for that reason we have felt called upon to follow the Comptroller in his discussions. All these deductions we find on analysis to be erroneous both in theory and in fact.

*THE FRANCO-ITALIAN COMMERCIAL AGREEMENT—THE COTTON INDUSTRY IN ITALY, AUSTRIA AND SPAIN.

MANCHESTER, November 30, 1898.

The agreement arrived at a few days ago by the governments of France and Italy to abandon the tariff war which has existed between the two countries since March 1 1888 is commercially an event of great moment, and possibly it may not prove without political importance. There can be little doubt that it will be approved by the legislatures on both sides, for the indications of public opinion—French and Italian—so far visible are in favor of it; and no wonder. For a period not far short of eleven years these two nations having contiguous territory, abundant means of communication by land and sea, and much to gain by a large exchange of productions, have done their best to stifle their mutual trade by the erection, on both sides, of exceptionally high tariff barriers against imports. The losses thus imposed on the two peoples can never be measured. Some idea of them may be gathered, however, from the following figures taken from Italian official statistics of the amount of trade passing between them in 1887, the year before the war began, and in 1897.

Exports from Italy to France	83,200,000	23,913,600	54,286,400
Total trade	152,400,000	47,440,000	99,960,000

Thus there was a falling off in the aggregate commerce of the two countries within ten years of nearly 66 per cent. No doubt prices of commodities were lower in 1897 than in 1887, but against the diminution attributable to this cause may fairly be set the natural increase of trade which might have been expected if no special restrictions had been interposed.

It has been suggested from a quarter usually well informed that this apparently sudden return to healthier and more friendly commercial relations between the two countries has been brought about by the realization on the part of French statesmen, since Fashoda, of the need for strengthening the bonds of unity between their own and other countries, particularly those neighboring ones with which France has affinities of race. This view is not admitted by the Paris press, and M. Paul Leroy Beaulieu, the editor of the "Economiste Français" curtly denies it. He says that the fall of Signor Crispi and the advent of Signor Rudini prepared the way two years ago for the settlement now made, and that since the conclusion in 1896 of the Franco-Italian treaty which removed nearly all difficulties between the two countries about Italian trade with, and the residence of Italians in, Tunis, the abandonment of the tariff war has been a subject of cordial consideration in Paris and in Rome.

As yet only the outlines of the treaty are known. Excepting two or three rather important items of the tariffs, the scale of duties generally will be the minimum one applied to British, German and other "most favored" nations. On the side of Italy this is granted without reservation, but France is still allowed to retain the high duties of the general tariff upon Italian raw silk and silk manufactures, and somewhat higher duties on the stronger wines of Southern Italy than those of the French minimum tariff. At first the new agreement was cordially welcomed in both countries, but within the last two days a few expressions of disappointment have come from Italy, occasioned by the exemptions just named on the part of France. Still there is a residuum of satisfaction even there, for it is anticipated that not only will the treaty induce a much larger commercial intercourse between the two countries, but also that Paris will become a much better market than before for Italian securities, and likewise that the public revenue will be improved by arger Customs receipts. This last consideration is important in view of the straitened condition of the national finances in Italy.

In England the settlement of this long-standing conflict has been received with unaffected satisfaction. There is a well-founded belief, widely entertained by the British public, that any change tending to increase international trade must confer a measure of benefit upon that of the United Kingdom. Partly this conviction comes from the fact that, since English commercial policy makes no discrimination at the custom house between the products of one nation and those of another, any tariff reduction secured elsewhere is given as a matter of course to British merchandise, with or without treaties. In France, for instance, the most "favored nation" treatment is awarded to British productions, although there is no agreement providing for it. It is an arrangement fixed by French law, the former Anglo-French treaty having expired on February 1 1892. The conviction rests partly, however, upon a principle which is accepted as axiomatic, that, indirectly if not directly, new facilities tending considerably to enlarge the trade between any two countries will bring benefit to that of England.

In connection with the Franco-Italian agreement attention has been directed to the enormous falling off which has occurred in the exports of British productions to Italy since that country adopted, early in 1888, the present policy of high tariffs which at the time was avowedly undertaken for the purpose of encouraging home manufactures, particularly those of cotton and iron and steel. The annexed table indicates how great has been the decline. It shows the total exports of British products to Italy in the five years, 1883–87, and those of 1893–7:

EXPORTS OF BRITISH PRODUCTIONS TO ITALY.

1884	6,994,117	1894	5,555,365
1885	6,6 7,165	1895	5,545,966
1886	6,092,470	1896	5,357,250
1887	7,916,550	1897	5,596,960

There can be no doubt that the purpose of the change of policy begun in 1888 has been accomplished, and in some directions more than accomplished. In the Italian cotton industry at least the stimulus given by it has gone so far as to have ended in a seriously excessive power of production. I have recently conversed with a Manchester merchant who has visited all the chief cotton spinning and manufacturing districts of Italy. He found many large accumulations of stocks, especially of yarn, and a good deal of anxiety, if not of despondency, amongst the proprietors of cotton mills. These excessive stocks, which the home market cannot absorb, are being sold at low prices for export, particularly to the Levant and the Argentine Republic.

Similar signs of overproduction of cotton yarns and goods continue to exist in Austria, where they have been manifest for more than a year past. In Spain the same state of things has been brought about by the Spanish-American war and the loss of tariff privileges in Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines. The Barcelona manufacturers have, however, with characteristic energy, set about finding new outlets. Their cotton goods have been offered in Manchester and elsewhere, and exporters to South American and other markets are trying to dispose of them profitably. It is needless to say that the prices at which they are obtainable are below—often much below—the cost of production.

The Indian Currency Committee has resumed its investigations in London within the last month. Its proceedings are not published. At first it was intended to finish taking evidence and consider the report before the end of the year. It has now been decided to go on until March, as several important witnesses have yet to be examined. Sir Robert Giffen has given evidence this week and Sir John Lubbock will follow him within the next few days.

RAILROAD GROSS AND NET EARNINGS FOR OCTOBER.

Railroad net earnings, after some months of rather indifferent comparisons, are again making a very encouraging showing. As foreshadowed in our returns of the separate roads from week to week, our compilation for the month of October, in the character of the final result, is a decided improvement on its immediate predecessors. Indeed, in amount and ratio the increase in the net exceeds that of any month since last May. In brief, there nas been an addition to the net in the sum of $2,280,143. This is all the more noteworthy as some of the roads have been exceptionally liberal in their outlays for renewals and improvements, thus adding greatly to the expenses—in some cases so much so that with increases in the gross there is a decrease in the net. In ratio the $2.280,143 increase in the net equals 7·38 per cent. In the gross the amount of the improvement has been over four million dollars—$4,-142,674, or 5·07 per cent. The following shows the aggregates for the month.

Conditions were not all favorable. Railroad rates were pretty badly demoralized, both in the East and the West, but particularly so this side of Chicago, and the anthracite coal trade continued in rather a poor state. This will account for the fact that the trunk line group, the coal group, the Eastern and Middle group and the Middle Western group all record either only small gains or positive losses. As far as general trade is concerned, it was held somewhat in restraint by the then close approach of the November elections and the important consequences hinging upon the outcome. On the other hand the cotton movement in the South was very much heavier than a year ago, though the shipments overland did not contribute to the increase. Southern roads also in some cases still derived advantages from the transportation of United States troops. In the West the Trans-Mississippi Exposition helped to swell the passenger traffic of the roads running to Omaha. The grain movement at Western points was in excess of that for October 1897, but the increase was mainly in the item of wheat—in which case, however, the expansion was of decided proportions.

The reader need hardly be told that we are comparing with improved earnings a year ago. Our statement then showed $5,110,672 or 6·94 per cent gain in the gross, and $2,254,846 or 8·45 per cent gain in the net. The present increases come on top of these increases for the same month last year. The following carrie the comparisons back for a series of years.

In the case of the separate roads, the Southern Pacific leads all others in the amount of its increase. It reports $1,125,791 addition to the gross and $482,456 addition to the net. The road last year found its business on the Atlantic System very much reduced by reason of the yellow fever quarantines, and then reported $748,978 falling off in gross and $459,333 falling off in net. The Louisville & Nashville is another road which was adversely affected in this way in 1897, but its decrease then amounted to only $93,595 in gross and $127,831 in net, while now it has $234,432 increase in gross and $192,941 in net. In the case of the Western grain-carrying roads, like the Milwaukee & St. Paul, the Atchison and the Burlington & Quincy, the increases this year all follow an augmentation last year. In the case of some of the anthracite roads the loss the present year comes after a loss last year either in gross or net. As concerns the augmentation in expenses referred to above as being a feature in some instances, the Wabash furnishes a good illustration; with $8,125 increase in gross, that road reports $94,855 loss in the net. The following shows all changes exceeding $30,000 in amount, both gross and net.

When arranged in groups, the comparisons, as already indicated, are either indifferent or unfavorable in the territory east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio. In other parts of the country the large grain and cotton movements, together with trade revival, have served to bring improved exhibits despite the unsatisfactory rate situation. Thus the Northwestern group records 12·18 per cent gain in net, the Southwestern 13·02 per cent gain, the Pacific 13·39 per cent and the Southern 17·70 per cent.

ITEMS ABOUT BANKS, BANKERS AND TRUST CO'S.

—The declaration of the usual quarterly dividend by the Fifth Avenue Bank calls attention to the subject of large dividends. As is well known the bank distributes 100 per cent annually among its stockholders. That seems a large return, and it no donbt is. The question is consequently a reasonable one—how did the bank acquire the power to earn so much on so small an investment? There is but one answer—it acquired the power by wise and thrifty management. The Fifth Avenue Bank was organized in 1875 with a capital of $100,000, and with a surplus paid in by the stockholders at the same time of $100,000; it is a fact of interest that it was the first bank to start business with a paid-up surplus. For fifteen years not a cent was distribnted to the stockholders. This course was adopted in order that the institution might accumulate a large surplus. Those years—for several reasons which we need not stop to mention—were very favorable years for banking business, more favorable than have been experienced since or will ever be again. After 15 years of thrifty, alert and shrewd management—that is in 1890—the payment of dividends was begun at 100 per cent and that per cent has been the regular distribution ever since. Some people now-a-days spend their time in thinking ill of those who meet such success. In this city we love to see our neighbors prosper if prosperity comes through honest work. We know that the same amount of brains with the same perseverance and percentage of thrift will always succeed—not probably to just the same extent, because the same favorable environment does not accompany every enterprise, but sufficiently near it to satisfy any wholesome ambition.

—At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Chemical National Bank the number of directors will be increased from five to nine, one of whom will be Mr. William H. Porter, now of the Chase National, who will, as we announced last week, on January 1 become active Vice-President of the Chemical. The board of directors of the Chase National will be increased from seven to nine in January, and that of the Western National from thirteen to fifteen.

—The Colonial Bank recently decided by a vote of its directors not to make any dividends until the bank's surplus shall equal its capital stock. The action of the board was unanimous. The bank was reorganized last February and is an uptown institution. One of the officers informs us that the earnings during the past ten months have been 22½ per cent on the stock.

—At the annual meeting of the National Bank of North America in New York, an amendment of the articles of association will be voted upon providing for a board of directors of not less than five nor more than thirteen. The latter is now the number of directors. The proposed action at the stockholders' meeting is for the purpose of enabling a reduction to be made in the number of directors if at any time such reduction should be deemed advisable.

—At a meeting on Thursday of the trustees of the State Trust Company of this city, the resignation of the President, Mr. Francis S. Bangs, was accepted and Mr. William A. Wheelock, formerly President of the Central National Bank, was chosen to fill the vacancy. Mr. H. M. Francis, the Treasurer, was elected Secretary, and the following were chosen trustees: Elihu Root, William A. Wheelock and Col. Joel B. Erhardt. The resignation of Mr. Bangs was in consequence of impaired health.

—President Jenkins of the First National Bank of Brooklyn has appealed from a recent decision of a referee in a tax case affecting that bank. Mr. Jenkins contends that national banks cannot be taxed at a higher rate than other moneyed capital in the hands of individual citizens, and therefore that the State law under which the national banks of New York State are taxed is unconstitutional.

—Mr. James Stillman, President of the National City Bank, will soon assume the duties likewise of President of the Second National Bank, Fifth Avenue and Twenty-third Street. The interests of the two banks are identical, directors of the City Bank being also directors of the Second National, the latter being practically the uptown branch of the City Bank.

—Clearing House exchanges on Tuesday, reflecting Monday's business, were $233,468,969. The largest previous daily totals of the year were $240,800,402 on November 15, and exchanges were $230,731,265 on January 4; the smallest was $67,471,791 July 25th.

—A final dividend, amounting to 465-1000 of 1 per cent has been ordered paid by the Comptroller of the Currency to the creditors of the Marine National Bank which failed in 1884. This makes a total dividend of 83 465 100 per cent.

—The trustees of the Bowery Savings Bank of this city on Monday decided to reduce the rate of interest on deposits from 4 per cent to 3½ per cent per annum.

Monetary Commercial English News

London, Saturday, Dec. 3, 1898.

The withdrawal from the Bank of England on Wednesday and Thursday of over a million sterling in gold for Russia, Germany and New York completely changed for awhile the tone of the Stock Exchange as well as of the money market. Earlier in the week confidence had been growing. The acceptance by Spain of the American terms, putting an end to the danger of renewed hostilities, caused an increased speculation in American securities. It is true that the speculation was almost confined to members of the Stock Exchange and to professional operators outside, the general public doing very little. Still, the speculation was decidedly larger than for a long time past.

There was also more business done in British Railway stocks and in some foreign securities, especially Italian. The tariff war between France and Italy had undoubtedly injured Italy much more than France. Firstly, because France had been the great market for Italian commodities, and, secondly, because from France Italy had obtained all the capital needed to construct great public works. Therefore it was seen at once that the conclusion of the new commercial treaty would benefit Italy more than France. Yet it must not be left out of account that the new duties in France are heavier than those formerly imposed; that Spanish wine has gained a firm footing in France, and is not likely to be completely displaced by Italian, as it was formerly; and, lastly, that French industry has made good progress since the breaking off of commercial relations. Still there is no question that Italy will benefit. She will be able to export more to France, and she will probably be able to borrow much more freely.

No doubt is entertained anywhere that on the French side the chief motive in concluding the treaty was to detach Italy from the Triple Alliance. But whether she will succeed remains to be seen. Meanwhile, the condition of Italy economically is very bad. She is presumably emerging from her worst difficulties. But she has a long and tedious way to make before she places her finances upon a satisfactory basis.

In Spain the outlook is desperate. The country is bankrupt, and everyone is expecting a repudiation of the Cuban and Philippine debts, and the cutting down of the interest on the home debt. The situation of the Bank of Spain is no less desperate. It holds so much of Cuban as well as of Spanish bonds that it is difficult to see how it is to escape from its embarrassments. And to add to all this there are very grave fears of a Carlist outbreak. Indeed, many people who know Spain well are cynically predicting that the political classes at Madrid are satisfied that the present dynasty has nothing more to give, and that therefore they will accept Don Carlos if he only shows vigor and strength.

It is probable that the great Paris capitalists who are so deeply concerned in Spanish affairs have been preparing for an utter collapse in Spain. They have certainly had timely warning. But in any event the bankruptcy of Spain will inflict heavy losses upon French investors. And the conflict between the civil and military powers in France shows no sign of abating. Consequently business in that country is at a standstill.

In Germany the crisis seems to grow graver. In spite of the measures taken by the Imperial Bank and of the extreme stringency of the money market, speculation has not been brought to an end. It is wonderful, indeed, how high the prices of industrial securities continue. The Bank, it is understood, is resolved at any cost to put a stop to further speculation. It is insisting upon re-payments from the other banks and from the speculators generally, and it is reported that it is thinking of another advance in its rate. At all events, it is rapidly strengthening its reserves. That there will be many failures among speculators is certain, and there are fears that one or two of the banks are crippled. But the great majority of the banks are exceedingly well managed. They have had two months for preparation, and it is hoped, therefore, that there will not be a crash.

The economic condition of so many Continental countries, the fear of dear money, and the continued political apprehensions, necessarily warn all cautious persons in this country to beware of entering into new risks, and therefore amongst the public at large there is little inclination even to invest. The large gold withdrawals on Wednesday caused a general decline in prices, but there has since been a decided recovery. The political apprehensions are by no means so acute as they were. The end of the war with Spain, setting the hands of the United States free, is one guaranty of caution being observed by the aggressive Powers in the Far East, and the acknowledgement by France in withdrawing Major Marchand that she is not prepared for war with this country is another security. Still there is an undercurrent of uneasiness.

The Directors of the Bank of England made no change in their rate of discount on Thursday. Probably they acted prudently. A couple of weeks ago, foreseeing gold demands from the United States and possible difficulties in Germany, the directors began borrowing in the open market for the purpose of raising rates there. But the other banks were unwilling to lend except at very high rates, which the directors of the Bank of England were unwilling to pay. Consequently the market has been left to drift, and at the beginning of this week the rate of discount in the open market was only a slight fraction over 3 per cent. On Wednesday morning the knowledge got abroad that large sums would be withdrawn from the Bank, and the rate rose sharply. Towards the close of business, when the actual amount withdrawn became known, the rate was quoted from 3⅝ per cent to 3¾ per cent. It was found, too, that the slight increase in speculation, together with the withdrawal of so large an amount from the Bank, had reduced supplies in the open market so much that very large amounts had to be raised from the Bank of England. It was obvious, therefore, that the Bank ought to borrow at once, and that it may, if it acts promptly, secure control.

With regard to the probable shipments to New York you are in a better position to judge than we can be here. But concerning the German demands very much depends upon the great Paris banks. It is estimated by excellent authorities in Paris that the great Paris banks have advanced in one way or another to the leading German banks from 20 to 24 millions sterling. Possibly this is an exaggeration. But it is certain that the advances have been on a very great scale. During the excitement over the Fashoda incident the Paris banks began to call in money from Germany. When the withdrawal of Major Marchand was decided upon they stopped. But if now they should begin to withdraw again, the position may become very critical indeed in Germany.

Here in London very large amounts had likewise been advanced to Germany. It is said that the acceptances of German banks held by London banks a few months ago amounted to 10 millions sterling and over, and very large advances had been made in addition. But during the past two or three months the re-payments from Germany have been very large, and lately the German banks have been able to place here considerable amounts of German and Prussian Government bonds. The impression is that London will not do anything to accentuate the embarrassments in Berlin. Therefore the result depends firstly, of course, upon the resources of the houses and the institutions concerned in Germany and much also upon the action of the great French banks.

The Russian demand no one can anticipate or measure. This week it has been very large. Meanwhile the India Council continues to sell its drafts very well. It offered for tender on Wednesday 45 lacs and the applications exceeded 307 lacs. The whole amount offered was sold at prices ranging from 1s. 3 15-16d. to 1s. 4d. per rupee.

WALL STREET, FRIDAY, DEC. 16, 1898.—5 P. M.

The Money Market and Financial Situation.—Exceptional activity has been the conspicuous feature in Stock Exchange circles this week. The volume of business in railway bonds has rarely, if ever, been exceeded, and it was reported early in the week, when the transactions amounted to about $8,500,000 par value per day, that they included the largest number of issues ever transferred in a single day during the history of the Exchange. However this may be, the business in both bonds and stocks was well distributed, including many issues not recently active. At the same time it is interesting to note that the business in Government bonds has fallen much below the average of the last few months.

Stocks with an international market have been among the most active on the list, and reports from London indicate a larger interest in American securities than has existed of late at that centre. The Government statement, given out yesterday, o four foreign trade for November contains some interesting and significant facts, showing, as it does, an unprecedented balance in favor of this country. Notwithstanding this large and increasing balance the foreign exchange market has continued fairly steady through the week, with a firmer tendency towards the close. There are some indications of an easier money market, chiefly prospective, however, and not likely to be realized until after the Jan. 1st disbursements, if at all.

The open market rates for call loans on the Stock Exchange during the week on stock and bond collaterals have ranged from 2 to 3 per cent. To-day's rates on call were 2 to 2½ per cent. Prime commercial paper quoted 3 to 4 per cent.

The Bank of England weekly statement on Thursday showed a decrease in bullion of £261,864, and the percentage of reserve to liabilities was 50·40, against 50·60 last week; the discount rate remains unchanged at 4 per cent. The Bank of France shows a decrease of 2,425,000 francs in gold and 2,325,000 francs in silver.

The New York City Clearing-House banks in their statement of Dec. 10 showed an increase in the reserve held of $1,460,900 and a surplus over the required reserve of $16,743,300, against $17,097,950 the previous week.

State and Railroad Bonds.—Sales of State bonds at the Board include $309,000 Virginia fund. debt 2-3s of 1991 at 81 to 83 and $70,000 6s def. trust receipts, stamped, at 7⅛ to 7¾.

A glance at the subjoined table shows how extensive were the daily transactions in railway bonds. A notable feature of the market was the absence of high-grade issues, and in this respect this market presents a marked contrast with the market for stocks. The market was generally strong, but not in many cases is the advance more than fractional, and a few issues are quoted lower than last week.

Railroad and Miscellaneous Stocks.—There are few exceptions to the general tendency of the stock market, and all classes of stocks have, with more or less irregularity, advanced to a higher level. This movement has been most pronounced in the high-grade investment shares, including, besides several preferred issues, New York Central, Lake Shore, Pennsylvania, North West., Illinois Central, Pullman's Palace Car, and others, nearly all of which have recorded their highest quotations in recent years. Among the special features is Lake Shore, which, on limited transactions, advanced 20 points, and has held a large part of the gain. Atchison preferred was conspicuous for activity, the transactions in it amounting to about 130,000 shares on Monday and nearly as much on Tuesday. Missouri Pacific advanced sharply on a report, afterwards denied, that the management of the company had secured control of the Chicago & Alton. The anthracite coal stocks made about the average advance. Local traction shares were dull and weak.

The miscellaneous list was irregular. Pullman's Palace Car advanced 11 points, a part of which it has lost. American Sugar Refining, after fluctuating over a range of 11 points, closes with a net loss of 9¼ points. American Tobacco covered a range of 6 points. Federal Steel common and preferred advanced 6⅜ and 8 points respectively.

RAILROAD EARNINGS.

The following table shows the gross earnings of every STEAM railroad from which regular weekly or monthly returns can be obtained. The first two columns of figures give the gross earnings for the latest week or month, and the last two columns the earnings for the period from January 1 to and including such latest week or month.

The returns of the street railways are brought together separately on a subsequent page.

Net Earnings Monthly to Latest Dates.—The following shows the gross and net earnings to latest dates of all STEAM railroads furnishing monthly statements. The compilation includes every road from which we can get returns of this character and in that form is given once a month. Early returns are published from week to week, as soon as issued, but for the convenience of our readers all the roads making returns are brought together here in the week in which we publish our monthly article on net earnings—say on or about the 20th of the month.

STREET RAILWAYS AND TRACTION COMPANIES.

The following table shows the gross earnings for the latest period of all STREET railways from which we are able to obtain weekly or monthly returns. The arrangement of the table is the same as that for the steam roads—that is, the first two columns of figures give the gross earnings for the latest week or month, and the last two columns the earnings for the calendar year from January 1 to and including such latest week or month.

Street Railway Net Earnings.—In the following we show both the gross and the net earnings to latest dates of all STREET railways from which we have been able to procure monthly returns. As in the case of the steam roads, the returns of the different roads are published by us each week as soon as received, and once a month (on the third or the fourth Saturday of the month) we bring all the roads reporting together, as is done to-day.

Houston & Texas Central Railroad.

(Report for the year ending June 30, 1898.)

President Thos. H. Hubbard says in substance:

General Results.—The earnings from local passengers decreased $17,192, or 3·65 per cent, mainly owing to the restriction upon travel caused by the quarantine regulations during the months of September and October. Although the number of tons of local freight carried exceeded by 19·52 per cent, and the ton miles by 23·90 per cent, the tonnage of the preceding year, there was a gain in earnings of only $1,863, or less than one-third of one per cent, resulting from reductions in rates ordered by the State Railroad Commission. The average receipts per ton mile were 1·240 cents, against 1·316 cents in 1897.

Bonds Paid.—From the proceeds from the sales of certain lands, there have been purchased and canceled to June 30, 1898, the following bonds: First mortgage 5 per cent bonds, face value, $934,000; consolidated mortgage 6 per cent bonds, face value, $464,000; general mortgage 4 per cent bonds, face value, $9,000; total, $1,396,000. First mortgage 5 per cent bonds called October, 1897, and not presented, $63,000. During the year the funded debt was decreased net $762,420.

Physical Condition.—The property is in good physical condition and fairly equipped. The expenditures for betterments and additions since April 11, 1893, when the property was turned over to the company, have amounted to $841,625, of which $568,052 46 has been charged to income account.

American Tin Plate Co.—United States Tin Plate—Tin Plate Consolidation.—Incorporation.—The consolidation of tin plate mills, at first proposed under the title of the "United States Tin Plate Co.," is now to be accomplished under the title, American Tin Plate Co., which corporation, on Thursday, filed articles of incorporation at Trenton, N. J. The authorized capitalization is $50,000,000, of which $20,000,000 is preferred 7 per cent cumulative and $30,000,000 is common stock. The articles of incorporation contain among other things the following:

No mortgage shall be made except two-thirds of the stockholders shall consent in writing. Both classes of stock have voting power. The directors are forbidden to reserve a surplus fund not chargeable with the payment of the dividends. Not only the directors, but the executive committee and its officers are elected by the stockholders. The objects of the corporation are limited to the manufacture of tin, terne, black plates, steel sheets, and like metal products. The corporation, however, has the right in any part of the world to carry on its business, to manufacture machinery, to acquire the rights and undertake the liabilities of any other corporation.

Financial.—The company will start active business with about $5,000,000 in cash. The united mills have a yearly capacity of nearly 8,000,000 100-pound boxes of tin. Other facts were in V. 67, p. 1065, 1162.

Atchison Topeka & Santa Fe Ry.—San Francisco & San Joaquin Valley Ry.—Purchase Completed.—The purchase of the San Francisco & San Joaquin Valley stock by the Atchison Topeka & Santa Fe has been practically completed by the payment of $2,300,000 for the 23,000 shares of Valley stock held in escrow by the Union Trust Co. of San Francisco, and by a subsequent purchase at par of an additional 500 shares of stock presented by individual shareholders. This leaves only about $100,000 of the stock outstanding.—V. 67, p. 1206, 841.

Position upon Consummation of Plan.—Upon the completion of the reorganization of the company and of the reorganization or consolidation of the Central Ohio and the B. & O. Southwestern systems and the Pittsburg Junction RR., the position of the Baltimore & Ohio RR. Co. (as reorganized) it is estimated by the reorganization managers will be as follows:

Net earnings from operation, together with earnings from miscellaneous sources, for the year ending June 30, 1898, including net earnings from Central Ohio System & Pittsburg Junction RR. Co., were	$8,547,433

"Apart from the large amount provided in the plan for the reorganization of the Baltimore & Ohio RR. Co., dated June 29, 1898 (V. 66, p. 1335), to be expended on the properties comprised therein, and for additional equipment, the plan for the reorganization or consolidation of the Central Ohio RR. system, dated Sept. 28, 1898 (V. 67, p. 688), provides the further amount of $3,000,000 to be expended on the properties comprised therein and for additional equipment; and the B. & O. Southwestern plan below provides the further amount of $5,500,000 to be expended in like manner on the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern System. The above statement of earnings does not allow for any increase in earnings from these expenditures, which, it is confidently expected, should largely increase the surplus over fixed charges."—V. 67, p. 1206.

Additional Equipment.—Judge Morris, at Baltimore on Monday granted the application of Receivers Cowen and Murray to obtain on lease warrants, through the Mercantile Trust Co., 3,000 box cars and 30 locomotives, and through the Maryland Trust Co. 50 locomotives, 3,000 box cars and 2,000 coal cars. The lease warrants are 5 per cents, running for ten years from Jan. 1, 1899, and are for the aggregate amounts of $1,708 570 and $3 283,000 respectively. These lease warrants are merely a temporary expedient to secure the reorganization committee pending the consummation of the plan.—V. 67, p. 1206.

Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern Railway.—Reorganization Plan.—A plan of reorganization has been issued under date Dec. 15, 1898, by the reorganization managers of the B. & O. RR Co., viz: Speyer Brothers, 7 Lothbury, London; Speyer & Co., No. 30 Broad Street N. Y.; Kuhn, Loeb & Co., 27 Pine Street, N. Y. Participation under the plan is dependent upon the deposit of securities with the depository, the Mercantile Trust Co., No. 120 Broadway, New York City, or at its London agency, the London & Westminster Bank, Limited, London. Fixed interest bonds must carry all coupons maturing on or after Jan. 1, 1899. The syndicate will purchase at par the coupons maturing Jan. 1, 1899, of all fixed interest bonds deposited, and upon the completion of the reorganization will also pay in cash interest at the respective rates provided in the old bonds up to Jan. 1, 1899, from the coupon date last preceding, all fixed interest coupons not due Jan. 1, 1899. See report on pages 1265, 1266, following as to necessity for reorganization.

New Securities.—The Baltimore & Ohio Reorganization Managers will recommend to the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company (as reorganized) to acquire the properties of the B. & O. Southwestern system and to create:

Southwestern Division 1st Mortgage 3½ per cent gold bonds, due 1925, and bearing interest from Jan. 1, 1899. The mortgage securing these bonds is expected to be ultimately a first lien upon the railroads and properties constituting the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern RR. system, or the above-mentioned securities representing the same, covering about 921 miles of first track and about 30½ miles of second track and sidings, and also all of the equipment now owned by the B. & O. S. W. Ry. Co. or subsequently acquired with the proceeds of these bonds. Total issue in no case to exceed	$45,000,000
Of which to be issuable only at the rate of not exceeding $1,000,000 per year for the enlargement, betterment or extension of the properties covered by this mortgage (either as a direct lien or by pledge of the securities representing such properties)	5,000,000
Present issue	40,000,000
Of which in partial exchange for existing bonds	35,540,050
Sold to syndicate for cash requirements	4,459,950
New preferred stock voting trust certificates of the total issue of $6 ,000,000 (see below)	$12,500,000
Of which in partial exchange for existing bonds	9,253,440
Sold to syndicate for cash requirements	3,246,560
New common stock voting trust certificates of the total issue of $15,000,000 (see below)	$10,000,000
Of which in exchange for existing bonds and stocks	7,500,000
For contingencies, etc. (any surplus to new company)	2,500,000

To permit the issuance of the amounts of capital stock above shown, the Baltimore & Ohio RR. Reorganization Managers will recommend an increase in the common stock issue of the new company to $15,000,000 and in the preferred stock issue to $20,000,000, as more fully stated under the heading Baltimore & Ohio RR., above.

(as reorganized) Southwestern Division first mortgage 3½ per cent gold bonds and $3,246,560 of the new preferred stock (trust certificates); and also to protect the new company by agreeing to purchase from the new company the new securities to which the holders of non-assenting bonds would have been entitled if deposited under the plan.—V. 67, p. 1157, 1159.

Brooklyn Queens County & Suburban Ry.—Correction.—Attention is called to the fact that the consolidated mortgage bonds have their coupons payable May 1 and Nov. 1, although the loan itself, if not called May 1, 1916, matures July 1, 1941. The Street Railway Supplement stated the interest period correctly until the last issue, when an error crept in.—V. 67, p. 899.

Buffalo City Gas—People's Gas Light & Coke.—To Vote on Consolidation.—The stockholders of the Buffalo City Gas Co. will vote Dec. 28 on a proposition to purchase the securities of the People's Gas Light & Coke Co. A circular to the stockholders says: The capitalization of the People's Gas Light & Coke Co. is $3,000,000 stock, $2,100,000 bonds and $15,250 coupons, of which J. E. Addicks holds $900,000 stock, $1,540,000 bonds and all the coupons. In payment for all the above it is proposed the Buffalo City Gas Co. shall issue:

The debenture bonds are to bear 6 per cent interest after one year from date, but are to be convertible into 6 p. c. non-cumulative preferred stock at any time in five years at option of company, and it is the intention to make this conversion as soon as the legal formalities can be accomplished. The stock to be so issued is part of the present authorized issue of Buffalo City Stock.

If the transaction is carried out, the total equalization of the Company, after conversion of the Debenture Bonds into preferred stock, will be as follows:

The present stock of the Buffalo City Company will become part of the common stock.—V. 67, p. 1206, 427.

Chicago & Alton RR.—Rumored Sale.—The control of the Chicago & Alton stock has variously been reported sold this week to the Missouri Pacific, the Michigan Central and the Union Pacific. All of these reports are officially denied. Current rumor is to the effect that Mr. E. H. Harriman is conducting negotiations for the purchase of the property.—V. 67, p. 1051.

Chicago Hammond & Western RR.—Chicago Junction Ry.—Chicago Junction Ry. & Union Stock Yards Co.—Bonds Listed—Earnings.—The Chicago Hammond & Western bonds have been listed on the Boston Stock Exchange. The road covered by the mortgage is a belt line around Chicago and is now merged in the Chicago Junction Railway, which in turn is controlled by the Chicago Junction Ry. & Union Stock Yards Co.

The earnings of the Chicago Junction Ry. for the first six months of its incorporation, from April 1st to Sept. 30, 1898, are reported as follows:

The total indebtedness of the road is placed at $460,857.—V. 67, p. 1109.

Denver City Street RR.—West End Street RR.—Denver Consolidated Tramway—Denver City Tramway.—Reorganization and Consolidation.—The Denver City Street RR. and West End Street RR were offered at foreclosure sale on Thursday, and purchased for $500,000 and $10,000 respectively by the bondholders' committees. A plan of reorganization providing for the consolidation of the properties with the Denver Consolidated Tramway Co. under the title "Denver City Tramway Co." has been adopted by the committees and copies lodged with the Central Trust Co., the depositary for the bonds. The plan will be operative when approved by holders of certificates representing a majority of the outstanding Denver City RR. first mortgage bonds, and of holders of certificates representing a majority of the outstanding West End Street RR. bonds. "The company is a consolidation of the Chicago Sugar Refining Co., the American Glucose Co., the Peoria Grape Sugar Co., the Firmenich Manufacturing Co., the Davenport Syrup Refining Co. and the Rockford Sugar Refining Co. The business consists of the manufacture of the various products of Indian corn, amounting to some forty in all, and consists chiefly of starch, sugar, glucose, feeds, etc. The company owns and operates one factory each at Chicago, Ill.; Peoria, Ill.; Rockford, Ill.; Davenport, Iowa, and Marshalltown, Iowa, and these factories have a daily capacity at the present time of 97,500 bushels of corn.

Indiana & Lake Michigan Ry.—Sold.—At the foreclosure sale on Dec. 8 the property was purchased by ex-Governor Bulkley, of Connecticut, and M. L. Scudder, of New York, representing the bondholders' committee, for $100,000.—V. 67, p. 1109.

Joliet (Ill.) Gas Light Co.—New Bonds.—Mason, Lewis & Co., of Chicago and Boston, are offering $200,000 of this company's first mortgage bonds, which they described as follows:

The mortgage is a first lien on all property now owned or hereafter acquired. It limits the issue of bonds to $300,000 and provides $75,000 shall be held by the trustee for future extensions and betterments for 90 per cent of the cost thereof. The bonds are dated Oct. 1, 1898, denomination, $1,000, interest payable A. & O.; both principal and interest payable in gold at the American Trust & Savings Bank, Chicago, Ill. The bonds run 40 years, with the option to pay the whole amount on the first day of October, 1908, or at any time thereafter, at 105 and interest. Failing to exercise this option the company promises to pay $10,000 annually, commencing Oct. 1, 1909, at 105 and interest until all are paid. Bonds called for payment to be selected by lot by the trustee.

The books of the company show an investment of $419,978. For year ending July 31, 1898, sales of gas aggregated 38,744,100 cubic feet; gross income, $63,480; expenses of operation, including taxes and insurance, $38,233; net profits, $25,246; interest on $225,000 of bonds at 5 per cent $11,250, surplus earnings, $13,996. The capital stock is $300,000, in shares of $100 each.—V. 67, p. 1160.

Massachusetts Telephone & Telegraph.—Independent Company in Boston.—The Board of Aldermen in Boston has granted a franchise to the Massachusetts Telephone & Telegraph Co., on terms which forbid the company to charge a higher rate than $6 a month for unlimited service, or to dispose of its franchise, and requires it to have an exchange in operation in the city within a reasonable time. A bond of $20,000 is required for the faithful performance of the agreement. The company filed articles of incorporation about three weeks ago and its officers are Zephaniah S. Holbrook, President, and Frederick A. Spear, Treasurer.

Mexican Central Ry.—Proposed Depositary Company.—A plan is under consideration in London looking to the formation of a depositary company, similar to that organized in the case of the Mexican National Ry., and having for its object the pooling of the general 4s, and the issuance against them of bonds of two classes, A and B. Concerning the scheme, the Chairman of the Mexican Central Railway Finance Committee says:

"The London owners hold probably three-quarters of the 4 per cent bonds of our company and a number of the largest holders of the bonds in London have agreed to form a trust or debenture company or some such corporation to take over the Mexican Central 4 per cent bonds, to hold same in trust and to issue income A and income B bonds of the English company against them.

"As I understand it, they expect the income A bonds to bring a price which would be warranted by their position and safety and many predict at least 90 for these bonds, while the Bs would remain practically in the same position that the present general mortgage 4s are. This would be equivalent to 77½ for the 4 per cent bonds, figuring the As at 90 and the Bs at 65."

The new company, it will be observed, has nothing to do with the present Mexican Central Co., whose securities will be left entirely undisturbed.—V. 67, p. 1110.

New York Mutual Gas Light Co.—Control Not Yet Purchased.—It is stated on excellent authority that the recent purchase of Mutual Gas stock by the Consolidated Gas interests represented only 30 per cent of the capital of the first mentioned company. It is understood that the holders of the remaining 70 per cent are unwilling to sell out on the terms proposed—$300 a share—as control goes with their interest.—"New York News Bureau."—V. 67, p. 1207.

National Railway of St. Louis.—Sale of Stock.—The directors, it is understood, have voted to accept the offer of $120 per share for the stock. It is expected the deal will be consummated as soon as the investigation of accounts, etc., can be completed.—V. 67, p. 1207.

New York Gas & Electric Light Heat & Power Co.—Metropolitan Street Ry.—Acquisitions.—The New York Gas & Electric Light Heat & Power Co., recently incorporated with authorized capital of $25,000,000, has purchased the Mount Morris Electric Light Co. and the Empire Subway companies, for the purpose of distributing to the public its own electric current, together with the surplus current of the Metropolitan Street Ry. Co., this latter current to be accumulated by means of storage batteries when the railway traffic is light. The electricity will be sold for all purposes—power, light and heat—at much below, it is claimed, the prevailing rates. Those interested in the company are Wm. C. Whitney, P. A. B. Widener, W. L. Elkins, Thomas Dolan, Thos. F. Ryan, Anthony N. Brady and Roswell P. Flower. The subways controlled by the Empire Subway Co. are in the upper part of the Borough of Manhattan, the subways in the lower part of the borough being controlled by the Consolidated Subway Co., a more extensive concern. The distributing area of the Mount Morris Co. follows the Empire Subway Co.'s lines east and west. Official denial is given to the statement that the Edison Electric Illuminating Co. of New York and the Kings County Electric Light & Power Co. of Brooklyn have passed into the control of the new corporation.—V. 67, p. 727, 1207.

N. Y. Loan & Improvement Co.—Reduction of Capital.—The stockholders will vote Jan. 3, 1899, upon a proposition to reduce the capital stock from $2,253,000 to $2,189,300, the par value of shares to remain as now, viz., $100. The directors include:

C. T. Barney, Francis L. Hill, J. O. Baker, James R. Hay, John J. McCook, H. F. Dimock, Henry B. Cushen.

New York Ontario & Western Ry.—Refunding.—Referring to the announcement offering to refund the consol. 5s (called for payment) into 4 per cent refunding mortgage gold bonds, Kuhn, Loeb & Co. give notice that the allowance in cash to be made upon refunding will, after Dec. 31 next, be reduced to one-half per cent.

Division of Stock.—Upon the completion of the refunding matter it is thought that something will be done about the division of the stock into two classes of preferred and common, so as to permit of dividend payments. Nothing has yet been determined upon. V. 67, p. 1110.

Northern Pacific Ry.—First Dividend on Common Stock. The Directors on Wednesday declared from the net earnings of the first six months of the present fiscal year a dividend of 1 per cent on the common stock of the company, the same to be paid Feb. 8, 1899, to the stockholders of record Jan. 11, 1899.

Official Statement as to Extensions—President C. S. Mellen has made the following statement as to the company's policy regarding extensions, and its relations with other companies:

The Northern Pacific is not constructing, nor does it intend to construct, lines for the purpose of injuring any other company, nor do I believe that any other company intends to build lines to injure the Northern Pacific. The only construction which the Northern Pacific has in progress is about 75 miles in the Clearwater country in Idaho. The Northern Pacific is the only line in that country or within 50 miles of it. A question has arisen between the Northern Pacific and the Oregon RR. & Navigation as to whether the latter should not also be allowed to occupy that country without being considered as invading territory of the Northern Pacific. Local territorial questions like this are of common occurrence between railways, and when conservative counsels prevail are generally settled by negotiations, as I presume this one will be in due time.

Except the 75 miles in question, no construction has been authorized by the Northern Pacific Board, and none will be undertaken without its authority. I have none to recommend at present. The Northern Pacific is not engaged in any "war" with any of its neighbors or competitors and does not expect to be. Its relations with all its neighbors and competitors are friendly.

Outside the lines covered by the plan of reorganization, the Northern Pacific since its reorganization was completed over two years ago has built only 100 miles of railroad (mostly spurs), and has bought only 150 miles, this latter a line which had been acquired for it in 1897 or 1893, but which the old Northern Pacific had been unable to pay for by reason of its insolvency. The Northern Pacific is not disposed either to buy or build railroads, and I can hardly imagine that any conditions will arise that would lead it to do much building. It may, by reason of business necessity, from time to time, as the country develops, have to build a short branch here and there, and sooner or later it will shorten its line between Missoula and Lewiston or Pasco.—V. 67, p. 1161.

Drawn Bonds.—The numbers of 1,928 general first mortgage bonds, drawn for redemption, and on which the interest will cease on January first, are published in our advertising columns.—V. 67, p. 1161.

Northwestern Elevated Ry. of Chicago.—Loan Obtained.—The Chicago papers say it is "authoritatively announced" that the company has finally effected a loan of $1,400,000 for eighteen months at 5 per cent interest on the security of $5,000,000 of its first mortgage bonds.—V. 67, p. 737.

Ohio Falls Car.—To Pay all Accumulated Dividends, and also Dividend on Common.—The company has declared a dividend of 5 per cent on the $800,000 of preferred stock, making the full 8 per cent for the year, also the entire 10 per cent of accumulated preference dividends and a 5 per cent dividend on the $100,000 common stock. This is the first common dividend since 1893, when 12 per cent was paid.—V. 67, p. 480.

Philadelphia Gas—Allegheny County Light & Heating.—Consolidated Gas of Pittsburg.—Sale Approved.—The directors of the Philadelphia Co. on Thursday approved the option given by President George Westinghouse to Brown Bros. & Co., to purchase the stock of the company for $40 per $50 share. The company is capitalized at $7,500,000, and the stock pooled aggregates a little more than $6,000,000. The directors of the Allegheny County Light & Heating Co. also approved the option to Brown Bros. on the company's stock at $180 a share. The Philadelphia Co.'s directors also approved a motion to increase the capital stock sufficiently to enable the company to acquire the Allegheny's company's stock (total issue is $1,500,000) in case Brown Bros. & Co. should not accept the option at $40.

Brown Bros. & Co. in June last organized the Consolidated Gas Company of Pittsburgh (see details in V. 66, p. 1199), and merged therein all of the leading illuminating gas companies of Pittsburg and Allegheny. It is supposed the firm is now arranging to bring under the same or similar control all the natural gas and electric-light companies of the two cities.—V. 67, p. 30; V. 66, p. 573, 1237.

Pittsburg & Western Ry.—First Mortgage 4s of 1887 called for Deposit.—In view of the probable reorganization, J. P. Morgan & Co. say the time has come when, in their opinion, the interests of the first mortgage 4s of 1887 should be protected by deposit under an agreement giving the firm full power to dispose of the bonds or to deliver them under any plan of reorganization, provided that in so doing each depositing bondholder shall receive par and interest in cash therefor, or, at his option, the right for thirty days to include his bonds in the plan of reorganization, and to receive in lieu of cash the new securities offered under the plan. Bondholders are therefore invited to deposit their bonds with the firm at once. The coupons due Jan. 1, 1899, may be detached before the bonds are deposited.—V. 67, p. 1111.

Richmond & Petersburg RR.—Atlantic Coast Line RR. of Virginia.—Terms of Consolidation.—In the recent consolidation we are informed, a holder of $100 Richmond & Petersburg stock received $40 in class B stock and $10 cash.—V. 67, p. 1208.

Rio Grande Western Ry.—Extra Dividend.—The company has declared a quarterly dividend of three quarters of 1 per cent, and an extra dividend of 1 per cent on its preferred stock, both payable Feb. 1, 1899. This is the same amount in the aggregate (1¾ per cent.) as was paid in February this year.—V. 67, p. 786, 794.

Southern New England Telephone Co.—Bonds Called.—New Mortgage.—The company has carried out its plan to call for redemption its $500,000 old bonds and to make a new mortgage for $1,000,000. The new mortgage was recorded this week, the New Haven Trust Co being mortgage trustee. The plan and terms of exchange of old for new bonds were in V. 67, p. 902.

Southern Pacific RR. of California.—Listed.—The New York Stock Exchange has listed $2,500,000 additional first consolidated guaranteed gold 5 per cent coupon bonds of 1937, making total amount listed of consolidated guaranteed gold 5 per cent bonds, stamped, 1905-1937, $12,500,000.—V. 67, p. 1111.

Third Avenue RR. of New York—Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing.—Contract Awarded.—The Third Avenue RR. Co. has awarded the contract for the electrical equipment of its lines to the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. This contract involves the expenditure of about $5,000,000 and covers all the electrical and other appliances required. The plans call for a power house on the company's property at 216th Street with a steam and electrical capacity of 64,000-horse power. Work on the reconstruction of the road has already begun.—V. 67, p. 1209, 1112.

Toledo St. Louis & Kansas City RR.—Argument on the Appeal.—The argument on the appeal from the foreclosure decree was heard at Cincinnati on Monday and Tuesday. The Court took the papers, and it is expected a decision will be handed down at the February term of the Court.—V. 67, p. 1161.

Union Switch & Signal—National Switch & Signal.—Purchase Authorized.—$500,000 New Bonds.—The stockholders of the Union Switch & Signal Co. on Tuesday ratified the purchase of the entire capital stock of the National Switch & Signal Co., and authorized an issue of $500,000 of 5 per cent gold bonds to provide for the purchase and for improvements, etc. Oakley A. Thome and Robert Pitcairn were added to the board, which was enlarged for that purpose.—V. 67, p. 738.

Union Tobacco Co.—Blackwell's Durham Tobacco Co.—Purchase.—The Union Tobacco Co. has purchased a majority interest in the $4,000,000 capital stock of Blackwell's Durham Tobacco Co., and has offered to take the minority interest at the same rate. The cash portion of the purchase price is $17 per $25 share, equal to $2,720,000 for the entire issue, and is accompanied, it is said, by a stock payment of about 37½ per cent in preferred and the same amount of common stock.

The Blackwell's Company was brought out in 1887 by A. M. Kidder & Co and others. Its capital stock for eleven and a-half years has paid regularly 6 per cent per annum, and has been earning, it is said, much in excess of this.—V. 67, p. 1162.

United Traction Co. of Reading, Pa.—Listed.—The Philadelphia Stock Exchange has listed the following securities of this system:

Reading & Womelsdorf Electric Ry. 1st mortgage 5s, $313,000.
Reading Traction Co. stock $1,000,000, for dividends upon which is available an annual rental of $10,000 (1 per cent) for the three years ending Jan. 1, 1899, of $20,000 (2 per cent) for the two years ending Jan. 1, 1901, and of $30,000 (3 per cent) for the remainder of the 995 years of the lease; also first mortgage 6s, guaranteed, $445,000.—V. 61, p. 1118.

Western Union Telegraph.—Quarterly.—Earnings (partly estimated) for the quarter and the six months ending Dec. 31 have been reported as follows:

3 mos. end. Dec. 31.	Net income.	Int charges.	Div. paid.	Bal. surp.
1898 (estimated)...	$1,450,000	$224,273	$1,216,985	$8,742
1897 (actual).....	1,553,415	243,200	1,216,976	113,239
6 mos.—
1898 (est.).....	3,000,000	448,773	2,433,975	117,252
1897 (actual).....	3,257,266	447,618	2,433,948	375,700

Total surplus December 31, 1898 (estimated), $8,057,955. The regular 1¼ per cent dividend is payable January 16, 1899.—V. 67, p. 839.

Wisconsin Central Co.—Status of Reorganization Matters. The New York committee have agreed upon a plan of reorganization, and are now awaiting the action thereon of Boston interests. A difficulty in the way of progress is that there is no committee representing the bonds of the Milwaukee & Lake Winnebago and the Chicago Wisconsin & Minnesota, so that they cannot be treated with as a whole. It is hoped that the plan for the reorganization of the property may be shortly announced.

At Milwaukee, Judge Jenkins has ordered the committee representing the first mortgage bondholders of the Wisconsin Central Railroad to come into the foreclosure action to determine the standing of their securities.—V. 67, p. 1112.

BALTIMORE & OHIO SOUTHWESTERN RAILWAY COMPANY.

FIFTH ANNUAL REPORT—FOR THE FISCAL YEAR ENDING JUNE 30th, 1898.

OFFICE OF THE COMPANY, CINCINNATI, OHIO.

To the Stockholders of the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern Railway Company:

The Vice-President and Directors submit the following report of the results of the operations of this Company for the year ending June 30th, 1898,

Gross Earnings		$6,904,317 04
Operating Expenses, 71·21 per cent		4,916,805 58
Net Earnings		$1,987,511 46
Miscellaneous Receipts		2,250 00
		$1,989,761 46
Deduct:
Taxes and Assessments	$293,998 30
Rental of Terminal Property	60,000 00
Interest and Discount	500 24
Interest on Loans	43,725 29	398,223 83
Net Earnings applicable to Fixed Charges		1,591,537 63
Interest on Bonds and Equipment Certificates		1,691,111 67
Deficit		$99,574 04

The percentage of the cost of operation was 71·21 per cent, in comparison with 69·34 per cent for the previous year.

The business of the country increased generally throughout the year. All branches of business felt the return of prosperity, which was general, and had the same rate per ton per mile been received as for the previous year, the net earnings would have been $617,228 greater. The tonnage transported shows an increase of 738,763 tons, and the rate per ton per mile obtained for this traffic was reduced from 6·29 mills to 5·55 mills.

The Gross Earnings show an increase of $764,317·22, of which $665,219·60 was from Freight, and $102,571·16 from Passenger. The increase in expenses is due to the expenditures upon the property and to the additional cost of handling the increased business. The details are fully set forth in the report of the General Manager herewith submitted.

The statistics of the operation of the road for the year show the following gratifying results: In order to meet the conditions arising from the rates received, great attention has been paid to increasing, as far as possible, the number of tons hauled and the length of such hauls at the minimum of expense. Such attention has resulted in increasing the average number of tons per train from 212 for the previous year to 237, and the average length of haul from 177 miles to 194 miles.

The tonnage movement shows a very material increase. For the year just closed the number of tons carried one mile was 825,998,277, as against 622,274,676 for the previous year, an increase of nearly thirty-three per cent.

There was a slight decrease in the earnings per train mile, notwithstanding the large increase in the number of tons per train mile. This was owing to the reduction in the average rate per ton per mile.

The amount of coal transported was less than it would have been if the normal conditions had existed. A strike in the Ohio coal fields which extended from about the first of March to the first week in May, during which time the mines were not operated, entailed not only a great loss in revenue, but also an increase in the price of the coal used by the Company for its fuel.

Seven hundred and fifty new box cars were contracted for, to be delivered early in the next fiscal year, the total cost of which, including interest, is $484,167·18, on which there will be made a cash payment of $20,887·50 when received, and the balance will be payable in eight years thereafter in monthly payments of $4,825·83. Two hundred and fifty coal cars were also ordered, the total cost of which is $126,643·20, on which a cash payment will likewise be made of $3,000·00; and the balance will be payable in ten years in monthly payments of $1,030·36.

The Company reserves the right to anticipate the deferred payments at any time before maturity at its option.

In the month of March, 1898, a severe flood occurred in the States of Ohio and Indiana, which was not as serious as the unprecedented flood of the previous year, but was most extraordinary and unusual, and caused serious damage to the line and loss in traffic. The direct cost of the damage, as now ascertained, was $77,000·00, and the line was interrupted for five days, causing increased indirect loss.

There has been charged to Operating Expenses this year $101,900·00, on account of the loss and damage by floods this year, and for the proportion of the damage of the great floods of 1897. As stated in the last report, on account of the extraordinary flood and character of the losses occasioned thereby, the Board of Directors determined that a portion of the loss of 1897 should be charged over a period of several years. The amount so charged this year amounts to $24,000·00. This unusual expense of $101,900·00, so charged, is slightly in excess of the deficit in Net Earnings for the year just closed.

Of the charge of $74,000·00 for personal injuries, $50,000·00 was for damages that occurred in previous years, but for which payments were made this year, as the litigation or negotiations for settlement thereof were not closed until this year.

The General Expenses show a net increase of $26,000·00. This Company's General Expenses are classified the same as all the roads in the Baltimore & Ohio system, which classification was formerly adopted by the Inter-State Commerce Commission, and has only recently been changed by it, so that a large part of the expenses hitherto included in General Expenses are by such classification transferred to Conducting Transportation and other Department Accounts. The Baltimore & Ohio System has not yet made such change. General Expenses, as classified by this Company, includes not alone the salaries of Officers and General Office Expenses, but in addition all advertising, expenses of Traffic Associations, Fast Freight Lines and Rentals of Tracks, Yards and Terminals, etc. What might be regarded as strictly Salaries and Office Expenses have been reduced $14,000·00, and the total increase in other classifications was $40,000·00, making the net increase $26,000·00. This additional expense has been due to the extensive increase in the amount of business handled, and has been necessary for the proper conduct of the Company's business.

Necessary improvements have been made upon the property and charged to Betterment Account at a cost of $110,998·90, the details of which are fully set forth in the report of the General Manager.

The Statement of Funded Debt shows that the Ohio & Mississippi General Mortgage Bonds have been decreased $4,000 00, and the First Consolidated Mortgage Gold Bonds increased $4,000·00, by reason of the exchange of the one class of securities for the other, as provided in the agreement of consolidation. Other exchanges have been made to the extent of $875·00.

The Ohio & Mississippi Equipment Trust Certificates Series "A," to the amount of $50,500·00, which became due in October, 1897, were extended until the 1st of March, 1899, and Trust Certificates, amounting to $20,000·00, were paid and retired.

At the close of the fiscal year the amount of Unfunded Debt was $1,389,704·85, a net increase over last year of $370,202·60, which arises chiefly from the amount charged to Betterment Account, Discount and Expenses on the extension of the Ohio & Mississippi First Mortgage Bonds, Deficit in Earnings for this year and Equipment Trust Certificates retired and extended. The bonds in the Treasury of the Company, if sold at the prices now prevailing, would realize a sum in excess of such total indebtedness. Owing to the unsatisfactory price at which such securities have ranged during the year, it has been considered undesirable to sell the same and liquidate such indebtedness.

Particular attention is called to the effect upon the Company's affairs and net results of operation by reason of the extraordinary decline in rates. At the time of the organization of the Company, namely, November first, 1893, the rate received for freight traffic per ton mile was 8·5 mills; this year only 5 5 mills, being a decrease of 3 mills. This year's business was the first normal year of commercial affairs since the Company was organized, as up to that time the unusual financial and commercial depression existed throughout the country, seriously affecting your business; had it received the same rate on the tonnage moved last year as was received at the time of its organization, it would have realized Net Earnings over its present Fixed Charges and Taxes of $2,403,200 00.

At the time of such organization ample provision was made for means to make improvements in the property, so that it could be brought to the highest efficiency, and thus better able to meet declining rates if such should prevail. Such improvements were entered upon as soon as the Company commenced operations. One of the most important improvements to be made was large additions to the equipment of the Company and the reduction of its grades, and to overcome the grades that could not be reduced by the use of heavier motive power. From the fund thus provided it was also arranged to replace the old rail by heavier rail; certain bridges by heavier structures, and to ballast with stone or gravel that portion of the line which had not heretofore been ballasted. These funds were to be provided by the issue, from time to time, of the Company's First Consolidated Mortgage Bonds, guaranteed by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company.

While the Company was engaged in carrying on some of these improvements, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company became insolvent, and the securities thus provided could not be sold at prices which would have justified the management in continuing the improvements and completing the work originally contemplated. The result has been that the Company's condition would not permit it to meet the unprecedented decline in rates and carry on, as it had hoped, an advantageous and successful operation of its property. The progress of the reorganization of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company presents an opportunity for this Company to determine its future relations with that reorganized Company, and to procure, through the guaranty of its securities on some just and equitable basis, ample capital to complete these improvements and place the property in a position where it can be successfully operated. Negotiations for such relationship are being conducted by the President and the Board of Directors with the Reorganization Managers of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company, and when they are concluded, a plan for readjusting the affairs of this Company and of such proposed arrangements will be presented to the respective security holders. In order to meet present rate conditions the Company should increase its motive power by securing a large number of heavier locomotives, at least three thousand cars, and expend at least $1,500,000 in the reduction of its grades, increase its sidings and remove the lighter rail from the line and replace it by heavier rail. It is estimated that the expenditure of at least $5,500,000·00 will be required to secure all of the desired improvements, and when they are made, the property, it is believed, will be in a condition to meet the prevailing low rates and secure advantageous and profitable results from its operation.

The car equipment, motive power, plant and property have been well maintained during the year, and in many instances improved, but in the near future the line should be renewed with heavier rail in accordance with the original plans of the Company, and for which it is expected ample provision will be made under the proposed arrangements hereinbefore referred to.

The operations of the Company have been conducted with marked regularity, and the officials and employes of all departments are entitled to commendation for their faithful and efficient services.

In the absence of the President on official business, this report has been made and presented by the Vice-President.

Your attention is respectfully called to the report of the General Manager and to the Auditor's statements submitted in detail.

By order of the Board of Directors.

W. W. PEABODY,
Vice-President.

To the Security Holders of the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern Railway Company:

The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, the guarantor of certain of your securities, having become insolvent and its property being in the possession of Receivers, and its reorganization having been declared operative, it became necessary for your Board, in order to properly protect the securities of your Company, to enter into negotiations with the Reorganization Managers of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company to arrange the future relations of your Company with that reorganized property.

For several months the Board has been in negotiation with them and in consultation with the security holders, for the purpose of securing an exchange of your Company's securities for the securities of the Reorganized Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company upon a satisfactory basis, and to secure additional new capital to place the Company in a position to successfully carry on its business and place it on a sound financial basis.

Since the organization of your Company, vigorous competition, then unexpected, has developed in the territory it occupies, greatly reducing the rates for transportation received by your Company.

The effect of such reduction in rates has been most serious, and shows the pressing need of a readjustment of the Company's securities and fixed charges, and the securing of additional capital to make needed improvements upon the property. Had the same rates prevailed last year as existed at the time of the organization of the Company, there would have been a surplus over fixed charges of $2,273,626, instead of a deficit of $99,574.

When your Company was organized, it was believed ample provision had been made for necessary capital to reduce its grades, secure increased and heavier motive power, equipment and rails, and to bring the property to the highest standard of condition. Such necessary capital was to be secured through the sale of the Company's securities, guaranteed by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company. Immediately upon the organization of the Company, certain of such improvements were entered upon; before they could be completed to the extent whereby substantial savings in operation could be effected to meet the prevailing low rates, the insolvency and receivership of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company prevented the sale of its securities, and thereby arrested the completion of the contemplated improvements. These improvements have become imperative, and cannot longer be delayed.

The amount of capital now needed to be expended in the reduction of the grades, purchase of additional equipment and for other improvements, in order to bring the property to the efficiency requisite for advantageous and profitable operation, in conjunction with the reorganized Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, is estimated at about $5,500,000, the greater proportion of which should be expended during the next calendar year and the remainder as soon as possible thereafter.

The Reorganization Managers have agreed to undertake the consummation of the plan herewith submitted, which provides for the issue by the Baltimore & Ohio Railway Company (as reorganized) of its securities in exchange for yours on a just and equitable basis, and the securing of additional capital required to put your property in a position to successfully carry on its business. The syndicate mentioned in the plan will purchase at their face value all coupons due on the first day of January next that are not paid from such bondholders as shall deposit their securities. It is hoped that further financial embarrassment with its inevitable consequences and the depreciation in the value of your securities can be avoided by a prompt acceptance of the plan.

Your Board, therefore, urgently recommends its prompt acceptance.

—F. J. Lisman & Co. have issued a new sheet of quotations for unlisted and inactive steam-railroad bonds, which will be furnished on application.

—Statements of the following Chicago institutions appear in our advertising columns: Merchants' Loan & Trust Co., Commercial National Bank, and Illinois Trust & Savings Bank. Other statements were published in last week's issue.

—Attention is called to the offering of $250,000 Salt Lake City four per cent bonds by Messrs. Mason, Lewis & Co., Chicago and Boston. A statement regarding the debt of the city, with other particulars, will be found in the advertisement in our municipal department.

—Messrs. Spencer Trask & Co. have prepared, in circular form, a special review upon the new Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Co. The facts presented have been derived from authoritative sources, and make an excellent showing for the reorganized property. A specially prepared map, accompanying the circular, shows in colors the division of the road covered by the several new mortgages.

—Messrs. F. J. Lisman & Co. are offering $200,000 Houston East & West Texas first mortgage 5s at 97½ and interest, at which price the bond pays over 5½ per cent. They recommend the bond as a safe investment, because the property has shown its ability to earn its present interest charges while in poor physical shape and because they believe that the line is capable of considerable growth in gross and net earnings.

—City of Cheyenne, Wyoming, five per cent water and sewer refunding bonds, issued to refund outstanding sixes issued in 1892, are offered for sale by Messrs. C. H. White & Co. The Commercial Times.

COMMERCIAL EPITOME.

The contraction in business incidental to the approach of the holiday season is now being experienced, but the shrinkage in many lines of trade is much less noticeable than for some seasons past. Weather conditions have continued decidedly wintry in nearly all sections of the country and at the South unusually severe weather has interfered materially with the picking of the late cotton crop. Two large trade combinations have been officially announced during the week, the American Potteries Company and the American Tin Plate Company. The treaty of peace between the United States and Spain was signed Saturday the 10th inst. Saturday, Dec. 24th, will be observed as a holiday by the commercial and financial exchanges of this city.

Lard on the spot has had a fair sale, although at the close demand was quiet and prices were easier, closing at 5·35c. for prime Western and 5c. for prime City. Refined lard has been in moderate demand. The close, however, was quiet and easier, at 5·45c. for refined for the Continent. Speculation in lard for future delivery has been fairly active, and prices advanced early in the week on general buying. At the close, however, realizing sales, prompted by full receipts of swine, resulted in a reaction.

Speculation in cotton for future delivery has been moderately active, and the tendency of prices has continued towards a higher basis. There has been some buying by outsiders for investment account, and regular traders in the main have been disposed to operate on the long side of the market. The strengthening factors during the week have been the severe weather at the South, which has interfered materially with the picking of cotton and the smaller movement of the crop, the receipts showing a decided falling off from those noted latterly. The more nervous short interest in the near-by deliveries apparently has been largely eliminated by the recent buying, and prices for January were again at a discount from the more distant deliveries. The advices from the Southern markets have continued to report a good demand for actual cotton and at prices relatively 3 16 to ¼c. per pound above a parity with local option basis. Reports as to conditions existing in the cotton goods trade have been of an encouraging nature, demand being brisk at hardening prices, and they have had a favorable influence upon values for raw cotton. To day the market opened easier under disappointing foreign advices, turned stronger, recovering the early loss on continued buying by outsiders induced by the smaller movement of the crop. At the close, however, realizing sales, prompted by the supply of cotton which came into sight for the week being larger than expected, and anticipated milder weather at the South, weakened values, and final prices for the day were 2 to 3 points lower. Cotton on the spot has been quiet and unchanged, closing firm at 5 13-16c. for middling uplands.

The rates on and off middling, as established Nov. 16, 1898 by the Revision Committee, at which grades other than middling may be delivered on contract, are as follows.

BREADSTUFFS.

FRIDAY, December 16, 1898.

Business in the market for wheat flour was quiet early in the week, and there was some shading of prices to make sales. Subsequently, however, following a stronger turn to the market for the grain there developed a better tone and demand improved. The home trade was a more active buyer, and exporters showed increased interest; prices in some instances showed advances of 5c. Advices from the Northwest reported fair sales for export during the latter part of the week. Rye flour has had a fair sale at steady prices. Buckwheat flour has been steady at unchanged prices. Corn meal has had only a limited sale, but values have been well maintained.

Speculation in wheat for future delivery was moderately active during the latter part of the week, and the tendency of prices was toward a higher basis. Monday the market was easier, prices declining under cable advices reporting freer offerings of wheat from Russia and a larger increase in the world's visible supply than had been generally expected. A falling off in the export demand also had its influence against values. Subsequently, however, there was a firmer market, a material falling off in the crop movement in the Northwest and crop damage reports from Argentine were the principal strengthening features. Owing, however, to the approach of the holiday season, the export business continued limited. To-day the market was fairly active and higher. The crop damage reports from Argentine attracted outside buying, and this, together with stronger foreign advices and buying by shorts to cover contracts, advanced prices. The spot market was moderately active. The sales for export here and at outports were 250,000 bushels.

Indian corn futures have received a limited amount of attention and there has been a gradual hardening of prices. Foreign advices have been firmer and the movement of the crop has been limited, although this has been largely due, it is claimed, to the scarcity of freight cars to carry supplies. Only a moderate volume of business has been transacted in the spot market, as with the approach of the holiday season exporters have been withdrawing from the market. To day the market was fairly active and steadier in sympathy with the advance in wheat. The spot market was steadier. Sales for exports here and at outports were 225,000 bushels.

Oats for future delivery in the Western market have been quiet, but on some buying by shorts to cover contracts, limited offerings and a light movement of the crop, together with sympathy with the improvement in other grains, the tendency of prices has been towards a higher basis. The spot market has been firmer. Locally there has been a fair demand from the home trade, and as offerings have been limited prices have advanced. To-day the spot market was fairly active and firmer. The sales included 50,000 bushels for export.

THE DRY GOODS TRADE

NEW YORK, FRIDAY, P. M., December 16, 1898.

The cotton goods division of the market has again ruled strong in most directions during the week, with the print cloth situation its most remarkable feature. Regular print cloths have advanced to 2¾c. per yard and other makes to a relative basis. This is a rise of ¾c. per yard within a month, and the market is apparently fully as strong now as at any stage of its upward progress, rapid as that has been. The general demand for both staple and fancy cottons keeps up well and a really good business for the time of year is doing. The distribution of seasonable merchandise by retailers is still active and they are working into excellent shape for liberal preparations for their spring trade. Jobbers are counting upon this, as their purchases for next season have already reached a larger total in the aggregate than usual at this time. Stocks in first hands are rarely large individually, and in the aggregate are smaller than held at any time for a long period. The course of the woolen goods market has not disclosed any special feature this week in either men's-wear fabrics or dress goods.

WOOLEN GOODS.—The reorder demand for men's-wear woolens and worsteds in light-weights for spring has been up to recent average but not altogether satisfactory. The call is chiefly for black and blue staples, and most fancies are dull and irregular in price. In heavy-weights for next fall there is very little doing in the market openly, but a quiet early business of some extent is in progress on private terms. These, it is generally understood, hardly promise a firm market. Satinets and doeskin jeans inactive. Business in overcoatings has been moderate without change in prices, and sales of cloakings of limited extent at irregular prices. Flannels are slow of sale and blankets in quiet request; prices unchanged.

DOMESTIC COTTON GOODS.—The exports of cotton goods from this port for the week ending December 12 were 3,474 packages, valued at $162,597, their destination being to the points specified in the tables below:

* From New England mill points direct

The value of the New York exports for the year to date has been $10,823,998 in 1898, against $9,615,140 in 1897.

The upward tendency of the market for brown cottons has not been checked and advances of ⅛c. have been generally secured in standard and 3-yard sheetings and drills and in 4 yard sheetings. Fine-yarn gray goods are strong and ⅛c. to 3-16c. higher than a week ago. In bleached cottons, medium grades of the Hope and Blackstone 4-4 order are advanced ¼c. and in 36-inch 64 square bleached ¼c. per yard. Wide sheetings are tending upward. Cotton flannels and blankets firm. Denims and ticks are without change in price, with a fair demand. Other coarse, colored cottons quiet and unchanged. Kid-finished cambrics firm at 2⅝c. for 64 squares. Shirting prints generally ¼c. higher; other staple lines are strong and tending upward, fancy calicoes in good request and very firm. Business in ginghams moderate but market well sold up and prices firm. Print cloths have advanced to the basis of 2⅝c for 28-inch 64 squares and sellers reserved. Market reported bare of stocks of regular goods.

FOREIGN DRY GOODS.—A somewhat better demand for spring reported in piece silks and ribbons at firm prices, raw silk being dearer. Linens also in better request, but in the woolen goods division results are again meagre. Cotton goods quiet.

STATE AND CITY DEPARTMENT

Special Topics.

Cass County, Mo.—Bond Litigation.—We take the following dispatch from Kansas City, dated November 30, 1898, from the St. Louis "Republic:" "The dispute between Cass County, Missouri, and the bondholders of the old Tebo & Neosho Railroad over the payment of bonds which that county voted in 1871 to assist in the building of a railroad by the Tebo & Neosho Company through Cass County, is to be settled in the United States Court here. A suit was filed in the Court this morning, in which L. L. Nunn of the Colorado, representing the bondholders of the old Tebo road, asks judgment against Cass County for $93,000 and interest at 10% from February 1, 1891. This is the sum of 93 bonds which the bondholders claim the county has never paid, although they were due in 1891.

"Cass County's railroad debt is similar to that which rests on St. Clair County, and for which two county judges are serving a term in the Jackson County Jail. Cass County has nearly settled all of its debt, excepting the amount for which suit was brought this morning."

Kansas.—Special Session of Legislature.—Governor Leedy has called a special session of the State Legislature for December 21, to enact suitable legislation for the regulation of railroad charges.

Madison County, Ky.—Bonds Legal.—In the CHRONICLE October 29, 1898, we reported the sale of $112,000 4% refunding railroad aid bonds. A friendly suit was subsequently instituted by the Richmond Cemetery Co. to enjoin the issuance of these bonds. The latter part of November the Court of Appeals handed down an opinion confirming the validity of the bonds. The Court held that the Act incorporating the Richmond Nicholasville Irvine & Beattyville RR. was constitutional and authorized subscriptions by counties and the issuance of bonds to aid in the construction of the road; that the orders leading up to the subscription, as likewise those touching the issuance of the bonds, were regular and valid, and that the bonds as issued are binding obligations of the county.

New York City.—Outlying Bonds Declared Legal.—The Corporation Counsel has forwarded to the Comptroller for recognition as valid obligations of the city of New York the issues of bonds described as follows:

2. Village of College Point, $6,000 7% water bonds, issued in 1897.
3. Village of Tottenville, certificates of indebtedness for $3,744 96, issued to J. B. Newbail & Co., dated December 31, 1897.

14. School District No 3, town of Northfield, $3,500, dated August 22, 1896.

Paducah, Ky.—People to Pay Interest.—As was stated in the CHRONICLE November 12, 1898, the City Council stopped the payment of interest (pending suit to determine their legality) on $100,000 railroad-aid bonds issued about ten years ago. The refusal to pay was on the ground that the bonds were irregularly issued. It is stated that the Commercial Club, an organization in the city of Paducah, on December 7, 1898, started a popular subscription to pay this interest and has nearly one-half of the necessary amount ($2,250) collected.

Philadelphia.—Loan Litigation.—Argument was begun on December 8, 1898, before Judges Pennypacker and Sulzberger, in Common Pleas Court No. 2, in the proceedings brought by Robert E. Barr and Howard Yocum against the city to prevent the negotiation of the $11,200,000 public loan as authorized by the City Councils. The Court has reserved its decision. See CHRONICLE July 16, July 30, September 24, October 8 and November 19, 1898, for history of the present litigation.

Tacoma, Wash.—Warrant Suit Decision.—The holders of these warrants of the city of Tacoma which have been in litigation for some time past recently gained an important point. The Court held that possession of a warrant is prima facie evidence of title in the holder, and it is not necessary to prove the genuineness of the signature of the payee in indorsing the warrant. The suit was one brought by the New York Security & Trust Co., which holds $160,000 of these warrants. The city moved for a non-suit, but the Court overruled the motion and the city commenced its defense last Thursday. The history of these suits has been given in the CHRONICLE from time to time.

Vermont.—Legislature Adjourns.—The State Legislature adjourned on December 1, 1898.

Whatcom, Wash.—Litigation.—We take the following dispatch dated November 29, 1898, from the Seattle "Post Intelligencer:" "The suit of E. H.
